K - THE DENWOOD FAMILY

Arthur Denwood, whose wife Esther Robins was a granddaughter of Col. Nathaniel Littleton, came from a substantial and prominent family. His grandfather had come into Northampton Co., Va., before 1637, and Levin Denwood, Arthur's father, before 1670 had settled on Great Monie Creek, west-northwest of modern Princess Anne in Somerset Co., Md., where he became a prosperous merchant-planter and a leading Quaker.

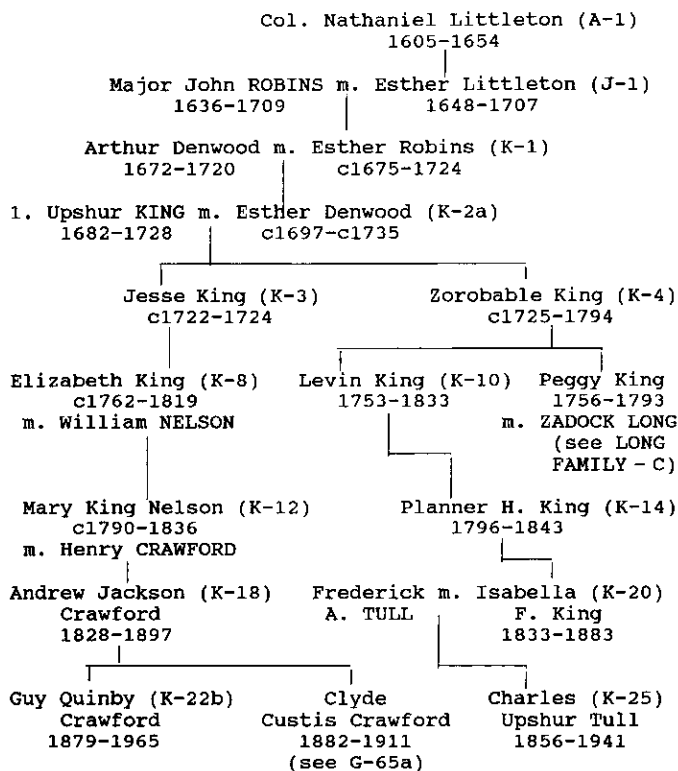

When Denwood was set up as a separate branch of the Littleton family, it was expected that numerous Denwood descendants would be traced, but if any male lines of these Denwoods have survived, they have long since left the Eastern Shore. In the 1850 Maryland census two female Denwoods were heads of households in Dorchester Co., Md. In the 1880 census returns for Somerset, Worcester, and Wicomico counties, no Denwoods appear. The principal descendants here are in the Crawford and Tull families (and, as separate branches, Long, Gilliss and Wilson). The Crawfords were in Quantico, in present (north) Wicomico Co. from the early 1800's, and the Tulls moved to Accomack Co., Va., about 1853.

The chief source for this branch is public and family records. For the Tulls, the source is James Tull: Maryland Ancestors and Virginia Descendants (1990) by Mrs. Mary Frances Carey (see K-33).

K-1 ARTHUR DENWOOD, second son of Levin Denwood, a prominent Quaker of Somerset Co., Md., and his wife, Priscilla Waters, born at Monie, between the Manokin & Wicomico Rivers in Somerset Co. 25 Feb. 1671/72 (Som. Deeds IKL); died Somerset Co. by 11 Aug. 1720 (inventory); mar. (c1696) ESTHER ROBINS, daughter of Major John Robins (J-1) and his wife, ESTHER LITTLETON, who daughter of Col. NATHANIEL LITTLETON (A-1), b. Northampton Co., Va. c1675; d. Somerset Co. by 21 Sep 1724. (Some details from Rebecca F. Miller.)

According to the inventory of Arthur Denwood, his estate was valued at £1222; nearest of kin were Esther King, John and Betty Denwood (Md. Inv. 7:129).

Dating her will Aug. 1724 (prob. 21 Sep 1724) Esther Denwood named her daughters Esther King and her four children, Arthur, Planner, Jesse, and Priscilla King; Priscilla Gillis (£20), pregnant, & her children Levin and Betty Gillis; Betty Denwood and Mary Denwood; sons John Denwood, an executor, Thomas, also named an executor, and George Denwood, Thomas and George to be kept at school until the age of 15, "cousin" Richard Hill to have tuition and guardianship of them until 21; "son" Thomas Gillis to have son George from age 15 to 21; "my sister" Betty Gale to have dau. Mary until 21. Levin Gale was named a third executor (Md. Wills 18:334 and Som. Wills EB9:96).

Arthur Denwood's father, Levin Denwood, who survived both Arthur and his wife, in his will, signed 21 Apr 1725 (prob. 9 May 1726) made bequests, among others, to grandsons Thomas and George Denwood, land and marshes in Dorchester Co., Md., on or near the Upper Straights, also the plantation on Manocan (Manokin) Creek "whereon my son Arthur lived"; he provided that £100 be divided among his grandchildren Thomas, George, Betty, & Mary Denwood, Esther King, Priscilla Gillis, and Levin Denwood (if he shall be 18) and also named his great-grandson Levin Denwood, under 10 (Som. Wills EB9:103).

RELATIONSHIP OF THE LITTLETONS TO THE RULERS OF ENGLAND

LANCASTRIANS

EDWARD III, King of England

L - THE GILLISS FAMILY

Thomas and Mary (Manlove) Gillis, grandparents of the Thomas Gillis (Gilliss) who wed the Littleton descendant, were transported from Northampton Co., Va., into Somerset Co., in 1665, by Mary's father, Mark Manlove, who had arrived in Northampton Co. by 1659. The Gillisses settled first at Manokin, near modern Princess Anne. In the 1720's Thomas and Priscilla (Denwood) Gillis settled near present-day Salisbury, in Stepney Parish. Here their descendants were rooted for nearly a century. In 1800 the first to move was Joseph Gilliss (L-26), to Snow Hill (Worcester Co.), followed in the 1820's by the Brattens (L-73); then Dashiells (L-34) to the Princess Anne area, but all the others dispersed more widely. In 1810, at a very early age, William Gilliss (L-33) escaped first to Ohio and Illinois, later to Missouri. In the 1820's his first cousin, Ann Boston (L-30), with her family migrated to Indiana. Levin Irving (L-77) moved in the 1840's to Baltimore, his son (L-141) later to Virginia, where his town was named for him, Irvington. Others moved to Washington, D.C. (L-28, L-46), Pennsylvania (L-109), Fredericksburg, Va. (L-75). Descendants scattered far and wide from these new homes. By 1900 principally only one line of Gillisses (L-26), and Dashiells (L-72) and Brattens (L-73) remained on the Shore.

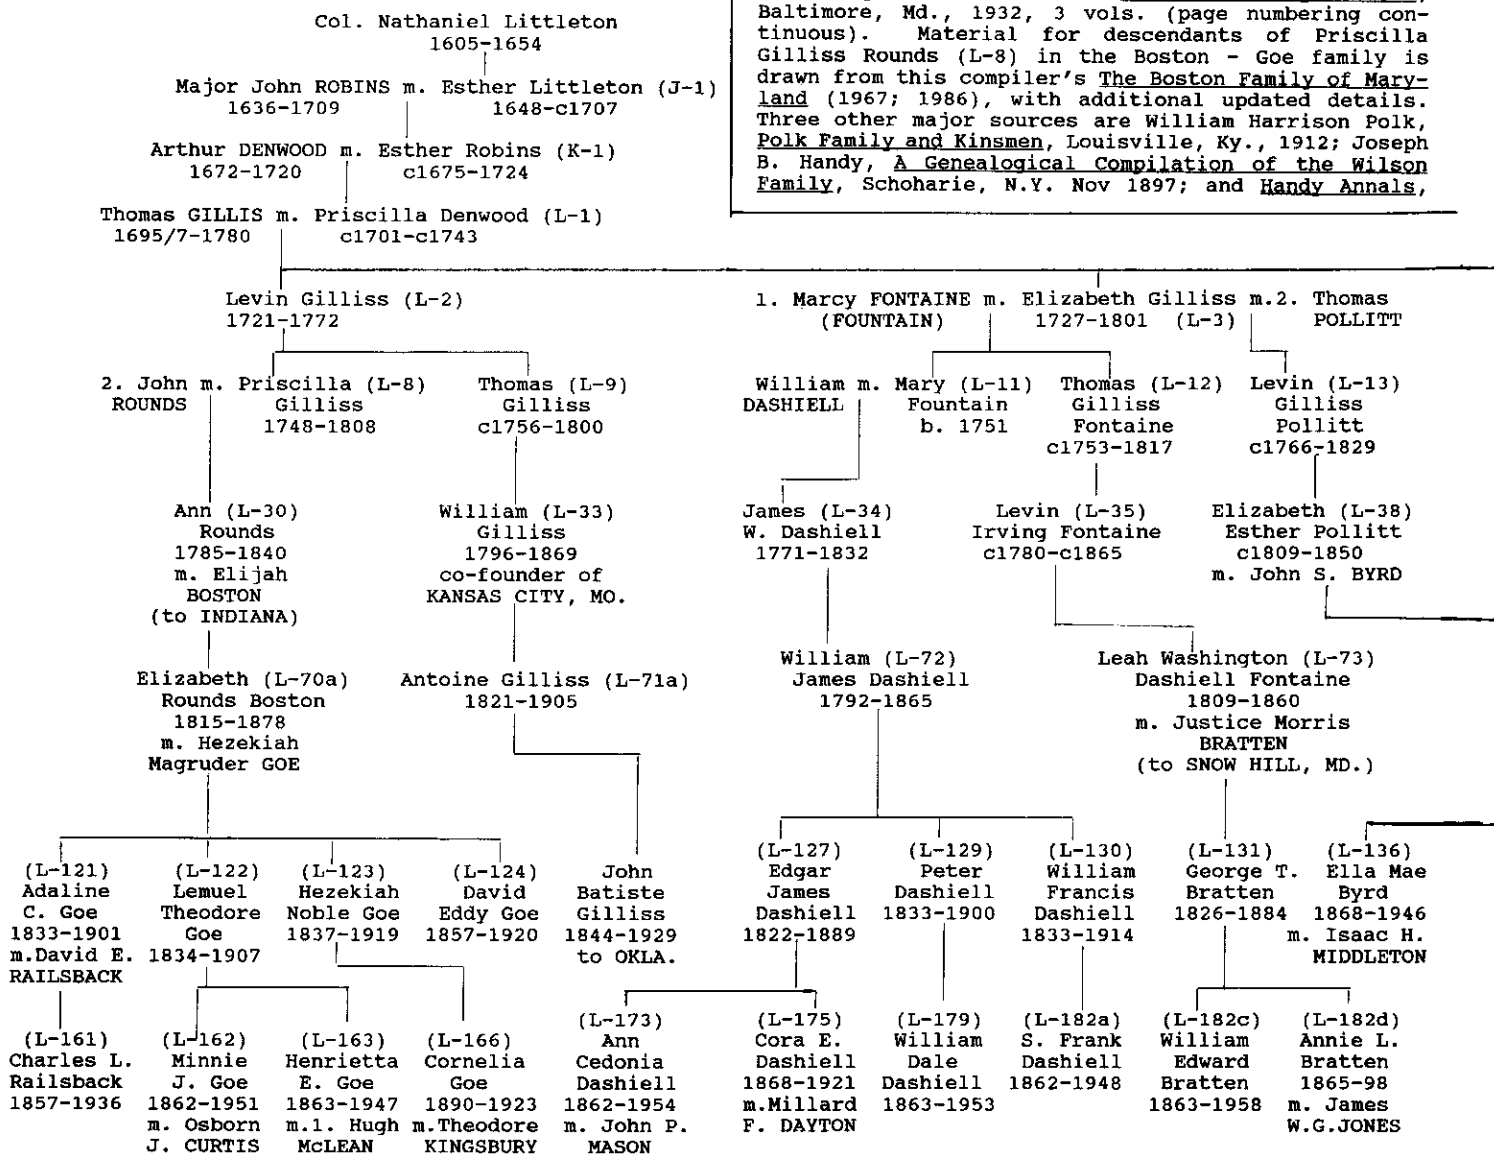

Much of the information for the individuals named Gilliss is drawn directly from The Gilliss Family, a compilation made by Charles J. Gilliss (L-116) and his brother, the Reverend W. Wier Gilliss (L-159), in the 1920's and 1930's, often in consultation with Benjamin J. Dashiell who was preparing his three-volume Dashiell family history, for the two families intermarried frequently. Clayton Torrence, in his Old Somerset (1935), thanked the Gilliss brothers for their help and noted that they "are making a detailed study of Gilliss family history. We look forward . . . to the publication of their work at some not distant day" (p. 445).

Mrs. Elizabeth Gilliss Murrell of Salisbury, Md., who started researching the Gilliss family in 1968, learned of these unpublished papers and was eventually able to locate Mr. W. Wier Gilliss, Jr., who sent her a copy and gave her permission for them to be deposited in the Research Center for Delmarva History & Culture, Salisbury State University. In 1985 Mrs. Murrell performed a most valuable service by arranging the papers and having them bound in three volumes. She explained this background in her very helpful preface.

In The Gilliss Family each family member is assigned an individual number; the work also contains at the end a multi-sheet genealogical chart, each name numbered, and with handwritten additions updating the compilers' branch up to 1980, followed by an index. The entries in the work contain much fuller information than can be provided here (including identification of sources used, newspaper notices, photos, bonds, deeds, letters, full transcriptions of wills and other original documents). It should be pointed out that only the part of the Gilliss family included here is descended from the Littletons.

The information for descendants of Elizabeth Gilliss Fountain (L-3) in the Fountain - Dashiell family has been kindly provided by Rebecca Furniss Miller Butler of Princess Anne, Md. (L-284), drawn in part from Benjamin J. Dashiell's Dashiell Family Records, Baltimore, Md., 1932, 3 vols. (page numbering continuous). Material for descendants of Priscilla Gilliss Rounds (L-8) in the Boston - Goe family is drawn from this compiler's The Boston Family of Maryland (1967; 1986), with additional updated details. Three other major sources are William Harrison Polk, Polk Family and Kinsmen, Louisville, Ky., 1912; Joseph B. Handy, A Genealogical Compilation of the Wilson Family, Schoharie, N.Y. Nov 1897; and Handy Annals, also cited frequently elsewhere. These sources have been supplemented by public records and correspondence with family members.

L-1 THOMAS GILLIS, son of John, born Somerset Co., Md., on his father's plantation "Doe Better." 1695/97; d. Somerset Co. 29 Dec. 1779/ 12 Jan 1780; married 1st (Stepney Parish Church, Somerset Co. 22 Sept. 1720) PRISCILLA DENWOOD, daughter of Arthur Denwood and his wife, ESTHER ROBINS (K-1), who was a granddaughter of Col. NATHANIEL LITTLETON (A-1), b. at Monie, Somerset Co. c1701; d. Som. Co. c1743. He mar. 2nd (after May 1744) Ann (Dashiell) Lechey (Lackie), daughter of James and Mary (Waters) Dashiell, and widow of John Evans, then of Alexander Lackie, d. Som. Co. 7 Feb 1748/49; mar. 3rd (?1749) Jane Dashiell Handy, dau. of Thos. & Elizabeth (Mitchell) Handy, and widow of Capt. John Winder, then of Capt. John Handy, b. 22 May 1698; died Som. Co. 17 Jan 1782 (from Handy Annals 13). (Thomas is No. 9 in The Gilliss Family.)

Since the births of the first ten children of Thomas were recorded in Stepney Parish Register (Priscilla identified as their mother) but two younger children Anne and Joseph were not, there may be some question whether Priscilla was also their mother. There can be no doubt about Anne, for her middle name was Denwood. Joseph could not have been the child of either of the other two wives of Thomas. Since Joseph's eldest son, Thomas Handy Gilliss, was b. 6 Dec 1768, Joseph was certainly already an adult, therefore b. before 1748. In the Somerset Co. tax lists and debt books, Thomas in 1759 was in Nanticoke Hundred; in the next household was Joseph Gillis, Jr., who would have to be 16 to be listed, and who was born therefore c1743 or earlier. Thomas's brother Joseph, with a family, was in Manokin Hundred.

Thomas's 2nd wife Anne, late Ann Lackie, left a will (dated 7 Feb. 1748; probated the same day) in which she referred to former husband Alexander Lackey & to a pre-nuptial contract with Thomas Gillis, made bequests to "only son" Nicholas Evans and others, but none to any Gillisses. Lands were to be divided by Col. George Dashiell and husband Thomas Gillis (Som. Wills EB14: 1-2). Joseph was obviously not her son.

When, shortly after Feb 1748/49, Thomas Gilliss mar. his 3rd wife Jane (Jean), widow of Capt. John Handy (d. 19 Jan 1744) & 1st cousin of his 2nd wife, Jane was nearly 50 and beyond child-bearing age. Her latest Handy child was b. Mar 1740. According to Handy Annals (13) it was a very ill-advised marriage.

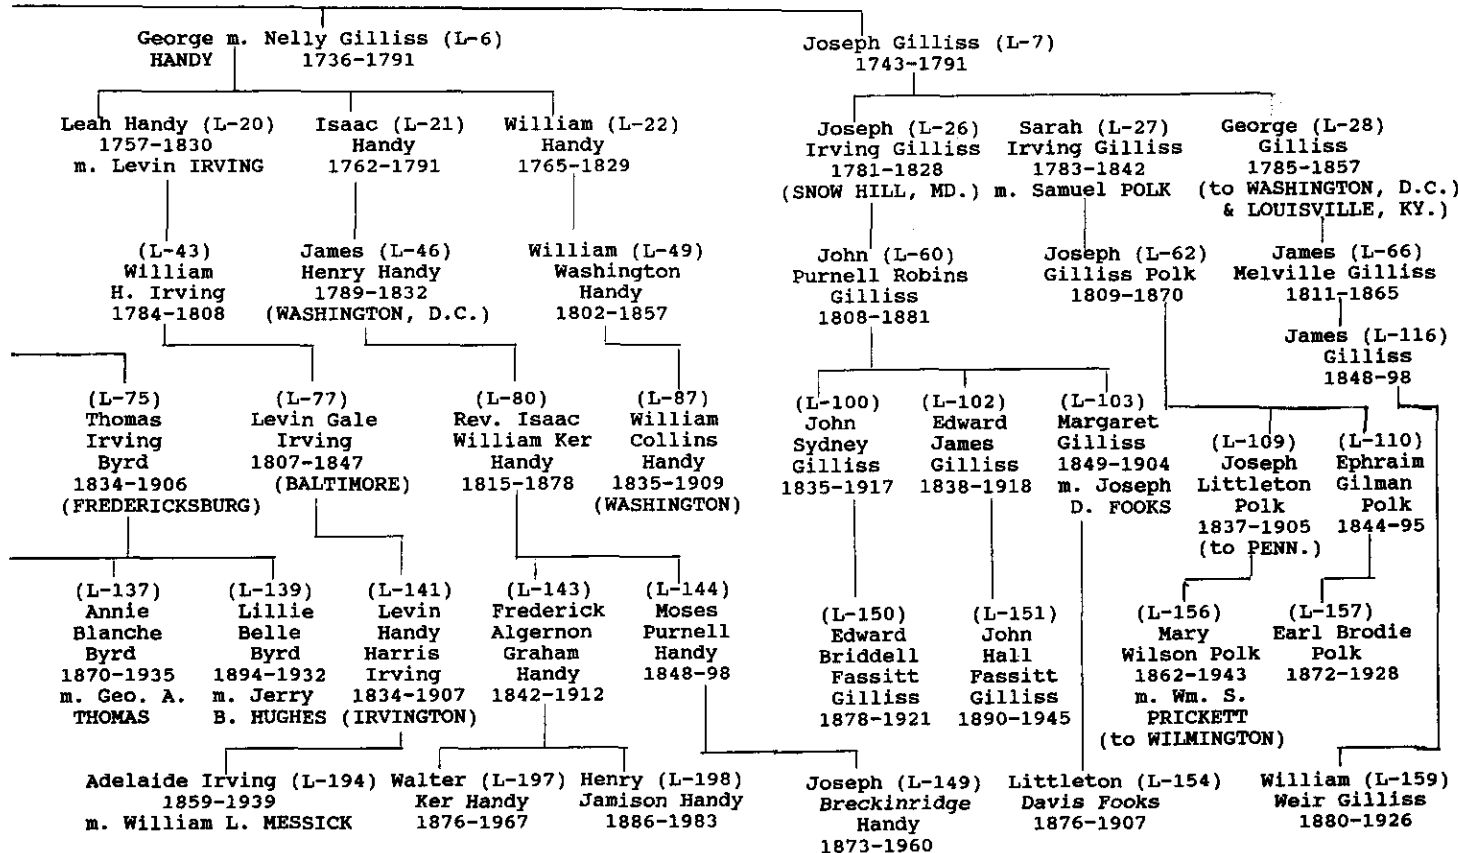

In 1733 "Thomas Gillis of Somerset Co., Joyner," was aged 38 (Som. Co. Chancery Depositions IR2:559). In a deposition of 16 Sept. 1773 Thomas gave his age as 77; in another of 8 Jan. 1778 his age was 81 (Som. Judicial Records 1775/84: 130,163). In 1725 Thomas Gillis with Levin Gale was executor of the will of his mother-in-law, Esther Denwood (Md. Archives, Md. Accts. 9:148). He served as Commissioner of the Peace 1734-47, Associate Justice of Som. Co. 1735-39, Justice of the Somerset County Court 1740-1747.

On 2 Mar. 1725/26 Thomas Gilliss, joyner, purchased 100 acres, "White Chappel" (Som. Deeds 16:7). He had already patented in 1721 "End of Strife," 510 acres in present W. Princess Anne, and he proceeded to patent, purchase, and sell more land, accumulating over 1000 acres, some of it in present Wicomico Co., Md.: in 1748 by purchase "Canterbury," "Cramburne," "Horseys Chance," "Trouble" and by patent 303 acres "Gillis's Double Purchase" in modern W. Princess Anne (Dryden Som. Land 149, 69, 175), and more. On 11 June 1771 Thomas, for love & affection and 5 shillings deeded "Harmon" to Joseph Gillis (Som. Deeds 26:136), and also "End of Strife" 80A, "Contention" 80 A, "White Chapel" 467 A, and "Gillis Double Purchase" 303 A. He was identified by the Rev. Isaac W. K. Handy (Handy Annals 135) as "Capt." Thomas Gilliss of the "Upper Ferry," on the Wicomico River.

A letter of 1 Dec 1771 from one nephew to another reported that "Uncle Thomas Gilliss...being aged, has gone blind since midsummer last."

On 2 Mar 1778 Thomas Gilliss, Senr., swore the Oath of Allegiance before [son-in-law] William Winder (Som. Co. Blue Book #5, Paper 25).

In his will, dated 29 Dec. 1779 (prob. 12 Jan 1780), Thomas Gilliss made bequests to son Joseph, land bought of Peter Surman, on which "my daughter-in-law" Sarah Gillis ("widow of my son Levin Gillis") now lives, i.e. "Canterbury" & "Horseys Chance," 100 A, "Cramborne" 100 A; to grandson Thomas Gillis, son of Levin, & to grandson Levin Gilliss, "Meadow Ground" 21 1/2 acres. In a codicil Thomas requested that land bought of Robert Ridgely, "Horseys Balywick" 150 A, be sold & the money distributed among "my ten children" unnamed (Som Wills EB1:133).

A deed which he made the same day he made his will, 29 Dec 1779, with [sons-in-law] William Winder, John Irving, & Thomas Irving, & [son] Joseph Gilliss, trustees, named most of these children or heirs. For 5 shillings he granted to the trustees all his Negroes and personal estate to be divided among his children or their heirs: to Sarah Gilliss, widow of Levin Gilliss dec'd and his children; the children of dau. Esther Winder; dau. Leah Adams; dau. Betty Pollitts children; [grand-daughter] Sarah Fountain; dau. Mary McClemmy's children, except her son Thomas McClemmy, his share to go to Gilliss McClemmy; [dau.] Priscilla Evans' children; dau. Sarah Irving; dau. Nelly Handy; dau. Anne Denwood Irving's children (Som. Deeds 28:202-205). To the deed is appended an inventory of goods and chattels of Capt. Thomas Gilliss: linen, china, cutlery, tables, beds, chairs, kitchen utensils, books, pictures, mousetrap, scales, stirrups, tools, musket, watch, spinning wheel, etc. The first ten children were baptised in Stepney Parish, Somerset Co. Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

- L-2 1. Levin Gilliss, b. 22 Aug 1721; d. 17 June / 3 Aug 1772.
- M-1 2. Betty Gilliss, 13 Dec 1722 - 24 Oct 1725.
- 3. Esther Gilliss, b. 6 Oct 1724; d. 9 Oct 1767; mar. her step-brother, William Winder.
- 4. Leah Gilliss, b. 1 Apr 1726; d. Dec 1779/1794; married WILLIAM ADAMS, son of the Rev. Alexander Adams, Rector of Stepney Parish, born 1725; d. 1795; no children.
- L-3 5. Elizabeth Gilliss, b. 25 Dec 1727; d. 9 July 1801; mar. 1st Marcy (Mersey) Fontaine; 2nd Thomas Pollitt.
- 6. Thomas Gilliss, b. 14 Nov 1729; d. as a child.
- 7. Mary Gilliss, b. 20 July 1731; d. after 1779; mar. (c1750) WILLIAM McCLEMMY, who died Som. Co. by 8 Oct 1776. In his will, dated 25 Mar 1776, he devised land to wife Mary, named her executrix with Josiah Polk, mentioned children, unnamed (Som. Wills EB5:82).
- Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):
  - a. Thomas McClemmy, b. c1751
  - b. Gilliss McClemmy, b. c1753
- L-4 8. Priscilla Gilliss, born 16 Mar 1732/33; d. 25 Oct 1778/ 12 Jan 1779; mar. her step-brother Nicholas Evans.
- L-5 9. Sarah Gilliss, b. 26 Jan 1734/35; d. by 1780; mar. 1st Samuel Handy; 2nd Thomas Irving.
- L-6 10. Nelly Gilliss, b. 7 Oct 1736; d. 31 Mar 1791; mar. George Handy.
- 11. Anne Denwood Gilliss, b. c1739; d. 1779/c1790; mar. (c1764) CAPT. JOHN IRVING, born 13 Mar 1737/38; d. Som. Co. 20 May 1803. He mar. 2nd Nelly---. In his will, dated 15 May 1803 John Irving made bequests to wife Nelly, executrix, and to dau. Ann Irving, to granddau. Nancy Irving, dau. of Capt. George Irving, and to grandsons John Irving of James, & Levin and Thomas of Capt. George Irving (Som. Wills EB23:72). His widow Nelly Irving dated her will 1 May 1816, making bequests to John and Ann Irving and Mattilder Winright, dau. of Jesse H. Winwright (who was named executor), and she desired a tombstone like that over Captain Irving's grave. Witnesses were Levin Tull, William Revell (Som. Wills EB23:242).
- Child (born Somerset Co., Md.):
  - a. Ann Irving, b. c1765; mar. (Somerset Parish 10 Nov 1786) her first cousin, GEORGE IRVING, b. 1760. See L-5.
- L-7 12. Joseph Gilliss, b. c1742/43 - by 10 Dec 1791.

L-2 LEVIN GILLISS, son of Thomas (L-1) and Priscilla (Denwood) Gilliss, b. Somerset Co., Md. 22 Aug. 1721 (bapt. Stepney Parish); d. Wicomico, Somerset Co. 17 June/3 Aug. 1772; mar. (c1746) Sarah Pitts, dau. of John Pitts (d. 1748/9), who in his will named daughter Sarah Gilliss (Som. Wills 27:146). Sarah was b. c1728; died Wicomico, Som. Co. 24 Dec. 1781/5 Feb. 1782. (Levin is No. 500 in The Gilliss Family.)

On 16 Feb. 1760 Levin's father deeded to Levin 410 acres, part of "The End of Strife," also 138 acres, "Support," both at the head of Wicomico Creek.

In his will, dated 17 June 1772 (prob. 3 Aug. '72), Levin bequeathed to wife Sarah a third of all his personal estate and to sons Thomas and Levin, equally, all his lands on Wicomico Creek, known as "Gillisses Run," Thomas to have the part "whereon the dwelling house now stands...next to Andrew Adamsses," Levin to have the part next to Eden Free School. The residue was to be equally divided among his children Mary Gilliss, Thomas Gilliss, Sarah Gilliss, Levin Gilliss, and a fifth part to brother Joseph in trust for Levin's two grandchildren, Levin and Leah Piper. He named wife Sarah executrix. Witnesses were John Adams, Sam'l Collins Adams, Andrew Adams (Som. Wills EB4:187). In Mar 1775 Prissy Piper, dau. of Levin, was appointed guardian of her children Levin & Leah Piper to replace their grandmother, Sarah Gilliss, acting as the administrator of Levin's estate. In a bond (Som. Co. Judgments, Mar. 1774-Mar. 1775, p. 207), Sarah Gilliss, William Adams, & John Evans of Nicholas, were bound to Mary, Thomas, Sarah, Levin Gilliss, Levin and Leah Piper, to pay to these heirs of Levin Gilliss their inheritance when they "arrive at full age."

In her will, dated 24 Dec. 1781 (prob. 5 Feb. 1782) Sarah Gilliss made bequests to all her five children: Prissy Rounds, Mary Gilliss, Thomas Gilliss, Sarah Gilliss, and Levin Gilliss, appointing son Thomas executor. Witnesses: Joseph Gilliss, John Adams, Jr. (Som. Wills EB1:155). The children were born at Wicomico, near Salisbury, Md. Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

- L-8 1. Priscilla Gilliss, born 28 Jan 1747/48; d. July 1808; married 1st---Piper; 2nd John Rounds.
- 2. Mary Gilliss, b. c1755; d. Som. Co. by 9 Feb. 1796; mar. (after Dec. 1781) THOMAS POLLITT, SR. In her will, dated 15 Nov. 1795, Mary Pollitt bequeathed to Prissy Rounds, "my dear and beloved sister," all the property which may "fall to me from the estate of Thomas Pollitt, Sr., deceased" (Som. Wills EB17:467).
- L-9 3. Thomas Gilliss, born c1756; died by 23 Apr 1800.
- 4. Sarah Gilliss, b. c1758; d. Som. Co. 9 Mar/ 5 May 1784; unmar. On 15 Dec. 1778 and the 3rd Tues. in June 1779 Sarah Gilliss had a hearing "on account of having given birth to an illegitimate child, but would not declare the father of her child" (Som. Co. Judgments 1775-83: 203). In her will, dated 9 Mar. 1784 Sarah requested that her child, Deliate, be raised by her brother-in-law, John Rounds, executor of her will, & brought up in the faith of the Church of England (Som. Wills EB1:202). On 8 June 1784 Sarah's brothers Thomas & Levin Gilliss were bondsmen for Rounds. On 17 Apr. 1787, John Rounds having died, his widow Priscilla became administrator de bonis non of sister Sarah's estate, with Ezekiel and Levin Gilliss as bondsmen. On 15 Feb. 1791 Prissy Rounds was still administrator de bonis non. (Sarah is No. 515 in The Gilliss Family.)
- Child: Deliate [Gilliss], b. 1778; no further information.
- L-10 5. Levin Gilliss, Jr., b. 1760; d. by 15 Jan 1795.

L-3 ELIZABETH ("BETTY") GILLISS, daughter of Thomas (L-1) and Priscilla (Denwood) Gilliss, b. Somerset Co., Md. 25 Dec 1727 (bapt. Stepney Parish); d. Somerset Co. 9 July 1801; mar. 1st (Somerset Parish, 28 Nov. 1745) MARCY (MERCEY) FOUNTAIN, son of Nicholas Fontaine (Fountain), b. c1720; d. c1762; mar. 2nd (29 Sep 1763), as his 2nd wife, THOMAS POLLITT, b. 1717; d. Som. Co. 11 Sep /11 Oct 1788. (Betty is Gilliss No. 504).

In a deed dated 29 Dec. 1779 Capt. Thomas Gilliss gave personal property and negroes to Betty Pollitt's children, specifically mentioning Sarah Fountain among them (Som. Deeds 28:202).

In his will, dated 11 Sept. 1788, Thomas Pollitt did not name a wife, but he made bequests to sons (evidently by his first marriage): Thomas, William, Samuel, and Joshua, and to grandson Levin Morris (under 21), property in the hands of son William. To son Levin he left tract "John's Hill," naming as three youngest children Easter, Levin, and Jenny (Som. Wills. EB17:5-6). The youngest son Levin is obviously by Betty Gilliss, and probably the two youngest daughters are also. (Baptisms are from Somerset Parish Register.)

Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

- 1. Nicholas Fountain, b. 19 Oct 1746.
- 2. William Fountain, b. c1748.
- L-11 3. Mary Fountain, b. 26 Sep 1751; mar. William Dashiell.

- L-12 4. Thomas Gilliss Fontaine, b. c1753; died 20 July/ 23 Sep 1817.
 5. Sarah Fountain, b. c1755; living 1793.
 6. Priscilla Fountain, b. c1757; d. Som. So. 25 Oct./ 17 Dec 1793; unmar. In her will Priscilla Fountain made bequests to sister Sarah Fountain & brother Thomas G. Fountain, named executor (Som. Wills EB17:287-88).
 7. ?Easter (Esther) Pollitt, b. c1764.
 L-13 8. Levin Gilliss Pollitt, b. c1766; d. 29 Aug 1829.
 9. ?Jane ("Jenny") Pollitt, b. c1768; d. ?1817.

L-4 PRISCILLA ("PRISSEE") GILLISS, daughter of Thomas (L-1) and Priscilla (Denwood) Gilliss, b. Somerset Co., Md. 16 Mar 1732/331 (bapt. Stepney Parish); d. Som. Co. 25 Oct. 1778/ 12 Jan. 1779; mar. (Stepney Parish, 7 Feb. 1748/49) her step-brother, NICHOLAS EVANS, son of John and Ann (Dashiell) Evans. Nicholas' mother had mar. 2nd Alexander Leckie; & 3rd (c1744) Capt. Thomas Gilliss, so that Nicholas was step-son of Thomas Gilliss before he became his son-in-law. (Priscilla is No. 507 in The Gilliss Family.)

The will of Alexander Leckie (Lackie), 13 Aug. 1740 (prob. 11 May 1743) left "Liforde," 100 acres, to son-in-law (i.e. step-son) Nicholas Evans (Som. Wills EB9:239). The will of Ann Gilliss, late Ann Leckie, left "to my only son, Nicholas Evans," silverware, furniture, cattle, negroes, cash (Som. Wills EB14:1). The Som. Co. Rent Rolls 1749/52 charge Capt. Thomas Gilliss for Nicholas Evans an orphan with tracts "Rice Land," 612 acres, "Troy," 50 acres, "Fox Hall," 50 acres, "Timber Grove," 100 acres, "Daniels Adventure," 150 acres, "Gilliss Care," 22 acres, "Dormans Improvement," 40 acres. On 29 Dec. 1779 Capt. Thomas Gilliss made a deed of gift of personal property to the children of his daughter Priscilla Evans.

Priscilla Evans in her will, dated 25 Oct. 1778, named sons John, James, William (sons to have part of their deceased father Nicholas Evans' estate), daughters Priscilla Dashiell (part of her deceased brother Thomas Low's estate) and Jean Evans, grandsons Ichabod Dashiell and Thomas Evans, granddaughter Ann Evans. Son John was named executor (Som. Wills EB1:110-11). (Source acknowledged in Gilliss Family for the children is Benjamin J. Dashiell, Towson, Md.) Children were baptised in Stepney Parish. Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

L-5 SARAH GILLISS, daughter of Thomas and Priscilla (Denwood) Gilliss (L-1), b. Stepney Parish, Somerset Co., Md. 26 Jan. 1734/5; d. Som. Co. before ?1780; mar. 1st (c1756) Capt. SAMUEL HANDY, son of Capt. John and Jane (Dashiell) Handy, born Som. Co. 31 Apr 1731; died 28 Dec 1758; married 2nd (Stepney Parish 10 Feb. 1760) THOMAS IRVING, son of John (d. 1772), b. Somerset Co. c1725; d. Stepney Parish, Som. Co. 19 Feb./9 Mar. 1784. He married 2nd Grace---. (Sarah Gilliss is No. 508.)

Capt. Handy was presumably at one time master of a vessel, but he engaged principally in growing tobacco on his plantation near Quantico, Som. Co. (present Wicomico Co.) (Source for Handy material: Handy Annals 35-36). In 1757 he was in Wicomico Hundred with six slaves. In his will, dated 25 Dec 1758 (prob. 24 Apr 1759) Samuel Handy bequeathed to "my well beloved wife Sarah Handy" her thirds, the balance to son John; if no issue, to nephew John Handy, son of brother Charles in Rhode Island; if no issue, to nephew Levin Handy, son of brother John. His nephew Levin was to be in the care of "my mother" Jane Gilliss. Witnesses: Isaac Handy, Wm. Winder, Henry Lowes, Jr. (Som. Wills EB4:69-70).

Thomas Irving was designated Major Thomas Irving in Handy Annals (155). In his will, dated 19 Feb. 1784 (probated 9 Mar 1784), he devised to son George two tracts "where I live," "Morscombs Lott," 400 A, & "Habb Nab" at head of Little Monie Creek, 216 A; also "Georges Adventure," 986 A; "Cow Quarter," 100 A, and appointed him executor. To son Joseph he left half a tract,

"Daniels Adventure," n. of Wicomico River, 150 acres, tract "Line House," adjacent, 25 1/2 acres as appears on deed from Matthew Cannon; part of tracts "Warwicks," "Midfield," 100 acres per deed of John Rider. He also named son Thomas (minor), wife Grace, daughters Sarah McClemmy, Priscilla Holbrook, Ann Irving, Jane Irving, and Betty Irving, & his brother John Irving, co-executor. Witnesses were Levin Woolford, Benjamin Sasser, & Gowan Wright (Som. Wills EB1:193-94). The first four Irving children were baptised in Somerset Parish; Grace may be mother of the four youngest children.

L-6 NELLY GILLISS, daughter of Thomas (L-1) and Priscilla (Denwood) Gilliss, born Somerset Co., Md. 7 Oct. 1736 (bapt. Stepney Parish); d. Som. Co., 31 Mar. 1791; married (Stepney Parish, 9 Feb. 1755) CAPTAIN GEORGE HANDY, eldest son of Isaac and Ann (Dashiell) Handy, b. "Pemberton," near Salisbury, Som. Co. 30 Oct 1727; d. ?Baltimore, Md. 6 Apr 1782, from pleurisy contracted from severe exposure while at the helm of his own vessel sailing up the Bay on the occasion of a trip to Baltimore; bur. "Handy Hall." (Nelly is Gilliss No. 509; added details found in Handy Annals 44-48)

He became a wealthy ship-builder, merchant, and importer. Before age 7 he went to sea with his father, continued as a sailor and merchant sea captain until middle age, when he turned merchant and established a store at Salisbury run by son Isaac, while Capt. George farmed his plantation "Handy Hall," with Negroes, some of whom he had brought from Africa. Here on the Wicomico River about 3 miles from Salisbury he had built his home, and here he established a shipyard, built sea vessels for his overseas trade. (Four were captured by the British in the Revolution, one burned at his very door).

He fully supported the colonies' cause in the American Revolution, contributed to its prosecution, loaned money to the Continental Congress, furnished ships to the Committee of Safety, on his vessels imported necessary merchandise, especially large supplies of salt, which had to be hidden in various locations to protect it from frequent Tory raids.

In his will, signed 5 Nov 1782 [?misreading for '81] (prob. 9 Nov 1782) George Handy, merchant, left to wife Nelly the manor plantation & $800 "good money in the continental loan that I lent the congress April 25th 1777." To daughter Leah Irving he bequeathed a tract, "False Dispute" and $600; to son Isaac land bought of Jas. Justice and Mathias Vincent, a lot and house in Salisbury, manor land bought of Francis Disheroon, & $1000. He left to son William lands in a resurvey, "Handy's Neck," which were to be arbitrated by Major Levin Gale, John Stewart, & Henry Steele, & $600. And he made bequests to daus. Ann, Elizabeth, and Nelly Handy, each $700, and to granddaughter Nelly Gillis Irving, $100. Lands in Sussex Co., Del. were to be disposed of by son-in-law Levin Irving, named executor with wife Nelly (Som. Wills EB1: 169-70). Children Leah, Isaac, William, Ann, Nelly, Elizabeth were baptised in Stepney Parish.

Children (born "Handy Hall," Somerset Co., Md.):

L-7 JOSEPH GILLIS, youngest son of Thomas (L-1) and Priscilla (Denwood) Gillis, born Wicomico Hundred, Somerset Co., Md. c1742/3; d. Som. Co. by 10 Dec. 1791; mar. 1st (c1767) Anne Handy, youngest child of Colonel Isaac & Anne (Dashiell) Handy & sister of his brother-in-law, Capt. George Handy, b. "Pemberton," Som. Co. 20 Dec 1745; d. Som. Co. 2 June 1772; 2nd (c1776) Elizabeth ("Eliza" or "Betty") Irving, daughter of George & Anne (Dashiell) Irving, first cousin of Joseph's first wife and sister of Capt. John Irving who wed Joseph's sister Anne, b. Somerset Co. 16 Jan. 1747; d. Washington, D.C. 23 Jan. 1816 (Bible of son George). (Joseph is No. 510 in The Gilliss Family; dates for wife Anne from Handy Annals 17.)

Though Joseph's ten eldest siblings were baptised in Stepney Parish & Joseph was not, there is no doubt that he was also a child of Thomas Gillis's first wife, Priscilla Denwood. In the 1759 Som. Co. tax list he is found in Nanticoke Hundred in the household next to Thomas, as Joseph, Jr., to distinguish him from his uncle, Joseph Sr. of Manokin Hundred; his appearance in 1759 indicates that he was 16 or more, i.e. b. 1742/3. When his father's 2nd wife died 7 Feb 1748, in her will she named "my only son" Nicholas Evans.

On 11 June 1770 Joseph's father gave him "Gilliss Double Purchase," 303 acres (part formerly called "Harmony"), "White Chappel," 502 acres (less 30 A. sold), "Contention," 50 acres, and the residue of "The End of Strife," 80 acres (Dryden Som. Land 175, 415, 149). On 18 May 1772 a survey was made for Joseph of 95 1/4 A., "Chance," composed of several small tracts, though the patent was not granted until 1802. On 17 June 1772 Joseph was named trustee for his brother Levin's grandchildren, Levin and Leah Piper. In 1774 Capt. Joseph Gilliss appears on the rent rolls as "Mariner," but with all the land he held, he was probably chiefly a planter.

On 22 Sept. 1777 Joseph was commissioned 2nd Lt. of Wicomico Co., Salisbury Battalion, Som. Co. Militia, Capt. Josiah Dashiell, commanding (Md. Archives, XVI: 382); he still held this rank 19 Aug. 1780. On 2 Mar. 1778 he swore the oath of allegiance before William Winder (Som. Co. Blue Book #5, Paper 25). In 1781 Joseph was mentioned "in list of discharged Soldiers of the two Battalions of Militia raised to serve in the Continental Army" (Md. Archives, XVIII:408).

On 4 May 1779 his father deeded to Joseph 50 acres, "Gilliss Meadow." In his father's will Joseph was named executor (with William Winder) & received "Crambourn," 100 acres, "Canterbury" and "Horsey's Choice," 100 A., in the 1783 Som. Co. tax list Joseph Gilliss owned "White Chappel," 467 A., "End of Strife," 80 A., "Contention," 50 A., "Gilliss Double Purchase," 303 A., "Chance," 95 A.; improvements - bad; situation - bad; soil - sandy; arable, 150 acres, woods 845 acres; 15 slaves, value of estate £1095. On 28 Sep 1790 Joseph deeded to his cousin (i.e. nephew) Thomas Fountain "Cabin Ridge," 50 A., "Trouble," 50 A., "Horseys Choice" & "Canterbury," 100 A. Joseph died intestate. On 10 Dec. 1791 his widow Elizabeth Gilliss and son Thomas Handy Gilliss were appointed administrators of his estate, with nephews Thomas Gilliss & Thomas Gilliss Fountain securities (Som. Accts. EB20:129-130). An inventory was filed 6 Mar. 1792.

In May Court 1793 a petition was presented to the Som. Co. Court by Thomas H. Gilliss, to the effect that Joseph, father of the petitioner, d. intestate, seized of "Gilliss Double Purchase," "White Chapel," "Contention," "Chance," "End of Strife," totalling 900 acres, leaving "your petitioner his eldest son" and 7 other children: Esther Cheney, Ann I. Gilliss, and Nelly, Joseph, Sarah, George, & Eliza Gilliss, the petition requesting appointment of a commission to divide the lands. The Court appointed James Polk, James Bennet, and Sara Gale as commissioners (Som. Jud. Records 1791/94, p. 109).

Widow Elizabeth I. Gilliss was in Wicomico Hundred in 1798 and 1800 (with 8 slaves); in 1804 she was a communicant of Somerset Parish. By 1810 she moved to Washington, D.C., to be near her son George; there she was residing when, on 16 June 1812, as one of the heirs of the late Joseph Gilliss, she deeded to (her son-in-law) Samuel Polk all her interest in 110 acres for $660 & $5 (Som. Deeds 41:414). Two eldest children by first marriage, all born at Wicomico, in present Wicomico Co.

- L-28 7. George Gilliss, born "White Chappel," 10 Dec 1785; d. 20 Feb 1857.
8. Eliza Irving Gilliss, born Apr 1789; d. 10 Aug 1825; unmar.

L-8 PRISCILLA GILLISS, daughter of Levin (L-2) and Sarah (Pitts) Gilliss, born Wicomico, Somerset Co., Md., near Salisbury, 28 Jan. 1747/48 (Boston Bible); d. Som. Co. July 1808; married 1st (c1765) ---- PIPER, who died before Mar. 1775; 2nd (c1778) JOHN ROUNDS, b. c1745; d. Som. Co. by 28 Feb. 1786. (Priscilla is Gilliss No. 512.)

At March Court 1775 Prissy Piper was appointed guardian of her children, Levin and Leah Piper (Som. Co. Judgements 1774/75: 154); in June 1772 they had been named as grandchildren in the will of her father Levin Gilliss. Priscilla was named Prissy Rounds in her mother's will, Dec. 1781.

In 1780 John Rounds was enrolled as a private in Capt. James Elsey's Co., Princess Anne Battalion, Somerset Co. Militia. On 9 Mar. 1784 Priscilla's sister in her will named as executor her "brother-in-law John Rounds." An inventory of 28 Feb. 1786 for the estate of Sarah Gillis, Prissy's mother, shows Prissy Rounds administrator de bonis non of Sarah Gillis, unadministered by John Rounds, also deceased, executor of her last will (Som. Accts. EB16:412). She was still administrator 15 Feb. 1791.

The 1783 Som. Co. tax list shows John Rounds in Manokin Hundred possessed of "Gideons Luck" & "Tilghmans Adventure," 120 acres, also 6 slaves, 1 horse, 12 black cattle. On 20 Jan. 1789 Prissy Rounds, widow, for £45 conveyed Negroes to Levin Gillis (Som. Deeds 29:427). The 1800 census shows Priscilla Rounds in Dividing Creek Hundred. Of the known children, Mary Rounds is named in the will of her uncle Levin Gilliss; Ann Rounds is identified as daughter of John Rounds and Priscilla his wife in the Bible of Elijah Boston, a notarized copy of which is in the D.A.R. Library, Washington, D.C.

Children (born Somerset Co., Md., probably Manokin):

1. Levin Piper, b. c1766; ?d.s.p.
2. Leah Piper, b. c1768; ?d.s.p.
- L-29 3. Mary Rounds, b. c1779; died by 16 Oct 1849; mar. Thomas Adams.
- L-30 4. Anne Rounds, b. 28 Nov 1785; d. 18 Apr 1840; mar. Elijah Boston.

L-9 THOMAS GILLISS, eldest son of Levin (L-2) and Sarah (Pitts) Gilliss, b. Wicomico, Somerset Co., Md., near Salisbury, c1756; d. Som. Co. by 19 Mar 1800; mar. (c1782) Nellie --- who d. 1797/ 23 Apr. 1800. (He is No. 514 in The Gilliss Family.)

On 3 June 1777 "Thomas Gilliss" received bounty for having acted as third mate on the Md. ship Defense, 3 June to 25 Nov. 1777 (Md. Archives XVIII:656). In 1780 Thomas was a 1st Lt. in Som. Co. Militia, Capt. Josiah Dashiell's Creek Company (Clements and Wright 218).

By his father's will (1772) he & brother Levin inherited all their father's land, to be shared equally. By the will of his grandfather Capt. Thomas Gilliss (1779) he and Levin received "Meadow Ground," 21 1/2 acres. In the 1783 Rent Rolls Thomas owned part of "The End of Strife," 285 acres: 140 acres arable, 145 acres woods, 4 slaves. On 1 Oct 1798 Thomas was living in Wicomico Hundred, at the head of Wicomico Creek on 193 acres.

In his will, dated 3 Sept 1789, Thomas Gilliss made bequests to wife Nelly (executor), sons Levin and John Gilliss, daughter Elizabeth & unborn child (Som. Wills EB23:11-12). Thomas Cannon was appointed administrator of his estate on 19 Mar 1800, and reappointed 23 Apr when the will was probated, for Nelly Gilliss was also deceased. Thomas Cannon was also appointed guardian of Levin, eldest son. On 23 June 1808 the distribution of £980.61 was made to John, Betsy & Mary, children of Thomas Gilliss. Eldest son Levin had been awarded the land. The widow died before the estate was settled (Som. Accounts EB27:43, 90). William received no share because he was born after his father made his will.

Children (born Wicomico, Somerset Co., Md.):

- L-31 1. Levin Gilliss, b. c1783; d. by 24 July 1815.
- 2. John Gilliss, b. c1785; d. after 1820.
- L-32 3. Elizabeth Gilliss, b. c1787; d. c1815; mar. Joseph Barkley.

- L-33 5. William Gilliss, 1796/97 - 19 July 1869.

L-10 LEVIN GILLISS, JR., youngest son of Levin (L-2), born Wicomico, Somerset Co., Md. 1760; d. Som. Co. by 15 Jan 1795; mar. (c1793) Margaret Nutter, daughter of William Nutter of Som. Co. and his wife Sarah Eccleston of Dorchester Co., Md. She mar. 2nd (Stepney Parish, 2 Aug. 1797) John Landreth, son of William and Margaret (Brown) Landreth, b. Parish of Stichill, Berwickshire, Scotland, 23 May 1765 and came to America in 1788 (all from parish register); d. "Calm Retreat," near Princess Anne, Md., 3 May 1830. (Levin is No. 516 in The Gilliss Family; all the Gilliss/Nutter family information is confirmed in Handy Annals 307.)

On 11 Apr. 1780 Thomas Gilliss was appointed guardian of his brother Levin at Levin's request. In 1780 Levin was a soldier in Capt. Josiah Dashiell's Creek Co., Som. Co. Militia (Clements & Wright 218). In the 1783 Som. Co. Rent Rolls Levin owned tracts "Meadow Ground," 21 1/2 A, "Support," 138 A, part of "End of Strife," 125 A, all in Wicomico Hundred.

In his will, dated 19 Oct. 1791 (prob. 15 Jan 1795), Levin left to wife Margaret all his lands, to go after her death to an as yet unnamed daughter. If this dau. should have no issue, land should go to niece Mary Rounds. He named "friends" William Nutter and Doctor Charles Nutter executors (Som. Wills EB17:352-54). His dau. Maria's parentage & ancestry are found in Handy Annals 307). Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

- 1. Daughter, b. ?Oct 1791; apparently died in infancy.

L-12 THOMAS GILLISS FONTAINE, son of Marcy and Elizabeth (Gilliss) Fountain (L-3), born Somerset Co., Md. c1753; d. Som. Co. 20 July / 23 Sep 1817. In his will he left his land to son Levin I. Fontaine, who was instructed to pay the mortgage to Captain Littleton Robins (Som. Wills EB23:257).

Child (born Somerset Co., Md.):

L-13 LEVIN GILLISS POLLITT, son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Gilliss) Pollitt (L-3), born Somerset Co., Md. c1766; d. Som. Co. 29 Aug 1829; mar. (c1796) his first cousin, Eleanor ("Nelly") Irving Gilliss, dau. of his uncle Capt. Joseph (L-7) and Eliza (Irving) Gilliss, b. Wicomico, Som. Co. c1779; died Som. Co. by 14 Dec 1841. (She is Gilliss No.520.) Levin's death date from family records, provided by Rebecca F. Miller.

On 9 June 1796 Levin Pollitt, farmer, & wife Eleanor sold for £22.10.12 "John's Hill," 12 acres devised to Levin by his father Thomas Pollitt, east of Wicomico Creek and the main road that leads from Princess Anne to the Upper Ferry of Wicomico River. On 13 Dec 1806 Levin G. Pollitt and wife Nelly I. Pollitt sold for $2000 to Samuel Polk 2 lots (out of tract "Brereton's Mistake"), laid off by virtue of a commission to divide the real estate of Capt. Joseph Gilliss among the representatives of said Gilliss (Som. Deeds K:440, R:106).

William Pollitt of Worcester Co., half-brother of Nelly's late husband, in his 22 Mar 1814 will (prob. 19 Jan 1816) left to "sister-in-law" tracts "Hacklah" and "Venture Laid Out," 150 acres, and named her children Gillis, Nelly, and Esther Pollitt, also [half-sister Jane Pollitt (Worc. Wills MH10:155-57)].

Nelly I. Pollitt, in her will, dated 30 Nov 1836, bequeathed to son Levin I. Pollitt, executor, land left her by William Pollitt, "Hacklah" and "Venture," 150 A, and named daughters Elizabeth Esther Byrd and Nelly G. Byrd, and son Gilliss Pollitt (Som. Wills JP5:65).

"A set of furniture presented to Nelly as a wedding gift by her half-brother Thomas Handy Gilliss is still to be seen at 'Venture,' which is still in the family" (Levin Irving Pollard [Pollitt?] of Baltimore, 1 Apr 1930; this descendant supplied details on this family).

Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

L-24 THOMAS HANDY GILLISS, eldest son of Capt. Joseph (L-7) and Anne (Handy) Gilliss, born on his father's plantation, "White Chappel," in Wicomico Hundred, Somerset Co., Md., near Salisbury, 6 Dec. 1768; d. Washington, D.C. 14 Feb. 1851; mar. (Som. Co. 17 June 1795) his first cousin, Ellen ("Nelly") Gilliss Irving, dau. of Dr. Levin and Leah (Handy) Irving (L-20), b. near Salisbury, Md. 15 July 1778; d. 10 Oct 1831. (Thomas is No. 517 in The Gilliss Family, dates from family Bible of Thomas Handy Gilliss; see also Handy Annals 168-170.)

On 10 Dec. 1791, after his father's death intestate, he and step-mother Elizabeth Gilliss were appointed executors. In 1793 he petitioned the court to appoint a commission to partition the lands of Capt. Joseph Gilliss' estate among his eight children. On 28 May 1794 for 5 shillings he sold "White Chappel," 154 acres, to Eleanor Wilson (Som. Deeds 30:713-14). As a result of partition of father's land, Thomas drew lot #6, 135 A., which because of a suit against Thomas was sold 4 Aug 1798 by George Handy, Esq., Sheriff of Som. Co., to Levin Irving (L-20), who died intestate, leaving issue Nelly, wife of Thomas H. Gillis, & Wm. H. Irving, Handy H. Irving, & Leah H. Irving. On 6 June 1810 Thomas and Nelly, of Wash., D.C., sold her share for $218 to David Prior (Som. Deeds 32:267, 40:517-18).

In early life he was in the Clerk's office in Princess Ann, was elected Sheriff of Som. Co., became a merchant, for a time served as Postmaster. In 1798, on the invitation of his first cousin, the Hon. (future Gov.) Levin Winder (M-6), Accountant of the Navy, to become his chief clerk, he removed his family to Philadelphia, then moved with the Federal Govt. to Washington in 1800, whither many of his family also later moved. In 1814 his title became Chief Clerk, Fourth Auditor's Office (corresponding to Chief Clerk in the Navy; one source: Chief Clerk in Treasury Dept. for 40 yrs.); he held the position until retirement, June '50, annual salary in 1850, $1700. The first two children, born near Princess Anne, were baptised Stepney Parish; the four youngest were born in Washington, D.C. Children (first two born Somerset Co., Md.):

L-27 SARAH IRVING GILLISS, daughter of Joseph (L-7) and Elizabeth (Irving) Gilliss, born Wicomico Hundred, Somerset Co., Md. 13 Sep 1783; d. Som. Co. 28 Sep 1842; mar. (10 July 1804) SAMUEL POLK, son of William & Mary (Williams) Polk, b. Som. Co. 10 Apr 1780; d. ?Somerset Co. 30 Oct 1826. (Sarah is No. 522 in The Gilliss Family; dates largely from Polk 224).

In the settlement of the estate of Sarah's father, who died intestate, "Chance," 95 acres, fell in unequal portions to George Gilliss, Sarah Gilliss and Thomas Handy Gilliss. On 4 Aug 1798 by Court order the Sheriff sold the tract at auction. Dr. Levin Irving, their uncle, bought it & prayed the Court to issue a patent to Levin Irving, George Gilliss, & Sarah Gilliss (Som. Deeds Q:60, S:12). On 16 June 1812 Elizabeth Irving Gilliss, widow of Capt. Joseph Gilliss, of Washington City, D.C., conveyed to [her son-in-law] Samuel Polk of Somerset Co. her rights in her late husband's lands. On 6 Aug 1816 Samuel Polk and wife Sally conveyed to Whittington Polk "The End of Strife," & "Contention" (deeded to Joseph Gilliss by his father Thomas Gilliss 11 June 1770) & "Chance" (laid out to Joseph Gilliss by survey 18 May 1772), patent issued in 1802 to children George & Sarah Gilliss (now wife of Samuel Polk), land "which belonged to the late Joseph Gilliss deceased allotted to the said Sally" as part of land division (Som. Deeds JD2 or Q45:5-8). An inventory of the estate of Samuel Polk was filed 23 Jan 1827; a final account filed 23 Sep 1828 by Wm. T. G. Polk, administrator, showed $4920 due the estate (Som. Accts. JP9:7-9).

A quitclaim deed of 15 July 1845 confirmed the sale of lands in a deed of 22 Mar 1822 from James Polk to Lee P. Harcum (see M-23) & Samuel Polk, confirmed by the heirs of Samuel Polk: Wm. T. G. Polk, Caroline E. G. Polk, Joseph G. Polk & Imogene his wife, Littleton R. Polk, John Woolford & Ellen his wife, Eliza E.A.G. Polk, & Mary W. Polk, all of Som. Co. except Caroline of Washington City, D.C. (Som. Deeds O-63:55).

In a deed of 1 Aug 1846 Joseph G. Polk, for $1000, received from his brothers and sisters "Conclusion" & "Double Purchase" that was owned by their father, Samuel, inherited from his father William Polk. The sellers were Littleton R. Polk, John Woolford & Ellen his wife, Caroline E. G. Polk, Eliza E. G. Polk, William T. G. Polk, Mary W. Polk (Som. Deeds O-63:351).

Eldest son, William T. G. Polk, in his will, 19 Jan 1871, stated that his father Samuel Polk had 7 children, all of whom lived beyond 30 yrs.; 69 years after their parents' marriage there had been only one death among these children, and 23 years had elapsed between the first and second deaths.

L-28 GEORGE GILLISS, youngest son of Capt. Joseph (L-7) and Elizabeth (Irving) Gilliss, born on father's plantation, "White Chappel," Wicomico Hundred, Somerset Co., Md. 10 Dec 1785; died Louisville, Ky. 20 Feb 1857; married (?Washington, D.C. 11 Sep 1810) Mary Melville, dau. of James (II) & Hannah (Langden) Melville, b. D.C. 6 Feb 1793; d. Louisville 25 Feb 1860; both bur. Cave Hill Cem. there. (George is No. 523 in Gilliss Family; dates from George Gilliss Bible; other details from records supplied by descendants.)

In settlement of his father's estate, he was awarded a share of "Chance," 95 acres, bought & patented by his uncle, Dr. Levin Irving, in the names of Levin Irving, George & Sarah Gilliss. On 28 Feb 1827 George Gilliss, of Washington, D.C., sold land in Somerset Co. he had received from his father Joseph's estate, lot "No. Four at the head of Wicomico Creek, part of White Hall (i.e. 'White Chappel')."

Between 1804 & 1810 George, with his mother and probably younger sister, moved to Washington, where his eldest half-brother Thomas had already settled. For periods in 1813 (15-26 July) and 1814 (19-30 June, 19 Aug - 8 Oct) he served as a private & corporal under George Peter's command (artillery), D.C. Militia, and was undoubtedly in the ill-fated battle of Bladensburg, 24 Oct 1814, in which the American force with superior numbers, led by his cousin, Gen. William Winder (M-12), retreated, allowing the British troops to march on Washington and burn the capitol and other buildings.

About 1817 he received an appointment in the Treasury Dept. from President Madison. In 1820 he was a founder of the 2nd Presby. Church (to be succeeded by modern N.Y. Ave. Presby. Church). Three of his children were the first to be baptised there. In 1827 he was elected a ruling Elder, in 1832 Clerk of Session. After the inauguration of Pres. Polk in Mar 1846, partisan politics (the spoils system) forced him from his position in the Treasury, and he removed to Louisville, Ky., entered business with son Joseph, already established there.

L-29 MARY ROUNDS, daughter of John and Priscilla (Gilliss) Rounds (L-8), b. Somerset Co., Md., probably at Manokin, c1779; d. Som. Co. by 16 Oct 1849; married (lic. Som. 16 Oct 1798) as his 2nd wife, THOMAS ADAMS, son of Philip & Rachael (Potter) Adams, b. Som. Co. 8 Nov 1761 (bapt. Coventry); died Som. Co., probably at Quindocqua, by 8 May 1832. In his will, dated 2 Sep 1831 (prob. 8 May 1832) Thomas Adams made bequests to wife Mary, dau. Amelia Boston, sons Samuel & Morris Henry Adams, daus. Elenor Gillis Adams, Mary Pitt Adams, Leah Jane and Emaline Rounds Adams, the latter two to have all land purchased "of Elijah Boston" (Som. Wills JP4:100).

His widow, Mary Adams, in her will, dated 25 Jan 1849 (prob. 16 Oct 1849), made bequests to dau. Eliza G. Smith (Mary's dower right in the farm in Quindocky, left to Eliza by "my husband," Thomas Adams: to son Morris H. Adams (executor); to daughters Leah Jane Anderson and Emaline R. Adams; executor to be John D. Anderson if son Morris should die (Som. Wills JP5:163). Children born probably at Quindocqua.

Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

1. Elenor (Eliza) Gillis Adams, b. c1800; d. probably at Quindocqua, by 6 Oct 1868; mar. (lic. Som. 4 Nov 1817) JAMES SMITH, who d. d. by 22 Mar 1858; no children. In the 1850 census James was head of HH823, Brinkley District. In his will, dated 6 June 1848, he left wife (unnamed) 10 acres at Quindocqua, & named children of sisters, nephews. Witnesses: John Curtis, Tubman W. Sudler, William T.G. Polk (Som. Wills JP5:305). In her will, dated 13 May 1867, Eliza G. Smith named brother Morris H. Adams (executor), sister Leah Jane Anderson, nieces Adaline T. Adams, Margaret Elizabeth Ross, Olivia Costin, and nephew Robert Adams (Som. Wills SCL5:226-27).

L-30 ANNE ROUNDS, daughter of John and Priscilla (Gilliss) Rounds (L-8), b. Somerset Co., Md., probably at Manokin, 28 Nov. 1785; died near Pendleton, Ind. 18 Apr 1840; married (lic. Som. 19 Mar 1804, & date in Bible) ELIJAH BOSTON, son of Levin and Gertrude (Benston) Boston, b. Som. Co., probably near Rehobeth, 9 Mar. 1782 (bapt. Coventry, & date in Bible); d. Pendleton, 3 Sep 1846; both bur. Goe lot, Pendleton Cemetery.

In 1787 Elijah received land from his father, and his uncle Richard Boston in his will, dated 15 Feb 1800 (prob. 16 May 1809) devised to him all his lands (Som. Wills EB23:139). In 1811 his father sold him part of "Bostons Lott." Between 1818 and 1820 Elijah sold all his land except part of Rehobeth, all the land which he owned "on the north side of Morumsco Branch, where the said Elijah Boston lived before he moved to the place where he now lives" (Som. Deeds 46:219, 47:61, 48:342).

About 1821 or 1822 the family moved to Baltimore, joining Elijah's brother Jesse, but Elijah is said to have soon deserted his family. In May 1824 the Somerset Co. Sheriff attached Elijah's land, 132 acres of "Rehobeth," and sold it at auction to satisfy Boston's creditors. About 1831 Anne Boston, with her 4 young est children accompanied her brother-in-law Jesse Boston and his family to Madison Co., Ind., settling near Pendleton. Elijah eventually turned up and lived out his remaining years with his daughter Elizabeth Goe at Pendleton.

Elijah's Bible was most recently in possession of his great-great-granddaughter, Mrs. Lawrence Tinsley; a notarized copy is in the DAR Library, Washington, D.C. All but the youngest child were born at Rehobeth.

Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

1. John Richard Boston, 1/11/1805-6/18/1808.
2. Edmund Gilliss Boston, born 19 Mar 1807; in 1826 Samuel Milbourne of Som. Co. bequeathed to Edmund his blacksmith's tools.
3. Elizabeth Mary Boston, 3/6/1809-7/24/1810.
4. Ann Rounds Boston, born 18 Dec 1811; d. 10 July 1828, probably in Baltimore.
5. Elizabeth Rounds Boston, b. 23 Mar 1815; d. 8 Dec 1878; mar. Hezekiah M. Goe.
6. Hiram James Boston, b. 24 July 1817; d. 17 May 1846; said to have gone to Arkansas.

7. Louisa Gilliss Boston, b. 31 Oct 1819; d. 8 Dec 1884; mar. William V. McWilliams.
  8. Mary Boston, b. probably Baltimore, 3 Sep 1823; d. 11 Oct 1823.

L-31 LEVIN GILLISS, eldest son of Thomas Gilliss (L-9), born Wicomico, Somerset Co., Md. c1783; d. Som. Co. by 24 July 1815; married (c1806) Eleanor S. Morris, dau. of John Morris, who d. Apr. 1819/ May 1822. (Levin is Gilliss Family No. 525.) On 5 Sep 1810 John Morris in his will (prob. 12 Apr 1816) made a bequest to dau. Eleanor S. Gilliss $5 (Som. Wills EB23:240), which she did not receive until Apr 1819.

Levin's father bequeathed him (1800) all his lands in Somerset Co. and a slave, Steven. On 23 Apr. 1800 Thomas Cannon, executor of his father's estate, was appointed guardian of Levin. An acct. by Thomas Cannon of 27 June 1809 indicates a suit against Gillis in which judgment was awarded to the Gilliss estate. The estate of Levin Gilliss was appraised 24 July 1815, with an inventory 27 July and additional inventory 21 Mar 1817. On 24 May 1822 George D. and Levin Gilliss, [the sole surviving] representatives of John Morris's daughter Eleanor S. Gilliss, received a fourth of the Morris estate.

Children (born Wicomico, Somerset Co., Md.):

1. Thomas Gilliss, b. c1807; d. by 24 May 1822. In the will of his grandfather John Morris (1810) he was bequeathed negro boy Spencer.
2. George D. Gilliss, b. ?1809; d. by Aug 1836, when his brother Levin sold their father's land. On 29 Aug 1820 his uncle, Capt. Joseph Barkley, was appointed by the Orphans' Court guardian of George D. and Levin Gilliss, but resigned 22 Sep 1822; on 1 Oct Capt George A. Dashiell replaced him. In an acct. of 13 May 1832 there is indication that George was of age as of 1 Jan 1831. (Gilliss No. 556)

3. Levin Gilliss, (Jr.), b. c1811.

L-32 ELIZABETH ("BETSY") GILLISS, daughter of Thomas (L-9) and Nellie Gilliss, born Wicomico, Somerset Co., c1787; d. Som. Co. c1815; mar. (lic. Som. 12 Jan 1808) Capt. JOSEPH BARKLEY, b.1784; d. Salisbury, Md. 24 Dec 1854, buried Parsons Cem. there. He mar. 2nd (lic. Som. 17 Feb 1816) his late wife's sister, Mary ("Polly") Gilliss, b. Wicomico, late 1789/early 1790, presumably the unborn child mentioned in her father's will (3 Sep 1789); d. Som. Co. before 1825. He mar. 3rd (lic. Som. 5 May 1825) Sally Dixon Heath, who d. 1829. His wives Betsy and Polly were probably bur. on the old Gilliss plantation, "The End of Strife," then owned by Captain Barkley; on his gravestone is inscribed: "Remains of his family removed from the old home place near Princess Anne." (Betsy is Gilliss #527). On 23 June 1808 distribution of Thomas Gilliss's estate was made in equal thirds to his children, John, Betsy, & Mary Gilliss.

The compilers of The Gilliss Family appear to have had knowledge of only one child, Mary Anne, but there were evidently several others. In his will, dated 14 Aug 1854 (prob. 1 Jan 1855) Joseph Barkley, "agriculturist," made a bequest of land to son Joseph G., to daughters Eliza Anderson & Angelina White, to sons Alexandr P. and John Calvin Barkley; he also named daughters Mary Anne, Jane, Rachel Barkley, son William G. Barkley, and he named as executors Edward Long and W. T. G. Polk (Som. Wills JP5: 246-48). Census records show that his first two (Gilliss) wives could not have been mothers of Jane (born 1828/9), Angelina (b. 1829/30), Alexander P. (b. 1838/7/8), John Calvin (b. 1841-2). The 1820 census shows him with a girl born 1804/10, two boys and a girl b.1810/20. The Joseph Barkley, b. 1810, in Princess Anne in 1850 would appear to be a son. The following are the children by his two Gilliss wives. Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

1. Mary Anne Barkley, born c1809; d. Marcus Hook, Pa. while visiting a friend Dec 1872; mar. 1st (lic.Som. 26 Apr 1830) GEORGE KENNERLY, who d. soon thereafter; 2nd (Kansas City, Mo. 1840's) Dr. BENOIT TROOST; no children. Because of her 1st mar. she was estranged from her father. She met Dr. Troost when he set her broken leg suffered in a train wreck. She became a social leader in Kansas City. In 1869 she was bequeathed the estate of her uncle William Gilliss, but she finally received only two-thirds because the will was successfully contested. In the Jackson Co. (Mo.) 1860 census she was aged 43, b. Md., owning real estate valued at $100,000; with her were Orlando Barkley, 18, clerk, & Mary Barkley 10, both b. Md. In her will, dated 28 Nov 1871 (prob. 13 Jan 1872) she left her entire estate in trust to be used for public institutions in Kansas City. Though it was contested by the Barkley family in Md., in 1892 the Mo. Supreme Court found against the Barkleys.

2. Joseph G[illiss?] Barkley, b. c1810; married Anne--; both d. by ?1860. In 1850 he was head of HH1167 in Princess Anne, Md., farmer. In 1860 children Orlando & Mary were with their Aunt Mary in Missouri.

Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

- a. Orlando Barkley, b. 1840/41
  - b. Sarah Barkley, b. 1844/45
  - c. Mary E. Barkley, b. 1847/48
  3. Elizabeth Barkley, b. c1815/16; d. 1863; mar. (lic. Som. 30 Apr 1834) GILLIS M. ANDERSON, b. 1812/13. He was head of HH1934, Trappe, Md., in 1860, gone by 1870.
- Child: J. William Gillis Anderson, 1839-57
4. ?William G[illiss?] Barkley, b. ?c1818.

L-33 WILLIAM GILLISS, son of Thomas Gilliss (L-9), b. on his father's plantation in Wicomico Hundred, Somerset Co., Md. 1796/97; died Kansas City, Mo. 18 July 1869; bur. Union Cemetery, where his monument reports his age as 72. He was never married, but through a relationship with a slave in Illinois, Matilda (part mulatto, part Indian, part white), he was father of Antoine, ("Nat"), after whose birth Matilda was freed; through relationships with three other women he had 3 daughters, the mother of Nancy being Kahketogua, dau. of a Chief of the Piankeshaw Indians, to whom it was claimed Wm. was married. (William is No. 529 in The Gilliss Family; other information provided by Mrs. Minnie Turner Besendorf, who, with sister Mrs. Juanita Saunders Cockrum, supplied the family of Antoine Gillis and his descendants.)

Although he was born after his father made his will & is therefore not named in it, his birth was authenticated by statements of Comfort, a slave of his brother Levin, and of Levin's granddaughter Ellen Gilliss (Mrs. John Peyton - L-125), and further confirmed by William naming as his heir his niece, Mrs. Troost (L-32:1).

William ran away to sea 1810, and, landing at New Orleans, took a keelboat to Cincinnati, where he met General (future President) William Henry Harrison, enlisted (1811) under him in the Indian troubles and fought through the Tippecanoe campaign, later helped remove Indians from Ohio and Indiana to Missouri. He lived in Kaskaskia, Ill. c1815-c1827, began building trading posts, in 1819 was adopted into the Delaware Indian Tribe. From there he moved to White River, Mo., built a trading post, by 1833 with the Delaware Indians moved to Jackson Co., Mo., and consolidated his posts in the heart of future Kansas City, Mo.; he made his fortune through trade with the Indians.

He played a leading role in the founding and early development of Kansas City, Mo. Already a landowner in Jackson Co. in 1831 and 1832, he was one of 14 in Nov 1838 who bought the large farm on which Kansas City soon rose. It was officially organized 3 May 1847, incorporated 4 Feb 1850, with William Gilliss one of the trustees. In 1842 he built a fine aristocratic mansion there & became famous for parties; in 1846, as "gentleman," he was one of the largest taxpayers; in the 1850 census, without occupation, he was shown as born in Md. A street was named for him; he and his nephew-in-law Benoit Troost built the Gilliss House, for a time the principal hotel. In 1854 he assisted in founding the first newspaper; 1857 founded the Chamber of Commerce, & Board of Trade, & became a director of early rail-roads and banks. In 1857 he gave the land and was founder and vestryman of St. Luke's (later St. Mary's) Episcopal Church.

In his will he left all his fortune to his niece, Mrs. Benoit Troost, but litigation in 1891 and 1901 over the will revealed that he had supposedly married and had a daughter and grandsons, as well as two other daughters. Though one witness denied that Nancy was his daughter, in the resultant division of the estate, Mrs. Troost received two-thirds, Nancy's children the other third. In another case (Cause No. 19784, Jackson Co. Circuit Court, 1894-99), Antoine Gilliss, represented by his son John B. Gilliss, tried to claim William's land, but the case was dismissed since no marriage license could be found for his parents. One witness, Frank Morrison of Randolph Co., Ill., aged 66 (b. 1829), on 30 July 1895 deposed that he was a son of Matilda and half-brother of Nat (Antoine), stated that William always acknowledged

Nat as his son.

Children (first born in Illinois):

- L-71a 1. Antoine Gilliss; 23 July 1821-27 Apr 1905.
2. Sophia Gilliss, b. 1826,
3. Mary Gilliss, b. 1829.
4. Nancy Gilliss, b. 1832; mar. 1st Mr. Boyer; 2nd Mr. Charley. (Gilliss Family No. 558)

Children:

- a. Francis Boyer.
- b. James Charley.

L-34 JAMES W. DASHIELL, son of William and Mary (Fountain) Dashiell (L-11), b. Somerset Co., Md. 20 Sep 1771 (bapt. Stepney Parish); died Somerset Co. 15 Oct 1832 (Stepney Parish); married (c1792) Elinor ("Nelly") Ballard, dau. of William & Sarah (Maddux) Ballard, born c1775. William Ballard's will (27 Jan 1777) named dau. Elinor; Sarah Ballard's will (9 June 1815) named dau. Nelly Dashiell (Som. Wills EB1:43-44; EB23:232).

James Dashiell is listed in the 1820 Som. Co. census in District One between Geo. Benson & Ephraim Harris, 2 doors from Wm. Dashiell: 10 persons engaged in agriculture, 3 in commerce, 23 slaves. On 4 July 1804 James Dashiell had surveyed for him 495 acres of "Dashiell's Regulation," a resurvey of "Dashiell's Purchase" (patented 29 Apr 1742 to William Dashiell for 497 acres) and "Years Land" (granted 1 Aug 1673 to John Bounds for 150 acres) (Cert. of Survey #665; Patent IC No. B:262; Certificate IC No. B:455). "Dashiell's Purchase" had been resurveyed out of 300 acres "Meeches Hope," part of 150 acres of "Yearsland," & 12 acres "Rundsell," south side of Nanticoke River, and east side of Wetipquin Creek. (Information from Rebecca F. Miller; see Dashiell 625).

Children (born Wetipquin, Somerset Co., Md.):

2. Edward James Dashiell, b. 27 Dec 1804 (bapt. Stepney); d.s.p. ?1850/60; unmar. In 1850 he was a carpenter, living with brother Daniel.
3. Daniel James Dashiell, b. 16 Mar 1807 (bapt. Stepney); died Wetipquin, Wicomico Co., Md. 8/17 June 1868; unmar. He was a farmer in Tyaskin District, Som. Co., in 1850 head of HH981, in 1860 HH1021. In his will of 8 June 1868 he devised to nephew Edgar J. Dashiell 250 acres "Dashiell's Regulation," being the "northern part of the plantation whereon I now reside"; niece Elizabeth White wife of Asa, balance of lands; nephews Wesley A. Dashiell, Peter Dashiell, Wm. Francis Dashiell $200 each (Wic. Wills DFR:638-9; Wic. Co. Chancery TFRJ2:431 -29 Dec 1871 - Edgar J. Dashiell vs. Elizabeth White).

L-35 LEVIN IRVING FONTAINE, son of Thomas G. Fontaine (L-12), born Somerset Co., Md. c1780/81; died Som. Co. 1850/60; married 1st (lic. Worc. 27 Mar 1804) his distant cousin, Andasia Robins Spence, dau. of George and Andasia (Robins) Spence (J-31), b. Worc. Co., ?near Snow Hill, c1778; d. ?Worc. Co. by June 1818; 2nd (lic. Som. 24 Dec 1821) Mary Eleanor Mezick, born c1777; d. 1850/60.

On 12 Dec 1805 Levin & wife Andasia sold to Littleton Robins a negro girl and the lands left to Andasia by her father George Spence. On 5 Oct 1807 they sold to Zadock Purnell all Andasia's right to the lands of Col. Zadock Purnell, decd. [her mother's uncle] (Worc. Deeds X:526, Y:178, Z:122). In June 1818 Lemuel P. Spence was appointed guardian of Mary Spence Fontaine, and Thos R. P. Spence guardian of Thomas Littleton Fontaine, Leah Washington Fontaine, & Andasia Fontaine, children of Levin Fontaine (Worc. Orphans Ct. Proc. 1816/20:363). In 1850 Levin, 69, was a school teacher in Barren Creek District (HH544), Som. Co., with wife Eleanor. (Source for this family: Dryden Dryden 50; some dates from Spencer chart, Worc. Co. Hist. Soc., provided by William R. Bishop, Jr.). Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):

1. Thomas Littleton Fontaine, b. c1806/7.
- L-73 2. Leah Washington Dashiell Fontaine, b. 6 June 1809; d. 8 Sep 1860; mar. Justice M. Bratten.

He lived all his life in Somerset Co. near the spot where his immigrant Polk ancestor had settled. At his death he owned "Polk's Folly," the original 1687 patent from Lord Baltimore to Capt. Robt. Bruce Pollock in Dame's Quarter, between the Manokin & Nanticoke Rivers (Polk 49).

Col. William T. Polk appears in the census in Princess Anne 1850-70, in 1850 Clerk of the Court, head of HH1214; in 1860 a merchant, HH303; in 1870 a farmer, HH608, with him brother Littleton Polk, railroad agent. With him in 1860 was James Polk, b. 1834/35, clerk, who is not with him in 1850. In 1880 Mary H. Polk was head of HH94, Mt. Vernon.

In his will, dated 19 Jan 1871 (prob. 18 Dec 1875), Col. William T. G. Polk mentioned his share of assets of H.H. Dashiell & Co. (Hampden H. Dashiell & Purnell Toad-vine, enumerated his property): Forktown; a house in Quantico purchased 1866; a house in Upper Trappe; a small farm in Dame's Quarter called the Shores property purchased of John W. Crisfield trustee. He made bequests to grandsons, children of his deceased daughter Elizabeth; to John Lewis; William Dashiell; old Ephraim Nutter, "my former slave," and to sons John W. Polk and William T.G. Polk, farm on Wicomico Creek. His wife (no name) was appointed executor, and Mary H. Polk appeared for probate, 28 Dec 1875 (Som. Wills SCL5:350-53). The first four children are by the second marriage.

L-80 ISAAC WILLIAM KER HANDY, son of James H. (L-46) and Maria A.P. (Gilliss) Handy, b. Washington, D.C. 14 Dec 1815; died Philadelphia, Pa., at the home of his son Moses, 14 June 1878; buried Augustsa (Va.) Presby. Church Cem.; married 1st (at home of bride's parents, Queponco, near Newark, Worcester Co., Md. 29 Oct 1839 - lic. 28th) Mary Jane Rozelle Purnell, dau. of Moses & Maria (Bowen) Purnell, b. Queponco 20 Dec 1821; d. Warsaw, Benton Co., Mo. 29 Feb 1848; bur. Buckingham Presby. Cem., Berlin, Md.; 2nd (lic. Worc. 10 June 1850) Sarah ("Sally") Selby Martin, dau. of Dr. John S. & Rebecca (Neil) Martin of Snow Hill, Md., b. Worc. Co. 17 Apr 1819; d. 4 Oct 1853; bur. Makemie Presby. Church Cem., Snow Hill; mar. 3rd (Port Penn, Del. 5 Dec 1855) Rebecca Hill Dilworth, daughter of John & Eliza Frances (Gordon) Dilworth, b. 1826; d. 1913.

He earned B.A. 1836 Jefferson College, Canonsburg, Pa., attended Princeton Theological Seminary, was then licensed a Presby. minister, & was installed as pastor of Buckingham Presby. Church, Berlin, Md., Nov 1838, but also serving other churches in Md. & Del. Accepting an invitation to establish new churches in western Ky. & eastern Mo., in July 1844 he moved his family by means of covered wagon and Ohio River boat (eventually) to St. Charles, Mo.; he then founded a pastorate in Warsaw, Mo., & in June 1845 moved his family there, still continuing his missionary work.

After his wife's death, he returned to the Eastern Shore, had pastorates in Del. Accepting a position as general Missionary Agent for the Delmarva Peninsula, he bought a 200 acre farm at Newark, Md. in Mar 1854, but late in 1855 accepted a call and moved his family to Portsmouth, Va. (2nd Presby. Church), where he shortly did great public service in the yellow fever epidemic there. As a delegate to the Presby. Genl. Assembly in Cleveland 1857, in his outspoken defense of slavery he was a leader in creating a Southern bloc, which led to a split, and he was a founder of the Southern United Presby. Church, though he deplored the break-up of the Union. In 1859 Maryville College (Tenn.) honored him with D.D. degree.

During the Federal occupation of Portsmouth, he secured permission to take his family to his wife's family in Del., where, as result of a comment on the stars & stripes, he was arrested July 1863 and, without any hearing, was imprisoned at Ft. Delaware, where he ministered to the other prisoners, kept an extraordinary diary of prison life which was smuggled out to his wife, section by section. Through his wife's & family efforts, in Oct 1864 Pres. Lincoln personally authorized his release, and he and family went to Richmond.

He was pastor 1865-70 of the Presbyterian Church at Orange Court House, Va.; 1870-78 at Old Stone Church in Augusta Co., at Ft. Defiance, Va.

Rev. Handy was not only the author of many religious articles and several books, but he was the compiler of Annals and Memorials of the Handys and Their Kindred, which he had planned to publish in 1861, but the war intervened. Again he was preparing for its publication when he died. This account is only a meager abstract of the rich fullness of detail of his biography by his great-granddaughters on pages 522-533 of Handy Annals. His extensive diaries, voluminous correspondence, and other papers are now deposited in the Clements Library, University of Michigan.

M - THE WINDER FAMILY

According to the Winder Pedigree, John Winder (d. 1698), grandfather of William who married (1743) the Littleton descendant, was in Somerset Co. as early as 1665, when he was appointed a Justice of the Peace, and was commissioned an officer in the Colonial Militia (see Torrence 332). The family, residing in (then) Somerset Co., Md., near modern Salisbury, soon began to disperse. William's and Esther's eldest son John (M-2) married (1770) and settled in Northampton Co., Va.; his descendants all moved away from the Shore, to Louisiana (M-8), Williamsburg, Va. (M-29), Baltimore (M-35). The Lairds (M-38) were in Cambridge, Dorchester Co., Md., by the 1830's, but eventually settled in Wilmington, Del. The Handys (M-4) and Dashiells (M-14) early started moving away, to Kent Co., Md., Baltimore, Delaware, Tennessee, and elsewhere, though a few remained into the 20th century. Governor Winder's family (M-6) all moved away early. By 1900 practically the only Winder descendants left on the lower Eastern Shore were the King-Barnes (M-60) and Harcum (M-23) families.

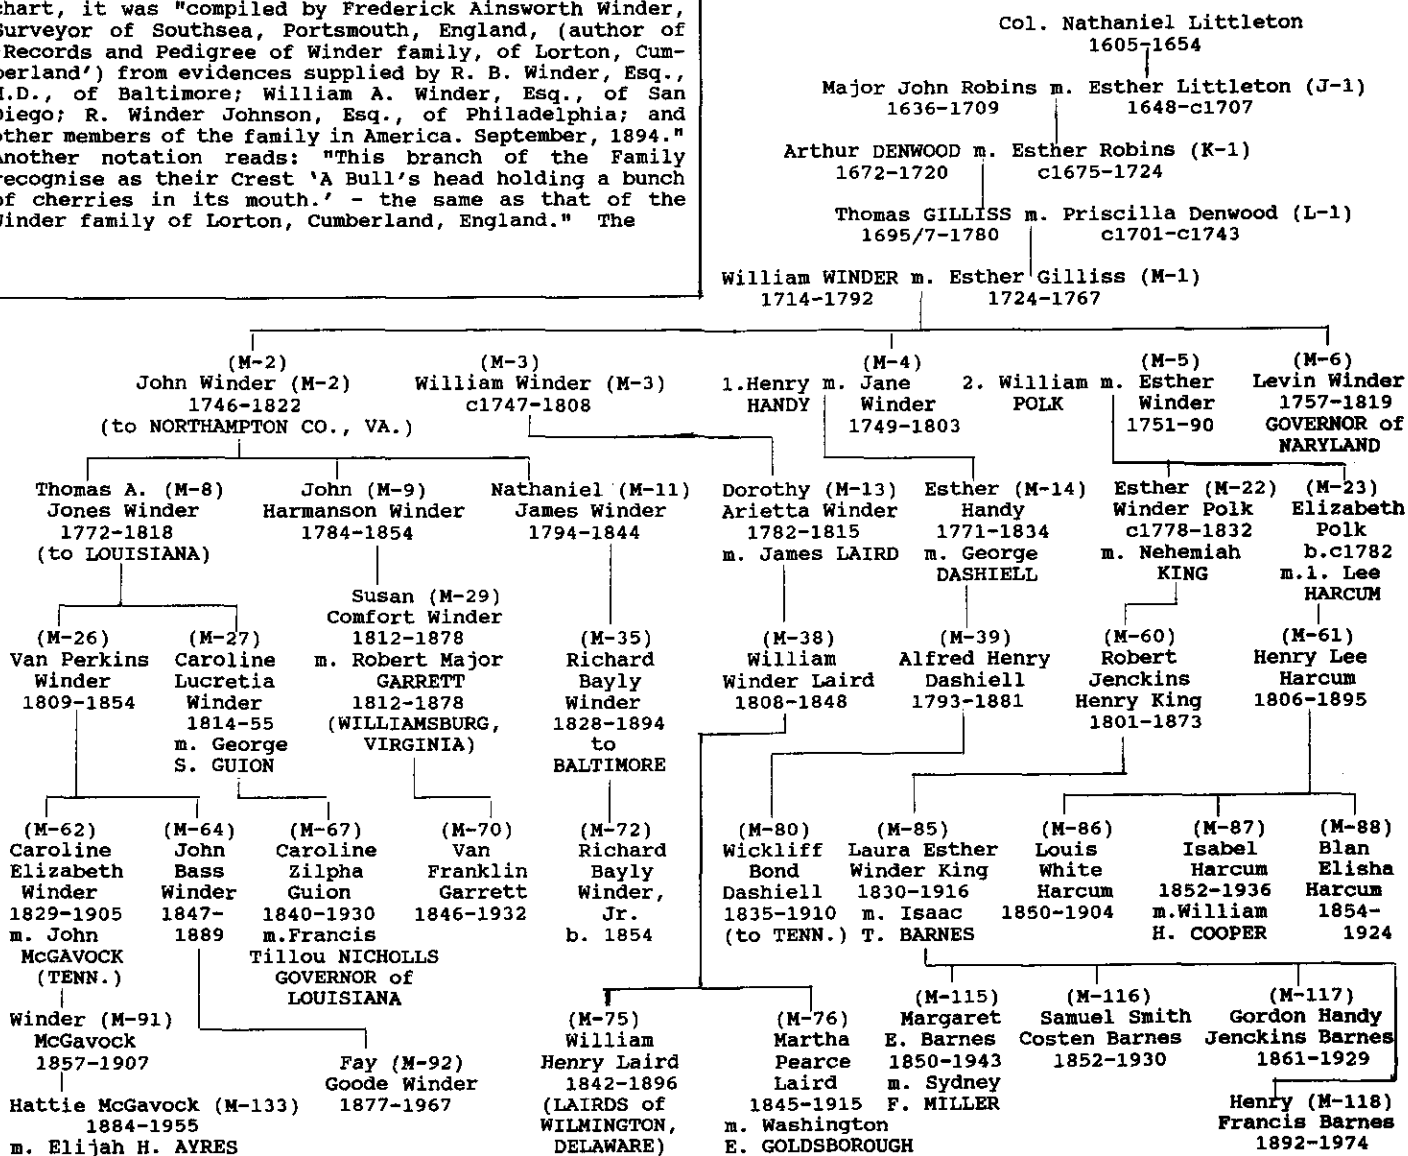

This account of the Winder family is based to a considerable extent upon a large and detailed 1894 chart, "Pedigree of the Winder Family, of Maryland, and other States in America," supplemented by public records, family records, Bible records, etc. The chart was given to the compiler by Robert L. Winder of West Waterford, Pa., into whose hands it had come accidentally; Mr. Winder, who pronounces his name Winder with a short i, is not a member of the Md. family, which pronounces the name with a long i. According to a printed notation on the chart, it was "compiled by Frederick Ainsworth Winder, Surveyor of Southsea, Portsmouth, England, (author of 'Records and Pedigree of Winder family, of Lorton, Cumberland') from evidences supplied by R. B. Winder, Esq., M.D., of Baltimore; William A. Winder, Esq., of San Diego; R. Winder Johnson, Esq., of Philadelphia; and other members of the family in America. September, 1894." Another notation reads: "This branch of the Family recognise as their Crest 'A Bull's head holding a bunch of cherries in its mouth.' - the same as that of the Winder family of Lorton, Cumberland, England." The original pedigree is now in the Research Center for Delmarva History and Culture, Salisbury State University, Salisbury, Md., though copies exist in the hands of many Winder descendants. The pedigree chart was revised and partially updated only for the male Winder lines by Richard Bayly Winder IV in (M-143) Aug 1979 (referred to as RBW).

A supplementary source for some details of the early family (referred to as Laird) is a 19-page pamphlet by Hon. Philip D. Laird (M-38), of which a copy is in the Enoch Pratt Library, Baltimore, entitled "Some Records of the Winder Family of Maryland, Written by Rider Henry Winder [see M-3], of Cambridge, Md. for Philip D. Laird (see M-38), in the year 1864 or 1865 (incomplete)" (see M-38), published in Bulletin No. 3 (May 1913), Md. Original Research Society of Baltimore. Another partial source was "Sir George Yeardley," by Thomas Teackle Upshur, a pamphlet reprinted from American Historical Magazine (Oct 1896), pp. 11-15.

The Laird family (beginning at M-13) is based partly on a detailed Laird Pedigree Chart prepared by Mary Belin Laird Downes (M-106), the source described as "Family Notes, Vols. V & VI," but even more extensively on an unpublished 30-page booklet, "Descendants of Rev. William Henry Laird I / 1842-1896 / and / Rosa Jones Packard Laird / 1845-1892," compiled by William Winder Laird Jr., Mary Alletta Laird Silvia, Peter Alfred Silvia, Clinton Swan Laird, & Rosa Laird Hayward McDonald (June 1989), both sources made available to the compiler by the kindness of Mrs. Mary Silvia.

For the Harcums (at M-23), the basic source has been Loula Allen Lentz, Our Heritage: A Genealogical History of the Allen Family, 1960 (see also B-36).

M-1 WILLIAM WINDER, youngest son of John Winder (1676-1716) and his wife, Jane Dashiell, b. Somerset Co., Md. 16 Mar 1714/15 (bapt. Stepney Parish); died near Princess Anne, Md. 24 Oct 1792; mar. 1st (22 Sep 1743) ESTHER GILLIS, daughter of Thomas Gillis and his wife, PRISCILLA DENWOOD (L-1), who was a great-granddaughter of COL. NATHANIEL LITTLETON (A-1), b. Som. Co. 6 Oct 1724 (bapt. Stepney); d. Som. Co. 9 Oct 1767. ESTHER GILLIS WINDER is No. 502 in The Gillis Family (see L). He mar. 2nd (2 Apr 1768) (Mrs.) Mary Denwood, widow, who d. Som. Co. by 11 Jan 1799.

William's grandfather, John Winder, in Sep 1683 had patented 700 acres, "Pembertons Goodwill," the site of modern Salisbury, part of which descended to William. On 8 Aug 1732, by an act of the Md. Assembly, commissioners were appointed - Thomas "Gillys," Isaac Handy, Ebenezer Handy, John Caldwell, and John Disharoon - to purchase 15 acres, "Pembertons Good Will," from William Winder, a minor then absent from the Province, in order to lay out a town to be called "Salisbury." William, then 17, may well have been away at college.

William appears to have been a sea captain, probably a merchant-planter, for on 9 Dec 1749 William Winder, John Handy, & William Venables were owners of a sloop, Polly, 38 tons, William Winder, master, registered to Handy (Md. Hist. Mag., Dec 1931, p. 344). On 18 Oct 1750 the 18 ton schooner Betty was registered to Winder, he & Benjamin & William Venables, owners.

William Winder saw military service in the American Revolution. On 22 Sep 1777 a commission was issued to him as 1st Lt., Salisbury Company, Salisbury Battalion, Som. Co. Militia (Md. Archives XVI:382).

"By industry, frugality and prudence" Winder "accumulated considerable [land]. Retaining his [inherited] portion of Winder's Manor (on the south side of Wicomico River...), he removed to Rewastico, [a plantation known as] "Bower Hill," where he had purchased mills & an extensive tract of land... He was... Chief Judge of Somerset County Court" [Court of Appeals] (Laird 7).

In his will, signed 15 Oct. 1792 (prob. 10 Nov 1792), Capt. William Winder devised to son John 350 A, the lower part of "Sandy Plains," near Princess Anne, bought of William Geddes. To son William (executor) he left lands between Rewastico and Quantico Creeks, and a warehouse and lot near the bridge in Salisbury. To son Levin he devised lands near Rewastico, & "Old Sams" at Quantico bought of John and William Dorman, John Anderson, William Rencher. To dau. Jane Kerr he left lands near the late Ebenezer Waller, "Maidenhead," after her death to her sons Peter Handy and William Handy (Som. Wills EB17:229-230).

Mary Winder, "relict of Capt. William Winder," in her will, dated 19 Feb. 1798, named sons Levin Denwood, daughter Mary Jones decd, grandchildren: Peregrine Leatherbury of John and Leah, Mary Ann Jones, Mary Ann Denwood Rigley Jones, Milcah Jones, Benjamin Jones of John and Mary Ann, son-in-law John Leatherbury executor with John Holland, Esq. (Som. Wills 17:701-703).

Children (all but second born Somerset Co., Md.):

- Q-4 1. Priscilla Winder, b. 13 July 1744; d. 5 Sep 1779; mar. her mother's first cousin, DAVID WILSON, 1737-1810. See Q-4.
- M-2 2. John Winder, b. Northampton Co., Va. 19 Jan 1745/46; d. 1 Dec 1822.
- M-3 3. William Winder, b. c1747; d. 7 June / 5 July 1808.
- M-4 4. Jane Winder, b. 21 Oct 1749; d. 29 Sep 1803; mar. 1st Henry Handy; 2nd Jacob Kerr.
- M-5 5. Esther Winder, born 9 Oct 1751; died 14 Dec 1790; mar. 1st Isaac Handy; 2nd Judge William Polk.
- 6. Thomas Winder, b. 25 Sep 1753; d. 9 Sep 1771 at sea; unmar.
- 7. Leah Winder, b. 21 Aug 1755; d. 17 Oct 1759.
- M-6 8. Levin Winder, b. 4 Sep 1757; d. 7 July 1819.
- 9. Samuel Winder, b. 3 Sep 1759; d. 9 Jan 1760.
- M-7 10. Leah Winder, b. 17 Apr 1761; d. [1822]; mar. James R. Morris.

M-2 JOHN WINDER, eldest son of William and Esther (Gillis) Winder (M-1), born Northampton Co., Va. 19 Jan 1745/46; died North. Co. 1 Dec 1822, buried "Yardley," North. Co.; mar. 1st (31 Jan 1770) his 2nd cousin, Betty (Betsy) Jones, daughter of Thomas and Ann (Wilson) Jones (Q-2), b. Somerset Co., Md., 24 Aug. 1752; d. Dec 1772; mar. 2nd (17 July 1783) his 3rd cousin Susannah Harmanson, daughter of George Harmanson (J-25), b. North. Co. 4 May 1755; d. North. Co. 18 June 1799; buried with her husband at "Yardley." A descendant of Sir George Yeardley, one of the first colonial governors of Virginia, Susannah inherited part of the tract "Hungar's" (granted to Yeardley 1618), which came came to be known as "Yeardley's" or "Yardley." Late in 1783 John & Susannah deeded the 600 acre plantation to John Martin, who immediately deeded it back to Winder alone (Whitelaw 301; see also Upshur pp. 11ff).

John Winder was a physician who served in the American Revolution. In his will, dated 28 Nov 1822 (probated North Co. 9 Dec 1822, but also in Somerset Co., Md.), John Winder "of Northampton Co.," devised to son Levin Y. Winder the "land where I now live," i.e. the east part of "Yardley," and to son John H. the remainder for life, then to granddaughters Lauretta, Charlotte, Susan, and Rosina Winder; to daughter Mary H. Winder $600, the residue of the estate to Mary & to sons George H., Samuel, & Nathaniel. Executor was to be Nathaniel J. Winder. Witnesses were Harriott B. Parker, Leah Bowdoin, Jacob G. Parker, John Eyre, the last two his cousins (Som. Wills JP4:57-58 & North Wills 36:89).

Names and dates are from the 1894 Winder Pedigree and from the account of this line in Handy's Wilson Family, in which reference is made to "Winder Chart" by Miss Mary Winder Garret, Williamsburg, Va., in 1897. Two eldest children, by the first marriage, were born presumably in Somerset Co., Md., the others, by second marriage, presumably at "Yardley."

Children (six youngest born Northampton Co., Va.):

- 1. William Winder, b. 10 June 1771; d. 8 Oct 1796; unmar. Physician.
- M-8 2. Thomas Jones Winder, b. 16 Dec 1772; d. 19 Dec 1818.
- M-9 3. John Harmanson Winder, b. 2 June 1784; d. 1 Dec 1854.

M-3 WILLIAM WINDER, son of William and Esther (Gillis) Winder (M-1), b. Somerset Co., Md. c1747; d. probably Rewastico, Som. Co. 7 June/ 5 July 1808; mar. [c1772] Charlotte Henry, dau. of Col. John and Dorothy (Rider) Henry, and brother of Gov. John Henry of Md. (Laird 6). Though their son Rider Winder wrote that he had made a copy of the Bible record, he broke off his account before reaching his own family.

On 7 Jan 1778 William Winder, Jr., was appointed to purchase cattle in Som. Co. for the Continental Army (Md. Archives XVI:46). On 2 Mar 1778 he reportedly administered the Oath of Allegiance to his father-in-law, Thomas Gilliss, Sr., & to his brother-in-law, Joseph Gilliss. On 20 Apr 1778 William Winder, Jr., was commissioned Captain in Salisbury Company of the Som. Co. Militia (Md. Archives XXI:42). In Dec 1781 Winder, with Gilliss Polk, Geo. Waters, Joseph Venables, W. Gilliss, Thos. Irving, John Denwood, William Waters of Wm., John Evans of Nichiolas, Josiah Polk, George Handy et al. appealed to the Council of Safety to have an armed boat built to protect the waters of Somerset Co. (Md. Archives XLVII:140).

In his will, dated 7 June 1808, William Winder named son Rider Henry Winder, daughters Arietta Laird & Charlotte Henry Winder, devised to daughters & their children the tract "Joseph's Privilege" that "I have contracted with Henry Crawford." To son William Henry Winder he bequeathed mills at Salisbury, plus all his land, incl. land near the bridge at Salisbury, "Mill-security," also "Sandy Plains," "Mill Grove," "Romney," and marsh on Sanchose Island, part of "Pember tons Good Will," "Saw Mill Lott," "Winders Choice," part of "Dormans Addition," mentioned suit instituted by Wm. McBryde against father's heirs. He named son-in-law James Laird executor. Witnesses: Hugh Henry, William Polk, Levin Winder (Som. Wills EB23:126-27).

Children (born Rewastico, Somerset Co., Md.):

- 1. John Winder, b. [c1773]; [dsp before 1808]; Navy Dept. accountant Aug 1798 - end of 1799.
- M-12 2. William Henry Winder, b. 18 Feb 1775; d. 24 May 1824.

- 7. Charlotte A. Henry Winder, b. c1784; d. 18 Feb 1860; mar. (lic. Som. 13 June 1809) HENRY R. GRAHAM. Rider Winder reported: "My sister Charlotte took our Family Bible to the West. Before she left, I made an accurate copy of our Family Record in it" (Laird 6).

8. Rider Henry Winder, b. 9 May 1787; d. ?Cambridge, Md. 29 Apr 1866; unmar. "He was well educated [Princeton 1806], studied law, and gave evidence of fine abilities, and was for a time in the employ of the [U.S. govt.] But his extreme bashfulness kept him in the background" (Laird 5). He worked in the Som. Co. Court and Register of Wills offices 1835-40. He was author of the Memoir, written after 27 Jan 1864 (he knew of the death of his cousin William Henry Winder on that date).
9. Esther Winder, b. [c1789]; [?dsp by 1808].

M-4 JANE WINDER, daughter of William and Esther (Gillis) Winder (M-1), born Somerset Co., Md. 21 Oct 1749; d. probably Princess Anne, Som. Co. 29 Sep 1803; mar. 1st (24 Oct 1771) HENRY ("HARRY") HANDY, son of Col. Isaac and Ann (Dashiell) Handy, born "Pemberton," near Salisbury, Som. Co., 7 Mar 1747; d. & bur. "Pemberton" 26 Mar 1787. She mar. 2nd (Nov 1791) Rev. JACOB KER, who d. Somerset Co. by 13 Aug 1795. He was Pastor of the Manokin Presby. Church, Princess Anne.

Harry Handy inherited from his father the family plantation "Pemberton," where he was a planter (Handy Annals 59-60, which provides information on both the parents and children, who are all also listed in the Winder pedigree).

Rev. Ker in his will, signed 7 Feb 1795 (prob. 13 Aug 1795), bequeathed to wife Jane the estate she had "at our marriage and what fell to me by the will of her father"; to only son Samuel (executor), the plantation on Manokin River "where I formerly lived." He also named son-in-law (step-son) Thomas Winder Handy (under 21), daughters Betty Handy, wife of William, and Peggy, wife of the Rev. John Collins (Som. Wills EB17:410-14). d

Jane Ker in her will, dated 7 Sept 1803 (prob. 5 Oct 1803), made bequests to Capt. Gemmill's three daughters, left bonds of her deceased son Henry to "my children" Esther Dashiell, Thomas Handy, George D.S. Handy, William Handy, granddaughter Matilda Handy, & Nancy Handy widow of son Henry. She named as executors William Winder, Thomas Handy (Som. Wills B23:77).

Children (born "Pemberton," Somerset Co., Md.):

- M-14 1. Esther Handy, b. 14 Oct 1771; d. 30 Aug 1834; mar. George Dashiell.
- M-15 2. Anne Handy, b. 21 June 1773; d. 2 Dec 1802; mar. Hugh Gemmill.
3. Henry Handy, b. 16 Feb 1775; d. "Pemberton" 14 Sep 1803; married (lic. Som. 28 Jan 1797) Nancy Campbell of Cambridge, Md.; no children.
- M-16 4. Thomas Winder Handy, born 17 Mar 1777; d. 27 June 1851.
- M-17 5. George Day Scott Handy, b. 28 Oct 1779; d. 21 Dec 1849.
6. Peter Handy, b. 20 Oct 1781; d. 17 Sep 1802, lost at sea.
7. Hugh Henry Handy, b. 11/8/1783; d. in infancy.
- M-18 8. William Winder Handy, born 12 Jan 1785; d. 27 Jan 1864.

M-5 ESTHER WINDER, daughter of William (M-1) and Esther (Gillis) Winder, born Somerset Co., Md., 9 Oct 1751; d. 14 Dec 1790; married 1st (?1767) ISAAC HANDY, son of Col. Isaac & Anne (Dashiell) Handy, born "Pemberton," Som. Co. 19 Dec 1743; died near Princess Anne, Md. 14 July 1772. Her sister Jane mar. Isaac's youngest brother Henry Handy. Esther married 2nd (11 Feb 1775) Judge WILLIAM POLK, born c1740; d. Som. Co. by 21 Jan 1806.

Isaac Handy is the first known Handy in America to have earned a college degree, Princeton, A.B. 1762. An attorney in Princess Anne, he was elected to the Md. Assembly 1771, served only a term. (Handy Annals 17, 57-58; copy of Isaac Handy Bible in Worc. Co. Historical Society, Snow Hill, Md.)

William Polk was a farmer and lawyer, for many years until his death Chief Justice of the Judicial District comprising the Md. counties of Somerset, Worcester, Dorchester, Caroline (Laird 15). Children listed in the Winder Pedigree for him & Esther are: Betsey, Esther, Gertrude, Josiah, William, Charlotte.

In his will, dated 10 Aug 1802 (prob. 21 Jan 1806) William Polk named sons John (tracts "Allens Vale," "Addition to Ilchester," "Double Purchase"), Josiah (lands on Wicomico Creek), Samuel ("Conclusion" and remainder of "Double Purchase"), daughters Elizabeth Harcum, Nancy Polk, grandchildren Rebecca, Charlotte, Harriett, Clarissa Polk, Peggy Wilson Polk, Thomas Theodore Polk (lands in Sussex Co., Del.), mentioned deceased son James. Witnesses were Thomas Pollitt, John Cottman Stewart, Levin Pollitt (Som. Wills EB23:98).

Sons John & Samuel must have been by an earlier marriage; though not in Winder chart, Nancy would appear to be Esther's because of marriage date; he failed to name daughters Esther, Gertrude, Charlotte, who appear in the Winder Pedigree. Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

- M-19 1. Margaret Winder Handy, b. 30 Sep 1768; d. 13 Mar 1831; mar. John W. Rownd.
- M-20 2. Richard Henry Handy, born 11 Aug 1771; d. 30 June 1826.
- M-21 3. William Polk, b. c1776; d. by 14 Dec 1812.
- M-22 4. Esther Winder Polk, born c1778; d. 1832; mar. 1st Nehemiah King; 2nd Charles H. Winder; 3rd Alexander Stewart.
5. Josiah Polk, b. c1780; d. ?1815; mar. Rebecca Troup of Queen Anne's Co., Md. A lawyer, he was for several years [until 1815] Clerk of Som. Co. Court (Laird 16). Children:
- a. Mary Polk; mar. Dr. CARR of S.C.
- b. Doctor --- Polk of Harford Co., Md.
- c. One or two others.
- M-12 6. Gertrude Polk, b. c1781; married (7 May 1799) her first cousin, William Henry Winder, 1775-1824. See M-12.
- M-23 7. Elizabeth Polk, b. c1782; mar. Lee P. Harcum.
8. ?Nancy Polk, b. 1784; married (lic. Som. 22 Feb 1803) JOHN HARCUM.
9. Charlotte C. Polk, b. c1790; d. ?by 1827; mar. (lic. Worc. 30 May 1816) W. E. BRITTINGHAM

M-6 LEVIN WINDER, son of William and Esther (Gillis) Winder (M-1), b. Somerset Co., Md. 4 Sep 1757; d. Baltimore, Md. 1 or 7 July 1819; reportedly buried in Somerset Co.; mar. [c1795] Mary Stoughton Sloss, dau. of Thomas & Mary Sloss, who d. 7 / 13 May 1822. A law student on the outbreak of the American Revolution, he was commissioned 1st Lt. in the Continental Army, 1776, and Capt. of 4th Md. Regiment, commissioned Major 1777, advanced to Lt. Col. 1783, retired 1783 (Md. Archives XVIII:13, 172, 364, 380, 476, 478, 522). Later (1798-1800) he was Accountant for the Navy (?Dept.).

He became a farmer in Som. Co., served for a time as Assoc Judge of Som. Co.; became Brig. General of the Md. Militia; as a Federalist he was elected to the Maryland House of Delegates 1806-09, served as Speaker of the House 1809, in Nov 1812 was elected 16th Governor of Maryland, re-elected 1813, 1814 (term ending 1815), and in 1816 was elected to the Md. Senate (Who Was Who in America, 1963, p. 589; Laird 16). He was Governor at the time (24 Aug 1814) of the battle of Bladensburg (in Prince Geo. Co., Md., close to Washington), when his nephew, General William Henry Winder (M-12), in command of the American force confronted by a British force, ordered his troops to retreat, permitting the British to march into Washington and burn the capitol and other public buildings; & at the time of the subsequent British bombardment of Fort Mchenry in Baltimore Harbor, 13-14 Sep 1814, when "The Star-Spangled Banner" was written by Francis Scott Key, whose grandson married Governor Winder's grand-niece (M-36).

At the end of Gov. Winder's life, wrote nephew Rider Winder, "I went for him in a steamer chartered [to take him to Baltimore for treatment of a liver ailment, of which he died] - the first steamer [to enter] the waters of Somerset." Levin Winder's portrait has been printed in Paul B. Touart, Along the Seaboard Side: The Architectural History of Worcester County, Md., 1994, p. 61.)

He made his will in Baltimore Co. 1 July 1819, naming wife Mary, three children Edward, Sidney, and Mary Ann. Witnesses were Geo. Winchester, John B. Davidge, Wm. W. Handy, John B. Morris [nephew]. Administration was filed in Balt. Co., probated Som. Co. 3 Aug 1819 (Som. Wills JP4: 61). His widow Mary S. Winder in her will, dated 7 May 1822, left to son Edward S. Winder land on Rewastico Creek which his father had possessed; to son William S. Winder land devised to her by her late husband "General" Levin Winder on Monie Creek; to dau. Mary Anne S. Winder, lands on Monie Creek purchased by Levin from Littleton D. Teackle that formerly belonged to "sister" Ann S. Grant, & she named sister[-in-law] Mrs. Leah Morris (Som. Wills JP4: 40-41). The children are named in Laird 17-19.

Children (?Somerset Co., Md.):

1. Mary Anna Stoughton Winder, b. [c1796]; d. in childhood.
- M-24 2. Edward Stoughton Winder, [c1798]-7 Mar 1840.
- M-25 3. William Sydney Winder, b. 1804; d. 1840.
4. Mariana Winder, b. [c1806]; married THOMAS EMORY, of Queen Ann's Co., Md., eldest son of "the late" General Thomas Emory, farmer; had one child, a son (Laird 19).

M-7 LEAH WINDER, daughter of William and Esther (Gillis) Winder (M-1), born Somerset Co., Md. 17 Apr 1761; living 1798; d. [1822]; mar. [c1782] JAMES ROWND MORRIS, b. [c1755]; d. probably Snow Hill, Worc. Co. 12 Mar / 5 Apr 1795. According to the Laird document, which ends with Leah's son William, James Morris was for a number of years, and at the time of his death, Clerk of Worcester County Court. In 1787 James purchased part of lot #71, #74, #75, #76, #77 in Snow Hill Town, which he and Leah sold in 1792; in Feb. 1795 they sold lot #51 (Dryden Worc. Land 595, 596, 593). James and Leah built "Chanceford" in Snow Hill c1792-93.

In his will, dated 12 Mar 1795, James named wife Leah, devised to children William Winder Morris & John Boucher Morris lands obtained in the conveyance of a re-survey of "Hungary Quarter" conveyed to Joshua Pollitt. Executors were to be wife Leah, Col. Levin Winder, and brother William Morris. Witnesses: Sarah Ayres, Polly Wilson, John Jones (Worc. Wills JW18:197-98). In 1798 the executors sold James's part of "Mardike," which James had bought in 1787, & part of "Mulberry Grove" & "Rochester," which he had bought in 1788, and lot #90 in Snow Hill, which he had bought 1792 (Dryden Worc. Land 386-7, 419, 528). A handwritten note on the Winder Pedigree observes that descendants were living in Baltimore in the 1890's.

Children (born ?Snow Hill, Worcester Co., Md.):

1. William Winder Morris, b. c1783/84. He was a physician, who went to Dover, Del. (Laird 19). On 1 June 1819 he witnessed the will of his uncle, Gov. Levin Winder, in Baltimore. In the 1820 census he is listed in Dover, Kent Co., Del., and was still there, aged 66, in 1850.
2. John Boucher Morris, b. c1785/86; d. Baltimore ?c1877 (at an advanced age). Attended Washington Academy, Princess Anne, Md.
3. ?Nancy Morris, b. ?1795; mar. WINTER DAVIS

M-8 THOMAS JONES WINDER, son of Dr. John (M-2) and Betty (Jones) Winder, b. Somerset Co., Md. (Md. on his gravestone) 16 Dec 1772; d. Concordia, La. 19 Dec 1818; mar. (lic. Worc. Co., Md. 29 Sep - marriage 1 Oct 1802) Harriet Handy, daughter of Col. Levin and Jane (Geddes) Handy of "Upper Ferry," on the Wicomico River, Somerset Co., Md., b. Som. Co. 18 Sep 1786; d. Concordia 20 Sep 1820 (gravestone); both buried Old Natchez (Miss.) Cem. She mar. 2nd (c1819) Dr. John Davidson Smith, planter, of Concordia Parish.

Judge Done said that Thomas was "energetically lazy," passionately fond of playing cards (Laird 8). He was a physician; as a Navy surgeon he served aboard USS Augusta Sep 1799-Dec 1800. At first in practice with his brother in Northampton Co., Va., he soon returned to Som. Co. to "Upper Ferry," which his wife had inherited, but removed 1810/1813 & settled in Louisiana, at Concordia, opposite Natchez, Miss.

Dr. Winder's estate, incl. 24 slaves, was appraised at $15,894. On 24 Oct 1820 Dr. Smith petitioned for guardianship of the 3 orphans, Elizabeth, V. Perkins, and Caroline; on 5 Apr 1822 Elizabeth was no longer alive. (Sources: Winder Pedigree; Handy Wilson 10-11; Handy Annals 226-27, 454-57, which varies slightly in some details from the others; and records of Mrs. Billy Wallis.)

Children (third born Somerset Co., Md.):

1. Elizabeth Jones Winder, born 14 Apr 1807; d. probably Concordia Parish 24 Oct 1820 / 5 Apr 1822;
2. John W. Winder, b. 28 Apr 1808; d. 29 Aug 1809 (1808 Handy Annals).
- M-26 3. Van Perkins Winder, b. 3 June 1809; d. 8 Dec 1854.
4. Lucretia Winder, born 18 Aug 1810; d. 14 Sep [1820/36].
5. John W. Winder, 26 Aug 1812 - 14 Sep 1812.
- M-27 6. Caroline Lucretia Winder, b. Concordia Parish, La. 22 Feb 1814; d. 24 Dec 1855; mar. Judge George S. Guion.
7. John W. Winder, b. 24 Dec 1816; d. 29 July 1817.

M-9 JOHN HARMANSON WINDER, son of Dr. John (M-2) and Susannah (Harmanson) Winder, b. probably Yardley, Northampton Co., Va. 2 June 1784; died Northampton Co., Va., probably at Yardley, of typhoid fever, 1 Dec 1853 (death reported by John E. Winder; record in courthouse at Eastville); married 1st (lic. Worc. Co., Md. 19 May 1807) Comfort Quinton Gore of Md., dau. of Thomas T. Gore, of Worc. Co., Md., d. c1815/16; 2nd (North. Co. bond 8 Nov 1816) Sally Christian Snead, b. 24 Feb 1784; d. North. Co. 29 Aug 1845; bur. Christ Church.

In 1817 John bought from the widow of Littleton Kendall land on the east side of Foster's Creek near Eastville, originally owned by William Whittington (B-1). Comfort Gore inherited from her father (who d. 26 Aug / 1 Sep 1797) Mattapony Neck, or Winder's Neck, in Accomack Co.; in 1886 a survey showed that Wm. J. S. Clarke of Pocomoke City owned Winder's Neck, 1238 A., including Great Neck & Little Neck (Whitelaw 1371).

In his will, signed 1 Feb 1840 (prob. 11 Dec 1854) John gave to wife Sally C. Winder his whole estate, including the house & lot "where I live" called Pembroke, also known as Ferry House [at Eastville], purchased from Mrs. Leah Bowdoin [in 1833]; also his interest in land on Chincoteague Island, Acco. Co.; and 13 named negroes. There being no witnesses, Jacob Nottingham & Daniel Fitchett swore to his handwriting; executor Nathaniel J. Winder having died, Leonard B. Nottingham became executor (North. Wills 40:66). Winder heirs sold "Ferry House," 1855 (Whitelaw 324-25, 295). First three daughters were by first marriage. Rider Winder in his "Memoir" mentions only these three eldest daughters.

Children (born Northampton Co., Va.):

- F-6 1. Lauretta Anne Winder, b. 15 Mar 1808; d. 27 Feb 1879; mar. (2 Apr 1851) as his 2nd wife, her 4th cousin, THOMAS L. SAVAGE, 1798-1855; no children. See F-6.
- M-28 2. Charlotte Louise Winder, b. 28 Feb 1810; d. 25 Nov 1871; mar. William P. Nottingham.
- M-29 3. Susan Comfort Winder, b. 12 May 1812; d. 14 May 1878; mar. Robert M. Garrett.
4. Rose (Rosina) C. Winder, b. 16 Nov 1819; d. Thibodaux, La. 2 Jan 1860; mar. (c1856) as his 2nd wife Judge GEORGE S. GUION, widowed husband of her cousin, Caroline (M-8); no children. In her will, dated 13 Jan 1855, before her marriage (prob. 13 Aug. 1860) she left all to brother John E. Winder (North. Wills 39:70).
5. John Edward Winder, b. 20 Nov 1823; d. North. Co. 30 Oct 1897; bur. Christ Church; unmar. In 1850 he was a clerk in a store, living with cousin Richard B. Winder (M-35); in 1880 a merchant in Eastville. In his will (23 Sep 1897; 8 Nov 1897) he made bequests to nephew John Winder Garrett, son of Robinson Garrett of Nashville; to Mary Collins, wife of Wm. A. Collins, 61 acres, then to her children; to Frances Kerr a 42-acre tract; to Mary Winder Garrett, Charlotte Garrett, Susan Garrett, Van Winder Garrett, & Robinson Garrett, children of sister Susan Garrett, late of Williamsburg; Otto F. Mears, executor (North. Wills 40:3). (Mary Collins & Frances Kerr were Afro-Americans.)

M-10 GEORGE HARMANSON WINDER, son of Dr. John (M-2) and Susannah (Harmanson) Winder, born probably at "Yardley," Northampton Co., Va. 9 Feb 1789; d. [?Accomack Co., Va.] 18 Dec 1823; married (c1810) (Mrs.) Mary (Hudkins) Haller, a widow, from the Western Shore of Va. He was a physician in North. or Accomack Co. (See also Upshur 13)

M-11 NATHANIEL JAMES WINDER, son of Dr. John (M-2) and Susannah (Harmanson) Winder, b. probably Northampton Co., Va. 16 Dec 1794; died ?Eastville, North. Co. 2 Aug 1844; buried Christ Church, Eastville; married 1st (North. bond 21 Nov 1821) his fourth cousin, Margaret S. Bowdoin, dau. of Peter (J-60) & Leah (Teackle) Bowdoin, b. North. Co. 6 June 1802; d. ?Eastville 28 Jan 1826 (aged 19/7/23); bur. Hungar's Farm; 2nd (North. bond 18 Oct 1826) another fourth cousin, Sarah Upshur Bayly, dau. of Richard D. (J-73) and Sarah D. (Upshur) Bayly, born Accomack Co., Va. 24 Nov 1808; d. North Co. 25 June 1869; bur. with husband. Nathaniel was a "barrister." From 1821 to 1844 (Whitelaw 255) he was County Clerk of both "Superior and Inferior Courts of North. Co." (Upshur 12). In 1822 he bought "Coventon," a house in Eastville, which his widow and heirs sold in 1866 (Whitelaw 255, 261-61). Younger son William is not in the Winder Pedigree, nor in Upshur.

Sarah U. Winder in 1850 was head of HH271 in North. Co., in 1860 head of HH249; in both years her husband's aunt, Mary H. Winder, was with her, in 1850 also her daughter Mary and son William. In her will, signed 15 May 1867 (prob. 12 July 1869) Sarah made bequests to son Richard Bayly Winder, to be executor with son-in-law Dr. George Kerr, also left property in trust with Charles Howard, Sr. for "my daughter" Mary C. Howard, his wife (North. Wills 39:126). (Other sources, besides Winder Pedigree: R.B. Winder updated chart; Upshur 15; and esp. Bayly-Winder Bible, BRec. 7:158-9)

- M-36 3. Mary Catherine Winder, b. Eastville 16 July 1833; d. 16 Feb 1917; mar. Charles Howard.
4. William Nathaniel James Winder, born 10 Mar 1836; d. North. Co. 30 Apr 1861; bur. Christ Church; unmar. He was a physician. In his will, dated 11 Dec 1860 (prob. 13 May 1861) W.J.N. Winder left everything to his brother Richard B. Winder (North. Wills 39:75).

M-12 WILLIAM HENRY WINDER, son William (M-3) and Charlotte (Henry) Winder, b. Rewastico, Somerset Co., Md. 18 Feb 1775; d. Baltimore, Md. 24 May 1824; mar. (lic. Som. 7 May 1799 - mar. Stepney Church 9 May) his first cousin, Gertrude Polk, daughter of Judge William and Esther (Winder) Polk (M-5), b. Som. Co. c1781.

Educated at Washington Academy, Princess Anne, Md., and Univ. of Penn., he read law first with his uncle, John Henry, then in the Annapolis office of Gabriel Duval, who was later a U.S. Supreme Court Justice. He became a member of the Bar of the U.S. Supreme Court. (Winder Pedigree, which refers to "Chronicles of Baltimore" for an account of his "honorable" life.)

In 1812 he was appointed Lt. Col. of 14th Infantry, U.S. Army, shortly promoted to Col., served on Canadian border 1812. During his uncle's governorship he was commissioned Brig. Genl. 1813, was captured in battle of Stony Creek, Ontario, Canada, released on parole by way of Detroit. He was in command at the battle of Bladensburg (Md.), 24 Aug 1814, when the outnumbered British defeated the American forces; General Winder ordered the retreat, thus abandoning Washington to the enemy, and the British marched into the city, burned the capital and other public buildings. For ordering the retreat Winder was court martialed, but honorably acquitted. He was discharged from the Army 1815 (Who Was Who in America, 1963, p. 589; & Winder Pedigree, which duplicates several names of children, does not include John Henry, but includes their father among the children. R.B. Winder Chart, Note 5: "F.A. Winder [in Winder Pedigree] confuses son Wm. Henry Winder with his namesake father re details of life.")

Children (born ?Rewastico, Somerset Co., Md.):

M-35 RICHARD BAYLY WINDER, son of Nathaniel J. (M-11) and Sarah U. (Bayly) Winder, born Northampton Co., Va. 19 July 1828; d. Baltimore, Md. 18 July 1894 (dates from Winder Pedigree); mar. 1st (North. bond 2 Feb 1849 - mar. 13th) Elizabeth L. Custis, dau. of William Robinson ("Col. Bob") Custis (Whitelaw 888), born Accomack Co. 1830/31; d. 1850/51; 2nd (lic. Worc. 26 Sep 1851) his late wife's sister, Sarah (Sallie) M. Custis, b. 1835; d. ?Baltimore; 3rd Kate Dorsey of Maryland. In 1850 he purchased 275 acres in North. Co., which he sold in 1854 to Edward L. Willis, the section since known as Willis Wharf (Whitelaw 482). Richard was a farmer, in 1850 in North. Co., head of HH586, land valued at $9000. With him were John L. Custis, born 1836/7; William Garrett, b. 1831/2; and John E. Winder, b. 1824/25, clerk in store, his first cousin (M-9).

Probably in 1854 Richard moved to Acco. Co., where in 1860 he was at Pungoteague, head of HH1184; with him was Edward Long, farm manager. His wife Sallie had inherited from her brother "Port of Folly Landing" and "The Folly," near Accomack C.H. In 1898 R. B. Winder, Jr., with wife Catharine S., and Harry A. Miller with wife Mary Winder Miller, sold the tract (503 A.) & house (Whitelaw 888).

During the Civil War Richard served as a Major in the Confederate Army. At end of the war he was imprisoned in a Federal prison, corresponded with Secretary Stanton & Gen. Grant, seeking release. Afterwards in Baltimore he was a physician, M.D., D.D.S., one of the founders and Dean of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery. (Children, all by second marriage, from chart prepared by Richard B. Winder IV.)

N - THE FASSITT FAMILY

The name of the family in the records is spelled variously Fawcett, Fawsett, Faucitt, Fossett, most commonly Fassitt in the 18th and 19th centuries, but the representatives of the family at present residing in Worcester Co., Md., spell it Fassett; however, the name has died out among Littleton descendants.

The earliest known ancestor of the John Fassitt who wed a great-granddaughter of Col. Nathaniel Littleton was another John Fassitt (d. 1673), who in 1665 was Sheriff in Accomack Co., Va. His widow Rhoda with her children moved north into Somerset (now Worcester Co.), Md. before 1680. Her younger son, Capt. William Fassitt (c1665-1735), a merchant, resided on Sinepuxent Neck in the northeast corner of Worcester Co., near the Delaware line, acquired "Fishing Harbor," on present-day Fenwick Island. Men of the family were principally mariners, merchants, planters. Capt. William's sons John (N-1) and Rouse (N-2) married Robins sisters. (See Batchelder 109-111). It has not been feasible to trace descendants of Rouse Fassitt to the present.

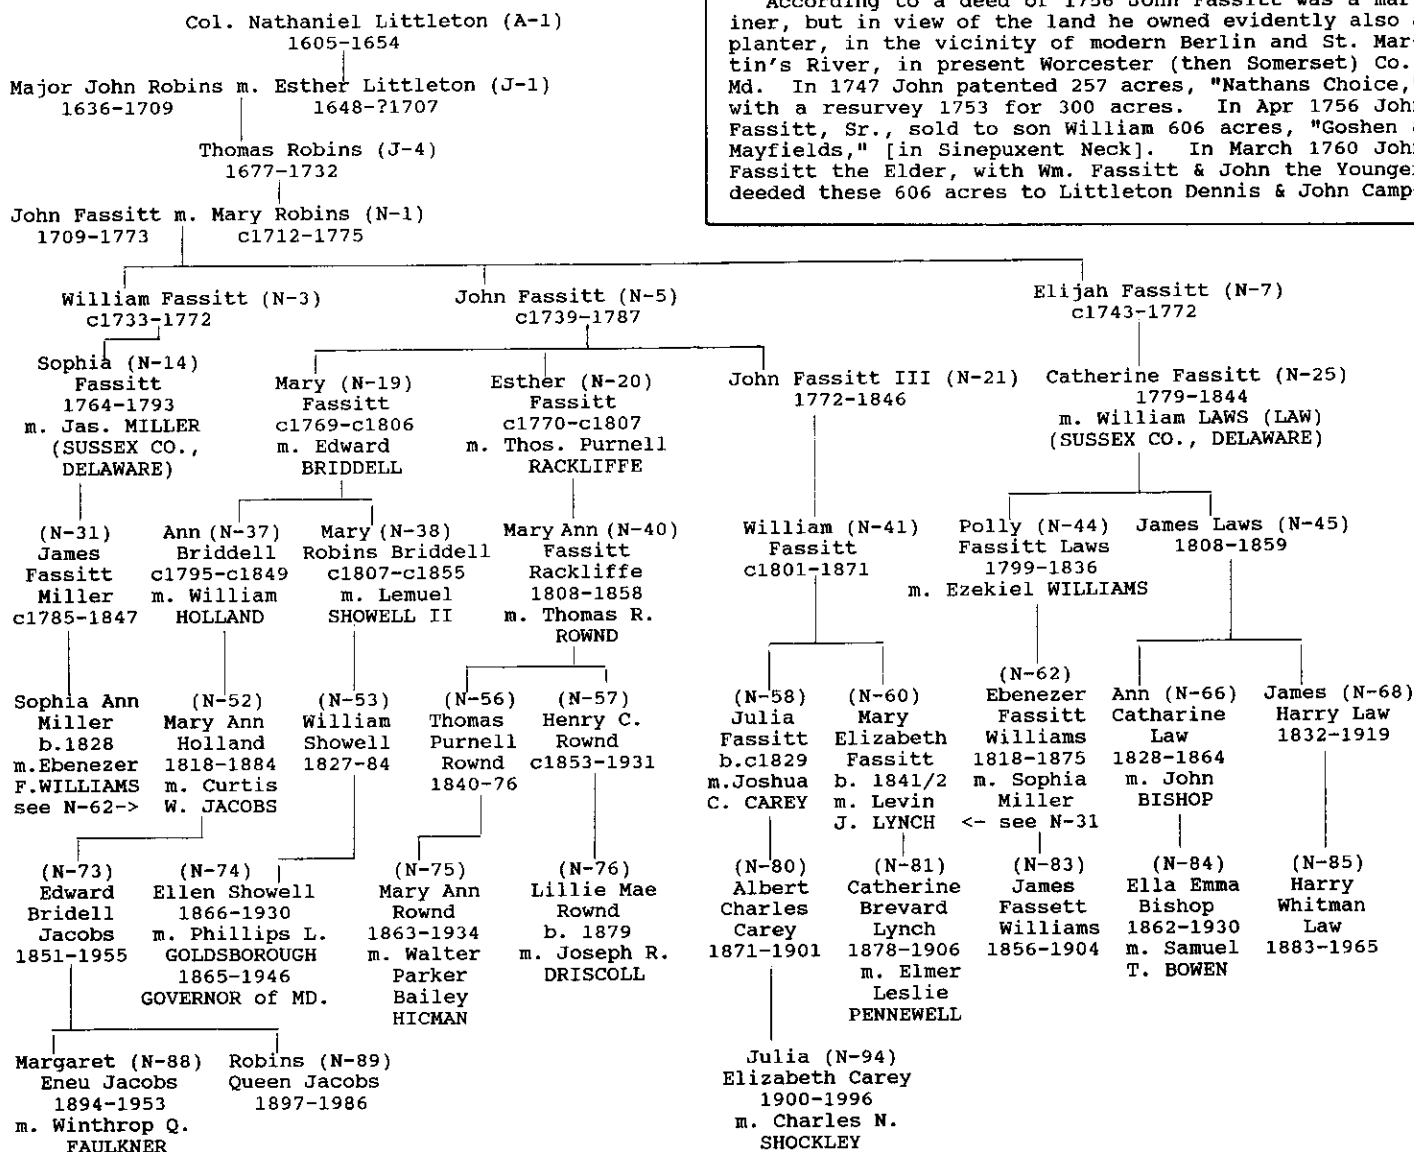

The Littleton-Fassitt descendants to a remarkable degree have remained down to the present day in the general area where Fassitts at first settled in Md. Part of the family lived and owned land on both sides of the Maryland - Delaware state line; the Miller (N-14) and Laws-Williams families (N-25, N-44) lived chiefly in Delaware. Some removed to Philadelphia and to Queen Anne's Co., Md., and elsewhere, but most of the families that have been traced have stayed near modern Berlin in Worcester County.

The late Capt. John B. Brown, USN (N-39), and his father, Madison Brown, exhaustively researched the Fassitt family. Mrs. John Brown has reported that her husband relied heavily on Fassitt papers in the Pa. Historical Society. William R. Bishop, Jr., of Reading, Pa. (J-238), who also researched the Fassitts, corresponded at length with Capt. Brown, who shared many details of his research. From this exchange William Bishop has contributed many of the early exact dates herein. Capt. Brown also collaborated in early research with Miss May Gilliss (L-102), whose papers were made available by Mrs. Robins L. Gilliss (L-206). Other very valuable sources, a Chancery case and Bible records in Sussex Co., Del., relating to the Miller and Williams lines (N-14, N-25, N-31, N-62), have been contributed by Thomas H. Fooks V (N-96); permission to include them here has been granted by the Delaware State Archives, Dover, Del.

N-1 JOHN FASSITT, eldest son of William (1662-1735) and Mary (Rouse) Fassitt, born Somerset Co., Md. 12 Oct 1709 (Pa. Hist. Soc.); died Worcester Co., Md. by 9 Apr 1773; mar. (c1732) MARY ROBINS, daughter of THOMAS ROBINS (J-4) and his wife Elizabeth Bowdoin, and great-granddaughter of Colonel NATHANIEL LITTLETON (A-1), b. Som. Co. c1712; d. Worc. Co. by 15 Nov 1775. John's sister Mary married Southey Whittington (B-3).

In the settlement of the estate of Thomas Robins, executors Elizabeth Robins, Bowdoin and Thomas Robins made a payment of £24.0.10 to "John Fassitt in Legacys left his wife." Although the account is not dated, the immediately preceding account is dated 23 June 1737 (Maryland Archives, Prerogative Court Accts. 14:340-42).

According to a deed of 1756 John Fassitt was a mariner, but in view of the land he owned evidently also a planter, in the vicinity of modern Berlin and St. Martin's River, in present Worcester (then Somerset) Co., Md. In 1747 John patented 257 acres, "Nathans Choice," with a resurvey 1753 for 300 acres. In Apr 1756 John Fassitt, Sr., sold to son William 606 acres, "Goshen & Mayfields," [in Sinepuxent Neck]. In March 1760 John Fassitt the Elder, with Wm. Fassitt & John the Younger deeded these 606 acres to Littleton Dennis & John Campbell for 5 shillings "per agreement" (Dryden Worc Land 423, 269-70).

In his will, dated 12 Nov 1772 (prob. 9 Apr 1773), John Fassitt, Sr., devised to grandson John Fassitt, son of William, half of the tract "Fishing Harbor" on Finixes [Phoenix, Fenwick] Island; to sons James and Elijah, the balance of "Finixes Island" or "Beach"; to son Elijah, "Nathans Chance [Choice]," 300 A., also "Increase" bought of Elihu Bridal [Bridell], 50 acres, & 57 A. of a survey & lands in the swamps; to "all daughters" a tract by Indian River or Cypress Swamp, 250 A. He named daughters Elizabeth Tingle, Sarah Collier, and Mary Fassitt, wife Mary Fassitt. Witnesses were Wm. Bowin Sr. & Jr., Vincent Crapper, Robt. King (Worc. Wills JW4:165-67).

Mary Fassitt in her will (dated only 1774; prob. 15 Nov 1775) made bequests to son John Fassitt and son-in-law Kendal Collier, named executors, to son Elijah, to daughters Elizabeth Tingle, Sarah Collier, & Mary Fassitt, to Lambert Collier, and to grandchildren: Elijah Fassitt, son of James, Mary Collier, Mary dau. of John Fassitt (a horse), John son of John Fassitt, Thomas Simpson Fassitt, Elizabeth Tingle and unnamed daughter of deceased son William. Witnesses: John Parker, Wm. Bowin, John Rackliffe (Worc. Wills JW4:238-39).

Children (born Somerset, later Worcester Co., Md.):

- N-3 1. William Fassitt, b. c1733; d. by 15 May 1772.
- O-1 2. Elizabeth Fassitt, born c1735; died by 24 Dec 1806; mar. CALEB TINGLE. See O-1.

- N-8 7. Mary Fassitt, born c1750; died by 2 June 1790; mar. John Massey.

N-2 ROUSE FASSITT, son of William (1662-1735) and Mary (Rouse) Fassitt, born. Somerset (later Worcester) Co., Md. c1717; died Worcester Co., Md. by 8 Apr 1768; mar. (?1737) as his 2nd wife, ESTHER ROBINS, daughter of THOMAS ROBINS (J-4) and his wife Elizabeth Bowdoin, and great-granddaughter of Col. NATHANIEL LITTLETON (A-1), b. Som. Co. c1718; died Worc. by 27 Aug 1787. She mar. 2nd (before 14 Sep 1768) JOHN CAMPBELL, who died Worc. Co. 19 July / 17 Sep 1773. His daughter Mary married Esther's nephew, John Fassitt, Jr. (N-5).

Capt. William Fassitt in his will (22 Jan 1734/35; 30 May 1735) devised to son Rouse (under 18) "Maryfields," "Golden Value," "Green Swamp" (Md. Archives: Md. Wills 21:385). In the settlement of the estate of Thomas Robins, executors Elizabeth Robins & Bowdoin & Thomas Robins, a payment of £7.9 was made to "Rowse Fassitt in Legacys left his Wife," plus £35.10.4. Although the account is not dated, the immediately preceding account was submitted on 23 June 1737 (Md. Archives, Prerogative Court Accts. 14:341).

Rouse Fassitt was a planter in what is now Worcester Co., Md., between modern Berlin and Ocean City. In his will, dated 25 ? 1768 (prob. 8 Apr 1768), he left to wife Esther (executrix) one-third of his estate, to include part of "Cornhill" and "Cornhills Adventure" (on St. Martin's River) purchased from Robert Kirby [18 Dec 1758], 172 acres [east of modern Berlin]. To son Thomas he devised his dwelling plantation [near modern Ocean City], "Goshen" & Mayfields" (lying in Senepuxon Neck), where "I now live," but if he never returns, then to son Rouse. He devised to son Rouse part of "Goshen" (on Assatuage Creek) and all lands in Senepuxon Neck; to his dau. Esther Fassitt, 300 acres, part of "Addition to "Wheeler's Adventure"; to dau. Elizabeth Fassitt, "Golden Valley" & 2 negroes; to dau. Sarah, 100 acres, "all my land at the head of sound in Rumbly Marsh adj. the ditch by Fenexes Island" & 100 acres on "head of Senepuxon Neck," i.e. part of "Wheeler's Adventure," and 2 negroes; the remainder to go to "my four children" Rouse, Esther, Elizabeth, and Sarah. If all should die, then the land should go to "my brother" John's sons: William, John, James, and Elijah Fassitt, personal estate to Elizabeth "Zingwell" [Tingle], Sarah Collier, and Mary Fassitt "her sister." Witnesses: Thomas Pridix [Prideaux], Jephtha Purnell, John Fassitt, Wm. Bowin Sr., William Purnell, Vincent Crapper (Worc. Wills JW3:173-75). The inventory of his estate, valued at £896, included 13 negroes.

Esther's second husband, John Campbell, in his will, dated 19 July 1773 (prob. 17 Sep 1773) devised to son John Simpson Campbell lands in Penn. to wife Esther and her daughter, Esther Draper, lands willed her by her first husband, and to her four children, and named daughter Mary Fassitt. Witnesses: John Dale, John and Anne Postly (Worc. Wills JW4:157).

Esther Campbell in her will, dated 8 July 1779 (prob. 27 Aug 1787) named son Rouse Fassett, executor; daughters Esther Young; Elizabeth Evans (to receive "Golden Valley"); Sarah Selby (to receive "Rumbly Marsh"); and granddaughters Mary Draper and Mary Evans. Witnesses: Gilbert Biddell [Briddell], Brittingham Smock (both dead at time of probate), William Stevenson (Worc. Wills JW13:115).

N-3 WILLIAM FASSITT, son of John (N-1) and Mary (Robins) Fassitt, b. Somerset (later Worcester) Co., Md. c1733; d. Worcester Co., Md. by 15 May 1772; mar. (c1760) Mary Simpson, daughter of Thomas Simpson (d. 1738), born Worc. Co. 1737; d. Worc. Co. 30 May / 15 June 1787. She mar. 2nd William Purnell, who d. by 5 Jan 1781, had son Rouse F. Purnell.

William Fassitt, a mariner, in Apr 1756 bought from his father 606 acres "Goshen" & sold 230 acres of it to his brother John. In Mar 1763 William Fassitt, son of John, with wife Mary sold 232 acres "Goshen" to John Fassitt, Jr. (Dryden Worc. Land 269, 270).

On 10 Aug 1763 Wm. Fassitt, son of John, had a survey of 25 acres "Happy Lot" and dother tracts (see N-14). William predeceased both his parents. In his will, dated 9 Aug 1768 (prob. 15 May 1772) William Fassitt "son of John," devised to his daughter Sophia a tract purchased of Davie Hudson, "Hudsons Neck," "Happy Luck," 25 acres; 200 acre tract "Dont Puzzell" "I have in partnership with Charles Rackliffe" near St. Martin's River, brother James Fassitt to divide this tract. To son Thomas he left part of "Lambersons Venture" adja- cent "Buckingham," 16 acres bought from James Rook; "Little Worth," 23 acres; "Assateague" bought of Outten Sturgis, and part of a tract in partnership with Adam Spence, who is to make over his half. He named son John, and wife Mary, executors. Witnesses: John Postly, Jas. Wilson, John Long, John Nienburgh (Worc. Wills JW4:105-6).

On 22 May 1772 Mary Fassitt gave to her son Thomas Simpson Fassitt several tracts which Wm. Simpson of All Hallow's Parish had left (1783) to his children, including Thomas (Batchelder 113). Mary [Simpson Fassitt] Purnell, in her will, dated 30 May 1787, named children Rouse Purnell (under age), John Fassitt (exec.), Thomas S. Fassitt, Sophia Miller. Witnesses: Thos. Niember, Ebenezer Town send, Ezekiel Davis (Worc. Wills JW13:140). (The exact dates for Sophia, Mary, & the Thomases from the Robins Gilliss papers, researched by Capt. John Brown.) Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):

- N-13 1. John Fassitt, [Sr.], c1759 - by Sep 1798.
- 2. Thomas Fassitt, b. 30 Mar 1762; d. by 1767.
- N-14 2. Sophia Fassitt, born 26 Sep 1764; d. 14 July 1793; mar. James Miller.
- N-15 3. Thomas Simpson Fassitt, 1767 - by 4 Dec 1846.
- 4. Mary Fassitt, b. 25 Sep 1770.

N-4 SARAH T. FASSITT, daughter of John (N-1) and Mary (Robins) Fassitt, b. Somerset (later Worcester) Co., Md. c1737; d. Worcester Co., Md. by 27 Apr 1798; married (St. Martin's P. E. Church, Worc. Co. 6 Apr 1758) KENDALL COLLIER, son of Peter and Elizabeth Collier, b. c1725; d. Worc. Co. by 2 Nov 1776. He was in the Worc. Co. Militia 1748, Company of Capt. John Evans (Batchelder 113).

In his will, dated 15 Aug 1774 (prob. 2 Nov 1776), Kendall Collier, planter, bequeathed to his pregnant wife Sarah a third of his estate, naming her executrix. To son Kendall he bequeathed part of the land "where I live," "Carmell," near St. Martin's River, bounded by lands of David and William Fassitt; to son Peter, the balance of "Carmell"; to son James, "Cumberland"; and he named sons John and Lambert, daughter Mary. Witnesses: Wm. Stevens Hill, Powell Pattey, John Postly (Worc. Wills JW4:334-36).

Sarah Collier in her will, dated 24 June 1793 (prob. 27 Apr 1798), made bequests to daughter Polly Collier, sons James Collier (executor), Lambert (if he returns home), Kendall, Peter. Witnesses: Alexander Massay, Milby Powell (Worc. Wills JW18:348). Sons Kendall and James predeceased her.

Children (born St. Martin's, Worcester Co., Md.):

In his will, dated 16 May 1796, he named nephew John Collier, son of Peter; mother Sarah Collier, executrix; sister Mary Collier, co-executrix, to receive 160 acres "Cumberland" on the northwest side of a tract of Laban Johnson, near Gibbons Bridge. Witnesses William Fassitt, Kendal & Peter & Mary Collier (Worc. Wills JW18:358).
4. Lambert Collier, b. c1767; left the county.
5. John Collier, born c1770; d. by 2 June 1798; unmar. He was a ship carpenter. In his will (no date; prob. 2 June 1798) he made bequests to brothers James & Lambert Collier, mother Sarah, sister Mary Collier. Witnesses: Wm. Covington, Caleb Tingle, Thomas Selby (Worc. Wills JW18:354-55).
- N-18 6. Mary Collier, born c1772; d. by 1831; married Isaac Marshall.

N-5 JOHN FASSITT, JR., son of John (N-1) and Mary (Robins) Fassitt, born Somerset (later Worcester) Co., Md. c1739; d. Worcester Co., Md. by 28 Aug 1787; mar. (c1766) Mary Campbell, daughter of John Campbell (his Aunt Esther's 2nd husband - N-3), b. c1746; died Worc. Co. by Feb 1789.

In Apr 1756 William Fassitt, mariner, son of John, sold to John Fassitt, son of John, 230 acres "Goshen & Mayfields"; in Mar 1763 William Fassitt, son of John, with wife Mary, sold 232 acres more of "Goshen" to John Fassitt, Jr. In May 1779 John Fassitt, with Capt. John Rackliffe, bought 100 acres "Josephs Venture," (Dryden Worc. Land 269-70, 341).

John Fassitt served in the American Revolutionary Militia for Worcester Co., in Sinepuxent Battalion, Capt. Rackliffe commanding (Clements & Wright 251).

Worc. Co. Orphan's Court records show guardianship bonds for "orphans of John Fassitt:" in Aug 1790 Chas. Rackliffe guardian of Elizabeth; John Fassitt guardian of William; in Oct 1790 James Fassitt guardian of John; in Feb 1791 Elijah Fassitt guardian of Thomas; in Apr 1791 Caleb Tingle guardian of Sarah Fassitt..

In Aug Court 1798 a petition to divide the estate of William Fassitt of Jno. (see child No. 7) was submitted by Sewell Turpin & wife Martha, Edward Briddle & wife Mary, Thomas P. Rackliffe & wife Hesse, John Fassitt, Thomas Fassitt, James Fassitt by guardian John Fassitt, Sarah Fassitt by guardian Ed. Briddle, Betty Fassitt by guardian Thos. P. Rackliffe. William having died intestate, leaving his real estate to descend to brothers & sisters. In Aug Court 1799 the report of commissioners showed that he owned part of "Goshen & Mayfield," 200 acres in Synapuxen Neck where he had lived, adj. lands of late John Fassitt (N-13) & Rouse Fassitt (N-10); 150 A. "Washington" & 36 A., part of "Josephs Venture" in upper Synapuxen adj. Danl. Tingle. Elder son John refusing to take the land at the valuation, second son Thomas elected to take it and pay the representatives (Worc. Petitions etc. A:181, 198-201; in Maryland Magazine of Genealogy, Vol. 4, No. 2, Fall 1981, pp. 76,77). (With help from William R. Bishop, Jr.)

Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):

- N-20 9. Sarah Fassitt, b. c1781; d. c1810/19; married Thomas P. Rackliffe.

N-6 JAMES FASSITT, son of John (N-1) and Mary (Robins) Fassitt, b. Somerset (later Worcester) Co., Md. 5 May 1741; d. Worcester Co., Md. by 28 Sep 1825; married 1st (c1768) Mary Fenwick, who d. c1770; mar. 2nd (c1771) Catherine Rackliff, who d. by 1800. (First marriage from researches of Capt. John Brown.)

In Mar 1768 he bought from Samuel Dale 236 acres "Morehusk," part of which he sold in 1808, within the lines of "Redland." In 1821 he had a resurvey, as "Fassitts Conclusion," with a new patent for 393 acres, in modern W. Berlin Dist. (Dryden Worc Land 409, 219).

James Fassitt served in the Worcester Co. Militia in the American Revolution. Three Jameses appear on the rolls, all in Sinepuxent Battalion, one in Capt. Hale's Co., and two as 1st Lt., 30-8-77 in Capt. J. Dashiell's Co. & 27-5-78 in Capt. E. Briddell's Co. (Clements & Wright 254, 75).

In his will, dated 11 Feb 1825 (prob. 28 Sep 1825) Capt. James Fassitt bequeathed to son Elijah (executor) land where he lives, "Morehusk" or "Addition to Morehusk," and part of "Fishing Harbour" purchased of John & James Selby & John C. Rudolph. To son James he left the lands where he lives, "Fishing Harbour" purchased of Frances Fassitt dau. of John Fassitt of William on Phoenix's (Phenwick's, Fenwick) Island, land on said island or beach in Md. or Del., James to deed to son Elijah 17 acres of "Redland." He mentioned son John and his children, grandson Joseph Fassitt. Witnesses: Joshua Prideaux, Wm. Holland, Zadoc P. Henry (Worc. Wills MH27:160-163). First two children were evidently by the first marriage. (Dates for James father & son from the Geo. W. Fassitt Bible records, in Robins Gilliss papers)

Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):

1. John Fassitt, b. c1769; d. or left the area by 1830. In 1810 John Fassitt of James was head of a family, 3 boys & a girl under 10, & 15 slaves. Joseph was possibly his son.
2. Daughter, b. c1770.
- N-23 3. Elijah Fassitt, born 2 Dec 1772; d. 13 Aug 1839.
- N-24 4. James Fassitt, Jr., born 23 June 1777; d. 19 Aug 1850.

N-7 ELIJAH FASSITT "of Fenwick Island," son of John (N-1) and Mary (Robins) Fassitt, born Somerset (later Worcester) Co., Md. c1743; d. Sussex Co., Del. 11 July 1798/ 23 Dec 1800; mar. Mary (Polly)---

In Apr 1774 he bought 200 acres "Dumfries." In 1783 he was taxed on 25 acres "Fishing Harbor." In June 1790 he patented 369 acres "Fassitts Luck," in present-day W. Berlin District, sold 70 acres of it Sept 1790 to James Fassitt. In Aug 1790 he and wife Mary sold 100 acres "Nathan's Choice," 300 acres of which he had inherited from his father (Dryden Worc. Land 196, 220, 423). In the 1790 census Elijah is listed with 1 male over 16, one under 16, 5 females, 7 slaves.

In his will, signed 11 July 1798, Elijah "Fossitt" provided that his plantation be rented out until it earns enough to discharge his debts, unless son-in-law William Laws pay the debt. To dau. Catty Laws (after discharge of above debt) he bequeathed his plantation, houses, & outland, part of two tracts called "Fossitts Good Luck" and "Dumfries." To son John he left land in Worc. Co., part of "Nathans Chance" & ["Sneacord"], & Negroes, and "my right of lands" in Fenwicks Island. To daughter Betsy Fossitt he left land and marsh near "Fossitts Good Luck" & Ezekiel Williams, part of "Dumfries," also Negroes, & "her choice of all my Horses," etc. To daughter Polly Fossett he left Negroes, and the residue of his estate at the age of eighteen. He appointed brother James Fossett sole executor. Witnesses: Ezekiel and Thomas Williams (Sussex Co., Del., Wills E: 277-79.)

Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):

1. John Fassitt, "of Elijah," b. c1770; d. Worc. Co. by 24 Aug 1819; ?unmar. On 24 Mar 1815 John Fassitt "of Elijah" witnessed will of Abisha Davis, with Adam Bravard. On 28 Feb

1819 he witnessed will of Edward Bredell. On 24 Aug 1819 Thos. S. Gray was bonded as administrator of the estate of "John Fassit (of Elijah)."

- N-25 2. Catherine Fassitt, b. 20 July 1779; d. 18 Oct 1844; mar. William Laws.
3. Betsy Fassitt, b. c1782; d. c1805; mar. (lic. Worc. 9 Feb 1802) JAMES KNOX, who married 2nd (lic. Worc. 6 May 1806) Priscilla Hudson.
4. Polly Fassitt, b. 1784.

N-8 MARY FASSITT, daughter of John (N-1) and Mary (Robins) Fassitt, born Somerset (later Worcester) Co., Md. c1750; d. Worc. Co. by 2 June 1790; mar. (c1775?) JOHN MASSEY, son of Alexander (III) & Charity (Adkins) Massey, b. Worc. Co. c1740; d. Worc. Co., Md. by 11 Feb 1786. John Massey served in the Worc. Co. Militia in the American Revolution, in Sinepuxent Battalion, Capt. Rackliff's Co. (Clements & Wright 251).

In his will, dated 16 July 1785 (prob. 11 Feb 1786), John Massey made bequests to wife Mary, executrix, and named sons Daniel [youngest], Kendall, Alexander, John Adkins Massey (over 14), daughters Comfort & Sarah, & mother (unnamed). Witnesses were John & Samuel Taylor, Benjamin Quillen (Worc. Wills JW13:94-95). On the bond for his estate in 1786 by Caleb Tingle & Mary Massey, executors, John and Elijah Fassitt were next of kin to John Massey. On 2 June 1790 Caleb Tingle was bonded as administrator of the estate of Mary Massey & appointed guardian of her children..

Some of the children were possibly by a previous marriage, probably at least John Adkins Massey (born before 1771) and Comfort, but it is uncertain which, if any, of the remaining children, except Sarah, were by Mary Fassitt; the yr. of Sarah's birth is in the Powell Bible; she was only two or less when her father made his will. On 9 Oct 1811 Zadock Powell, "who married Sarah Massey," was appointed the guardian of John A. Massey, orphan. (Dates for Kendall and Alexander and details for Alexander's family from Barbara Massey Horsman, The Massey Family of Worcester Co., Md., Bowie, Md., [1995]).

Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):

1. ?Kendall Massey, b. 1776/77; d. Worc. Co. by 2 Aug 1864; unmar. In 1850 he was a farmer, head of HH513, 3rd E.D., Worc. Co., with him Ananias Powell and his family.
2. ?Alexander Massey, born c1778/79; d. c1845; married (lic. Worc. 15 Oct 1803) Catherine Powell. On 9 July 1831 Alexander Massey Sr. and Jr. witnessed the will of Thomas Purnell.
Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):
a. Alexander Massey, Jr., b.11 Dec 1803; d. Lewes, Del. 14 Oct 1854.
b. Maria H. Massey, b. 28 July 1812; d. 4 July 1869; mar. JOSEPH GODFREY (1812-1885).
3. Daniel Massey, b. c17; d.s.p. In 1794 he chose John Massey as his legal guardian; "a chancery case involving his father's will states...that he died without surviving issue" (Massey 70,71).

- N-26 3. Sarah Massey, born 1783; d. 31 Dec 1828; mar. Zadock Powell, Jr.

N-9 ESTHER FASSITT, daughter of Rouse (N-2) and Esther (Robins) Fassitt, b. Somerset Co. (now Worcester Co.), Md. c1741; d. ?Sussex Co., Del. mar. 1st (c1770) ALEXANDER DRAPER, who d. Sussex Co., Del. 6/28 Feb 1774 (Batchelder 112); mar. 2nd (c1779) NATHANIEL YOUNG of Sussex Co. In addition to tract "Wheelers Adventure" left to her by her father, in Dec 1769, as "Esther Fassitt" she bought 408 acres more. In Jan 1793 Nathaniel Young, of Sussex Co., Del., who married Esther Draper, widow of Alexander Draper and daughter of Rouse Fassitt, together with wife Esther sold 100 A. to Rouse Fassitt, & another 100 acres to Thomas Selby of Worc. Co., "Addition to Wheelers Adventure," about eight miles from the seaboard side near Sinepuxen Bridge, which she had inherited from her father (Dryden Worc Land 667; children in letter of Leslie P. Dryden 8/21/1979 to Ms. Ranseen, Snow Hill Library).

Children (born Sussex Co., Del.):

1. Mary Draper, b. c1771, named in her grandmother Fassitt's will.
2. Sally Draper, b. c1773.
3. Robert Young, b. c1780.
4. Esther Robins Young, born c1782; married --- HOUSTON.
5. Christiana Young, c1784.

N-10 ROUSE FASSITT, [JR.], son of Rouse (N-2) and Esther (Robins) Fassitt, b. Worcester Co., Md. c1743; d. Worcester Co., Md. 9 Jan 1799; married (c1781) Sarah Rackliffe, dau. of John & Zipporah (Purnell) Rackliffe, b. c1760; d. c1812; she mar. 2nd (lic. Worc. 26 Apr 1800) her late husband's first cousin, Dr. Thomas S. Fassitt (N-15). Rouse served in the Worcester Co. Militia in the American Revolution, in Sinepuxent Battalion, in Captain Rackliff's Co. (Clements & Wright 251).

In May 1782 Rouse Fassitt & wife Sarah (?released) to John Selby, son of Thomas, 100 acres "Fishing Harbour" devised by Rouse's mother Esther Campbell to her dau. Sarah Selby. On 1 Apr 1797 Rouse Fassitt purchased part of "Batchellors Delight," 100 A. of "Johns Desire," 17 acres of "New Addition," both west of present-day Berlin, and 302 acres "Tribble Addition" (Dryden Worc. Land 224, 42, 332, 427, 645).

John Rackliffe of Wor. Co., in his will, signed 15 Oct 1788 (prob. 4 Sep 1790) devised to daughter Sally Fassitt, "Bowin's Choice" & "Discovery," mentioned son-in-law Rouse Fassitt, named dec'd dau. Catherine White, & grandchildren Thomas Fassitt, Zipporah Fassitt, Sally White (Worc. Wills JW13:262-4).

In Jan 1786 Thos. Purnell of Wallops Neck sold to Sarah Fassitt, wife of Rouse Fassitt (in 2nd deed identified as dau. of John Rackliffe) all his rights to "Bowen's Choice" and "Winkfield & Deep Swamp" (Dryden Worc Land 65, 170). In June 1802 Thomas S. Fassitt and wife Sarah gave both these tracts to [their infant son] Thomas S. R. Fassitt, after the death of Thomas and Sarah. In the latter deed of gift, if Thomas should die without issue, the land should go to Zeporah and Peggy Fassitt, if no issue to John Rackliffe of John or his brother Rider Rackliffe and sister Charlotte Rackliffe, if no issue to Sally White or Sally Henry. At the same time Thomas & Sarah gave to Zeporah and Peggy Fassitt (both under 21) part of "Winkfield" now called "Quarter Lands," 57 acres (Dryden Worc Land 65, 170, 66, 678).

Rouse left only a revocation of his will, dated 9 Jan 1799: "I have a will rote at home I don't wish to stand." Witnesses were Dr. James Wilson, Joseph Miller, Thos. S. Fassitt. Dr. Thomas S. Fassitt made oath that Rouse Fassitt wrote this revocation on the day he died. Thomas S. Fassitt, Zadock and Thomas Purnell on 8 Aug 1802 were bonded to administer the estate of Rouse Fassitt (Worc. Wills JBW18:395-96, JBRI:334). (Dates from Robins Gilliss papers)

Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):

N-11 ELIZABETH FASSITT, daughter of Rouse (N-2) and Esther (Robins) Fassitt, born Worcester Co., Md. c1750; d. Worc. Co. by 13 Dec 1809; mar. 1st (c1771) DAVID EVANS, who died Worc. Co. by 26 Jan 1778; 2nd (c1779) as his 2nd wife the widowed husband of her sister Sarah (N-12), THOMAS SELBY, V, b. c1744; died Worc. Co. by 30 Dec 1802. He mar. 3rd (?c1784) Eli-zabeth Fassitt, dau. of William Fassitt (d. 1786) (Source: W.R. Bishop & Capt. John B. Brown).

David Evans in his will, dated 26 July 1776 (prob. 26 Jan 1778) bequeathed to wife Elizabeth (executrix) lands and plantation willed to him by his father, and named daughter Mary Evans, co-executrix (Worc. Wills JW4:373-374). Thomas Selby in his will, dated 22 Oct 1799 (prob. 30 Dec 1802), named wife Elizabeth executrix, requested that his plantation be sold; named four daughters Sary, Cathron, Martha, Peggy Selby; bequeathed to son Thomas 100 acres formerly Easter Draper's; to son Kendal, a tract bought from Joseph Waters and a parcel bought from Ananias Jarman; and named sons James and John. Witnesses: Wm. H. Taylor, Isaac Hill, Thos. Webb (dead by prob.). Bonds include William Fassitt (Worc. Wills JBRI:365).

In 1783 Elizabeth Evans paid tax on 125 acres "Golden Valley" in Quepongo Hundred (Dryden Worc Land 262). In the will of Elizabeth Selby, dated 7 Sep 1809 (prob. 13 Dec 1809) she bequeathed lands to son Thomas, named three daughters Kitty, Patty, Peggy. Witnesses were Annanias Powell, Wm. Hudson (Worc. Wills MH4:191). Capt. John B. Brown & William R. Bishop, Jr., note that Selby mar. 3rd Elizabeth Fassitt, dau. of William Fassitt (d. 1786). If the land that Elizabeth left in the above will (1809) was part of "Buckingham" which had been left by William Fassitt (d. 1786) to dau. Elizabeth, then she was Selby's third wife, not a Littleton descendant, & the four youngest children are not by Elizabeth, dau. of Rouse. Thomas Selby's dau. Sarah by his first marriage left everything to her [step]-mother Elizabeth Selby (N-12). If the Frame pedigree (see N-12) is valid, and Selby's first wife Sarah died in 1782, then his 2nd wife must have lived only a short time. For Thos. Selby's other family, see N-12.

Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):

1. Mary Evans, b. c1773; named in her grandmother Fassitt's will (1779).
2. William Fassitt Selby, ?c1784; d.s.p. by 1802.

N-12 SARAH ("SALLY") FASSITT, daughter of Rouse (N-2) and Esther (Robins) Fassitt, born Worcester Co., Md. 1758; d. 1782; married as his first wife (c1771) THOMAS SELBY, V, son of Thomas & Elizabeth (Houston?) Selby of Indian Town, b. Indian Town, Worc. Co. 1744; d. Indian Town by 30 Dec 1802 (for will see N-11). He mar. 2nd his wife's sister, Elizabeth Fassitt Evans (N-11). In Dec 1769 Thomas Prideaux sold to Sarah Fassitt, "infant" dau. of Rouse Fassitt, 408 acres "Wheeler's Adventure" (Dryden Worc. Land 667). (For son John see letter of Leslie P. Dryden 8/21/1979 to Ms. Ranseen, in Snow Hill Library; with added details for John and his parents from "Some of the Ancestors of the Rev. John Selby Frame & his wife Clara Winchester Dana," printed pamphlet, no date, no publisher).

Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):

1. James Selby, b. c1772; mar. ---Gitts. On 24 July 1802 James Selby of Philadelphia, mariner, son of Thomas, sold to James Fassitt 100 acres "Second Adventure" (St. Martin's Dist., Worc. Co.); William Fassitt [great-] grandfather of James willed tract to sons Rouse and Lambert Fassitt; Lambert died, & Rouse willed it to dau. Sally Fassitt, who mar. Thos. Selby & had several children, James being the eldest son. The same day he sold to Jas. Fassitt his share of "Fishing Harbor" (Dryden Worc Land 550, 224).
2. Sarah Selby, b. c1774; d. Worc. Co. by 4 Apr 1808; unmar. In her will, dated 5 Mar 1807, she left all to [step]-mother Elizabeth Selby. Witnesses: Wm. Fassitt, Lambert Ayres (Worc. Wills MH4:102).

N-13 JOHN FASSITT, [SR.], son of William (N-3) and Mary (Simpson) Fassitt, b. Worcester Co., Md. c1761; d. Worcester Co., Md. by Sep 1798; married (1782) Eleanor ("Nelly") Purnell, dau. of Walton Purnell (1713?-1787) and his wife, Catherine Murray (1729-1810), born Worc. Co. c1762; died Worc. Co. by 20 Dec 1831. Catherine Purnell in her will (1 Mar 1810; 15 Apr 1811) made a bequest to dau. Nelly Fassitt (Worc. Wills MH4:268-9).

In 1792 John and Nellie built on part of "Mayfield" & "Goshen" the house now known as "Bayside Farm," on the shore of Synepuxent Bay; it was bombarded by the British in 1813. In Jan 1798 John found in the surf, almost buried in sand, 29 "pipes" of gin (each pipe holding 250 gals.) washed ashore from a brig stranded on the beach and claimed them as salvage, but Schoolfield Parker also claimed 7, & after he demanded them in Feb & was refused, he brought suit in Mar 1796, but the case was in abeyance by the Sep Term of the General Court since John had died (Truitt 177, 69-70).

In his will, dated 20 Mar 1798 (prob. 8 Jan 1799) John devised to daughter Nancy (under 21) his plantation in Synepuxent Neck, to daughters Juliana & Fanny (both under age) land on Phoenix [Fenwick] Island. He mentioned sister Sophia Miller, named as executors wife Nelly and brother Thomas S. Fassitt. Witnesses: Thomas Purnell of Walton, Rouse Fassitt, Jesse Smock, Noble Cropper (Worc. Wills JW18: 396-402).

His widow Nelly, in her will dated 3 June 1830, made bequests to granddaughters Charlotte Ann Wright, Ellen Frances Henry, Eliza Pratt, Eleanor Pratt, & Charlotte Ann Henry, grandson Edwin Winder Henry, dau. Juliana Henry and her husband Charles Henry. Witnesses: James & John C. Derrickson, and Isaac Covington (Worc. Wills MH27:502-503). (Some details from a Purnell chart prepared by William R. Bishop, Jr.)

Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):

1. Nancy Fassitt, b. c1783; died May 1814; mar. Henry R. Pratt.
2. Frances ("Fanny") Fassitt, b. 22 Dec 1785; d. Worc. Co. 9 Nov 1847; bur. Buckingham Presby. Cem., Berlin, Md.; mar. (lic. Worc. 28 July 1823) ISAAC BREDELL (c1785-1839; see N-33). In her will, signed 7 May 1845 (prob. 15 Nov 1847) she named nephew Edwin W. Henry (executor), sister Julianna Henry, nieces Ellen Frances Henry, Charlotte A. Henry, Ellen F. Brown and her son John, Fanny Fassitt Wright daughter of niece Charlotte Ann Wright. Witnesses: Lemuel Purnell, Robt. M. Baker, Rufus M. Baynum (Worc. Wills LPS:366-7).
3. Juliana Fassitt, b. 1792; died 23 Feb 1864; mar. Charles R. Henry.

N-14 SOPHIA FASSITT, daughter of William (N-3) and Mary (Simpson) Fassitt, born Worcester Co., Md. 26 Sep 1764; d. Sussex Co., Del. 14 July 1793; married (1783) JAMES MILLER, of Sussex Co., Del., b. c1755; d. Sussex Co. 1 Aug 1841. According to Chancery case, he married 2nd Letty and had: (1) Eleanor, who mar. 1st Pemberton Benton & 2nd (before 1832) John D. Marshall; and (2) Mary C., b. 1820/21, who married Ebe Walter, b. 1819/ 1820. (Sophia's dates from Gilliss papers.)

After Sophia's death her husband James held only a life interest in lands devised to her by her father: "Winter Quarter," "Slip," "Powell's Lot," 155 acres in Baltimore Hundred in Sussex Co., Del., also "Happy Lot," 25 acres, Worc. Co., surveyed 10 Aug 1763 for William Fassitt (son of John) adjacent "Winter Quarter," in Hudson's Neck, also "Dont Puzzle," 185 acres likewise in Worc. Co., all owned in fee by his son James F. Fassitt, only son and heir of Sophia. At son James F. Miller's urging, to help his half-sister's husband, John D. Marshall, James F. made an agreement with his father to sell all these lands on condition that James Sr. in his will devise to him "all the lands called The Plantation, where James Miller Sr. resides, and all adjoining lands, in Baltimore Hundred," for which James Sr. gave bond 16 Aug 1831 for $1800.

James Miller in his will, dated 18 Oct 1838 (prob. 9 Sep 1841), left to wife Letty Miller bedstead, movable property, etc.; to Mary C. Miller $550. To son James F. Miller (named executor) he bequeathed the plantation "whereon I now live" with all adjoining lands, "both down the neck, and out," i.e. "Cherry Bush," "Happy Luck," "Cords lot," "Cow quarter," "Calf Pasture," "Islestone," and "Davis," except that wife Letty is to have her thirds out of this part given to son James. To granddaughter Matilda A. Burton he gave 1/3 of his movable estate after wife's dower is taken out; to dau. Mary C. Miller land bought of Eben Aydelott, also 1/4 of land where Mary Collins lives, purchased of Steven Collins, & $550 out of movable property (agreement & will from Suit in Chancery, Sussex Co., Del., March Term 1848, RG 4835 - Case Files, Sussex, W #58, 1848, Delaware State Archives).

Child (born Sussex Co., Del.):

1. James Fassett Miller, b. c1785; died 17 Jan 1847.

N-15 THOMAS SIMPSON FASSITT, son of William (N-3) and Mary (Simpson) Fassitt, b. Worcester Co., Md. 1767; d. Wor. Co., Md. by 4 Dec 1846; mar. 1st (lic. Worc. 26 Apr 1800) Sarah (Rackliffe) Fassitt, daughter of John & Zipporah (Purnell) Rackliffe, and widow of his cousin Rouse Fassitt (c1743-1799) (see N-10), b. c1760; died c1812; 2nd (lic. Worc. 2 Nov 1813) his cousin, Mary Selby Purnell, dau. of Major William and Mary (Robins) Purnell (P-1), b. c1783; died Worc. Co. by 9 May 1848 (for her will see P-1); no children by 2nd marriage. Sally Rackliffe's sister, Catherine mar. William White; their dau. Sarah Catherine White (c1790-1819) mar. Thomas Fassitt's cousin, Judge William Whittington (1779-1827, B-48), a relationship which helps explain the Chancery case below

On 22 May 1772 Mary Fassitt, widow of Wm. Fassitt, gave to son Thomas Simpson Fassitt 50 acres "Bays End," 50 acres "Charles His Choice," 108 acres "Jericho," all of which Mary Fooks, heir of Uncle William Simpson, and brother Thos. Simpson had (Dryden Worc Land 45,110,330).

On 29 June 1802 Thomas and wife Sarah gave to Thomas S. R. Fassitt part of tracts "Bowen's Choice," "Deep Swamp," and "Winkfield," all of which Sarah had bought in 1786, also "Rackliffes Discovery," which she apparently inherited (Dryden Worc Land 65-66, 170, 512, 678). In the 1800 Worc. Co. census he was head of a HH in Boquetonorton Hundred, with 24 slaves, 1810 with 19 slaves, in 1820, 18 slaves.

He was a prominent physician in Worcester Co. and Philadelphia. He was a surgeon of the 9th Regiment, Md. Militia 1794, and a founder of the Md. Medical Society, 1799 (Eugene F. Cordell, M.D. The Medical Annals of Md. 1799-1899). He was in Worc. Co. as a witness to wills May 1813, Feb & Mar 1815, May 1818, July 1825, Oct 1827, July 1830.

In Worc. Co. Chancery Docket for Nov. 1823, in Case #9, Jas. Murray & wife, & Charlotte & Ketturah Rackliffe brought suit against Thos. S. Fassitt, Thos. S.R. Fassitt, Wm. Whittington, Wm. White Whittington, Charlotte C. Whittington, Mary H.H. Whittington, Robt. H.A. Whittington, and John R.R. Whittington, presumably over a land dispute (see B-48).

In his will, signed 30 Mar 1846 (prob. 4 Dec 1846) Thomas S. Fassitt made bequests to son Thomas S. and to Matilda Rackliffe, wife of James, but mentioned no wife. Witnesses: Sally M. Purnell, Phillip Marsh, Edward Hubbell (Worc. Wills LPS:342).

5. Charles R. Fassitt, b. 1819/20; d. Louisiana 10 Apr 1871; bur. Buckingham; ?married (lic. Worc. 22 Apr 1851) Mary M. Jones; no children. In his will, signed 7 Sept 1866 (prob. Worc. Co. 17 Apr 1871) Dr. Charles R. Fassitt, a "native of Maryland but for many years a citizen of Louisiana," left to brother Albert J. Fassitt the farm where father John Fassitt lived and died in Synepuxent Neck, which he left to Charles, Alfred also to have "all my property" in La. & elsewhere. If after the estate is settled Alfred should find himself with more than $10,000, Charles requested him to pay specified amounts to brother Thomas C. Fassitt, to Wm. Fassitt, and to Julia Carey, Bessie Taylor, & Laura Fassitt, daughters of William & "my nieces." He requested Albert also to pay sums to Sally Ann Hudson, William Fassitt's daughter, and Kate Fassitt his granddaughter. Witnesses: R.J. Henry, John E. Scarborough, Zadock P. Henry, Jr. (Worc. Wills TT8:555).

N-22 THOMAS FASSITT, son of John, Jr. (N-5) and Mary (Campbell) Fassitt, b. Worcester Co., Md. c1775; d. Philadelphia, Pa. 1836; married (?Philadelphia ?1799) Mary Faris, who d. 1853. In Aug 1797 Thos. Fassitt of Philadelphia sold Rackliffe's grist mill in Worc. Co. On 12 Sep 1809 Thos. Fassitt of Phila. with wife Mary sold 224 acres "Goshen," 50 acres "Josephs Venture" to John Fassitt of Worc. Co. (Dryden Worc Land 512, 270, 341). Laban Johnson of Worc. Co. in his will of 27 May 1805 requested that Thomas and James Fassitt of Philadelphia teach his son Moses the mercantile business til age 19 (Worc Wills JBR2:259). (Family from Capt. John Brown by way of William R. Bishop, Jr.)

Children (born probably Philadelphia):

1. John Faris Fassitt, b. 1800; d. 11 Feb 1829; buried Buckingham Presby. Cem., Berlin, Md.; mar. (lic. Worc. 22 Oct 1823) Mary Bell. Child (born Worcester Co., Md.):
a. Mary Ann Fassitt, b. 7 Feb 1825 (Buckingham Church records).
- N-32 2. Mary Ann Fassitt, b. 1802; d. Mar 1862; mar. (1821) her 2nd cousin, THOMAS S. R. FASSITT, 1801-1858. See N-32.

N-23 ELIJAH FASSITT, son of James (N-6) and Catherine (Rackliff) Fassitt, born Worcester Co., Md. 2 Dec 1772; d. Worc. Co. 13 Aug 1839 "of bilious fever" (Worc. Banner, Snow Hill, 20 Aug 1839;); married (lic. Worc. 21 Feb 1816) his cousin, Rachel (Bredell) Selby, daughter of Edward and Anne M. (Robins) Bredell (N-19), & widow of Thomas Selby (d. 1814), b. Worc. Co. c1794; d. Worc. 14 Nov 1830.

In 1810 he was alone in Boquetenorton Hundred, next to James Fassitt, Jr., 5 doors from John Fassitt, and near Nelly Fassitt. He does not appear in 1810, but in 1820 he is head of a HH in 3rd E.D. On 10 May 1806 he and [brother or father] James Fassitt witnessed the will of Thomas Gray, Sr., and on 25 May 1813 the will of Jesse Gray; Elijah on 30 Apr 1817 witnessed the will of David Gray. An inventory for his estate was made 4 Sep 1839; on 10 Sep 1839 Edward B. Fassitt and J.P.R. Gillis were bonded as executors; an account was filed 13 Nov 1840. Daughter Ann & son Edward are identified as children of Elijah in Bible records in the Gilliss family records, which also provide dates. Children Mary and James were bapt. in Buckingham Presby. Church, Berlin, Md.

Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):

- L-60 1. Ann Catharine Fassitt, b. 3 Mar 1817; d. Aug 1855; mar. (9 Jan 1833) her cousin, JOHN PURNELL ROBINS GILLISS, 1808-1881. See L-60.

N-24 JAMES FASSITT, JR., son of James (N-6) and Catherine (Rackliff) Fassitt, b. Worcester Co., Md. 23 June 1777; d. Worc. Co. 19 Aug 1850; mar. (lic. Worc. 2 June 1806) his first cousin, Elizabeth Fassitt, dau. of his uncle John (Jr.) & Mary (Campbell) Fassitt (N-5), b. 1 Jan 1774; d. Worc. Co. 4 Apr 1843. (Dates from Z.P. Henry Bible records in Gilliss papers.) In the 1800 Worc. Co. census Jas. Fassitt, Jr. was head of a HH with 1 male 16/26, 6 slaves, next to his brother Elijah; in the 1810 census head of a HH with 1 male under 10, a male 26/45, 1 female 10/16, 10 slaves. He was reportedly in Dubuque, Iowa Territory, in 1842, but evidently returned east, for in 1850 he was a farmer, 75, head of HH 418, 3rd E. D., Worc. Co.

In his will, dated 16 Aug 1850 (prob. 17 Sep 1850), James bequeathed to son George W. (executor) his plantation "Fassitts Conclusion," 280 acres, to dau. Mary C. Hall, wife of John C. Hall, a plantation purchased from Thomas Gray, 140 acres, and land on Fenwick's Island devised to "me by my father James Fassitt," i.e. land purchased from Walton Purnell. He also named his son Thomas B. Fassitt, daughters Elizabeth A. Fassitt, Hetty R. Fassitt, Hannah C. Gilliss [his grand-niece], dau. of John Gillis, and appointed Dr. John R. P. Gilliss, co-executor. Witnesses: Geo. Davidson, Wm. T. Powell, John R. P. Gillis (Worc. Wills LPS:433-34).

N-25 CATHERINE ("CATEY") FASSITT, daughter of Elijah and Polly Fassitt (N-7), born Worcester Co., Md. 20 July 1779 (Bible); d. ?Sussex Co., Del. 18 Oct 1844 (Bible); mar. (?Sussex Co. 25 Jan 1799 - Bible) WILLIAM LAWS, son of James and "Janney" Laws, born Worc. Co. 11 Feb 1774 (Bible); d. Sussex Co. 20 Sep 1825. James Laws of Worc. Co., in his will, dated 12 Mar 1824 (prob. 13 Jan 1825) made bequests to four grandsons: Greensbury Blades (land on road to John Robins' mills and road "from William Laws little house field"), Golsberry Blades, James Blades and James Laws (executor), son of William Laws; he mentioned land adjacent Newington Green (Worc. Wills MH27:112). In records the name is spelled variously Law or Laws. The year of the marriage (above) must be an error for 1798, for in her father's will 11 July 1798, she was named Catty Laws, and dau. Polly was born in Nov 1799.

William Laws was head of a household in 1820 in Sussex Co., Del, Baltimore Hundred. In 1834 Catherine Law and James Law, with Mary Law (probably James's wife) witnessed the will of John K. Latchum in Worc. Co.; he mentioned land adjacent "Newington Green," which is north of St. Martin's River and not far south of the Delaware line. Catherine Laws' will was probated in Sussex Co., Del. 6 Nov 1844. She made bequests to son James Laws and daughters Janet Helm and Polly Williams. (Dates of birth with parents' names from Bible Records, Vol. 87A, p. 605, Delaware State Archives.)

N-31 JAMES FASSETT MILLER, son of James and Sophia (Fassitt) Miller (N-14), b. Sussex Co., Del. Md. c1785; d. Baltimore Hundred, Sussex Co., 17 Jan 1847; mar. 1st (Sussex Co., 25 Aug 1825 - Bible) Catharine Dirickson, dau. of William and Betsey Dirickson, b. 8 Mar [?1805 - yr. missing in Bible]; died Sussex Co. 2 Jan 1837; 2nd (Sussex Co. 27 July 1837 - Bible) Hetty A. Jefferson, dau. of Richard and Nancy Jefferson, born 19 May 1819. (Records from Catherine F. Miller's Bible "given her by her father William Dirickson," Delaware State Archives, Bible Records 87A). Four youngest children are by 2nd marriage.

On the basis of an agreement with his father (see N-14) James F. Miller on 17 Aug 1832 sold lands inherited from his mother, "Winter Quarter," "Slip," "Powell's Lot" in Baltimore Hundred, "Happy Lot" in Worc. Co.; on 22 Mar 1832 "Dont Puzzle" in Worc. Co. In March Term 1848 in Chancery Court, Ebenezer and Sophia Williams, Ezekiel and Eleanor Williams, and Elizabeth, Hester, James, & Lucinda Miller by "their next friend," Hetty Ann Miller, all heirs at law of Jas. F. Miller, brought suit against the then holders of the above lands for ejectment from those lands, claiming that James Miller, Sr., had negligently and absent-mindedly failed in his will to honor his agreement to leave all his lands to son James. The Williamses won their case (Chancery Court, Delaware State Archives RG 4835 - Case Files, Sussex, W #58, 1848).

Worc. 28 July 1823) his late wife's cousin, Frances ("Fanny") Fassett, born 22 Dec 1785; d. 9 Nov 1847; bur. Buckingham (see N-13 for her will). In his will, dated 7 Aug 1839, Isaac bequeathed to sons Edward and John C. (executors) a tract bought of Rouse Gray, house & lot in Berlin Town, tract in Delaware given me "by my father," land on the Beach, Broad Marshes, land bought of Henry Franklin. He made bequests to grandsons Isaac Bredell Purnell, George C. Purnell, Edward John Purnell, to trustees of the Buckingham Church, to Elisha L. Purnell. If wife Frances should refuse to release her claim in Delaware and to the tract "Beaver Dam," 190 acres, and claim to house and lot in Berlin formerly sold "by me" to John C. Derrickson, then she is to receive nothing from the will. Witnesses John P. Spence, John R. Pitts, John P. Purnell. In Dec 1839 widow Frances claimed her dower; witnesses were James F. Mills, Charles Orem (Worc. Wills LPS:153-55).

N-60 MARY ELIZABETH ("BESSIE") FASSITT, daughter of William (N-41) and Elizabeth (Pitts) Fassitt, b. 1841/2; mar. 1st (lic. Worc 7 Mar 1864) WILLIAM L. TAYLOR, born 1839; d. Berlin 11 Feb 1872; bur. Buckingham Presby. Cem. there. She mar. 2nd (Worc. 20 Oct 1876) (LEVIN) JAMES W. LYNCH, son of William and Martha Emeline (Parsons) Lynch, b. 1857/58. In 1870 the Taylors were in HH8 in Berlin, Wm. S. aged 30, Mary E. 27, Annie S. 3. In 1880 James Lynch (aged 21) was a farmer, head of HH 177, 3rd E.D., Worc. Co., his wife Elizabeth aged 38. (In the 1860 census James Lynch with his parents was aged 2, in 1870, Levin J., aged 11.

In 1850 Mary Fassitt, aged 8, was with her parents, in 1860, 17, with uncle Thos. C. Fassitt (her property in trust). In mar. license (1864) she is Mary E. In 1866 she was named Bessie Taylor, dau. of Wm. Fassitt, in will of her uncle, Dr. Charles Fassitt. In 1870 she was Mary E. Taylor, in 1880 Elizabeth Lynch. According to Pennewell family records, daughter (below) Catherine is identified as child of James and Bessie (Fassett) Lynch, and Katie Pennewell's death certificate reports the same parents. In the 1876 marriage record she is Bessie Lynch; it appears that the Clerk carelessly wrote the bride's surname also as Lynch rather than Taylor; she misreported her age as 24, not 36). In the 1880 census Lula Taylor, 13, is listed as "daughter-in-law" (step-daughter) of James; "Lula" must have been the middle name of Elizabeth's daughter; "Brevard" in dau. Catherine's name would be for Bessie's father's mother.

O - THE TINGLE FAMILY

Hugh Tingle, grandfather of Caleb Tingle, who married the Littleton descendant Elizabeth Fassitt, was in Somerset (now Worcester) Co., Md., by 25 Dec 1683, when he wed Elizabeth Powell, daughter of Walter. He acquired land in Boquetenorton Hundred on the seaboard side, close to the Delaware line, between modern Berlin and Fenwick Island. By the time of his death in 1737 he owned 900 acres, including "Hilliard's Discovery" and "Powell's Inclusion" (Batchelder 268).

The Tingle-Littleton descendants remained in the same area well into the nineteenth century, but they began to disperse about 1840; since both families and individuals tended to move about considerably, especially the Stevensons, valid generalizations are difficult. First, widowed Elizabeth Tingle Williams (O-15) moved to Baltimore, Md. After the death of her sister Harriet Stevenson (O-16) in 1853, her husband and some children moved to Missouri; youngest son John (O-33) returned to Maryland. Daughter Elizabeth McMaster (O-31) remained on the Shore, but her son John moved to New Jersey, her daughter Mary to Wilmington. Edward Stevenson (O-30), after trying several locations, finally settled down in Kentucky, but descendants continued to scatter from there, to Missouri and elsewhere. Of the lines that have been traced, the other Tingles who left the Eastern Shore remained in the East, particularly in Baltimore and Philadelphia (O-25, O-27).

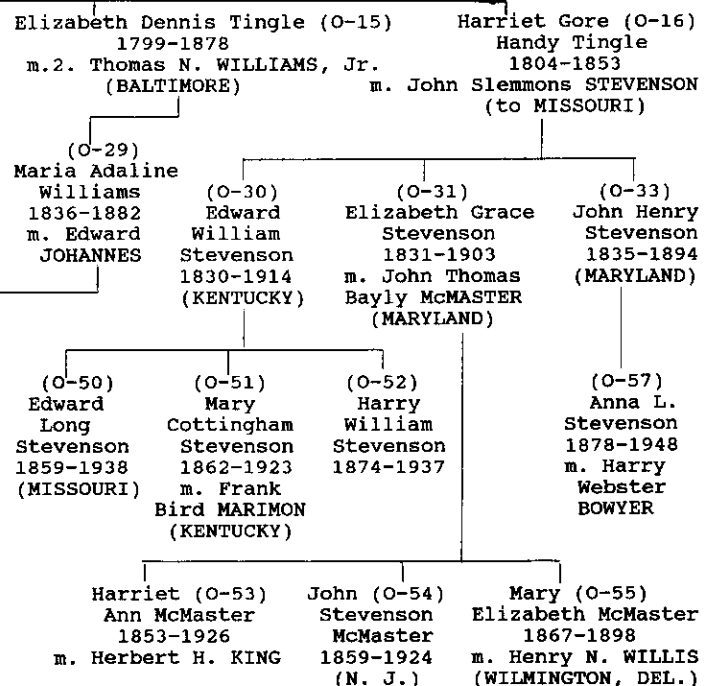

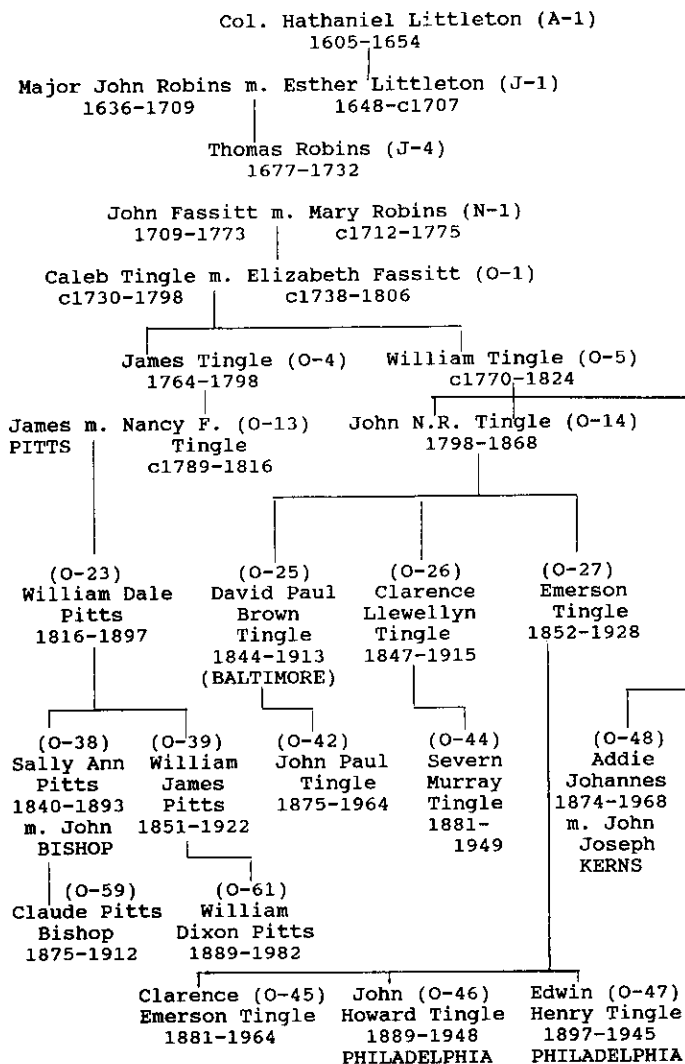

Chief sources of information have been researches of J. Seeger Kerns (O-74) of Baltimore, William R. Bishop, Jr. (J-238), of Reading, Pa., and the late Frances Shurr Marimon (O-80) and Elizabeth Stevenson Haley (O-86); John S. McMaster (O-54), A Sketch of John Slemmons Stevenson, 1807-1867, 1902 (only in manuscript); "Notes on the Tingle Family of Worcester Co., Md." prepared by Millard F. Hudson of Washington, D.C., from 1912 to 1918 (in manuscript), supplemented by public records and input from the families.

O-1 CALEB TINGLE, son of Daniel and Mary Tingle, b. Boquetenorton Hundred, near present-day Berlin, in Somerset (now Worcester) Co., Md. c1730; d. Worc. Co. by 6 Feb. 1798; married (St. Martin's Anglican Church, 11 Dec. 1754? - yr. unclear) ELIZABETH FASSITT, daughter of John and MARY (ROBINS) FASSITT (N-1) and a great-great-granddaughter of COL. NATHANIEL LITTLETON (A-1), b. Som. (later Worc.) Co. c1738; d. Worc. Co. 12 Nov / 24 Dec 1806. Both Elizabeth's father (Nov 1772) & mother (1774) in wills named her Elizabeth Tingle, and her mother named granddaughter Elizabeth Tingle.

As eldest son Caleb inherited from his father Daniel Tingle plantation "Hilliard's Discovery" & "Powell's Inclusion," but he had already started acquiring land. On 29 Apr. 1754 he bought from his father 100 acres, "Gunshot Ridge," and 84 acres, "Double Purchase," both together resurveyed 28 July 1756 as "Tingles Good Luck," in modern W. Berlin Dist. In 1759 he patented 99 acres, "Calebs Discovery," and, with Benjamin Davis and John Evans he patented "Partnership," 320 acres, in the same area, and sold 134 acres in 1768. On 4 Nov. 1761 he bought 3 parcels of "Conclusion," 176 A. In 1769 he patented 15 acres, "Lands End," in 1770 added 25 more acres to it, paid tax on 40 acres in 1783. In 1770 he bought more of "Powells Inclusion." On 27 Mar. 1770 he bought out the interest of Zeno Evans in "Hilliard's Discovery." On 22 Jan. 1782 he bought 42 acres "Temple Hall," and in 1797 sold 228 acres to son James Tingle. In 1791 he patented 80 A. "Tribble Purchase" (Dryden Worc. Land Records 90, 125, 188, 277, 297, 351, 457, 494, 612, 626, 639, 644), and their were other acquisitions.

The family home, built about 1750 on "Caleb's Discovery," of brick (Flemish bond with glazed headers), remained in the senior branch of the family until after the 1870's (see Touart, Along the Seaboard Side 240-41). In his will, dated 21 July 1797 (prob. 6 Feb. 1798) Caleb devised to son Daniel "Double Purchase," "Hollands Discovery," "Mitchells Conclusion"; to son James, "Temple Hall," except 14 acres to Littleton Robins; to son Elijah, "Strabane," on the west side of the Pocomoke River; to sons John and William lands; to wife Elizabeth the plantation. He also named daughters Sarah Tingle and Margaret Smith; left to grandchildren Edward, Elizabeth, Daniel, and Caleb Dymock lands their father William Dymock had conveyed to Caleb Tingle in Salisbury. Witnesses were Josiah and Levin Mitchell, William Covington (Worc. Wills JW18:334-335).

Elizabeth Tingle dated her will 12 Nov. 1806, making bequests to daughters Peggy Gray, Sally Covington; to grandson Isaac Covington; & granddaughters Sally Gray, Nancy and Polly Tingle, and Elizabeth Radcliffe Tingle, daughters of son James, deceased; Elizabeth Tingle, of son William; Betsy Truitt. Son-in-law William Covington was named executor (Worc. Wills MH4:57-59).

Information on names and dates, and the home, were provided by J. Seeger Kerns (see Tingle Descendants, III:3, Spring 1990, pp. 3-7). Children were baptised St. Martin's Church, near modern Berlin, but the page is torn on which the first two appear. (Berlin, formerly called Stephen's Cross Road, was established only about 1800.)

In 1782 William Dymock patented 138 acres "Neighborhood" (in modern Ocean City District), sold 48 acres to Caleb Tingle 1 Oct 1786. On 4 Mar 1783 Dymock bought 100 acres "Safeguard," which he & wife Hannah sold 3 Oct 1786 to Caleb Tingle (Dryden Worc Land 425, 534). In his will in July 1797 Hannah's father devised these tracts to his Dymock grandchildren, Edward, Elizabeth, Daniel, Caleb. On 13 Aug 1795 Hannah Dymock posted bond as administratrix of estate of William Dymock, with Wm. Tingle, Isaac Williams as sureties. On 4 Oct 1796 McKenny Hudson was bonded as administrator D.B.N. of William Dymock, sureties Robt. Hudson, John Benson (Worc. Co. Estate Index). (Details from William R. 4. Caleb Dymock, b. c1786; no further record.

O-3 DANIEL TINGLE, son of Caleb and Elizabeth (Fassitt) Tingle (O-1), b. near Berlin, Worcester Co., Md. 5 Aug. 1761; d. Worc. Co. Nov. 1819; mar. (c1792) Catherine Rackliffe, daughter of Nathaniel Rackliffe, b. Worc. Co. c1775; d. Worc. Co. 24 Sept. 1824.

On 12 June 1807 Daniel Tingle and wife Catherine gave to their son Nathaniel Rackliffe Tingle land that Catherine became entitled to from her father, 692 A. If no issue, then it would go to five children or their survivors: Matilda, Elizabeth, & Maria Tingle, and child Catherine Tingle is now pregnant with (Dryden Worc. Land 297). In the 1800 census Daniel is identified as "Capt." Daniel Tingle. He was a public official, possibly a judge, for on his son William's gravestone he is identified as Hon. Daniel Tingle.

In his will, signed 12 July 1817 (prob. 7 Dec. 1819) Daniel made bequests to wife Catherine, carriage & carriage horse, 1/3 of personal estate & her dower right in land; to son Nathaniel Rackliffe Tingle, all land purchased from wife's sister & land owned in Synepuxon (if he die without issue, land to go to "my" daughters Matilda, Gertrude, Elizabeth, Maria, and the child "my wife" is pregnant with); to Nathaniel and these daus., each a negro. To son William he devised land "where I now live, also "Striban" or "Cypress Swamp," plus $1200 in trust with Dr. Thomas [Fassitt] for William's support and for his "liberal" education. His daughters were to receive all of "Striban" not given to William. House & lot in Berlin were to be sold, & "my Sloop & Bay Boat" & about 1/3 of personal estate (exclusive of negroes) to be sold at public auction. Executors were friends William Covington, Thomas Rackliffe. Witnesses were Thomas N. Williams, John Taylor, William McGregor (Worc. Wills MH10:410-412). The Worc. Co. Chancery Docket (Case #6) for 22 Nov 1822 shows Nathaniel R. Tingle, William Tingle, Daniel Tingle for his next "friend" Maria Tingle by Wm. Tingle for his next friend Hetty M. Tingle, and Robert Davis & Gertrude his wife, heirs of Daniel Tingle. In the May 1824 Docket Kelly Stevenson brought suit against these same heirs.

In her will, signed 24 Sept. 1823 (prob. 19 Oct. 1824) Catherine bequeathed to daughter Maria Tingle negroes, mirror, loom, to son Daniel Tingle negro and, residue of her estate; son William Tingle was to be executor. Witnesses: [brother-in-law] William Tingle, Sr. (d. 1824), and [daughter-in-law] Elizabeth Tingle (Worc. Wills MH27:104). (Dates from Millard Hudson 32 & gravestones.)

Children (born Berlin, Worcester Co., Md.):

7. Daniel Tingle, b. 1807; d. 11 Oct 1824.
8. Elizabeth Rackliffe Tingle, 1812-by 1824.

O-4 JAMES TINGLE, son of Caleb and Elizabeth (Fassitt) Tingle (O-1), b. near modern Berlin, Worcester Co., Md., 17 Feb 1764; d. ?Berlin, between 21 July 1797 (when his father made his will) and 12 Nov. 1806 (his mother's will); mar. Catharine Hudson (Kerns). His children were named in his mother's will.

Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):

- O-13 1. Nancy F. Tingle, b. c1789; d. ?Feb 1816; mar. James Pitts.
2. Polly Tingle, b. c1791
3. Elizabeth Radcliffe Tingle, b. c1793

O-5 WILLIAM TINGLE, son of Caleb and Elizabeth (Fassitt) Tingle (O-1), b. on his father's farm near modern Berlin, Worcester Co., Md. c1770; d. on his farm at St. Martin's, near Berlin, 12 Feb. / 22 Mar. 1824; mar. 1st (lic. Worc. 4 Feb 1796) Sarah ("Sally") Long, dau. of Levin and Leah (Pollitt) Long, born Snow Hill, Worc. Co. c1778; d. probably on family farm near St. Martin's c1808. He mar. 2nd (lic. Worc. 2 June 1813) Elizabeth Rackliffe Purnell Rankin; as a widow of John Purnell (d. 1802) she had married (lic. Worc. 16 Sept. 1806) John Rankin. She was mother of Sally M. Purnell, who mar. her step-son, John Tingle (O-14).

John S. McMaster, in A Sketch of John Slemmons Stevenson, 1807-1867 (1902, p. 16) declared that his great-grandfather William Tingle's 2nd wife was Elizabeth (Rackliffe) Purnell, sister of Catharine Rackliffe, the wife of Daniel Tingle, 2nd, bro. of William. William had no children by the 2nd marriage. In her will, dated 3 Nov 1838 (prob. 10 Nov 1841) Elizabeth Tingle named sons Zadock T. & Thos. Purnell, granddaughter Elizabeth H. Tingle, and (no relation shown) John N.R., Sarah M., Zadok A., & Elizabeth H. Tingle (Worc. Wills LPS:208).

McMaster (p. 17) also wrote: "Harriet Gore Handy Tingle [his grandmother] was a daughter of William Tingle and Sally (Long) Tingle, who lived, except for a short time in Snow Hill, on a farm near St. Martin's and about five miles from Berlin, Maryland, and there died...he and his wife are bur. in the Episc... Church-yard at Snow Hill," but the gravestones have not survived. "Sally Long, the first wife of William Tingle, and the mother of Harriet G. H. Tingle, was a daughter of Levin Long, of Snow Hill, who was twice married, first to Leah Pollitt and then to Comfort Chaille. Levin Long & Leah Pollitt had four children: William, John, Nancy, who married a Mr. Brittingham from [Va.], and Sally, who married William Tingle." John Pollitt of Somerset Co., Md., father of Leah Pollitt Long, in his will dated 5 June 1807 (prob. 23 Feb 1808) named son Levin Pollitt and left

1/2 of 1/4 of his estate in the hands of William Tingle, who married the testator's granddaughter Sally Long, for the use of his grandson John Long (Som. Wills EB23:123). Levin Pollitt in his will, signed 3 May 1836 (prob. 3 Oct 1837) devised land to Nancy Brittingham, made bequests to the children of William Tingle "that he had by my niece Sally," and to Harriett Stevenson [his grandniece] (Som. Wills JP5:10-12). Sidney Chaillé Long in his "Autobiography" (see Q-53) wrote "Of my paternal Grandfather's [Levin Long's] children, I knew personally only two by the first wife, viz.: Harriet, wife of John S. Stevenson...in fact, these two were grandchildren, and both lived and died in New Town now Pocomoke City."

William Tingle was bequeathed lands adjacent William Collier and Zadock Powell by the will of his father, Caleb Tingle (July 1797). William's mother, Elizabeth Tingle, in her will (Nov 1806) named her granddaughter Elizabeth Tingle, daughter of son William.

In his will, signed 20 Feb. 1824, William Tingle, Sr. made bequests of furniture & negroes to sons John, William, & James, a minor, John to be sole executor and guardian of James; to daughters Elizabeth D. Hudson and Harriet G. H. Tingle; & to wife Elizabeth. He requested that the plantation, & lots in Snow Hill be rented out & sold after death of wife, proceeds to be divided among 5 children. Witnesses: Joshua Prideaux, John Tingle, Nathaniel R. Tingle; the last two named gave oath at time of probate, John's name being written as John Tingle Senior (Worc. Wills MH27:79-80). (Some information provided by J. Seeger Kerns, Richard P. Baer III; Millard Hudson.)

NOTE: Sally Long Tingle's nephew, Sydney Chaillé Long, mar. another Littleton, Mary A. S. Wilson (Q-53); a son of her 1st cousin Josiah, James W. Long, mar. a Littleton, Mary C. Powell (B-153); Sally's 1st cousin John White Long had a dau. Drucilla who wed a Littleton (B-66) & Sally's father's 1st cousin, Zadock Long (1756-1838) mar. two Littleton wives (C-1).

O-6 SARAH TINGLE, daughter of Caleb and Elizabeth (Fassitt) Tingle (O-1), b. near Berlin, Worc. Co., Md. c1775; mar. (lic. Worc. 6 June 1799) WILLIAM COVINGTON. In his will, dated 16 Dec. 1811 (prob. 14 Jan. 1812) he bequeathed to wife Sarah a third of his estate & named her executor; to daughter Elizabeth Ann Covington, 50 acres, bounds Zepporah Parker's & Caleb Hudson's, where Ananias Hudson formerly lived, part of "Hardship"; to son Isaac 500 acres, the balance of land aforesaid, and 200 acres. Witnesses were Peter C. Evans, Caleb Hudson (Worc. Wills MH4:309-310).

- Children (born Worcester Co., Md.):
- 1. Elizabeth Ann Covington, b. early 1800; d. 1850/60; married (lic. Worc. 22 July 1826) ROBERT MITCHELL; apparently no children. In 1850 Elizabeth, aged 50, was in the HH (169, 3rd E.D.) of Jesse Baker, who had mar. (3 Feb 1826) Rebecca Mitchell, probably her late husband's sister.
  - O-17 2. Isaac Covington, b. 25 Oct 1801; d. 20 Feb 1845.

O-7 JOHN TINGLE, youngest son of Caleb and Elizabeth (Fassitt) Tingle (O-1), b. near Berlin, Worcester Co., Md. 13 Apr. 1780 (bapt. St. Martin's Parish); d. Missouri 1840/50; mar. (lic. Worc. 7 Jan. 1801) Sarah Messick, b. c1783. Nancy Mezick in her will, dated 15 May 1816 (prob. 11 Feb. 1817) named dau. Sarah Tingle, grandson (unnamed) & granddaughter of Sarah, & granddaughter Hetty Ann Tingle (Worc. Wills MH10:243-245).

By his father's will in 1797 John received part of the ancestral land, including the house in which his father lived. On 27 Feb 1807 John & Sally Tingle sold to his brother Daniel the part of "Double Purchase," 67 1/2 acres, he had inherited from his father, and on 8 Nov 1809 he sold 158 acres "Gunshot Ridge" to brother William. John was head of a family in Worc. Co. 1810 with 5 slaves; in 1820, 3rd Dist., no slaves; in 1830, no slaves. In April 1837 the family moved to Shelby Co.,

Mo., apparently accompanied by all the children. Details for this family, researched by J. Seeger Kerns, editor, appear in Tingle Descendants, Vol. 7, No. 2, Winter 1993, pp. 2-4. On 12 Aug 1839 Sally Tingle filed a bill of complaint for divorce with the Clerk of the Circuit Court in Shelby Co. The petition in Nov. term 1839 stated "that she has resided in the State of Missouri more than two years during which time her husband has been a notorious drunkard and has treated her with insult, indignity & abuse," etc., but there is no evidence that a divorce was granted. Sally made her will 3 July 1851 (prob. in Shelby Co. 13 Aug 1851), naming only children.

O-11 HETTY MATHILDA TINGLE, daughter of Daniel (O-3) and Catherine (Rackcliffe) Tingle, b. Berlin, Worcester Co., Md. 22 Feb 1797; ?d. before 1850; mar. (lic. Worc. 31 Aug 1824) THOMAS POWELL, son of Elisha and Martha (Rain) Powell, b. Worc. Co. 27 Apr 1800; died ?Hannibal, Mo. before 1850. (Information sent in 1972 to the late Leslie P. Dryden of Hyattsville, Md., by Mrs. George H. West, 580 MacArthur, San Jose, CA 95128, and Mrs. Betty B. Evenson, 36 Tulane Ave., Pocatello, ID 83201; see also Dryden Powell 47.)

On 17 Sep 1824 Robert A. Davis granted to Thomas Powell "of E" part of "Strabane." On 25 Mar 1827 Thos. Powell & wife Matilda sold to James Dunca all rights to "Strabane," 92 acres, which descended to them at the death of Daniel Tingle, Sr. In 1830 Thomas was enumerated in the 2nd Dist., Worc. Co. Between 1831 and 1849 the family migrated to Hannibal, Mo. In 1850 sons Washington and Stephen were listed in the HH of Sarah M. Tingle in Hannibal, Mo., next door to John and Eliza Powell. (Also listed with Sarah were Amelia Tingle 19, Thomas Tingle 23, Daniel Tingle 21.)

Children (born ?Worcester Co., Md.):

1. Comfort Catherine Ratcliff Hudson, b. 17 Mar 1831; d. 1 Apr 1870; unmar.; bur. St. Paul's.
2. Daniel ("Dan") Caleb Hudson, b. 27 Oct 1832; d. Berlin 6 Apr 1905; married (Worc. 17 Apr 1899) Sarah Catherine Bowen, b. Nov 1854; d. Berlin Feb 1921; both bur. St. Paul's; no children. In 1860 he was a teacher, living with his mother; in 1870 a laborer; in 1880 a surveyor, Berlin HH97. He became a civil engineer & land agent in Berlin, & a lawyer. In his will, written (20 Jan 1893; prob. 29 Apr 1905) before his marriage, he declared that since "our brother" Henry C. Hudson's death, he and sister Rachel had lived in the same house, he wished that she should continue to enjoy the comfort, etc., & made her his sole heir. Although for brother John A. Hudson, now residing in Jack Co., Tex., he cherished the "most fraternal feelings and still love him as a brother," Daniel did not feel it his duty to devise him anything. Witnesses: Calvin B. Taylor & Edward D. Martin (Worc. Wills TDP12:275-276).
3. William Thomas Hudson, b. 29 May 1834; d. 17 Mar 1837; bur. St. Paul's, Berlin.
4. Rachel Ann Hudson, b. 14 Apr 1836; d. Berlin, "Easter Eve," 11 Apr 1914; bur. St. Paul's; unmar. In 1880 she was a teacher, living with brother Daniel.
5. William Edward Hudson, b. 25 May 1838; d. 10 Jan 1850; bur. St. Paul's.
6. John Alexander Hudson, b. 25 Mar 1840; mar. Mrs. Sarah Jane Sanders of Texas. He went to Missouri about 1860; on the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted & fought in the Confederate Army. He later settled in Texas, taught school, became a farmer and stock raiser near Cundiff, Jack Co., Tex.

Children:

- a. Maria Zora Hudson, b. 24 Dec 1868.
b. Rachel Cordelia Hudson, b. 16 Feb 1871; d. 14 Aug 1875.
7. Thomas H. Hudson, b. 9 Feb 1842; in 1850, 1860 census with mother; d.s.p. by 1884.
8. Henry Charles Hudson, b. 31 Oct 1843; died ?Berlin 15 Oct 1891; bur. St. Paul's; unmar. A physician, he was living with his mother 1850-70. In his will (signed 3 Oct 1884; prob. 27 Oct 1891) he devised house & lots in Berlin to brother Daniel and sister Rachel, residue to them and brother John A. Hudson. Witnesses: John R. Purnell, Edward D. Martin, Calvin B. Taylor (Worc. Wills GTB3:391-92).

O-13 NANCY F. TINGLE, daughter of James (O-4) and Catharine (Hudson) Tingle, b. Worcester Co., Md., c1789; died cFeb 1816 (?in childbirth); married (lic. Worc. 8 Feb 1809) JAMES PITTS, b. 1781/82; d. 1850/60. He mar. 2nd (lic. 24 Sep 1816) Sary Covington. In 1850 and 1860 he was living with his presumed son William.

Child (born Worcester Co., Md.):

- O-23 1. William Dale Pitts, 12 Feb 1816-15 Dec 1897.

O-14 JOHN N.R. TINGLE, son of William (O-5) and Sarah (Long) Tingle, born St. Martin's (near Berlin), Worcester Co., Md., probably at "Hilliard's Discovery" (later known as "Old Brick House Farm," now called "Caleb's Discovery") 13 Jan 1798; died Berlin 18 Apr 1868; married 1st (lic. Worc. 12 Feb 1822) his step-sister, Sally M. Purnell, dau. of Capt. John & Elizabeth (Rackliff) Purnell, b. c1802; d. c1833/4; 2nd (lic. Worc. 11 May 1842) his cousin Mary Ann Elizabeth Bowen, daughter of Elisha and Mary (Collier) Bowen (N-35), b. Berlin, 12 Oct 1825; d. Berlin, 15 May 1911; bur. with husband, St. Paul's P.E. Churchyard, Berlin. Since Mary was younger than John's eldest son, the marriage evidently alienated his four elder children. (Sources: J. Seeger Kerns and Mrs. Sarah E. Tingle Everding.)

Known as "Gentleman John" Tingle to friends & family alike, he was listed in census records as a farmer, though he probably never worked, and, if he needed money, he would sell a piece of land. In 1850 he was head of HH707, 3rd E.D., Worc. Co.; in 1860, HH1972, Berlin, land $6500, pers. prop. $3000. The four eldest children are by his first marriage.

Children (born Berlin, Worcester Co., Md.):

1. John Nathaniel Rackliffe Tingle, b. 1823/24; still at home in 1860, no occupation listed.

O-15 ELIZABETH DENNIS TINGLE, daughter of William (O-5) and Sarah (Long) Tingle, b. family farm near St. Martin's (near Berlin), Worcester Co., Md. 22 Mar 1799; d. 37 Stiles St., Baltimore, Md. 5 Apr 1878; bur. Loudon Park Cemetery, Baltimore; mar. 1st (lic. Worc. 10 Jan 1820 - mar. 12 Jan) THOMAS HUDSON, son of Caleb & Comfort (Massey) Hudson, born Worc. Co. 1795; d. Worc. Co. (intestate) 8 July 1832; 2nd (lic. Worc. 28 Aug 1833) THOMAS NATHANIEL WILLIAMS, JR., son of Thomas N. and ?Nancy (?Parker) Williams, b. c1800; d. near Berlin by 9 July 1839.

The census shows Thomas Hudson as head of a family in the Northern District of Worc. Co. 1820, 1830; his estate was administered 1832/3/4 by Elizabeth Hudson. On 29 Aug 1836 Thomas N. Williams gave bond of $1000 to Isaac Holland, whereby he agreed to "sell & convey to Corella Williams, his daughter, and to his child which his wife, Elizabeth Williams, is now pregnant with, his life estate which he holds in the farm which his wife bought of Eli Powell, situated on the road leading from Berlin to St. Martin's church & adjacent to Wm. Gault's farm" (Worc. dDeeds JCH:408). On 9 July 1839 guardian bonds were posted for Elizabeth D. Williams, $3000 for each of two minor daughters of Thos. N. Williams.

About 1840 Elizabeth moved to Baltimore. She had considerable means and at one time, it is said, owned twelve rental houses in the city. She suffered losses, however, and at the time of her death had only two houses (J. Seeger Kerns in Tingle Descendants, Vol. 6, No. 3, Spring 1993, pp. 3-5.)

Children (born near Berlin, Worcester Co., Md.):

- O-28 1. Julia Ann Hudson, b. Nov 1820; mar. Charles A. Oram.
2. Sarah Elizabeth Hudson, b. 27 Oct 1823; d. 6 May 1837. Her estate was administered by her uncle, John W. Hudson, in 1837/8/9.
3. Mary Harriet Andasia Tingle Hudson, b. 19 Aug 1826 (bapt. Buckingham Presby. Church, Berlin 25 Nov 1829); drowned Sinepuxent Bay 11 July 1838 with seven other young people.

- O-29 5. Maria Adeline Williams, b. 5 Sep 1836; d. 29 Nov 1882; mar. Edward Johannes.

O-16 HARRIET GORE HANDY TINGLE, daughter of William (O-5) and Sarah (Long) Tingle, b. family farm near St. Martin's (near Berlin), Worcester Co., Md. 18 May 1804; d. New Town (Pocomoke City), Md. 30 Apr 1853; bur. Pitts Creek Prsby. Cem., Pocomoke; married (lic. Worc. 23 May 1827) JOHN SLEMMONS STEVENSON, son of Edward and Nancy (Williams) Stevenson, born New Town 16 Sep 1807; died Hannibal, Marion Co., Mo. 7:30 a.m. 8 May 1867; body moved to Pocomoke, where a stone marks his grave beside his first wife. He mar. 2nd (Hannibal 8 June 1854) Mrs. Elizabeth Eunice (James) Slemmons Garrard, b. 26 Dec 1813; died Chicago, Ill. 7 Mar 1901; bur. Glasgow, Mo. (McMaster)

On 9 Sep 1839 John S. Stevenson received $975 as his wife's (Harriet's) share of negroes, cash, bank stock from estate of Levi Pollitt (Som. Receipts JP10:124-5). On 28 Feb 1837 at a Sheriff's sale John S. Stevenson bought considerable land in Somerset Co., which he and wife began selling the same year. In 1830 they resided in Snow Hill, moved in 1833 to New Town, where John is head of a family in the 1840 census. In 1850 he was a farmer, head of HH1554, 1st E.D., near New Town.

Harriet G.H. Stevenson of Worc. Co. signed her will 8 Apr 1853 (prob. 18 May 1853), making bequests to her daughters Sarah Ann Sturgis, Elizabeth Grace McMaster, three sons Edward W., David L., John H. Stevenson, and husband John S. Stevenson (executor). Witnesses were James Stevenson, Henry Murray, Leah Mills (Worc. Wills TT8:70-71).

Very soon after his wife Harriet's death John S. Stevenson migrated to Hannibal, Mo., with son David, presumably shortly followed by son John & dau. Sarah Sturgis & family, but it is also reported that David came from St. Loist to Hannibal for his father's wedding in 1854. On 24 Sep 1857 Moses U. J. Stevenson bought land in Som. Co. from John S. Stevenson of the state of Missouri, Sarah A. Sturgis, wife of James D. Sturgis, Edward W. Stevenson and Elizabeth Grace McMaster, wife of Dr. John T.B. McMaster of Worc. Co., and David L. Stevenson & John H. Stevenson of Mo., heirs of Harriet G.H. Stevenson, land that descended to her from Col. Levin Pollitt and Ann Brittingham. ## P - PURNELL FAMILY

Thomas Purnell, from Gloucestershire, England, great-grandfather of Major William Purnell (P-1), arrived on the Eastern Shore of Virginia in 1635, then moved into Somerset (now Worcester) County, Maryland, about 1666. The Purnells were settled at Fairfield Plantation at the site of present Snow Hill before 1688, when Snow Hill was officially established. (In 1742 it became the county seat of the newly created Worcester Co.) Many descendants of this branch sprung from the Littletons have remained in and around Snow Hill, and Berlin, not far away, down to the present day. Shortly before the outbreak of the Civil War, Dr. George W. Purnell, Jr. (P-5:5) removed to New Orleans, soon followed by his nephew, another Dr. George W. Purnell (P. 26), who settled in Hazlehurst, Miss. The latter's son, another George W., moved on to Kansas. In the 20th century others have removed to Baltimore and elsewhere.

An early source of family genealogy is a Tree of the Purnell Family prepared in August 1888 by Miss Emma C. Purnell. The bulk of information appearing in the following account, from Bible records, wills, deeds, correspondence, newspapers, interviews, charts, and other sources, has been generously contributed by Littleton-Purnell descendant William R. Bishop, Jr., of Reading, Pa. (J-238), who, with his uncle, the late Charles C. Bishop (J-239), extensively researched the Purnell family. Further details were provided by the researches of J. Seeger Kerns of Baltimore (O-74). The source for the Mississippi branch (see P-26) is Mary Magruder Stapleton Wooton, "The Purnell Family," in Hazlehurst: Copiah Co., Miss., Jackson, Miss., ed. Hartwell Cook, 1985, I:361-62.

P-1 WILLIAM PURNELL, son of Elisha and Mary (Selby) Purnell, b. Worcester Co., Md. 1739; d. Worc. Co. by 2 Dec. 1796; mar. (1760) MARY ROBINS (whose mother was his first cousin), daughter of Thomas Robins, Jr. (J-13) and his wife, Aralanta Purnell, and great-great-granddaughter of COL. NATHANIEL LITTLETON (A-1), born Worc. Co. 1743; died Worc. Co. by 8 Dec. 1809; both are reportedly buried on the family estate, "Genesas."

In a deposition of 27 May 1801 Mary Purnell gave her age as 57 (Worc. Petitions etc. A:315-20). In Apr 1793 William Purnell and wife Mary sold to John Purnell all their interest in Lots No. 1 & 2 (in Worc. Co.), which had been bequeathed to Mary by her father, Thos. Robins (Dryden Worc. Land 441).

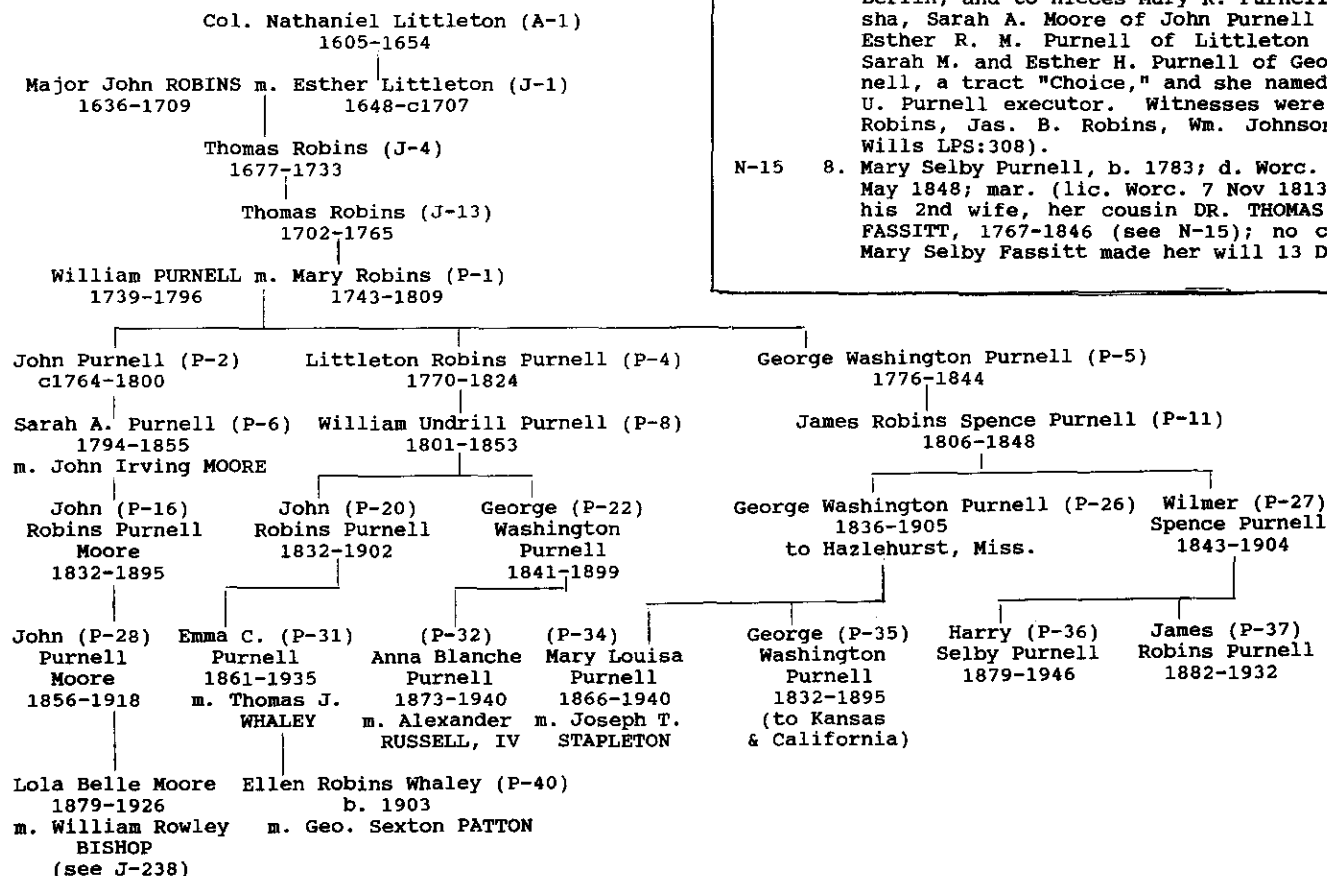

By his father's will, dated 16 May 1767, William inherited all of old and new Fairfield Plantation. He was named Captain of Sinapuxent Battalion of Worcester Co. Militia 30 Aug 1777, then Major 13 June 1782 (Clement & Wright 113). He was elected to the Md. Assembly 1785-88.

Referred to as Major in the Worc. Co. Estate Docket, William Purnell signed his will 20 Oct 1794, devising to his wife, Mary, lands during her widowhood. To his son Elisha he gave land, including tract "Fairfields," given by Thomas Robins to his grandson Thomas R. Purnell, deceased, brother of Elisha. To sons John Purnell and Littleton R. Purnell he left lands. To son George Washington Purnell (under age) he also devised lands, parts of "Fraternity," "Partnership," "Dover." To his daughter Esther Robins Purnell & Mary Selby Purnell he devised "Hudsons Mistake." Witnesses: Joseph Stevenson, Belitha Brittingham, Littleton Robins (Worc. Wills JW 18:273-277).

Mary Purnell signed her will 6 Feb. 1806, making bequests to daughters Esther Robins Purnell and Mary Selby Purnell, & to granddaughter Mary Robins Purnell, daughter of Elisha Purnell. Witnesses were Littleton Robins, Littleton R. Purnell, and Mary Purnell (Worc. Wills MH 4:186-187).

7. Esther Robins Purnell, b. 27 Dec 1779; died Worc. Co. 11 July 1845; mar. (lic. Worc. 22 Sep 1813) DR. THOMAS R. P. SPENCE; no children. Esther Spence made her will 14 Apr 1845 (prob. 3 Jan 1846), devising to niece Sarah A. Moore land on the road from Show Hill to Berlin, and to nieces Mary R. Purnell of Elisha, Sarah A. Moore of John Purnell [Moore], Esther R. M. Purnell of Littleton Purnell, Sarah M. and Esther H. Purnell of George Purnell, a tract "Choice," and she named William U. Purnell executor. Witnesses were John P. Robins, Jas. B. Robins, Wm. Johnson (Worc. Wills LPS:308).
- N-15 8. Mary Selby Purnell, b. 1783; d. Worc. Co. by 9 May 1848; mar. (lic. Worc. 7 Nov 1813), as his 2nd wife, her cousin DR. THOMAS SIMPSON FASSITT, 1767-1846 (see N-15); no children. Mary Selby Fassitt made her will 13 Dec 1847, naming nephews Dr. James R. S. Purnell, Wm. Thomas John Purnell, Elisha L. Purnell, niece Sarah M. Purnell, also George W. Purnell, Hetty Henry, Sarah Moore, William U. Purnell, Esther Purnell. Witnesses were Arlanta R., Nancy, and John S. Purnell (Worc. Wills LPS:382).

P-2 JOHN PURNELL, son of William (P-1) and Mary (Robins) Purnell, b. Worcester Co., Md. c1764; d. Worc. Co. 30 Nov 1799 / 10 Feb 1800; mar. (c1793) his first cousin, Henrietta Purnell, dau. of Lemuel and Dennis (Hopkins) Purnell, b. c1770; living 1810. John Purnell was a physician. (Source: Wm. R. Bishop, Jr.) In his will, signed 30 Nov 1799, he named his wife Henrietta, brothers George W. Purnell, Elisha Purnell, Littleton Purnell, brother-in-law George Purnell, children Sally Purnell & John Robins Purnell (Worc. Wills JBRI:59).

Q - THE EPHRAIM WILSON FAMILY

In the records in the Teackle William Jacob family Bible, printed in Philadelphia, 1850, one owner, probably copying from an older Bible, wrote: "Ephraim Wilson came to this country from Ireland on Dec. 2, 1664. Married Elizabeth Lynch - nee Davis. They had 6 children. David their 6th child married Betty Denwood and had 9 children. Denwood Wilson was the 8th child of David and Bettie Wilson." The family record shows that Ephraim Wilson, a Presbyterian, was born in the Kingdom of Ireland, came to America and settled in Somerset Co., Md. On 9 Aug 1693 he was commissioned Sheriff of Somerset Co. He died in Somerset Co. in Jan 1733/34 in his 69th year.

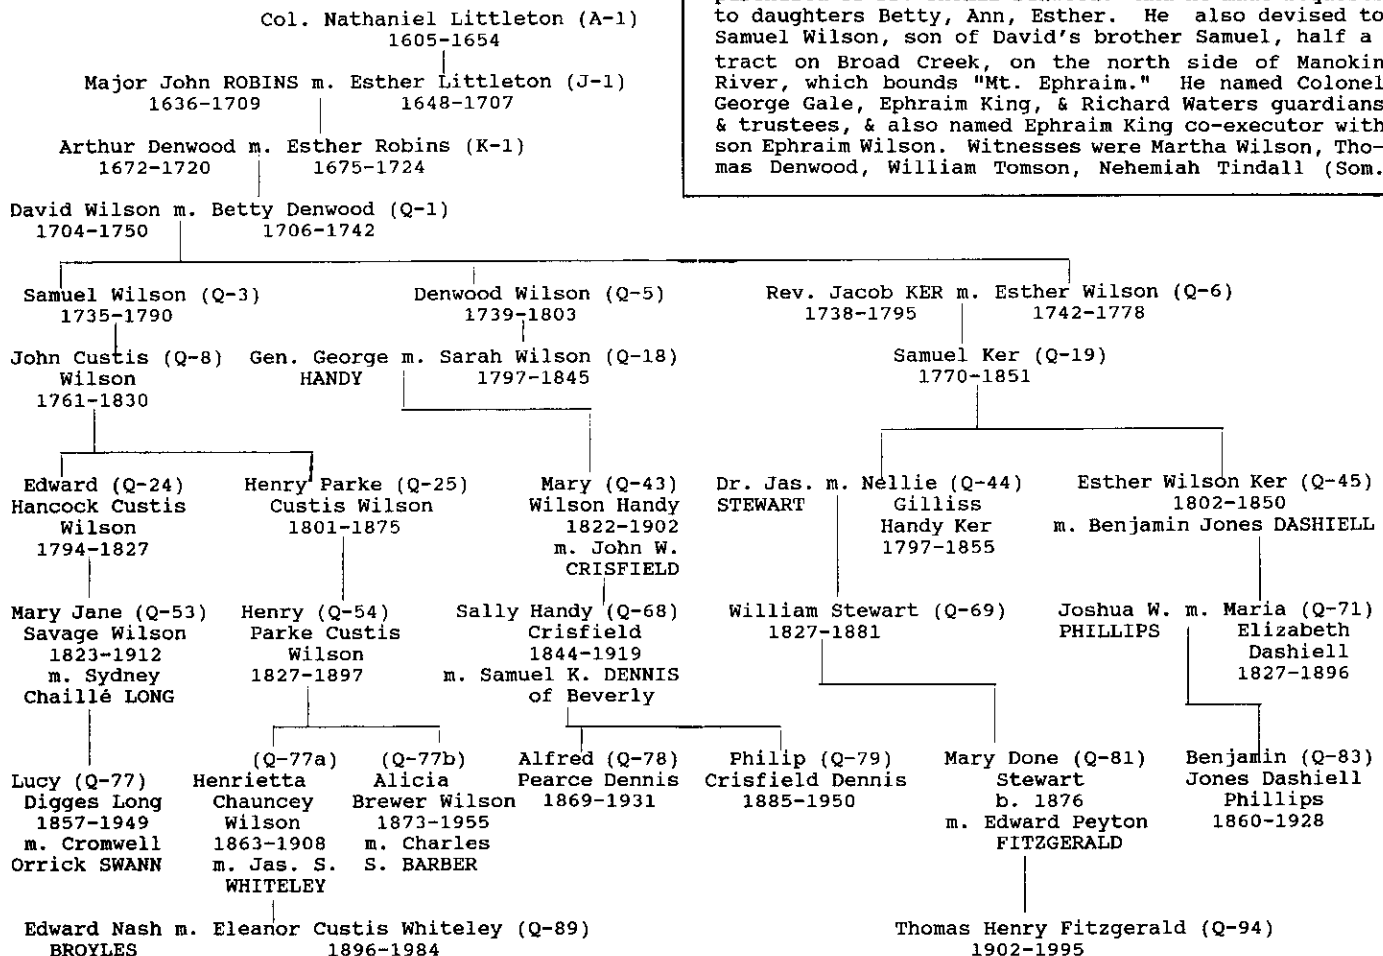

In 1726 Ephraim Wilson patented 375 acres, near modern Westover, "Mount Ephraim," on the south side of Back Creek, a branch of the Manokin River. His first wife, Elizabeth, was daughter of William Davis, and widow of Henry Lynch. Ephraim was not the first generation in America. He was a son of Rev. Thomas Wilson, first pastor of Manokin Presbyterian Church, Princess Anne, from 1685 until his death, 1702. On 2 Jan 1685/6 Rev. Wilson bought 130 acres, "Turner's Purchase," later known as "Davis's Choice, which passed to son Ephraim, who also acquired other land from his father-in-law William Davis, all this land resurveyed in 1740 as "Mother's Care," now known as "Workington" (Dryden Som. Land 301; Torrence 226-32,468; Touart Somerset 218-19).

Much of the following material is drawn from a fifty-one page book by Joseph Breckinridge Handy (he is L-149), A Genealogical Compilation of the Wilson Family, Schoharie, N. Y., November 1897, and on the cover: Wilson Record: Descendants of Ephraim Wilson the Original Settler in Maryland. In his Preface the author wrote: "Without apology for the incompleteness of this genealogical record, I respectfully submit it to the considerate leniency of my relatives. It is but the putting together of their notes, and for that reason they are responsible for such incompleteness as may exist./ Among those who have furnished extensive information and who must share in a measure the responsibility of this publication are: Miss Mary Winder Garrett, of Williamsburg, Virginia; Mrs. Levin L. Waters and Miss Ellen Stewart, of Princess Anne, Md.; Mrs. Elizabeth Handy Slemmons, of Delmar, Delaware; and the Misses Jane W. and Virginia S. Gemmill, of Washington, D. C." The first page of text is headed: "A Partial Record of the Wilson Family in America." This account has been supplemented by public records (county court and census), and church, Bible, and cemetery records, as well as information generously supplied recently by family members.

Q-1 DAVID WILSON, the fourth son of Ephraim Wilson and his wife, Elizabeth Davis (widow Lynch), born probably at Back Creek, Somerset Co., Maryland, 25 Dec. 1704; died Back Creek, 15 Nov 1750; married 1st (24 Feb 1723/4) BETTY DENWOOD, daughter of Arthur and ESTHER (ROBINS) Denwood (K-1), & great-granddaughter of COL. NATHANIEL LITTLETON (A-1), born Monie, Somerset Co. 5 Feb 1706; d. 27 June 1742. David Wilson mar. 2nd (6 Nov 1743) Abigail Upshur, widow of Wm. Waters (G-2), who bore him a son, James Wilson (9 Oct 1744-5 May 1796).

David Wilson, evidently a planter, was an elder of Manokin Presbyterian Church. In his will, dated 12 Nov. 1750 (prob. 26 Nov. 1750), besides bequests to Rebecca Stewart, Samuel Murray, & Zorobable King (to satisfy a bond), he named wife Abigail, willed to son Ephraim the plantation on the south side of Back Creek, "Wilson's Lott," part of "Hopewell," on the south side of Manokin River. Son Samuel was to have land deeded to son Ephraim by his grandfather, Ephraim Wilson, "Double Purchase." Son David (under 21) was devised the plantation purchased of Kendall Hack in Indian Neck, part of "Smith's Recovery," on which John Tunstall lived, also part of "Cloverfield." To son Denwood he left plantation "where I live," which bounds Dr. Thomas Denwood. Son James was to have plantation purchased of Dr. Thomas Denwood. And he made bequests to daughters Betty, Ann, Esther. He also devised to Samuel Wilson, son of David's brother Samuel, half a tract on Broad Creek, on the north side of Manokin River, which bounds "Mt. Ephraim." He named Colonel George Gale, Ephraim King, & Richard Waters guardians & trustees, & also named Ephraim King co-executor with son Ephraim Wilson. Witnesses were Martha Wilson, Thomas Denwood, William Tomson, Nehemiah Tindall (Som.

Wills EB14:40-43). The children were born probably at Back Creek in Somerset Co. (Handy Wilson p. 6)

Children (born Somerset Co., Md.):

1. Ephraim Wilson, b. 1 Jan 1725/26; d. Som. Co. 24 May 1778; mar. (c1762) Mary Hayward. He was of "Wilson's Lot," now (1897) called "Arlington." In his will, dated 21 Dec 1777 (prob. 17 June 1778) he requested that son David be cared for by testator's daughters. To dau. Peggy he devised plantation "where I live," i.e. "Wilson's Lott." Dau. Henrietta was to receive lands bought of Marcy Fountain, "Convenience" & "Cow Quarter." Wife Mary was to have a third of the estate, & he left money to the Manokin Congregation. He named as executors wife Mary, his brothers Samuel and James Wilson. Witnesses: Levin and George Wilson, Isabell Beard (Som. Wills EB1:78-79). (See Handy Wilson p. 7.)

Q-3 SAMUEL WILSON, son of David and Betty (Denwood) Wilson (Q-1), b. Somerset Co., Md., probably at Back Creek, 29 July 1735; died Som. Co. presumably at "Great Hopes," now (1897) called "Westover," Somerset Co. 29 Apr. 1790; married 1st (Northampton Co., Va. 25 Mar. 1760, Levin Gale, security, consent of Anne Tompkins for bride) Margaret Parke ("Peggy") Custis, dau. of Col. John & Ann (Kendall) Custis, of "Hungar's," Northampton Co., b. North. Co. c1742; d. "Great Hopes" 14 Oct. c1768, aged 26, buried in plot on Workington farm, near Westover, Som. Co.; he mar. 2nd (c1768) Mary (?) Gale of Som. Co. (Source: Handy Wilson 13-19)

Before Nov. 1770 Samuel Wilson had acquired "Friends Advice" and "Conclusion," which were resurveyed in 1776 as "Great Hopes," which he patented, 787 acres near Princess Anne. He sold 20 acres in 1770, paid tax on 700 acres, 1783. On 10 Dec. 1784 he sold 4 acres for 1 shilling to Jacob Ker, Levin Gale, David Wilson, Henry Jackson, Wm. Polk, Isaac Henry, & Thos. King, trustees of the Washington Academy (Dryden Som. Land 186).

In his will, dated 29 Apr. 1790 (prob. 15 May 1790) he bequeathed to son John lands in Accomack Co., Va., and the plantation "where I Live," "Great Hopes." Dau. Milcah Gale Wilson was to have a small part of "Great Hopes" and land on the south side of Back Creek. Son Samuel was willed lands on the north side of Pocomoke River. To nephew Samuel Ker he left small pieces of land between Col. Corbin and Nehemiah King. Sons John and Samuel, and friend Samuel Smith were named executors. Witnesses: Arnold Elzey, John Woolford, William Stanbridge (Som. Wills EB17:105). The first child was by first marriage.

Q-4 DAVID WILSON, son of David and Betty (Denwood) Wilson (Q-1), born Somerset Co., Md., probably at Back Creek, 23 Aug 1737; died Som. Co. 5 Sep 1810; mar. 1st (Sunday evening, 27 Aug 1759) Nancy Jones, born 9 Oct 1737; died Som. Co. 4 Oct 1765. He mar. 2nd (25 June 1766) his first cousin once removed, Priscilla Winder, daughter of William & Esther (Gillis) Winder (M-1), b. Som. Co. 13 July 1744; died Som. Co. 5 Sep 1779. He mar. 3rd (19 Dec 1779) (Mrs.) Sarah Martin Done, b. 26 Jan 1726; d. 31 Jan 1803. Of Sarah, David wrote in his Bible, she "made him a most excellent and amiable wife and his children, by her exemplary Christian conduct, a faithful, prudent, kind and tender step-mother. That they may while they live, copy her pious example; and when they depart this life, follow her to mansions of eternal bliss, and participate in the smiles of our Common Lord and Savior, is the fervent prayer of their afflicted Father." (Handy Wilson 19-27)

David removed with his unmarried children to Worcester Co., Md. in the mid-1780's. On 5 June 1786 he purchased 164 acres, "Smith's First Choice," in Bogertown Hundred, east of Snow Hill. From his son-in-law, William Morris, on 7 June 1786 he purchased 100 acres, "Morris's Security," & on 16 Feb 1787, for 5 shillings 100 acres, "Mulberry Grove." On 9 Feb 1787 he bought from Col. James Martin 514 acres, "Martha's Purchase"; on 11 Mar 1791 at Sheriff's sale, "Fellowship"; and on 4 Aug. 1792, 111 acres, "Hudson's Bail" (Dryden Worc. Land 576,411,419,388,221,318).

In his will, dated 14 Apr 1810 (prob. 30 Oct 1810), David Wilson bequeathed to son Ephraim K. (executor) lands bought of Col. James Martin and James R. Q-6 ESTHER WILSON, daughter of David and Betty (Denwood) Wilson (Q-1), born Somerset Co., Md., probably at Back Creek, 19 June 1742; d. Som. Co. 16 June 1778; mar. ("Cherry Grove," near Princess Anne, Md. 1767 - Manokin Presby. Church records) Rev. JACOB KER, son of Samuel and Catharine Ker, b. 31 Oct. 1738; d. Som. Co. 29 July 1795. Since Esther's mother died a week after her birth, Esther was reared by her sister, Mrs. Thomas Jones, at "Cherry Grove." Jacob Ker married 2nd (c1779) his late wife's cousin, Jane Winder (M-4), daughter of Judge William and Esther (Gilliss) Winder, and widow of Capt. Henry Handy, b. 21 Oct 1749; d. 29 Sep 1803.

The Rev. Jacob Ker, a 1760 graduate of Princeton College, was licensed to preach in 1763 by the Presbytery. According to the Wilson record the present [Manokin] Presby. Church at Princess Anne, Md., was built in 1765 for the Rev. Ker to preach in. He was pastor of the United Churches of Manokin & Wicomico. His grandfather, Walter Ker, the immigrant, a Presbyterian Scotsman, settled at Freehold, N. J., 1685, after being banished from Scotland "for his faithful adherence to God and his truth as professed by the church of Scotland." He had previously been confined for 6 months with many others to a graveyard for his religious beliefs. He was one of the founders (1726) of the "Log College" out of which Princeton grew (1746). (Handy Wilson 31-32)

In Oct. 1772 Jacob Ker purchased from Samuel Wilson a 273 acre plantation, bought from Randall Mitchell, part of "Double Purchase" called "Daughters Dower" (Dryden Som. Land 138). In his will, dated 7 Feb 1795 (prob. 13 Aug 1795), the Rev. Ker bequeathed to his wife Jane the estate "she had at our marriage and what fell to me by the will of her father." To son Samuel (executor) he devised the plantation on the Manokin River "where I formerly lived," part of a tract bought from Randall Mitchell, & he made bequests to son-in-law [step-son] Thomas Winder Handy (under age) and daughters Betty Handy, wife of William Handy, and Peggy, wife of Rev. John Collins. Witnesses were John Landreth, John Byrd, and Alexander Roxburgh (Som. Wills EB17: 410-414). The children were born near the Manokin River, below Princess Anne, Md.

INTRODUCTION: THE ROYAL ANCESTRY OF THE LITTLETONS

King Henry IV of England is the latest English monarch from whom a great many Americans are descended without knowing that they are. There are thousands of American descendants of Henry's father, John of Gaunt, and even more of his grandfather, Edward III; many of them are aware of their royal lineage. The American descendants of the Littletons thus constitute a rather exclusive "club." Why this special situation prevails will be explained at the end of this note.

Some generalizations can be made about all or most of the early Littleton ancestors. No reputable evidence has survived (beyond legend and tradition) to connect anyone in the Middle Ages with ancestors before the fourth century A.D. (the last full century of the old Roman Empire), especially no reliable evidence to connect anyone with famous Romans. Therefore, the earliest known ancestors of the Littletons were pagan barbarians, principally Germanic (Teutonic). We may get some idea of the life style of this warrior tribal society, individual tribes under the leadership of a powerful chief, from the famous Anglo-Saxon epic poem, Beowulf. These barbarians were not out to destroy the Roman Empire; awed by its might and magnificence, they only wanted a share in it; from as early as the 2nd century they were being hired in increasing numbers as mercenaries in the Roman legions.

The Teutonic conquest of western and central Europe has been called the greatest fact in history, for it determined the world in which we live today. In the early fifth century all along the northern and western Roman frontier barbarians broke across the border. Northwestern Germany was occupied by various tribes, especially Saxons, who, together with Angles and Jutes, overran Britain (see Chart 4). To their south were the Franks, occupying modern Belgium, northern France, and western Germany; they gradually spread over most of France (see Chart 6). Saxons, and East Franks, and other Germanic tribes settled into territory that had never been Roman provinces, and laid the foundation for Germany and Austria (see Chart 9). In Eastern Europe the Visigoths, at first driven west by the ferocious and rapacious Huns, very early in the 5th century had migrated into southern France, but a century later moved into Spain. By the 440's the Roman Emperor's power did not extend outside Italy, and barbarian kingdoms began to emerge in Western Europe, but what emerged was a violent and chaotic society.

Slavic peoples from Asia had settled into modern Poland and Bohemia and by 900 had established kingdoms. The pillaging Magyars from Asia by 900 had founded Hungary, but their attacks did not come to an end for half a century (for these see Chart 13). Once the Magyars had settled into a civilized way of life, three centuries later Hungary was devastated by another invading horde out of Asia, the fierce Mongols in 1241 (see Chart 13, esp. 13:19). No Littletons are known to be descended from these barbarians.

In the meantime the Germanic peoples of Scandinavia spawned another wave of barbarian invasions which posed a serious threat to the newly developing civilizations. The Vikings (Norsemen, Danes) about 800 began their bloody plundering raids on the coasts of Britain and western and southern Europe. They established settlements in Ireland, for a time conquered, and settled, much of eastern Britain (see Chart 4). Their attacks were especially deadly on the French coasts, until finally in 911 they were granted a territory known as Normandy (see Chart 8). About 862 a band of Norsemen established themselves in Russia and imposed their authority over the native Slavs (see Chart 11). Of course the peoples of Sweden, which provided its share of the Vikings, were Germanic (see Chart 11).

The rulers of the kingdoms established by all of these barbarian invaders were ancestors of the Littletons. Not so another breed of invaders, who ultimately posed a much greater threat. Militant and fanatic Moslems or Muslims (also referred to as Islam, Arabs, later Saracens, Turks) in 632 began their huge campaign of conquest, first in the Near East, then in Asia as far as India; sweeping across North Africa, they invaded Spain in 711 and conquered the weak Visigothic kingdoms (see Chart 14). Western Europe was saved from Moslem conquest by the brilliant victory of Charles Martel (see Chart 6:11) at Poitiers in France in 732, a turning point in history. In time Moslems overran what is now Turkey and were beating at the gates of Constantinople, which withstood them for several centuries. It was this threat of Turkish conquest that led Eastern Roman (Byzantine) Emperor Alexius II (see Chart 10:7) to appeal to the West for aid, an appeal which launched the First Crusade. But Constantinople in 1453 finally fell to the Moslems.

Not only were the earliest known Littleton ancestors heathen barbarians, but most Littleton ancestors after the late 9th century were members of the FEUDAL SYSTEM (a term invented by 17th and 18th century lawyers). (It did not develop in Byzantium, nor had it developed in early Russia or Sweden - see Charts 10, 11, 12). It emerged about 850-900 with the breakdown of the Carolingian empire (see Chart 6) and the loss of strong centralized government, and public power passed into private hands. It grew out of Germanic tribal custom: a strong chieftain or warlord with a gang of loyal warriors, who at his command would attack, pillage, and destroy. He would provide protection in his own stockade or household, also food, clothing, and arms, and a share of the spoils. Once a chieftain became a territorial ruler with land at his disposal, he could reward his fighting followers with land.

The lordship was the essential element in feudalism. A ruler or overlord (or suzerain) would grant land out of his own demesne to his follower (his vassal), enough land (worked by serfs) to support the vassal in an appropriate life-style, and enable him to afford the heavy expense of horses and armor for a mounted knight in chain mail (later warriors wore even more expensive heavy armor). The vassal would pledge fealty to his lord, an oath to support his lord in warfare and other ways. He owed the service of a certain number of knights, depending on the size of his holding (which at first was only a grant, not ownership, but it soon came to be a hereditary possession). The holding was known as a fief, with which the vassal was "enfeoffed." In the fief the lord (baron, magnate) exercised more or less exclusive political and economic power, with the right to collect taxes, hold courts of justice, etc. The great lord or vassal would normally in turn sub-infeudate his own followers, i.e. grant them as sub-vassals smaller fiefs out of his own land holdings. The ruler's immediate vassals were tenants-in-chief, and their vassals were sub-tenants.

The vassal owed various kinds of service in addition to military service (normally limited to forty days a year), i.e. providing a band of knights for his lord's army. He was obliged to appear when summoned to give his lord advice and counsel (for instance, in England, the King would summon his lords to a council or Great Council, which in time became the House of Lords as part of Parliament); and he was also expected to appear at his lord's private court to judge cases involving his fellow vassals or peers.

Other "feudal dues" were forms of feudal taxation: the relief (payment made by the vassal's heir for the privilege of "livery," i.e. delivery or handing over of the estate upon succeeding to the vassal's fief), payment when the lord knighted the vassal's eldest son or when the vassal married off his eldest daughter, or ransom to free the lord from captivity. If the vassal's heir were a minor, the lord might retain the wardship if the heir's estate was very lucrative, or assign wardship to another vassal. Whenever a lord died, all his vassals were expected to renew their oath of fealty to the new lord. If the vassal neglected his feudal duties, he would be summoned before the lord's court and tried, then risk forfeiture of his fief. Such an eventuality would lead to war. Likewise, if the lord violated his part of the bargain, the vassal could dissolve his feudal bond, and war would result, but in feudal society warfare was recurrent (see Cantor 195-204). To learn the skills of feudal warfare the lord's heir was usually placed in the household of another lord for training in knightly conduct. Out of the feudal system developed the concept of chivalry (derived from chevalier, horseman), the expression of good manners to fellow knights and to ladies, but not necessarily to inferiors.

Once the pagan barbarians had been converted to Christianity, a process completed in western Europe by about the 10th century, all the Littleton ancestors in Western Europe were ultimately members of the Roman (Catholic) Church. The Visigoths (see Chart 14) were originally converted as Arian Christians, and the

Once the pagan barbarians had been converted to Christianity, a process completed in western Europe by about the 10th century, all the Littleton ancestors in Western Europe were ultimately members of the ROMAN (CATHOLIC) CHURCH. The Visigoths (see Chart 14) were originally converted as Arian Christians, and the Byzantines (Chart 10) and Russians (Chart 11) were (Greek) Orthodox Christians.

As the late Roman Empire was weakening, the emperors nurtured, protected, and unified the Christian Church so successfully that, as a state within a state, the Papacy had the power to withstand onslaught of the barbarians and to undertake missions to convert the heathens. Even before the final collapse of the Roman Empire in the 470's, the Roman Church had in effect replaced the Roman state, the Bishop of Rome (Pope) emerging as the leader against invaders (Cantor 62-63).

During the violent and chaotic period of Germanic invasions and establishment of barbarian kingdoms, the Christian Church saved European civilization, principally through the agency of Benedictine monasticism, which preserved literacy and learning. Several significant Popes were Benedictine monks, including Gregory I the Great, Pope 590-604 (Cantor 155). Testimony to the prevailing devout piety of Medieval man is the hundreds of magnificent Gothic cathedrals that were erected all over Western Europe, in tiny towns as well as the larger cities.

Under the Feudal System great churchmen (bishops, abbots) were feudal barons, holding great fiefs, vassals of the monarch, who depended on them for their literacy and learning and administrative skills. Bishops were often agents for carrying out royal policy. As the Papacy gained in power and authority, Popes sought to elevate the clergy above secular rulers. Popes developed two powerful instruments to bring rulers to submission. Excommunication deprived the individual of any of the rites of the Church. Even more powerful, the interdict, under which a whole nation would be placed, forbade the clergy to administer the sacraments or Christian burial to any of the inhabitants, which could prove a great hardship. Pope Innocent III in 1208 imposed both on King John of England (see 2:7) as a result of a dispute over whether the King or Pope had the right to elect an Archbishop of Canterbury. A yet more drastic weapon in Papal hands was deposition of a monarch. A major conflict between rulers and Popes was over lay investiture. For centuries monarchs (i.e. laymen) had customarily invested newly elected archbishops, bishops, etc., with their (secular) fiefs, and also with the ring and staff, which signified the transfer to the candidate of sacred authority. The Popes wanted to reserve the right of investiture to themselves. German King Henry IV (9:12) was involved in this conflict with Pope Gregory VII, who in 1076 excommunicated and deposed him. The excessive claims of Papal supremacy met a match in King Philip IV the Fair of France (7:14), who incited his ruffians to attack & imprison Pope Boniface VIII, 1303.

The canon law of the Roman Church governed marriage. It prohibited marriage within the seventh degree of relationship. If a couple who wished to marry were within that degree, they were expected to seek a Papal dispensation (permission), but many did not. If a king decided that he and his queen were incompatible, he could request an annulment or a divorce on the grounds of consanguinity (close relationship). King Louis VII of France (7:9) in 1152 divorced Eleanor of Aquitaine on these grounds because she bore him only daughters.

The combination of feudalism and the piety of Medieval men resulted in the Crusades. When Pope Urban II preached the First Crusade at Clermont in Nov 1095, he is said to have been partly motivated by a desire to channel the violent warlike restlessness of young knights into a noble activity. An immediate motivation was to send help to Byzantine Emperor Alexius I (10:7), who had appealed to the Papacy for aid against the Turks threatening Constantinople. A more spiritual motivation addressed to Frankish knights was to free Christians from Moslem rule in the Holy Land and to liberate the tomb of Christ, the Holy Sepulcher, in Jerusalem (though the Moslems had always allowed pilgrims to visit it). Some Crusaders were motivated by greed for land and power, but Crusades were so unpleasant, dangerous, and expensive that spiritual motivation must have been very high among the large majority of Crusaders. The western Europeans who came to the East on Crusade, no matter what their origin, were always referred to by Byzantines and Arabs as "Franks."

Altogether at least 20 Littleton ancestors were Crusaders. No kings took the cross for the First Crusade. Leaders included Godfrey de Bouillon (15:10), the first "Latin" ruler of Jerusalem, his brother Eustace III of Boulogne (15:4) and their younger brother, Baldwin I, first King of Jerusalem; Stephen III, Count of Blois (2:2); and Hugh Magnus, Count of Vermandois (16:1), also Rairo of Monzon (14:20). The chief objective was achieved: Jerusalem was captured 15 July 1099.

The Second Crusade (1147-49) was led by the pious King Louis VII of France (7:9, with his attractive wife, Queen Eleanor (of Aquitaine) and a large army, and by the German Emperor. Marching overland, the French army was severely reduced by an ambush in Greece. An ill-advised campaign in Palestine was a fiasco. Many other smaller Crusades took place besides those major numbered expeditions. In the 1180's William Marshal (17:8), as a Knight Templar, went to the Holy Land; his effigy on the floor of the Temple Church, London, shows his feet crossed, the sign of a Crusader. Among later so-called "crusades" against Papal enemies and others in Europe was that against the heretical Albigensians, in which King Louis VIII of France (7:11) was involved.

A major objective of the Third Crusade (1189-92) was the recapture of Jerusalem, which had been retaken by Saladin, the Moslem leader, 4 July 1187. From the standpoint of leadership, this was the most spectacular, for it was led by three great rulers, the most famous being Richard Coeur de Lion, King of England. The others were the German Emperor Frederick Barbarossa (9:14), who never made it to the Holy Land, for he drowned accidentally while bathing or swimming in a river not far from Constantinople, and Philip II Augustus, King of France (7:18), who returned home early. Another Crusader was Sir Robert de Beaumont (16:4). Though Jerusalem and other major holy sites sieged by Saladin were not regained, the Crusade partly restored the Frankish kingdom, and King Richard captured Cyprus from the Moslems (Billings 150).

The Fourth Crusade (1202-4) was a disgraceful disaster, in which no known Littleton ancestor participated. The Crusaders were diverted by the Venetians to Constantinople. The French and Venetians succeeded in deposing usurping Emperor Alexius III (10:17) and restoring deposed Emperor Isaac II (10:16), with his son, who was so detested by the populace that father and son were deposed by a palace revolution in Feb 1204 and the Byzantines defied the Crusaders, who thereupon captured Constantinople (Byzantium) and brutally pillaged and laid waste the city, then set up a Latin (Frankish) kingdom there.

King Andrew II of Hungary (13:18) went on Crusade in 1217. The Fifth Crusade (1218-21) to Egypt, considered by then the center of Moslem power, drew three English knights, Hugh de Lacy (20:1), Roger de Quincy (22:5), and his father, Saher (22:1), who died at Damietta. King (St.) Louis IX of France (7:12), motivated by Christian idealism, led both the Seventh (1244-54) and Eighth Crusades (1267-70). In the first, to Egypt, he and his son Philip IV (7:13) were defeated and made prisoners for a time, and Louis' brother Robert of Artois (7:17) was slain. Louis spent four more fruitless years in Palestine. Accompanied by his brother Charles, King of Naples (7:19), Louis made another Crusade to Tunis, where he died from the plague (1270). In 1268 Edmund of Lancaster (2:23) was on another fruitless Crusade to Acre, in the Holy Land, as was his elder brother, King Edward I (2:9), in 1270-72, when he was almost assassinated, his life reputedly saved by his wife, Queen Eleanor, who had accompanied him.

The Crusades were a failure, for by 1303 the last remnant of Frankish power in Palestine had been lost to the Moslems. One tragic result of the Crusades was the weakening of the Byzantine Empire, which finally fell to the Turks in 1453. Mediterranean trade between west and east was stimulated. The sophisticated society of the Byzantines helped to refine the manners of western knights, and the ideal of military service to God and the Church...penetrated chivalric values throughout Europe" (Billings 51).

As suggested at the beginning of this "note," the Littleton descendants of King Henry IV occupy a very unusual position. The bloody Wars of the Roses (1453-1487) killed off so many of the nobility and roused such suspicion that for over a century a close watch was kept by the monarch on all surviving royal cousins to ensure that no one would attempt to seize the throne. If any of them had emigrated to the New World, it would have been news.

For the royal family (the Plantagenets), the fifteenth century (1401-1499), the end of the Middle Ages, was a disaster. This period of English history, totally unlike any other, so fascinated Shakespeare that he based seven history plays on it. The throne was usurped three times, and of the eight kings between 1376 and 1400, two were deposed and murdered (Richard II, Henry VI), one was murdered as a child (Edward V), one was slain in battle (Richard III). Of the other four, Henry V had no descendants after the death in battle in 1371 of his only grandson, Prince Edward, and the House of Lancaster was extinguished. Henry IV (1:1) had descendants only through his son Humphrey (1:2), whose only children, Arthur and Antigone (1:3), were illegitimate. Only two kings, Edward IV (of York) and his son-in-law, Henry VII (Tudor), produced successive rulers of England (see Chart p. 285). As a matter of fact the four Tudor monarchs after Henry VII, between 1509 and 1603 did not produce any descendants, either.

Therefore, between 1376 and 1603, only two monarchs were ancestors of the future English rulers.

The Wars of the Roses were a struggle for power. Since Littleton ancestress Antigone, Lady Grey (1:3), was illegitimate, she was no threat to anyone seeking power, but she was closely related to all the actors in the political drama, and from a safe political distance she and her daughter Elizabeth, Lady Kynaston, could observe, and deplore, the violent and bloody extinction of the Plantagenet dynasty. Antigone may have met her first cousin, the weak and pious boy king, Henry VI, about her own age. She would certainly have known when he began his first bout of insanity in 1453, and her father's first cousin, Richard, Duke of York, named Protector, claiming the crown, was recognized as King Henry's heir. And she and her daughter would certainly have heard of the following events.

In the series of bloody battles beginning in 1455, first Yorkists, then Lancastrians would win. Leaders of the losing side died in battle or were executed afterwards, or managed to escape to the continent. The incompetent King Henry VI was captured in 1460, but recaptured by his own forces in 1461. The Duke of York fell in battle in 1460, but his son Edward, Antigone's second cousin, in 1461 was proclaimed king as Edward IV and King Henry VI fled to Scotland. Returning to England in 1465, Henry was recaptured and imprisoned in the Tower of London, where he was murdered in 1471, shortly after the Lancastrians were finally defeated at Tewkesbury, in the west of England, and Henry's only son slain in battle.

After King Edward IV's death in 1483, his brother Richard reportedly had the child king Edward V murdered in the Tower of London and usurped the throne. Henry Tudor, son of Antigone's second cousin, Margaret Beaufort, claiming to be heir of the Lancastrians, in 1485 from the continent brought an armed band, and joined by enemies of Richard III defeated and killed Richard at Bosworth Field in 1485. The warfare was not over. King Henry VII had to put down two serious uprisings by Yorkist pretenders in 1487 and 1491, and cope with the threat of another in 1499, at which time he had the last male Plantagenet murdered. However, King Edward IV had daughters and sisters and a brother's daughter who produced families. Because of the dangers to his crown that Henry VII had to face, the Tudors kept a wary eye on all these Yorkist descendants as possible threats, and after 1500 Plantagenet descendants continued to be sent to the chopping block.

SOURCES CONSULTED FOR THE APPENDIX

The following list includes the principal sources drawn upon for the appendix. A few, cited only for Chart 1, are found in the text. For the English royal lineage Faris has been a major source. For the other royal lines I have relied heavily on Ancestral Roots (AR), which is more conservative than Stuart, which however is often also cited for supplemental details not found in AR. There is such an enormous wealth of biographical material for many of the royal personages (many the subjects of whole books) that I have fallen back on a standard encyclopedia for minimal details, supplemented by information from Cantor, Billings, Jones, MacLagan, and Roberts. The source for English baronial lines has been the Complete Peerage. References to AR and Stuart (e.g.

155:34) are to line (i.e. lineage) and generation; references to CP, EB, and Isenburg are to volume and page. All other references are to pages.

A dotted line between a parent and child indicates that it is a natural (illegitimate) child.

The following special abbreviations have been used in the Appendix.

CHART 1 - FROM PLANTAGENET TO LITTLETON:

KING HENRY IV TO COL. NATHANIEL LITTLETON

The following account of the families in this genealogical chart, unlike the succeeding charts, contains details of family members other than ancestors (e.g. some brothers and sisters) of the colonist, Nathaniel Littleton, to convey some awareness of the background, social position and activities of his family in England as representative of the landed gentry and the warrior class, educated, propertied, prosperous, i.e. the formative forces that produced him, as his forebears were farther and farther removed from their royal roots, in the two centuries before he migrated to Virginia.

SOURCES: The pedigree from Antigone (1:3) and from Sir Thomas Littleton (1:10) to Col. Nathaniel Littleton is registered in the COLLEGE OF ARMS, Queen Victoria St., EC4, England. It is recorded as having been prepared for Captain John B. Brown, U.S.N. (ret.) and Mrs. Brown of Bethesda, Md., U.S.A., and was registered (1968) in the College of Arms. In actuality, according to Mrs. Brown, with the approval and encouragement of the College of Arms, she and Capt. Brown thoroughly researched this pedigree and submitted it to the College of Arms, whose staff carefully checked it before registering it (cited as C. of A.).

Those sources that convey the impression that the Shropshire Nathaniel Littleton and his brother James died unmarried or without issue were basing their conclusions on erroneous information or the absence of evidence. The Alumni Oxonienses reports that James Littleton of Salop, who matriculated at Christ Church 3 Oct 1612, aged 16, died unmarried 1645. Mrs. Evelyn Martin, author of the article on the Littletons in Transactions of the Shropshire Archaeological Society (p. 308) probably picked up the date from this source, for she likewise stated that James died in 1645. However, James did marry, had a family and survived beyond 1645. His eldest brother, Sir Edward Littleton (d. Aug 1645) of "Henley, near Ludlow," in his will made a bequest to his brother James's three daughters and also to brother Timothy, Serjeant at Law. James, brother of Timothy, did not make a will until 1657. Mrs. Martin likewise stated that Nathaniel died without issue.

Nathaniel's name appears in the Littleton pedigree in the 1634 Visitation of Worcestershire (augmented with dates as late as 1649), which reports that brother Samuel and sister Martha died s.p., but there is no indication that Nathaniel had died. The fact that James's brother Sir Edward in 1645 did not name his brother Nathaniel in his will does not mean that Nathaniel died a bachelor; if Nathaniel had gone overseas, it would not be possible to insure that a legacy of personal property or cash would ever reach him.

Unfortunately the evidence presented in William and Mary Quarterly, Vol. IX (1900-1901):69-70) from the Littleton pedigree formerly in the possession of Lord Hatherton lacks the conclusiveness that it originally appeared to have. According to this report, the pedigree shows that Sir Edward's son "Nathaniel, emigrated to Virginia, in 1635, a gentleman of the Earl of Southampton's Company in the Low countries, 1625." But the word "emigrate" alone raises doubts, for it did not come into use until after 1778. The pedigree, which is now in the Staffordshire [England] Record Office, was examined by Archivist Miss E. Street, who reports that one notation in the pedigree (dated 1625), in a 17th century hand, reads "Nathaniel Littleton in the yeare following, a Gentleman of ye Earl of Southamp' Company in the Low Countries." But the notation, "Emigrated to Virginia 1635," is in a 19th century, not a contemporaneous, hand, and therefore bears no authority. Nevertheless, there can be no doubt about the family connection between Nathaniel Littleton in Virginia and his brother James in England (see A-1).

Evidence for the Grey, Kynaston, Thornes, and Littleton lines below is also found in 17th century visitations (a kind of upper class census, inspections of coats-of-arms and pedigrees), in Harleian Society Publications, Visitations Series (HSPVS): George Grazebrook & John Paul Rylands, Visitation of Shropshire, 1622, vol. 2 (HSPVS, vol. 29, 1889), pages 105 (Grey), 458-460 (Thornes), 299 (Kynaston); and The Visitation of Worcestershire, 1634, pages 61-64 (Littleton).

For biographical details in Nos. 4-13 a principal source is Transactions of the Shropshire Archaeological and Natural History Society, Fourth Series, Vol. III, 1913 (cited as Transactions). The pedigree from John of Gaunt to Nathaniel Littleton, is also found, with sources, in Ancestral Roots (1992) by Weis & Sheppard (cited as AR) & in Faris, pp. 167-8.

1:1 HENRY IV, KING OF ENGLAND (1499-1413), eldest surviving son of John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster (see 2:12), by his first wife, Blanche of Lancaster, b. Bolingbroke Castle, Lincolnshire, 3 Apr 1367; d. Jerusalem Chamber, Westminster Abbey, 20 Mar 1412/3; his body was floated down the Thames on a barge, and he was interred (with 1st wife) in Canterbury Cathedral, with a fine effigy over his tomb. He was mar. 1st (Arundel Castle 30 July 1380 /10 Feb 1380/81) to his 3rd cousin, Mary de Bohun, younger daughter and co-heiress of Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, Essex, & Northampton (see 18:8), b. 1368/69; d. Peterborough Castle, Northamptonshire, 4 July 1394. He was mar. 2nd (Winchester 7 Feb 1402/3, by his half-brother, Henry Beaufort, Bishop of Lincoln) to his 3rd cousin, Joan, dau. of Charles II, King of Navarre, & widow of the Duke of Brittany, b. c1368; d. 10 July 1437; bur. with Henry IV.

Known as Henry "of Bolingbroke," styled E. of Derby, he was created K.G., then Duke of Hereford Sep 1397. In 1387-8 one of the "Lords Appellant" to control his rash and foolish cousin, K. Richard II, he actually helped save Richard from being deposed, but Richard hated him. Richard insisted that a quarrel between Bolingbroke and Thomas Mowbray, D. of Norfolk, be settled before him in trial by combat Sep 1398, but as it was about to begin he capriciously stopped it and banished both. His most insane act, on the death (Feb 1399) of his uncle Gaunt, Henry's father, was the confiscation of Henry's vast inherited Lancastrian holdings.

Henry returned to England July 1399 ostensibly to reclaim his inheritance, was joined at once by the Percies (see 23:11), who materially aided in the deposition. Upon Richard's return from Ireland he was tricked into surrender at Conway Castle Aug 1399, was compelled on 29 Sep 1399 to abdicate, died a prisoner in Pontefract Castle 6 Jan 1400, reputedly murdered. Though the young Earl of March, son of Roger Mortimer (d. 1398) & gr-grandson of Gaunt's elder brother (see 2: 11, No. 2), was legally next heir to the throne, Bolingbroke was proclaimed King Henry IV in Parliament 30 Sep 1399 and was crowned 13 Oct 1399.

The crown never sat easily on Henry's head though he had qualities calculated to make a popular king. He was handsome, courageous, full of energy, liberal, amiable, devout, well-read, and an accomplished musician. His first years were disturbed by recurrent rebellions. In Jan 1400 a revolt led to elimination of Richard's supporters. The Percy family, though well rewarded for their help, complained of neglect by Henry, & raised a rebellion in support of the E. of March. In July 1403 near Shrewsbury Henry soundly defeated them; son & heir "Hotspur" died in the battle (see 23:11). "Hotspur's" father, the Earl of Northumberland, was caught in 1405 plotting against the King, raised a rebellion again in Feb 1407/8, was defeated & beheaded. There were others.

Frequently summoned for funds, Parliament, to which Henry partly owed his crown, throughout his reign imposed pressure, mainly resisting approval of tax levies, urging that he curb expenditures & demanding an audit of his accounts. External pressures eased with the capture in 1405 of the future James I of Scotland; Welsh resistance largely ended by 1405; after 1407 the French threat and other foreign problems diminished.

Henry's conscience continued to bother him over his usurpation and the death of King Richard. Though the govt. of a usurper is inevitably unstable, Henry IV deserves credit for achieving a considerable degree of political stability. As Henry's health began to decline from 1407, Thomas Arundel, Archbishop of Canterbury (see 2:24), his late wife's uncle & his mother's first cousin, as Chancellor, practically ran the govt. until 1409. New factions developed in opposition to the King, one even led by the Prince of Wales, his heir.

Of Henry's four sons and two daughters, all by his first marriage, only sons Henry and Humphrey had descendants, and Henry's line was extinguished in 1471 (CP 7:417-19; Faris 155-57; EB 262-63).

Children (by first marriage):

1. Henry V, King of England (1413-1422), b. Monmouth Castle, S. Wales, 16 Sep 1387; d. at the royal castle at Bois de Vincennes near Paris 31 Aug 1422 of an unidentified illness; bur. Westminster Abbey. He brought military glory

- to England by renewing the French war, which however ended in failure in the 1450's.
2. Thomas, Duke of Clarence, b. before 30 Nov 1388; killed at Bauge, in Anjou, France, in a rash attack on the French and their Scottish allies. At the time he was heir to the English throne. He left no children.
  3. John, Duke of Bedford, b. 20 June 1389; died Rouen, France, 14 Sep 1435, bur. Rouen Cathedral; no children. Upon the death of his brother, Henry V, he became regent of France, energetically pursued the war in France until the siege of Orleans (Oct '28-Apr '29), which was delivered through the efforts of Joan of Arc, the turning point in the war, after which the English suffered loss after loss.
  4. Humphrey, b. 3 Oct 1390; d. 22 Feb 1446/47, Duke of Gloucester. See 1:2 below.

1:2 HUMPHREY [PLANTAGENET], called "The Good," 4th & youngest son of King Henry IV of England (1:1), b. 3 Oct 1390; d. Bury St. Edmunds 23 Feb 1446/1447, bur. St. Albans Abbey, Duke of Gloucester; mar. 1st (before 7 Mar 1422/1423) Jacqueline, Countess of Holland (annulled 9 Jan 1427/8); married 2nd (1428) his mistress, Eleanor Cobham, who d. a prisoner in Peel Castle, Isle of Man, 1454. Said to have been educated at Balliol College, Oxford, to which he was a generous benefactor, he donated part of his library, 270 manuscript volumes, to found the Bodleian Library c1411. Knighted 12 Oct 1399, nominated K.G. c1400, he fought at Shrewsbury July 1403 against the Percies. On 16 May 1414 he was created Earl of Pembroke and Duke of Gloucester.

With a large armed retinue, Humphrey accompanied his brother King Henry in his invasion of France 13 Aug 1415, commanded artillery at the five-week siege of Harfleur, which surrendered Sep 22; most of the citizens were evicted. In the celebrated English victory at the Battle of Agincourt 25 Oct 1415 he fought gallantly, was wounded in the groin and surrounded by enemies, but his brother Henry rescued him. In July he went with Henry V on his second expedition to France, very actively campaigned, fought at the sieges of Caen, Falaise, Cherbourg, Rouen. In June 1419 he was a commissioner to treat for peace & the King's marriage. During these years he had been assigned many other responsibilities. In May 1422 Henry appointed him Regent in England. His brother John's death 1435 made him heir to the throne.

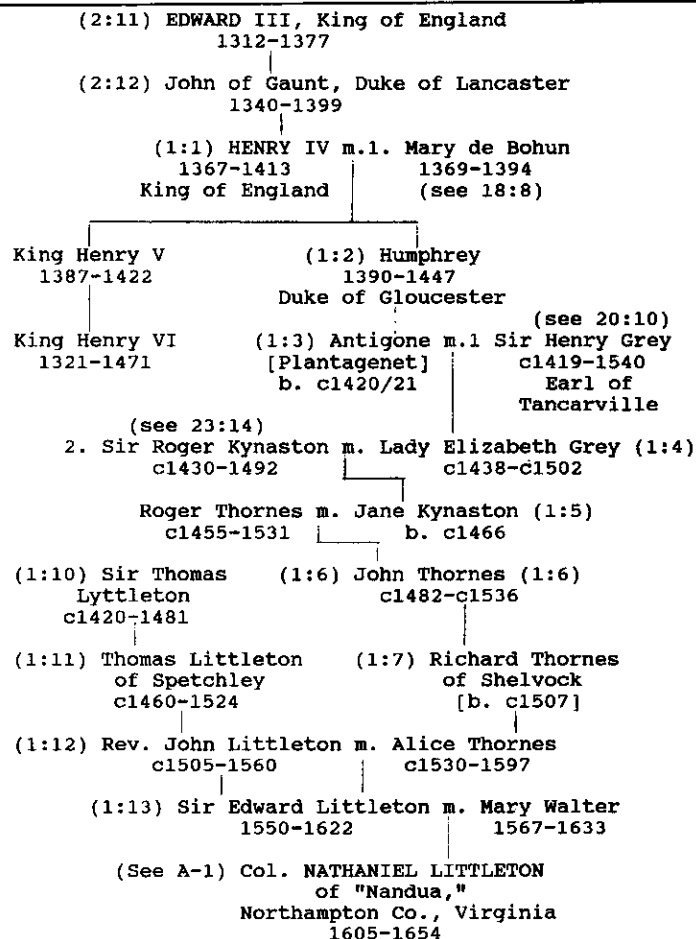

Humphrey's political career was a failure; with only modest administrative ability or political insight, he was ambitious and self-seeking. By his brother Henry's will he was made "Protector & Defender of the Realm & Church of England" for the infant King Henry VI. But he was involved in constant bickering with the Council and quarrelled with his uncle, Henry Beaufort, Bishop of Winchester (after 1326 Cardinal), as Chancellor the King's chief minister, whom he vied with for leadership, but his attack on Cardinal Beaufort and insult to the King in 1440 ended his public career. For some reason he was popular with the London citizens, who supported him in his quarrels.

His first marriage had disastrous effects on the relations between his brother Bedford and England's chief continental ally, the D. of Burgundy; he conducted one unsuccessful campaign to Flanders to try to regain Jacqueline's heritage. His 2nd wife, Eleanor, in Oct 1441 was tried for witchcraft, condemned, forced to do public penance in London, and sentenced to perpetual imprisonment. Humphrey, summoned to Parliament at Bury St. Edmunds 20 Jan 1446/7, was not allowed to see the King, was arrested and died under arrest within the month. It was rumored, without foundation, that he had been murdered. He is most favorably remembered as the first notable English patron of humanism, a forerunner of the Renaissance. Among scholars and writers, Italian and English, for whom he was a generous patron, was English poet John Lydgate.

Humphrey's only children were illegitimate: Antigone and Arthur (CP 5:730-737; Faris 156-57).

1:3 ANTIGONE [PLANTAGENET], illegitimate daughter of Humphrey (1:2), Duke of Gloucester, b. c1420/21; mar. 1st (Jan 1434/35) to her 5th cousin, SIR HENRY GREY (GRAYO, Knt., son of Sir John de Grey, 1st Earl of Tancarville (see Chart 23) and his wife, Joan de Cherleton (20:10), b. c1419; d. probably at Powis 13 Jan 1449/50, Earl of Tancarville, Lord Powis. He was aged 1 1/2 years and more in Sep 1421. She married 2nd JEAN D'AMANCIER, Seigneur d'Amancier (Faris 168).

No source identifies Antigone's mother. Antigone was acknowledged as his daughter by Duke Humphrey, was reared in his household, and he provided for her marriage. On 3 Jan 1434/35 the marriage of Henry, son & heir of John Grey, Knt. & Joan his wife, was granted to Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester, for payment of £800, an exceptionally large dowry; as one commentator observed (AR 1A:33), Humphrey "bought" the marriage of his dau. Antigone to Lord Grey. On 14 May 1426 at Leicester, Henry Grey was created a Knight of the Bath by John, Duke of Bedford, the King's uncle, along with the boy King Henry VI. On 5 Dec 1441, having proved his age in co. Salop, he had livery [delivery] of the lands of his inheritance, from both his father and mother, in Northumberland, Worcestershire, Huntingdonshire, Wiltshire, Suffolk, York, Lincoln, Salop, Essex, and the march of Wales; he was not required to render (feudal) homage and fealty (CP 6:138-39 and notes; Faris 168; EP 250; C. of A.). Lord Grey, through his mother, was a 1st cousin of the ill-fated Richard, Duke of York (1411-1460), who was father of the future Kings Edward IV and Richard III.

Children (first born Pontesbury, Salop):

1. Sir Richard Grey, born 5 Nov 1436; died 17 Dec 1466. Since the title Earl of Tancarville was a French title, it lapsed upon expulsion of the English from France at the end of the Hundred Years' War in the 1450's. As Lord Powis he was one of the Lords who swore allegiance to King Henry VI in Parliament 24 July 1455 (after the first Battle of St. Albans), but he was fighting for Richard, Duke of York, at Ludford 12 Oct 1459, surrendered to the King; his life was spared, but he forfeited his lands; however, on 20 Dec 1459 he was granted a full pardon (CP 6:139-40; C. of A.).
2. Humphrey Grey, b. c1437; d.s.p.
3. Elizabeth Grey, b. c1438; d. c1502; mar. SIR ROGER KYNASTON. See 1:4 below.

1:4 ELIZABETH GREY, daughter of Sir Henry Grey, Earl of Tancarville (1:3) by Antigone [Plantagenet], his wife, born ?Salop c1438; died ?Middle Castle, Salop, after Sep 1501, when she was a party to a deed at Shrewsbury. She mar. (1465) her fifth cousin, SIR ROGER KYNASTON, Knt., son of Griffith (see 23:14) and Margaret (Hoord) Kynaston, b. c1430; died 28 Oct 1492 (16 days after Columbus first set foot in the Americas). He had mar. 1st Elizabeth Cobham, widow of Richard Lord Strange of Knockin (d. 1450), who d. 1453, by whom he had a son, Thomas Kynaston (dsp 1513). He enjoyed a high reputation in the "troubled times" in which he lived, i.e. the Wars of the Roses. A staunch adherent of the House of York, he fought for the Duke of York at the battle of Blore Heath, 23 Sep 1459, slew the Lancastrian commander, Lord Audley, and assumed the Audley arms, which continued in his family. At Ludford, 12 Oct 1459, with his future brother-in-law, Richard Grey, Lord Powis, he again fought against the King, but, though included in the attainder by Henry's Parliament, he was so popular with the House of Commons that, at the special request of the House, charges were dropped on payment of a fine; he had a general pardon from King Edward IV 1466.

He served as Sheriff of Shropshire 1461, 1469, 1471. He was knighted by King Edward IV (his wife's second cousin) on the field of battle, 4 May 1471, after the Battle of Tewkesbury, in which the Lancastrian cause was finally crushed. Henry's VI's only son, Edward, Prince of Wales, fell in battle, and King Henry VI himself, already a prisoner in the Tower of London, was murdered 21 May 1471. Sir Roger was Constable of Harlech and Sheriff of Merioneth for life. He continued in favor with two other monarchs, Richard III and Henry VII.

By his first wife Sir Roger acquired Middle Castle, a moated quadrangular structure, of which, after his wife's death, his step-son tried by force of arms and more legal means to dispossess Sir Roger, and he was eventually successful, but it was still in the hands of Sir Roger in 1466, and afterwards. Sir Roger's widow, Lady Elizabeth, living at Middle Castle with her son, appears to have been in financial distress, for in the Corporation Records at Shrewsbury register appears a joint bond for £20 (Transactions 211-214). Their situation may well have arisen from the fact that Lady Elizabeth's step-son inherited his father's estate.

Two children (born ?Middle Castle, Shropshire):

1. Jane Kynaston, b. c1466; mar. ROGER THORNES. See 1:5 below.
2. Humphrey Kynaston, b. c1469; d. 1534. He was Constable of Middle Castle, but abandoned it to let it fall to ruin. Known as "Wild Humphrey" for his dissolute and riotous life-style, he was outlawed 1491, but pardoned 1493 (Transactions 213-14).

1:5 JANE KYNASTON, daughter of Sir Roger Kynaston and his wife, the Lady Elizabeth Grey (1:4), born probably in Shropshire c1466; mar. (c1481) ROGER THORNES of Shelvock, Shropshire, son & heir of Thomas Thornes of Shelvock & his wife Mary Corbet, b. probably Shrewsbury, Shropshire c1455; d. probably Shrewsbury 1531, buried St. Mary's Church there. Roger's father, "of Shelvock" in 1476, evidently bought Shelvock. Roger was called the "Wise Thornes of Shrewsbury, for that both town and country repaired to him for advice." Though he had inherited Shelvock, he apparently lived principally in Shrewsbury, in his home in Raven Street. He served six terms as Bailiff of Shrewsbury: 1505, 1509, 1515, 1521, 1525, 1530. In 1506 he was involved in settling a dispute between the Borough and the Abbot of Shrewsbury, & in 1525 he appeared before the Court of Marches in Bewdley with respect to a dispute between the towns of Shrewsbury & Worcester (Transactions 330; AR 1A:36).

1:6 JOHN THORNES, eldest son and heir of Roger Thornes & his wife, Jane Kynaston (1:5), b. presumably at Shelvock, Shropshire c1482; living 1535, when he was Bailiff of Shrewsbury; mar. (c1504) Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Astley of Patishull, Staffordshire. John and his family were the first of his line to change from Roman Catholic to Anglican in the early 1530's, when King Henry VIII severed ties with Rome (AR 1A:37).

1:7 RICHARD THORNES of Condover, Shropshire, second son of John (1:6) & Elizabeth (Astley) Thornes, b. probably at Shelvock c1507; mar. (c1529) either Margaret, or Joan dau. of Evan Lloyd Vychan of Abertinent. (The C. of A. Pedigree shows as wife Margaret, dau. of David Cla...; no wife named in 1623 Shropshire Visitation.) After the early 1530's all members of the family were Anglicans (AR 1A:38,39).

Child (born probably at Condover, Shropshire):

1. Alice Thornes, b. c1530; d. Rushbury, parish of Munslow, Salop, 21 Mar 1596/7; mar. Rev. JOHN LITTLETON. See 1:12 below.

LITTLETON FAMILY

The early Lyttleton (Littleton) family is treated in Burke's Extinct Peerages (1883), p. 341. The earliest occurrence of the name is in 1161. The family was established by 1235 in the west of England, at Frankley in Worcestershire, but the branch featured here later spread also into Shropshire (also called Salop).

The author of the chapter on the Littletons for the Transactions (1913), pp. 302-332, Evelyn H. Martin, stated that "No pedigree of this branch of the family of Littleton has hitherto been printed. The following account has been compiled from wills, registers and other records," beginning with No. 11 below.

1:8 THOMAS DE LUTTELTON or LITTLETON, son of Thomas de Lyttleton and his wife, Julian de Somery, b. c1365; died c1421; mar. Maud Quartermain. She mar. 2nd John Massy. Thomas de Littleton held the manor of Frankley. He was esquire of the body to King Henry IV and King Henry V, had annual pensions from both. Thomas and Maud had an only daughter, Elizabeth (EP 341).

1:9 ELIZABETH DE LUTTELTON, daughter and sole heiress of Thomas de Luttleton (1:8) & Maud Quartermain his wife, b. ?Frankley [c1400]; mar. (c1419) THOMAS WESTCOTE of Devonshire, who d. c1451. She mar. 2nd Thomas Hewster of Lichfield. In view of the extensive Littleton estates she had inherited, she prevailed upon Westcote to sign a prenuptial agreement allowing her sons, who would be her heirs, to bear her family name LITTLETON (LITTLETON). Her eldest son and heir, Thomas, adopted the name, but the younger sons, Nicholas, Guy, and Edmund, retained their father's surname, Westcote (EP 341).

1:10 SIR THOMAS LYTTLETON, eldest son and heir of Thomas Westcote and his wife, Elizabeth de Luttleton (1:9), b. Frankley House, Worcestershire, c1420; d. ?Frankley 23 Aug 1481; bur. Worcester Cathedral; mar. (c1451) Joan, daughter and coheir of William Burley, Knt., of Bromcroft Castle, co. Salop, by his wife, Ellen Grendon, b. ?Staffordshire 1423/4; d. ?Frankley 22 Mar 1503/4, aged 80 (referred to as Jane in her husband's will). She was widow of Sir Philip Chetwynd of Ingestre, co. Stafford. She was aged 33 and over in the will of her father (d. 10 Aug 1458); he was Sheriff of co. Salop 1426, served 19 times as M.P. 1417-1456, Speaker of the House of Commons 1437 and 1445/6.

Sir Thomas was Lord of the Manor of Frankley. He was appointed a King's Serjeant 13 May 1455, served for a time as Justice of the Assize (circuit judge) in the north, was appointed a Justice of the Court of Common Pleas 26 Apr 1467, and at Westminster 18 Apr 1475 he was created a Knight of the Bath. It was probably c1470 that, for the instruction of his son Richard, he compiled his brief tract known as Lyttleton on Tenures, the definitive account of English land law, which soon became the most famous treatise on English law, and was hailed by the great 17th century jurist, Sir Edward Coke, as "the ornament of the Common Law and the most perfect and absolute work that was ever written in any human science." d It continued to be consulted by lawyers in England and in the American colonies until after the American Revolution. In 1481 or 1482 it was the first work on English law ever printed, one of the first ten books printed in London. Sir Thomas signed his will 22 Aug 1481 at Frankley (proved 8 Nov 1481) (EB 14:124). An article on Sir Thomas appears in most standard encyclopedias.

Three sons (born Frankley, Worcestershire, England):

1. Sir William Lyttleton of Frankley, b. c1452; d. 1507; he mar. 2nd Mary, dau. of William Whittington of Pauntley, Gloucestershire. Knighted by King Henry VII after the Battle of Stoke June 1487, he was M.P. for Ludlow 1491-92. He was ancestor of the notable Baronets and Barons Lyttleton of Frankley.
2. Richard Littleton, b. c1456; d. 18 May 1516. He was ancestor of the Littletons of Pillaton and Tedderley, and of the present Barons Hatherton (see under Sources above).
3. Thomas Littleton, b. c1460. d. 8 Jan 1523/4. See 1:11 below.

1:11 THOMAS LITTLETON of Spetchley & Elmley Castle, Worcestershire, and of Stoke St. Milburgh, Shropshire, 3rd & youngest son of Sir Thomas Lyttleton (1:10) and his wife, Joan Burley, b. Frankley, Worcestershire, c1460; d. Worcestershire 8 Jan 1523/24 (inquest post mortem 8 June 1524 held at Worcester Castle); mar. (c1505) Anne, dau.

& heir of John Botreaux of Abbot's Salford (otherwise Littletons Salford), co. Warwick. He was mentioned in his father's will, 1481. (According to the Visitation of Worcestershire 1634 he d. in London, will proved 1535) (College of Arms Pedigree).

Two children (born Worcestershire, England):

1. Thomas Littleton of Spetchley, Elmley Castle, Abbot's Salford, & Stoke St. Milburgh, co. Salop, b. c1506; d. without lawful issue 23 Feb 1534/5. His brother John came into possession of Spetchley and Elmley Castle. (Transactions 302, Visit. of Worcester)
2. John Littleton, b. c1510; bur. 30 Nov 1560. See 1:12 below.

1:12 REV. JOHN LITTLETON, second son of Thomas (1: 11) and Anne (Botreaux) Littleton, b. ?Worcestershire c1505; d. Munslow, co. Salop, bur. there 30 Nov 1560; married (c1547) ALICE THORNES, daughter of RICHARD THORNES of Condober (see 1:7 above), b. c1530; buried Munslow 21 Mar 1596/97. On 6 Aug 1538, as heir to his brother, Thomas, he leased the manor of Spetchley to Richard Sheldon & wife Katherine, Rev. Littleton's sister.

He received the degree of Bachelor of Canon Law at Oxford 1532. Possibly Henry VIII's break with Rome and establishment of the Anglican Church at this time induced John Littleton to take Holy Orders (a priest was no longer required to remain unmarried). He became Canon of Exeter Cathedral 1546; Prebendary of the Collegiate Church of Penkridge, co. Stafford 1547, and Rector of Munslow.

In his will, dated 12 Aug 1560 (prob. 10 June 1562) he named wife, alias Alice Thornes, our sons Thomas, Edward, Christopher, Adam, William. Wife was to have land in co. Montgomery, after her death to son Thomas, who was also to have the Manor of Munslow. To son Edward he left lands in Thongland, Salop, and other land to other sons, etc. Half the tithes from Naunton were to go to wife and children. He had sold his lands in Abbots Salford, etc. for his "children's advancement." He also named brother Anthony. As executors he named wife Alice, kinsman Edward Littleton, Serjeant at Arms, and friend Adam Lutley. Witnesses were: John Littleton, clerk [i.e. clergyman], Edward Littleton, Wm. Jenkins, Adam Lutley, Richard Sutton, clerk. (C. of A., Transactions 302-305)

Four sons (baptised Munslow, Shropshire):

1. Thomas Littleton of Stoke St. Milburgh, born c1548; bur. Munslow 31 Jan 1621/22; married Frances Lutley. His father bequeathed him the Manor of Munslow. His eldest son, Sir Adam Littleton (c1597-1647), was Chief Justice of N. Wales 1637-47, was created (1st) Baronet 1642 (Transactions 316-22).
2. Edward Littleton, b. 23 Sep 1550/51; d. 25 Sep 1622. See 1:13 below.
3. Christopher Littleton of Diddlebury, bap. 13 Aug 1552; bur. Munslow 16 Aug 1578. B.A. 1574, M.A. 1577 Christ Church, Oxford.
4. Adam Littleton, baptised 2 Jan 1554/5; buried Rushbury 26 Feb 1611/2. He was Rector of Rushbury, co. Salop.

1:13 SIR EDWARD LITTLETON of Munslow, later of Bitterley & of Henley, co. Salop, Knt., 2nd son of the Rev. John and Alice (Thornes) Littleton (1:12), bap. Munslow, co. Salop, 23 Mar 1550/51; died 25 Sep 1622, buried at Llanvaire, co. Denbigh, North Wales; married (Ludlow, co. Salop, 9 Ar 1588) Mary Walter, daughter of Edmund Walter of Ludlow, Chief Justice of the Brecknock circuit, South Wales (buried 29 Jan 1594/5, tomb in Ludlow church). She was bap. Ludlow 12 June 1567; bur. Ludlow 23 Oct 1633. She grew up at Ludlow Castle, which her father bought in 1578.

Edward's father bequeathed him lands in Thongland. As "late of Clements Inn," he was admitted to the Inner Temple, London, 2 Apr 1574, called to the "outer bar" 9 Feb 1584/5. He was knighted May/July 1621. After "about 30 years observation" in the Welsh marches, he was appointed one of the council of the Marches 23 May, sworn into office 18 July 1621, & Chief Justice of the Anglesea Circuit, North Wales. Administration of his estate was granted to his widow 16 Nov 1622, Prerogative Court of Canterbury. The sons were reportedly devoted Royalists in the Civil War (C. of A; Transactions 306-317; Visitation of Worcestershire 1634, p. 64; AR 1A:40)

Children (first four baptised Munslow, co. Salop):

1. Edward Littleton of Henley, Knt., bap. 15 Mar 1589/90; d. at Oxford 9 Aug 1645; bur. Christ Church Cathedral there; mar. twice. He took the B. A. degree 1609, M. A. 1612

Christ Church, was admitted to the Inner Temple. In 1643 he was awarded an honorary Doct. of Canon Law by Christ Church. He was an MP in 1614, 1625, & in 1628, when he was assigned to manage the famous case against King Charles's favorite, the Duke of Buckingham in the Commons. On 6 May 1628 he was appointed with Sir Edward Coke & Sir Dudley Diggs to carry up the Petition of Right to the House of Lords. He was a Justice of North Wales 1622-32. Knighted 6 June 1635 at Whitehall, he was Solicitor-General to His Majesty 1634-40, Serjeant at Law 1640, Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas Jan 1639/40 to Jan 1640/41. As Lord Keeper of the Great Seal (for K. Charles I) Jan 1640/41 to 9 Aug 1745, he got on well with both Houses of the Long Parliament (from 3 Nov 1640), but in July '42he joined the King at York, was with him at Oxford and was made one of the King's Privy Council & Colonel to raise a regiment of foot soldiers from the Inns of Court and Chancery.

By letters patent 18 Feb 1640/41 he was created Baron Littleton of Mounslow, but he had no sons to succeed him, only dau. Anne. His portrait is in the National Portrait Gallery. Historian Clarendon praised him as a "profound lawyer." In his will, proved 5 Nov 1649 by Timothy Littleton at London, 1 July 1653, by John Littleton at Westminster, he named among many others brother Thomas's son James, sisters Jones & Price, the three daughters of brother James, brothers John, Doctor of Divinity & Master of the Temple, & Timothy, Serjeant at Law, & William. He also mentioned his father Sir Edward Littleton, Knight, & his grandfather, John Littleton (Transactions 311-15).

2. William Littleton, b. 7 Apr., bap. 16 Apr 1591; d. 18 May/30 July 1653; unmar. He entered the Inner Temple 1612, Barrister at Law 1620, Benchler 1638, Serjeant at Law 1640, was added to the High Court of Justice 1648, Chief Justice of Anglesea, N. Wales 1649-53. By his will he left £20 per annum to propagate the Gospel in New England.
3. Anna Littleton, bap. 22 Apr 1593; mar. (Ludlow 15 Sep 1613) Thomas Kettleby.
4. James Littleton, bap. 11 Apr 1594; died near Ludlow 11 Apr/ 23 June 1657 (Prerogative Court of Canterbury). He matriculated Christ Church, Oxford 30 Oct 1612; B.A. Broadgates Hall 3 Feb 1617/18; Fellow of All Souls, M. A. 7 July 1621; Bachelor of Canon Law 22 Jan 16724/5; Doctor of Canon Law 8 Dec 1635; Benchler of Inner Temple 1639; Chancellor of Worcester & Master in Chancery (Transactions 308; C. of A.) In the will of sister-in-law, Ann, widow of his brother Nathaniel in Virginia, "James Littleton Esq. of Shropshire neere Ludlow" was named legatee in case all Nathaniel's children should die childless. In his will James left to daughters Mary and Isabella each £200 a yr. & all household goods, to son John his lands and considerable money. See page 5 herein for further details; the will is available at very end of film #0092228, Family History Library, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.
5. Thomas Littleton of Bitterly, b. c1598; buried Bitterly Dec 1676; ?London merchant.
6. John Littleton, bap. Hopton Castle, Salop, 8 Dec 1600. A Fellow of All Souls, Oxford, he received M.A. Broadgates Hall 10 June 1624, B.D. Jesus College 17 Dec 1631, D.D. 8 Dec 1635. In 1638 he was of Gray's Inn, Rector of St. George, Southwark, Vicar of Tilehurst, Berks, & Master of the Temple. In 1644 he was ejected from his livings (parishes) by the Puritan Parliament for being in the army of King Charles I.
7. Martha Littleton, bap. Hopton Castle 6 July 1602; bur. there 1 May 1603.
8. Priscilla Littleton, bap. Hopton Castle 11 Nov 1604; married Periot Price of Scotsberow, co. Pembroke.
9. NATHANIEL LITTLETON, bap. Hopton Castle 22 Dec 1605; d. Oct./Dec 1654. See A-1.
10. Sir Timothy Littleton, b. 1608; buried Temple Church, London 2 Apr 1679. His portrait is in the Guildhall, London. He was admitted to the Inner Temple 1626, Barrister at Law 1635, Bench 1649, Serjeant at Law 1670. In 1644 he was sworn member of the Council of the Marches of Wales, 2nd Justice of Anglesea 1644-47, MP for Ludlow Apr - Dec 1668. Knighted at Whitehall 29 June 1671, he was Chief Justice for N. Wales 1660-70, was created a Baron of the Exchequer 1 Feb 1670/71 (Transactions 309-311), was named in brother James's will, 1657.

11. Mary Littleton, b. 1610; mar. Gilbert Jones of Welshpool, co. Montgomery, barrister-at-law. She is said to have married 2nd Edmund Scarborough (1617-71) of Northampton Co., Va.
12. Jane Littleton, b. c1612; mar. John Osbaldeston of Chedleigh, Oxfordshire.
13. Samuel Littleton, b. c1614; d.s.p.

CHART 2 - KINGS OF ENGLAND

From 1066 until 1413 a continuous line of kings from the same family occupied the English throne, but four different family names have come to be applied to them. The first dynasty is known as the Norman, 1066-1154. After King Stephen's death in 1154 (and until 1485) came the dynasty known to history as PLANTAGENET, though it was not officially used as a family surname until 1460. Richard, Duke of York, claimed the throne as "Richard Plantagenet." The first three Plantagenet kings (Henry II, Richard the Lion Heart, & John) are usually referred to as ANGEVINS, from Henry II's early title, Duke of Anjou. And the three Henrys (IV, V, VI) from 1399 are known as the House of LANCASTER because Henry IV was at first Duke of Lancaster.

When William of Normandy invaded England in 1066 (the last successful invasion of England), he changed the course of world history. He introduced into a highly civilized but basically insular Germanic culture a very large Gallic element and a much broader continental contacts. The French culture of the upper classes thereafter dominated England for nearly three centuries. For instance, it changed the language, adding such words as beef & Parliament.

2:1 WILLIAM I, THE CONQUEROR, illegitimate son of Robert I, D. of Normandy (see 8:6) by a peasant girl, Arlette (Herleve), daughter of Fulbert, a tanner of Falaise, where William was born c1027; d. Rouen, Normandy, 9 Sep 1087, Duke of Normandy (as II) from 1035 and King of England from 1066; married (1053) Matilda of Flanders (see 5:7), b. 1032; d. 3 Nov 1083, niece of French King Henry I. Though Duke Robert's barons in 1034 had grudgingly acknowledged William as Robert's heir, after Robert's death (1035, when William was about 7) until 1047 anarchy reigned while men loyal to the royal house kept the child in hiding. Proud to call himself "William the Bastard," he was bold and courageous, strong-willed, with an orderly mind and untiring energy, a born leader. Noted for his upright living, he could be ruthlessly cruel to enemies, but could also show generous clemency. In a battle in 1047 he decisively established his authority with the crucial aid of his overlord, friend, and patron, French King Henry I. Having proved himself a masterful knight, distinguishing himself by impetuous bravery, he aided Henry I against Anjou, took and burned Alencon, savagely mutilated leading citizens.

Until 1055 William consolidated his own authority, putting down several baronial uprisings, but Henry I, fearing the threat of William's growing power, had turned against him and aided Norman rebels. William's judiciously political (and highly successful) marriage to the dau. of the powerful Count of Flanders greatly increased his prestige. Alarmed by the marriage, King Henry I invaded Normandy in 1054, again in 1058 when he was defeated in a brilliant Norman victory.

William's interest in England may have developed out of the exile (to 1041) in Normandy of his cousin, English Prince Edward (the Confessor - see 4:18-2), who, William claimed, had told William he would be his successor; this was reinforced when the powerful English Earl Harold, according to William, in Normandy in 1064 took an oath to support William's claim, but violated his oath when he was chosen King Harold II and crowned the day after Edward's death 6 Jan 1065/6. William's projected invasion of English had the blessing of the Pope, disturbed by problems in the English Church. When William sent out word of his prospective invasion, he had an enthusiastic response from all his knightly kinsmen, and hundreds of land-hungry young Norman knights as well as some barons, and even knights from farther away. While his wife Matilda very ably managed affairs at home, William with his shiploads of armored knights and horses set sail across the English Channel, landing on the south coast of England 28 Sep 1066. On 14 Oct near Hastings William's army met K. Harold's, which had just hurried from the north after defeating a Norse invasion. Using a combination of archers and cavalry against the native foot soldiers, William led his troops in a hard-fought victory, and Harold died with his troops. William had himself crowned King of England in Westminster Abbey on Christmas Day 1066.

For the next four years William was busy putting down native uprisings, most seriously one in the north, reinforced by Danes, which William personally put down, buying off the Danes, treating the native leaders with clemency, but he savagely devastated central Yorkshire with a ruthless scorched-earth policy. One by one the surviving native leaders, who continued to rebel, were defeated, and their lands confiscated.

William had a unique opportunity. He had conquered an entire country to dispose of as he chose. Imposing on England a fully developed feudal system, he granted his chief Norman supporters as tenants-in-chief large territories (in return for military service), but he wisely scattered the individual holdings widely in components about England so that no one would have a strong base of operations. He was lord of all the land, and all his vassals held their land either directly or indirectly of him; they threw up defensive wooden or earthen castles all across the land. At the end of his reign in 1086 at a great assembly at Salisbury every landholder, i.e. his great vassals, personally rendered homage to their King.

He wisely took over from the conquered Anglo-Saxons their administrative and judicial machinery (including the institution of sheriff), a system managed by a handful of trusted Norman churchmen & laymen. In 1086 his government carried out a huge survey or "census," a detailed description of all classes and economic resources, an extraordinary achievement, unlike anything else in the Middle Ages; not a pig or cow escaped the notice of the juries in shire & hundred who conducted the survey. It was all compiled in the "Domesday Book."

Relations between William and the Church were unusually harmonious, due largely to mutual trust between William and the celebrated Italian Benedictine Lanfranc, whom William appointed Archbishop of Canterbury in 1070. Lanfranc carried out a reform of the English Church, for instance, lifting standards in many monasteries.

In 1087, in his campaign to recover Norman land taken over by French K. Philip I, after burning Mantes, he was riding through the ruins when his horse stepped on a live coal, reared violently, giving William severe internal injuries from which he died. He bequeathed Normandy to his eldest son Robert, England to his second son William (EB 23:530-32; Roberts 404).

Children (all but the youngest born in Normandy):

1. Robert, 1054-1134, Duke of Normandy.
2. William II, b. 1060; d. 2 Aug 1100, King of England 1087-1100.
3. Adela, b. c1062; d. 8 Mar 1137/8; married Stephen III, Count of Blois. See 2:2 below.
4. Henry II, b. 1068; d. 1 Dec 1135, King of England. See 2:4 below.

2:2 ADELA OF ENGLAND, b. Normandy c1062; d. 8 Mar 1137/38; mar. (1080) STEPHEN III (Etienne Henri), 1046-1102, Count of Blois, Champagne, Brie, & Chartres. A leader of the 1st CRUSADE in 1096, he was slain 19 or 27 May 1102 in the battle of Ramleh, in the Holy Land. Adela died a nun in a convent at Marigny, France, 8 Mar 1137/38 (AR 137:23,169:24-35; Stuart 81:30,133:31).

2:3 STEPHEN OF BLOIS, son of Stephen III, Count of Blois, & Adela his wife (2:2), b. c1095; d. Dover 25 Oct 1154, King of England 1035-1154; mar. (c1119/20) Matilda of Boulogne (see 15:5), b. c1105; d. Hedingham Castle, Kent, 3 May 1152. Brave & generous, but overly chivalrous, he had no political sense and lacked the ruthlessness necessary for a Medieval king. Brought up at the court of his uncle, Henry I, he was endowed with land in Normandy & England. Despite the oath of fealty he and the barons had taken to Henry's dau. the Empress Maud (2:5) as his heir, upon Henry's death, Stephen was crowned King of England in Westminster Abbey 22 Dec

1135 with the help of influential churchmen and barons, and London citizens.

Civil war broke out after 1138, under command of his cousin, Robert, E. of Gloucester (2:13), who was joined from the continent by Empress Maud. Stephen was so chivalrous that, instead of siezing Matilda upon her arrival, he gave her an escort to Bristol. Maud's forces captured most of western England, and defeated Stephen at Lincoln. Again chivalrous Stephen came down from Lincoln Castle & gave himself into the hands of the enemy. After his liberation, his forces fared better, & by 1147 he was recognized as king over most of England, after he granted generous concessions to powerful barons, who began to act like independent rulers & waged private wars. Though the machinery of government continued, lawlessness, even anarchy, prevailed in parts of England through Stephen's incompetence. He even antagonized the Church. When Henry of Anjou (future Henrd II) came to England in 1153, he alarmed Stephen by occupying several town across England & won support of many powerful & influential adherents. After the death in Aug 1153 of Stephen's son and heir, Stephen lost heart and came to terms with Henry, recognizing him as his lawful heir. The knightly class especially welcomed the prospect of an end to the sample of feudal disorder they had experienced (EB 21: 210. For descendants see 15:5).

2:4 HENRY I, "BEAUCLEIC," youngest son of William I (2:1), K. of England, & Queen Matilda, b. Selby, Yorkshire, England, 1068; d. Lyons-la-Forêt, Normandy, 1 Dec 1135, buried Reading Abbey (which he had founded), King of England 1100-1135; married 1st (11 Nov 1100) Matilda (Edith) of Scotland (3:10), b. Scotland 1079; d. 1 May 1118; 2nd (29 Jan 1120/210 Adeliza of Louvain, b. c.1103; d. 23 Apr 1151 (no children). Henry, a very well-educated layman, was the most literate English king since Alfred the Great.

Henry's father bequeathed him no land, but 5000 lbs. of silver, which, as his father lay dying, Henry, ever the good business man, weighed out to be sure it was all there. Upon the death of his brother King William II (2 Aug 1100), pierced by an arrow as he hunted in the New Forest, Henry succeeded to the throne; there is a likelihood that Henry (one of the hunting party) had connived at the death. To forestall claims of his elder brother & proper heir, Robert, D. of Normandy, on his way home from a crusade, Henry acted swiftly, hurried to Winchester & siezed the royal treasure, was crowned in Westminster Abbey on 5 Aug 1100.

Cool, calculating, and far-sighted, Henry was masterful and energetic like his father, stern and relentless, but also grasping, cruel, & lascivious (fathered 20 bastards). He placated the barons by issuing a Charter of Liberties, gained the support of several powerful barons. He even made a token appeal to the native English (whom he despised) by his political marriage (11 Nov 1100) with Edith (now Matilda), sister of King David of Scotland; she represented the old West Saxon dynasty.

In 1101 Henry's brother Robert, the charming but ineffectual Duke of Normandy, invaded England but was overcome; Henry in 1105 & 1106 invaded Normandy & at the battle of Tenchebrai (Sep 1106) captured and imprisoned Robert until his death in 1134.

Early in his reign Henry came into conflict with the Church. It had been customary for the king to choose bishops, received their homage and fealty as great feudal lords, and invest them with their sees by bestowing on them the symbolic ring and staff. The reforming Papacy, represented by St. Anselm, Archbishop of Canterbury, wished to elevate the clergy above lay society & make bishops independent of secular authority. Anselm refused to consecrate bishops who had accepted ring & staff from the king. Finally in 1107 a compromise was effected by which the king really won; he gave up the merely symbolic ceremony of investiture; bishops would still do him homaage and accept their fiefs from him before investiture and consecration.

Henry, a great statesman and administrator, carried to higher perfection the centralizing practices of his father and brother. He used "secular" priests loyal only to him instead of barons or high ecclesiastics as his administrative officers. He sent out itinerant justices, who held courts in the shires, making royal justice equally available to poor as well as rich; this practice brought in more revenues to the Crown, and undercut the authority & income of the barons. Criminal law was enforced and offenders hanged. He organized the exchequer, which became perhaps the most efficient fiscal department in Europe. He laid heavy taxes on his subjects, and the efficiency of the exchequer and his sheriffs seemed like oppression, but he brought peace and good government to his land.

The loss of his only legitimate son made his daughter Matilda his heir. There was no precedent for a woman ruler, but he forced (or cajoled) his barons into accepting her as his successor (Stuart 89:29; EB 11: 358-59; with suggestions from other sources).

Two of his children:

1. (illegitimate) Robert of Caen, b. c.1090; d. 31 Oct 1147, Earl of Gloucester. See 2:13 below.
2. Matilda, b. about Feb 1102; d. 10 Sep 1167; mar. 1st Emperor Henry V; 2nd Geoffrey, C. of Anjou. See 2:5 below.
3. William Aetheling, b. ?1104; d. 25 Nov 1120, drowned in the "White Ship" crossing the English Channel.

2:5 MATILDA (MAUD), only dau. & heir of King Henry I of England (2:4), born London 1102; died ?Rouen, Normandy, 10 Sep 1167; mar. 1st (1114) Holy Roman Emperor Henry V, son of the Emperor Henry IV, b. 8 Jan 1081; d.s.p. 22 May 1125; 2nd (Le Mans 22 May 1127) GEOFFREY ("PLANTAGENET"), Count of Anjou, b. 24 Nov 1113; d. Anjou 7 Sep 1151, bur. Le Mans Cathedral. Geoffrey's nickname (eventually applied as the name of the whole dynasty) derives allegedly from his habit of wearing a sprig of broom (genista) in his hat. Both marriages of Matilda were negotiated for political reasons by her father, to strengthen Normandy against France. After her first husband's death she was always known as the Empress Maud. Since the Anglo-Norman barons had stipulated that she should not marry out of England without their consent, her marrying Geoffrey didn't set well with them. When Henry died (1135), unwilling to stomach a woman ruler, they violated their oath to Henry to support her and conspired to place on the throne her cousin, Stephen of Blois (see 2:3).

Geoffrey warred for years to secure part of her inheritance; eventually successful, he was installed as Duke of Normandy at Rouen in 1144. With her half-brother Robert (see 2:13) leading her armies in England, she had some successes at first, but because of her arrogance and tactlessness, the Londoners in Apr 1141 drove her out before she could be crowned. In Dec 1142, besieged in Oxford Castle, she had to escape over a frozen river. Eventually, Stephen himself decided to make her son Henry his heir (AR 1:24; EB 14: 1110, 10: 142; Stuart 89:28; Faris 222).

2:6 HENRY II, 1133-1189, son of Geoffrey Plantagenet & the Empress Maud (2:5), b. Le Mans 5 Mar 1132/3; d. dd Chignon, Normandy, 8 July 1189, King of England 1154-89; mar. (Bordeaux 18 May 1152) Eleanor of Aquitaine, div. wife of K. Louis VII of France (see 7:9), & daughter of William X, Duke of Aquitaine and Count of Poitou, b. ?Bordeaux c.1122; d. Fontevrault, Anjou, 31 Mar 1204; both bur. Fontevrault Abbey, where their effigies are still to be seen. Schooled by great teachers in England during his mother's successes, he came to the throne very well-educated, fluent in both French and English, with skill also in Latin. His campaign in England 1147 was a failure; in 1149 he was knighted at Carlisle by Great-uncle (King) David of Scotland (3: 11), who aided him to another unsuccessful campaign against Stephen. In 1150 he was recognized as D. of Normandy; in 1151 he succeeded his father as Count of Anjou; on his marriage to heiress Eleanor in 1152 he acquired Aquitaine and Poitou, making him the greatest prince in France, more powerful and holding much more land than his overlord the King himself. In 1153 back in England he had military successes until Stephen made a truce and recognized him as his successor. In 1171 he annexed Ireland (see 17:7).

Crowned at Westminster 19 Dec 1154, Henry II, aged only 21, easily restored royal authority, aided by all of England's desire for strong government after the lawlessness. With his winning personality and great administrative skill, he ruled with a strong hand his "Angevin" empire, stretching from northern England to the Pyrenees, as separate components, and he made the Crown even more powerful than under his grandfather, in time becoming autocratic. He expanded the practice of using juries and the availability of royal justice, established a permanent court at Westminster, reformed property laws to protect possession and ownership of land, strengthened the law in punishment of criminals. Relying heavily on financial & legal experts, he fostered these professions and the substitution of English common law for Roman law.

His conflict with the Church developed out of opposing views on clerical privilege, esp. churchmen accused or convicted of crimes; Henry wanted those convicted in Church courts to be handed over to secular authority for punishment; the Church wanted to reserve the right of punishment, which would be less severe in Church courts, if imposed at all. Thomas a Becket (1118-70), a brilliant cleric, was appointed Henry's Chancellor in 1154; they became warm friends, & Thomas cooperated in carrying out all Henry's policies. When Henry arranged for Becket's election as Archbishop of Canterbury in 1162, expecting that his new post would make cooperation even more effective, Becket resigned as Chancellor and, to Henry's fury, adopted a hard-line Church policy. Refusing to compromise, in 1162 Becket fled to France. After a hollow reconciliation, his excommunication of several English bishops provoked rash words from Henry, & four knights sailed to England and murdered Becket in Canterbury Cathedral 29 Dec 1170, a savage act which shocked all of Europe. Henry did public penance, but his ecclesiastical policy was not much affected. Becket was canonized 1173.

To insure a smooth succession, Henry in 1170 had son Henry "the young King" crowned at Westminster by the Archbishop of York, an affront to Becket which led to his murder. Resentful at not receiving any power with his title, young Henry rebelled against his father, backed by his mother (incensed over her husband's continued infidelity), joined by brothers Richard and Geoffrey, K. Louis VII of France, the K. of Scots, and barons on both sides of the Channel, an uprising that nearly wrecked the monarchy, but Henry finally put it down in 1174, and he locked up Eleanor for ten years.

Henry died in a rebellion raised by son Richard in alliance with French King Philip II in Normandy. Hoping for aid from his youngest and favorite son John, Henry was shocked and heart-broken when John betrayed him, and died of illness and humiliation.

Queen Eleanor, a strong-willed beauty, a very able and forceful queen, shared in governing Aquitaine 1185-1204, supported son Richard, D. of Aquitaine, against son John & the French king, opposed grandson Arthur on behalf of son John, enabling John to capture Arthur. A patron of troubadours, she inspired many love poems (Faris 222-223; EB 11:359-60, 3:353-4, 8:119).

Five children by Eleanor, the 6th illegitimate:

1. Henry ("the young king"), b. 1155; d. Martel in France 11 June 1183.
2. RICHARD I COEUR DE LION (THE LION HEART), b. Oxford 8 Sep 1157; d. Aquitaine 6 Apr 1199, buried Fontevrault Abbey (his effigy still visible), King of England 1187-1199.
3. Geoffrey, b. 1158; killed in tournament at Paris 19 Aug 1186, Duke of Brittany; mar. the heiress of Brittany.

Two children:

- a. Arthur, b. 1187; captured by K. John 1202, murdered by him 23 Apr 1203.
  - b. Alianor, b. 1184; imprisoned by King John, remained a prisoner under K. Henry III, d. 10 Aug 1241; unmar.
4. Eleanor, b. Damfront, Normandy, 13 Oct 1162; d. 31 Oct 1214; mar. ALFONSO VIII, King of Castile. See 14:15.
  5. John, b. 24 Dec 1167; d. 19 Oct 1216, King of England. See 2:6 below.
  6. (illegitimate) William Longespée, b. 1170/6; d. 7 Mar 1225/6, E. of Salisbury. See 2:17.

2:7 JOHN LACKLAND, youngest son of Henry II (2:6) & Queen Eleanor, b. Oxford 24 Dec 1167; d. Newark 19 Oct 1216; bur. Worcester Cathedral (effigy still visible), King of England; mar. 2nd (Bordeaux 24 Aug 1200) Isabella of Angouleme, b. 1188; d. Fontevrault 31 May 1246. Endowed with a not very attractive personality but with exceptional administrative ability, John was the favorite of Henry II, who, when he tried to endow him with lands in France, son Richard rebelled. He took personal interest in judicial & financial administration, often sat as judge in trials himself, made numerous advances in the central administration.

John's reign was a series of crises, which he often made himself and which by nature was often ill-equipped to handle. A paranoiac, suspicious, vengeful, & treacherous, he suspected treachery everywhere, abused the law courts to try to ruin some families. And he was inclined to be manic-depressive, feverish energy alternating, at crucial moments, with an incapacity for action (see Cantor 401-2). While his brother King Richard was on crusade, John entered England (despite his oath to remain abroad), & during Richard's captivity in Germany was thwarted in his effort to take over. Upon Richard's return, John was banished and deprived of all the lands Richard had granted him, though he was soon pardoned and recognized as heir, despite the fact that their elder brother Geoffrey's son Arthur was alive (a captive of the French King). The law of primogeniture not yet having been generally accepted, upon Richard's death John succeeded, was invested as D. of Normandy and crowned King of England in Westminster Abbey 27 May 1199.

Through influence John in 1199 had his first marriage annulled, an act which enraged the Papacy, and married Isabella, the dau. of a vassal, who was already engaged to another vassal, who thereupon appealed to their mutual overlord, King Philip II. Paralyzed by inaction, John failed to appear when called before Philip's feudal court. In the ensuing warfare John at first was successful, captured his nephew Arthur (and reportedly had him murdered), but in 1204 lost Normandy & Anjou & his other northern French lands to Philip. The loss of Normandy was a cause for Magna Carta.

In 1206 he came into dangerous conflict with the Church in a dispute over election of an Archbishop of Canterbury, by which he lost much prestige. Having revoked the election of John's candidate, Pope Innocent III put forward Stephen Langton, whom John refused to accept. Innocent thereupon (Mar 1208) laid an interdict on England & excommunicated John (Nov 1209). For 3 yrs. John enriched himself with revenues of vacant sees. In 1212 he accepted Langton, placed England as a fief under the Papacy and received it back as vassal, thus making the Papacy his ally in his coming fight with Philip II. He collected allies, among them kinsman Emperor Otto IV, & in Feb 1214 launched his campaign to regain the lands annexed by Phillip. John suffered a fit of inertia, and at Bouvines, 27 July 1214, his allies were crushed by the armies of King Philip.

The built-up anger of the barons over heavy taxes, John's acts of tyranny, his failures as a royal commander provoked civil war, & led to John's being forced to accept at Runnymede (19 June 1215) the humiliating baronial terms embodied in Magna Carta, which ensured the feudal rights of the barons and restoration of English law (see Magna Carta Barons beginning after Chart 17). The Pope annulled the Charter, excommunicated the baronial leaders. Most barons continued warring, invited over Prince Louis of France to whom they did homage. King John died still vigorously pursuing the war. His death ended the cause for rebellion (Faris 223-25; EB 13:24-26; Cantor 401-2, 451-2).

Two children (first illegitimate):

1. Joan, b. [c1185]; d. 1236/37; mar. Llewellyn, Prince of N. Wales. See 2:19 below.
2. Henry III, b. 1 Oct 1207; d. 16 Nov 1272, K. of England. See 2:8 below.

2:8 HENRY III, son of King John (2:7) and his Queen, Isabella, b. Winchester Castle 1 Oct 1207; d. Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk, 16 Nov 1272, bur. Westminster Abbey, King of England 1216-1262; mar. (Canterbury Cathedral 14 Jan 1235/6) Eleanor of Provence, b. Aix en Provence 1217; d. Amesbury 24 June 1291. Her sister was wife of St. Louis IX of France (see 7:12). Succeeding at 8, Henry was crowned 28 Oct 1216, and a Council of Regency was set up, headed by the wise William Marshal, Earl of Pembroke (see 17:8), which gradually restored royal authority. A very pious man whose hero was Edward the Confessor, Henry had Westminster Abbey pulled down in 1246 and rebuilt in the new French Gothic style as a fitting memorial to St. Edward.

Henry was a cultured, clever, charitable man, but totally incapable of ruling, with no diplomatic skill, no interest in finances for all his extravagances, balking at every restraint, furious when thwarted. When his policies provoked threatening opposition, he turned against his own officials. Though he desired glory & dominance of Europe, he was cowardly and incompetent as a commander. His preference for his mother's & wife's foreign relatives as advisers provoked opposition and their expulsion. His desperate need for funds forced him to appeal to the magnates, who in 1258 agreed to help in return for his accepting the Provisions of Oxford, which provided far-reaching administrative reforms and control of government by the barons. In 1261 Henry abrogated all the reforms and dismissed all the officials, but a revolt led by brother-in-law, Simon de Montfort, in 1263 forced Henry to restore the Provisions, and both sides accepted the arbitration of K. Louis IX of France, who invalidated the Provisions.

In the baronial war which ensued, de Montfort, the brilliant rebel commander, defeated Henry's vastly superior army at the battle of Lewes in Sussex (1 May 1264), and took prisoner Henry III & Prince Edward. Henry again accepted the Provisions, and Simon ruled as a dictator in Henry's name. In an effort to elicit widespread support, Simon summoned not only the barons (usually summoned to the King's Great Councils), but also knights from the shires and burgesses from the towns to Parliament (June 1264-Jan 1264/65), which, though not legal, is usually considered to be the beginning of Parliament. Defecting barons contrived to effect the escape of Prince Edward, who, with superb military skill, trapped Simon's army at Evesham (4 Aug 1265), killed him and his allies, and rescued King Henry. Edward assumed control of the state, with savage vengeance continued to fight the rebels until moderates prevailed and he accepted the Dictum of Kenilworth (Oct 1266), and peace was restored by July 1267. When Henry died in 1272 Edward was on his way home from a Crusade, but the transfer of power took place peaceably (Paris 225-6; EB 11:360-62).

Two of their sons, first born Westminster:

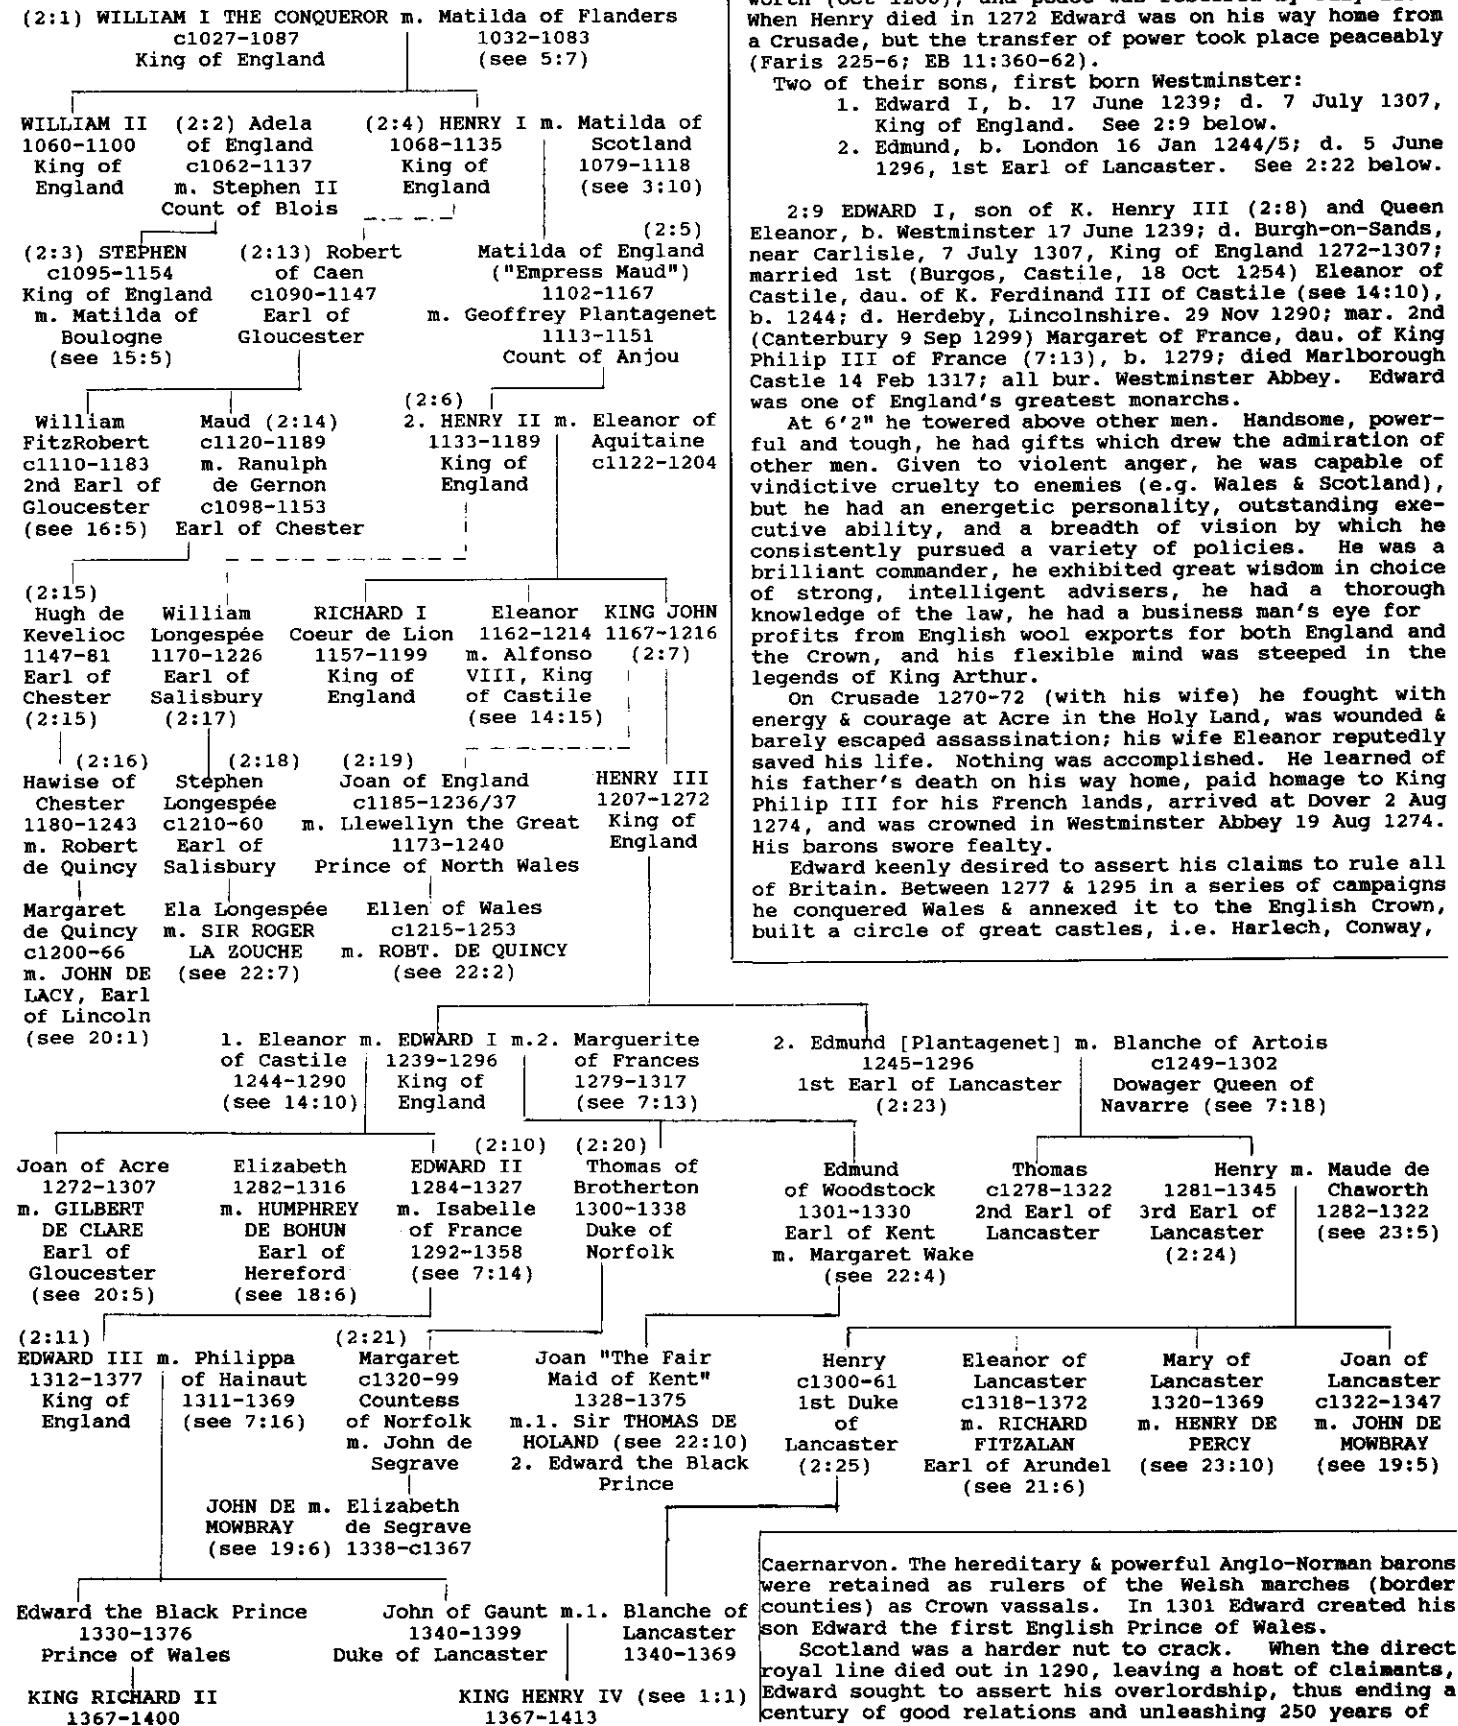

1. Edward I, b. 17 June 1239; d. 7 July 1307, King of England. See 2:9 below.
2. Edmund, b. London 16 Jan 1244/5; d. 5 June 1296, 1st Earl of Lancaster. See 2:22 below.

2:9 EDWARD I, son of K. Henry III (2:8) and Queen Eleanor, b. Westminster 17 June 1239; d. Burgh-on-Sands, near Carlisle, 7 July 1307, King of England 1272-1307; married 1st (Burgos, Castile, 18 Oct 1254) Eleanor of Castile, dau. of K. Ferdinand III of Castile (see 14:10), b. 1244; d. Herdeby, Lincolnshire. 29 Nov 1290; mar. 2nd (Canterbury 9 Sep 1299) Margaret of France, dau. of King Philip III of France (7:13), b. 1279; died Marlborough Castle 14 Feb 1317; all bur. Westminster Abbey. Edward was one of England's greatest monarchs.

At 6'2" he towered above other men. Handsome, powerful and tough, he had gifts which drew the admiration of other men. Given to violent anger, he was capable of vindictive cruelty to enemies (e.g. Wales & Scotland), but he had an energetic personality, outstanding executive ability, and a breadth of vision by which he consistently pursued a variety of policies. He was a brilliant commander, he exhibited great wisdom in choice of strong, intelligent advisers, he had a thorough knowledge of the law, he had a business man's eye for profits from English wool exports for both England and the Crown, and his flexible mind was steeped in the legends of King Arthur.

On Crusade 1270-72 (with his wife) he fought with energy & courage at Acre in the Holy Land, was wounded & barely escaped assassination; his wife Eleanor reputedly saved his life. Nothing was accomplished. He learned of his father's death on his way home, paid homage to King Philip III for his French lands, arrived at Dover 2 Aug 1274, and was crowned in Westminster Abbey 19 Aug 1274. His barons swore fealty.

Edward keenly desired to assert his claims to rule all of Britain. Between 1277 & 1295 in a series of campaigns he conquered Wales & annexed it to the English Crown, built a circle of great castles, i.e. Harlech, Conway, savage, bloody border warfare and raids. Invading Scotland in 1296 to take over the kingdom, he removed the Stone of Scone to Westminster Abbey. William Wallace, Scotland's national hero, raised a successful rebellion, but was defeated at Falkirk in 1298 and executed. Robert Bruce also raised a rebellion and was crowned King of Scots in 1306. Edward was preparing another Scottish campaign when he died. His son Edward II gave it up.

In France Philip III and Philip IV were constantly intervening in Edward's feudal duchy, Gascony, and nibbling away at its borders. In 1293 by trickery Philip IV annexed Gascony. When Edward was finally free to invade France, his barons refused to join him, claiming excessive demands of feudal duties. In 1299 he made peace with Philip IV, married his sister, and received back a somewhat reduced Gascony.

The financial strain of the Welsh and Scottish campaigns led him to strip the Jews (money lenders) of their wealth and then expel them (1290). Shrewdly recognizing the value of Parliaments (as called by de Montfort), he summoned Parliaments from 1275 to 1307, not to share royal power, but to strengthen royal authority by securing widespread support, especially to approve tax levies. The so-called Model Parliament of 1295 included not only the peers and high churchmen (the future House of Lords), but knights from the shires, representatives from the towns, and the lesser clergy (the "Commons"), but the make-up varied widely from Parliament to Parliament. By the end of the reign Parliaments had become a distinctive English institution.

Edward was responsible for more legislation than any previous English king. Some of it defined powers of officials, protecting subjects against abuses; reducing privileges of barons that interfered with royal authority and limiting their powers over tenants, prohibiting excessive feudal dues, and limiting private (feudal) courts so that they practically became extinct. Some dealt with real property and procedure of criminal and civil trials. Building on the innovations of Henry I and Henry II, such legislation was in the interest of greater justice and efficiency of administration and in the increasing centralization of government (Paris 226-228; EB 8:2-4, with suggestions from other sources).

Five of 17 children (two youngest by Margaret):

1. Joan of Acre, b. at Acre in the Holy Land 1272; d. 23 Apr 1307; mar. GILBERT DE CLARE, E. of Gloucester. See 20:5.
2. Elizabeth, b. Rhuddlan, Wales, 7 Aug 1282; d. 5 May 1316; mar. HUMPHREY DE BOHUN VIII, E. of Hereford. See 18:6.
3. Edward II, b. Caernarvon Castle 25 Apr 1284; d. 22 Sep 1327, English King. See 2:9 below.
4. Thomas, b. Brotherton, 1 June 1300; d. c. 1338, Duke of Norfolk. See 2:20 below.
5. Edmund, b. Woodstock, 5 Aug 1301; d. 21 Mar 1330/31, Duke of Kent. See 2:22 below.

2:10 EDWARD II, son of K. Edward I (2:9) and Queen Eleanor, b. Caernarvon Castle, Wales 25 Apr 1284; d. 21 Sep 1327, murdered in Berkeley Castle, bur. Gloucester Cathedral, King of England 1307-27; married (Boulogne, France 25 Jan 1307/8) Princess Isabelle of France, dau. of K. Philip IV (see 7:14); b. 1292; d. Hertford Castle 22 Aug 1358; bur. Church of the Grey Friars, London.

Though trained in knightly skills, to his father's horror he preferred the company of actors and laborers. Physically strong and a good horseman, he was not very bright. Succeeding at age 23, crowned 25 Feb 1308, he was an unattractive, indolent, incompetent ruler, dominated by favorites. He was in a nearly continuous struggle with the barons. As friend and advisor he recalled from exile Piers Gaveston of Gascony, banished by Edward I. From the start the barons sought to limit the king's power. They compelled him to banish Gaveston (June 1308), but he was soon recalled (July 1309). A committee of 21 barons (the Lords Ordainers) forced the king to agree to a set of ordinances to control finances, royal appointments, etc., but Edward was intent on subverting them. A group of barons in June 1312 captured Gaveston and executed him. Edward, bent on vengeance, bided his time.

The Scottish siege of Stirling Castle on the Scots border in 1213 impelled Edward to lead an army north to relieve it, and at Bannockburn, 24 June 1314, Edward was ignominiously defeated by Robert Bruce in a celebrated Scottish victory, which proved an important step in the final recognition of Scottish independence. The Scots proceeded to devastate the border, and in 1319 another Scottish victory further undermined Edward's prestige.

By 1318 Edward had new favorites, Hugh le Despenser, father & son. Conflict with the barons continued under leadership of Edward's 1st cousin, Thomas, Earl of Lancaster (see 2:23-1). The arrogance & rapacious ambition of the Despensers inspired hostility. A Parliament in July 1321 banished the Despensers, & Edward, taking up arms, at the battle of Boroughbridge (22 Mar 1322) defeated Lancaster and had him executed, & the Despensers returned. It is true that far-reaching administrative reforms were instituted in the early 1320's.

Queen Isabella in 1325 on a diplomatic mission to Paris concerning a dispute over Gascony, became the mistress of Roger Mortimer. They invaded England in 1326, drove Edward & the Despensers to the west, where they were captured, the Despensers hanged, Edward imprisoned in Kenilworth Castle. A "Parliament" on 7 Jan 1326/7 named Edward III king. A representative deputation to Kenilworth forced Edward II to abdicate; he was shortly removed to Berkeley Castle and murdered. If he had been capable like his father, he might have destroyed "constitutional" liberty and Parliament become a useful cog in the machinery of royal government. As it was, Parliament, called almost annually, gained prestige and authority; henceforth, a law enacted in Parliament could not be questioned (Paris 229-30; EB 8:4-5; Cantor 515).

2:11 EDWARD III, son of K. Edward II (2:10) and Queen Isabella, b. Windsor Castle 13 Nov 1312; d. Sheen Palace, Richmond, Surrey, 21 June 1377, King of England 1327-77; mar. (York Minster 24 Jan 1327/8) Philippa of Hainaut (7:16); b. 24 June 1311; d. Windsor Castle 15 Aug 1369; both buried Westminster Abbey.

Proclaimed king at 15, he was crowned at Westminster Abbey 19 Jan 1326. For the first 4 yrs. his mother and Mortimer ruled in his name, but in Oct 1330 he surprised and captured Mortimer and had him executed, and with all due respect sent his mother into retirement.

Edward proved a reasonably good king. Energetic, liberal, kindly, easily accessible, he was a skilled tactician and a superb knight, ideally suited to lead the magnificent chivalry that won honor in France. However he could not be trusted to keep his word, and he was extravagant, frivolous, self-indulgent.

His dominating ambition was to win military glory. Edward launched the Hundred Years' War partly because of the succession situation in France (see Chart 7). His mother's three brothers each succeeded to the throne in turn, but left no sons. The French dredged up a forgotten "Salic Law," which decreed that the crown could not pass to a woman; therefore, after the death of the third brother in 1328 the crown passed to his first cousin, Philip VI. On very flimsy grounds Edward III in 1328 first claimed the crown through his mother, who was the only sister of the three kings. The obvious cause for the war was the continued dispute over Gascony, reinforced by French aid to the Scots. In 1337 K. Philip declared Gascony forfeit; in 1340 Edward in right of his mother assumed the title King of France (which English rulers bore until 1801).

From 1339 to 1377, with relief from occasional truces and repudiated treaties, England was at war with France. Edward inspired enthusiasm for the war in his nobles by an appeal to their chivalrous interests and promoting hatred of the French. Edward was present at the great naval battle of Sluys (June 1340), which for a time destroyed the French navy. The pinnacle of Edward's military success came after he landed in Normandy July 1346 with his son Edward the Black Prince. After a large-scale pillaging march via Caen nearly to the gates of Paris, he won a decisive victory on 26 Aug at Crécy-en-Ponthieu over the French army of K. Philip VI (his wife's uncle), decimating the French knights in heavy armor with longbowmen & unmounted men-at-arms. In Sep 1346 he laid siege to Calais, which surrendered to him Aug 1347. Moreover, at the Battle of Neville's Cross near Durham in Oct 1346, David II, K. of Scots (Edward's brother-in-law), was captured and remained a prisoner in the Tower of London & elsewhere until released in 1357 for a large ransom.

Desultory, indecisive, and small-scale fighting continued in France, but after 1355 Edward left most of it in the capable hands of his son, Prince Edward, who at Poitiers 19 Sep 1356 won a splendid victory and captured French King John II (see Chart 7), who, as a prisoner, was magnificently entertained by K. Edward. After John's return to Paris, because one of the hostages for payment of his ransom had escaped, he returned to London out of chivalrous courtesy & died there (1364). His son Charles V pursued the war and England lost most of Aquitaine, by 1377 still holding only Calais, Bordeaux, Bayonne, Brest.

About 1349, because of his oath to restore King

Arthur's Round Table, Edward founded the Order of the Garter, one of the most prestigious orders of knighthood. In 1348-49 England was ravaged by the Black Death, which carried off up to half the population. Edward's perpetual need for money led him to rely a good deal on Parliaments for tax levies, and in the 1370's he attacked the wealth of the church. His reign ended with Edward in his dotage, squabbles over control of the government, and the death in 1376 of Prince Edward, his eldest son and heir (Faris 229-31; EB 8:5-6).

Four of their sons:

1. Edward, the Black Prince, b. Woodstock 15 June 1330; d. 8 June 1376, before his father, buried Canterbury Cathedral. For his wife, see 2:22 & Chart 20. His son was the willful, erratic King Richard II, b. 1367; probably murdered Feb 1400; at age 10 succeeded his grandfather Edward III as king.
2. Lionel of Clarence, b. Antwerp 29 Nov 1338; d. Italy 17 Oct 1368, Duke of Clarence. His grandson, Roger Mortimer (1374-1398), Earl of March, was heir to the throne after K. Richard II. Roger's daughter and eventual heiress, Anne (1390-1411), mar. Richard of York (see 4 below) and carried her rights to the throne to the Yorkists.
3. John of Gaunt, b. Mar 1340; d. 3/4 Feb 1398/1399, D. of Lancaster. See 2:12 below.
4. Edmund of Langley, b. 13 Nov 1362; d. 1 Aug 1402, Duke of York. Second son:
Child: Richard of York, b. 1376; beheaded (for treason) 5 Aug 1415. He & wife Anne Mortimer (see 2 above) were grandparents of Kings Edward IV & Richard III, Yorkist monarchs.

2:12 JOHN OF GAUNT, younger son of K. Edward III (2:11) and Queen Philippa, b. St. Bavon's Abbey, Ghent, in Flanders, Mar 1340; d. Leicester Castle 3/4 Feb 1398/9, Duke of Lancaster; mar. 1st (Reading 13 May 1359) his 3rd cousin, Blanche of Lancaster, younger dau. and co-heiress of Henry, D. of Lancaster (see 2:25 below), born 25 Mar 1345; d. Bolingbroke Castle, Lincolnshire 12 Sep 1369; bur. St. Paul's Cathedral, London. Her death was memorialized by Geoffrey Chaucer in The Book of the Duchess. John mar. 2nd (1371) Constance of Castile (d. 1394); their daughter Katherine, Queen of Castile, was grandmother of Queen Isabella (1451-1504), patroness of Columbus. John mar. 3rd (13 Jan 1395/96) his mistress, Katherine Roet (née Swynford) (d. 1403), mother of his four illegitimate children (surname Beaufort).

As a result of his marriage to Blanche, in 1362 he was created Duke of Lancaster, and acquired great possessions in the north, midlands, & Wales, which gave him a solid basis for power and authority. His military career was not especially distinguished; he conducted a spectacular cavalry raid in France from Calais to Bordeaux in 1373, but his Castilian campaign 1386-88 to win the Castilian crown (through his 2nd marriage) was a failure. Endowed with kindness, a sense of moderation, & loyalty to king and family, he played the role of mediator & peace-maker in the hostile factions in the last years of his father's reign and during the reign (1377-99) of his neurotic and feckless nephew, Richard II, though he was often the object of attacks; he saved himself from possible assassination in 1381 with his private army. His loyalty helped keep Richard on his throne. In 1397 his four illegitimate children, the Beauforts, were legitimized by Act of Parliament, but barred from the throne. He died soon after his son Henry's banishment (Faris 155-6; EB 13: 638-39).

Child: Henry of Monmouth, b. Apr 1366; d. 20 Mar 1413, King of England as Henry IV from 1399. See 1:1.

2:13 ROBERT OF CAEN, illegitimate son of K. Henry I (2:4) possibly by Sibyl of Caen, b. c.1190; d. of fever at Bristol, Eng. 31 Oct 1147, buried Priory of St. James there, Earl of Gloucester; mar. [c1109] Maud FitzHamon. He was created E. of Gloucester 1122. In 1126 he had the custody of his uncle, Duke Robert of Normandy, as prisoner at Bristol, then Cardiff. In 1127 he did homage to his half-sister Maud (2:5) as their father's successor. He was present at the King's deathbed at Lions-le-Forêt, Dec 1135. He accepted Stephen as king, did homage for his English lands, Easter 1136, but after a quarrel with Stephen in 1137 and his English & Welsh estates were forfeited, he took up arms for his half-sister Maud; a wise and capable commander, he remained unselfishly loyal to Maud. After securing surrender of Bayeux and Caen in Normandy, in Sep 1139 he conducted Maud to England, & as her commander-in-chief in the civil war won most of western England & south Wales, having burned Nottingham in 1140. The pinnacle of his success came at the Battle of Lincoln in Feb. 1141 when he captured the King & kept him a prisoner at Bristol. He accompanied Maud to Westminster for her coronation, which was prevented by London's hostility. After Robert too was captured 14 Sept 1141, he was exchanged in Oct for King Stephen. Robert brought from France Maud's son Henry (II), but on suffering reverses he sent him back to Anjou in 1147 (CP 5:583-6; EB 10:491).

Two of the children:

1. William FitzRobert, b. 23 Nov [c1110]; d. 23 Nov 1183, 2nd E. of Gloucester; mar. Hawise de Beaumont. See 16:5.
2. Maud (Matilda), b. [c1120]; d. 29 July 1189; mar. Ralph de Gernon, Earl of Chester. See 2:14 below.

2:14 MAUD (MATILDA) OF GLOUCESTER, c1120-1189, dau. of Robert of Caen (2:13) and Maud his wife, b. [c1120]; d. 29 July 1189; married (c1141) RANULPH DE GERON, son of Ranulf le Meschin, Vicomte de Bayeux in Normandy and Earl of Chester, b. in the Castle of Gernon in Normandy c1098; died 16 Dec 1153, Earl of Chester and Vicomte d'Avranches in Normandy, created Earl of Chester 1120. He and his family enjoyed immense influence because of their vast estates, spread in many counties. Proud and unscrupulous, motivated by self-interest, with greatest impartiality he served with distinction as a soldier for both the Empress Maud and K. Stephen, was appointed by Stephen Constable of Lincoln 1136. He fought against the king at the Battle of Lincoln 2 Feb 1141, in which Stephen was taken prisoner; the king retaliated 29 Aug 1146 by siezing him at Court, at Northampton; however, subsequently, the king granted him the Castle and city of Lincoln. Later he fought for King Stephen again, earning the distrust of both sides. He was supposedly poisoned by his wife (CP 3:166-67; EB 5:469-70).

2:15 HUGH DE KEVELIOC, only son & heir of Ranulph de Gernon, E. of Chester, & Maud his wife (2:14), b. Kevelioc, co. Merioneth, Wales, 1147; d. Leeke, Staffordshire, 1181, Earl of Chester and Vicomte d'Avranches; mar. (1169) Bertrade de Montfort, b. 1156; d. 1227. K. Henry II gave her away in marriage. Hugh joined the young Henry in rebellion against his father Henry II and was taken prisoner at Alnwick 13 July 1174 and deprived of his earldom. He rebelled again, but was restored to favor Jan 1177 (CP 3:167).

2:16 HAWISE OF CHESTER, b. 1180; d. 1242/43; mar. ROBERT DE QUINCY, b. [c1165]; d. London 1217 (AR; before 1232, CP). Robert is a younger brother of Saher de Quincy IV (see 22:1)(CP 12, pt.2, p. 748 note g). In her own right Hawise was Countess of Lincoln upon the death of her brother, Ranulph, Earl of Chester & Lincoln.

2:17 WILLIAM LONGESPEE, illegitimate son of K. Henry II, b. c.1170/76; d. Salisbury 7 Mar 1225/6, bur. in the newly completed Cathedral, Earl of Salisbury; married, (1196) Ela (or Isabel), in her own right Countess of Salisbury, dau. & heiress of the Earl of Salisbury (desc. from Charlemagne), b. Amesbury, Wiltshire, c1191; d. 24 Aug 1261. In 1196 K. Richard I granted to William Ela's marriage & the Earldom of Salisbury. A prominent baron, soldier, & administrator under K. John & Henry III, he was in the royal service in many capacities, including inspector of royal castles. He was joint commander in successful expeditions to help the Count of Flanders against France 1213-14, but on 27 July 1314 commanding a wing of the royal army, he with the C. of Flanders was captured in the battle of Bouvines, a great defeat for K. John. He was at Runnymede June 1215 on the King's side, remaining loyal 'til late June 1216, when he surrendered Salisbury Castle to Prince Louis, but by 1217 had returned to his allegiance. Benefactors of Salisbury Cathedral, he and his wife laid foundation stones for it in 1220 (EP 11:379-382; AR 108:28; EB 19:947).

2:18 STEPHEN LONGESPEE, of Sutton, Northamptonshire, younger son of William (2:17), Earl of Salisbury, & Ela his wife, b. [c1210]; d. 1260; mar. (c1243/4) Emeline de Ridelsford, b. [c1230]; d. 1276. Sometime Seneschal of Gascony & Justiciar of Ireland (AR 31:27, 33A:26).

Child: Ela Longespée, b. [c1250]; mar. Sir ROGER LA ZOUCHE. See 22:7.

2:19 JOAN [OF ENGLAND], illegitimate daughter of King John (2:7), b. c1185; d. 1236/37; mar. (1205) LLEWELLYN AP IORWERTH the GREAT, b. 1173; died & buried Cistercian abbey at Aberconway 11 Apr 1240, Prince of North Wales. The most outstanding Welsh ruler before Edward I's conquest, he subdued most of N. Wales by 1202. Efforts to control other Welsh territories alarmed K. John, who invaded Wales in 1211 and temporarily thwarted Llewellyn's ambitions. The Crown's political troubles in the Magna Carta crisis afforded him the opportunity to reassert his control, and he acquired supremacy over much of Wales (AR 176:7, 29A:26 & 27, 236:8; EB 14:167).

2:20 THOMAS OF BROTHERTON, 5th son of Edward I (2:9) by his 2nd wife, Queen Margaret, b. Brotherton, Yorkshire, 1 June 1300; d. cAug 1338, bur. Abbey of Bury St. Edmunds, Duke of Norfolk; mar. 1st (1316/18) Alice de Hales, who d. 1326 (after 8 May). He was assigned the estates of Roger Bigod, dec'd E. of Norfolk, by his brother Edward II, was created Earl of Norfolk 1 Dec 1312 & Marshal of England 10 Feb 1315/6. He supported Queen Isabel in her opposition to Edward II, welcomed her from France on his own land at Orwell in Sep 1326, but after K. Edward's murder in 1327, he joined the barons against her and Mortimer in 1329, had charge of Mortimer's hanging at Tyburn as a traitor 29 Nov 1330 (Faris 205).

2:21 MARGARET OF NORFOLK, dau. & eventual sole heiress of Thomas (2:20), Duke of Norfolk, by Alice his wife, b. c1320; d. 1398/9, Countess of Norfolk; mar. 1st (1337/38) JOHN DE SEGRAVE, 4th Lord Segrave, born c1315; d. 1 Apr 1353. On 29 Sep 1397 she was created Duchess of Norfolk for life by K. Richard II; she d. 24 Mar 1398/9, buried choir of the Grey Friars' in London (Faris 205, 197). Through her daughter the titles of Duke of Norfolk and Earl Marshal of England eventually came into the Howard family, in which the Duchy of Norfolk is the oldest (premier) duchy in England.

Child: Elizabeth de Segrave, b. Croxton Abbey 25 Oct 1338; d. 1364/7; married JOHN DE MOWBRAY, 4th Baron Mowbray. See 19:6.

2:22 EDMUND OF WOODSTOCK, 6th son of Edward I (2:9) by his 2nd wife, Queen Margaret, b. Woodstock, Oxfordshire, 5 Aug 1301; d. 19 Mar 1329/30, Earl of Kent; mar. (?25 Dec 1325) Margaret Wake, widow of John Comyn of Badenoch & dau. of Sir John, 1st Lord Wake (see 22:4), b. c1299; d. 29 Sep 1349. Edmund first supported his brother Edward II until 1326, joined Queen Isabella in France, returned with her to England 1327 and supported Edward's deposition, but, later charged with conspiring against the Queen & her lover Mortimer, he was arrested and beheaded 19 Mar 1330 (Faris 228; EB 13:286-7).

One of three children:

1. Joan, "The Fair Maid of Kent," b. 29 Sep 1328; died 7/8 Aug 1375; married 2nd Sir THOMAS DE HOLLAND, K.G., Earl of Kent (see 22:10); mar. 3rd Edward the Black Prince (of Wales), by whom she was mother of King Richard II (born 1367; d. a prisoner in Pontefract Castle Feb 1400 (possibly murdered by order of Henry IV).

2:23 EDMUND ("CROUCHBACK," i.e. "Crossback," Crusader), 4th & youngest son of K. Henry III (2:8), b. London 16 Jan 1244/5; d. Bayonne, France, 5 June 1296, bur. Westminster Abbey, 1st Earl of Lancaster; mar. 2nd (Paris 27 July/29 Oct 1276) his cousin, BLANCHE OF ARTOIS, Dowager Queen of Navarre & Dowager Countess of Champagne, widow of Henry, K. of Navarre, and dau. of Robert, C. of Artois (see 7:18), b. c1249; d. Paris 2 May 1302. He nearly became a pawn in Papal politics, in Mar 1254 was awarded the throne of Sicily by Pope Innocent IV, but Alexander IV cancelled the grant in Dec 1258. At the end of the Barons' War in 1265 he received several earldoms, including (1266) Derby & ('67) Lancaster, & acquired others by his 1st marriage, the greatest accumulation of titles and lands in 200 years. In 1268 he took the cross, went on an ineffectual crusade to Acre in the Holy Land. As husband of Blanche he governed Champagne as vassal of Philip III until her dau. Jeanne married (1284). Amiable, trusting, chivalric, but without ambition, he was totally loyal to his brother Edward I, served as regent (1286-89) while Edward was in France, fought for Edward in England, Wales, and France (EB 13: 638; Faris 152-3).

Two of four children:

1. Thomas of Lancaster, c1278-1322, 2nd Earl of Lancaster; devoted most of his adult life to open opposition to his cousin, Edward II, organized barons against Edward & his favorites, for a time had England practically under his control, was finally defeated at Boroughbridge (22 Mar 1322) & at Pontefract Castle that same day beheaded, the King a witness, all his lands & titles forfeited (EB 8:4),
2. Henry of Lancaster, b. Grosmont Castle, Monmouthshire, 1281; d. 1345, 3rd Earl of Lancaster. See 2:23 below.

2:24 HENRY OF LANCASTER, 2nd son of Edmund (2:23), 1st Earl, b. 1281; d. 1345, 3rd Earl of Lancaster; mar. 1st (?early 1296/7) cousin MAUD DE CHAWORTH, dau. of Patrick de Chaworth, Knt. (23:5), b. 1282; d. 19 Feb 1322/3. He was restored to his brother's titles & lands c1325. Upon the Queen's return from France Sep 1826, he joined her party against Edward II, was sent in pursuit of Edward & captured him at Neath Abbey, conducted him to Kenilworth where he served as his keeper, was one of the group appointed to inform him of his deposition. About the time he lost his sight, in 1330 he engineered the plot which overthrew Mortimer, with approval of Edward III. He d. 22 Sep 1345, bur. Newark Abbey, Leicester (Faris 153; EP 13:638).

Son and three of his six daughters:

1. Henry of Lancaster, b. Grosmont Castle c1300; d. 1360/61, 1st Duke of Lancaster. See 2:24.
2. Eleanor of Lancaster, b. c1318; d. 11 Jan 1371/72; mar. 2nd RICHARD FITZALAN, Earl of Arundel & Warenne. See 21:6.
3. Mary of Lancaster, b. 1320; d. July 1369; mar. HENRY DE PERCY, 3rd Lord Percy. See 23:10.
4. Joan of Lancaster, b. c1322; d. 7 July 1347?; mar. JOHN DE MOWBRAY, 3rd Baron Mowbray. See 19:5.

2:25 HENRY OF LANCASTER, only son of Henry (2:24), 2nd Earl, b. c1300; d. 1360/61, 1st Duke of Lancaster; mar. (c1341) Isabel Beaumont, dau. of Henry, 1st Lord Beaumont, b. c1320; d. after 4 Mar 1356. Created Earl of Derby 1336/7, E. of Lincoln, he succeeded his father as Earl of Lancaster & Leicester & as Steward of England, was created (1351) Duke of Lancaster. A founding knight of Edward III's Order of the Garter, he was one of the greatest barons in England. His life was devoted to military action, on land & sea in France in the Hundred Years' War; he served on many diplomatic missions for King Edward III (Faris 154; EB 13: 638).

Second but only surviving child, and heiress:

1. Blanche of Lancaster, b. 25 Mar 1345; d. 12 Sep 1369; mar. JOHN OF GAUNT, Duke of Lancaster. See 2:11 above.

CHART 3 - EARLY KINGS OF SCOTS

The lineage of Scottish kings is traced in AR, Line 170, eleven generations back to Ercc (d. 474), King of Dalriada in northern Ireland, whose son Fergus established an Irish kingdom of Dalriada in Argyll, i.e. in the west of Scotland. The name "Scots" originally referred to the Irish. Traditionally Christianity had been introduced into part of Scotland in 397 under Roman influence, but St. Columba is said to have converted both Picts and Scots about 563.

3:1 ALPIN, son of Eochaid, "the Poisonous," King of Dalriada. Alpin, King of Dalriada, was slain in Galloway in southwest Scotland c837, killed by the Picts three months after defeating them in battle. In his time and afterwards Norsemen made frequent raids, and settlements, in the north and west of Scotland, especially the Orkney and Shetland Isles (AR 170; EB 20: 43). Their repeated raids helped bring the people together and made union possible. The founder of the Scottish kingdom was Kenneth MacAlpin.

3:2 CINAED (KENNETH I, MacALPIN), son of Alpin, d. 858, King of the Picts and Scots. At first King of Dalriada, he became the first King of a united Scotland (then called "Alba"), having successfully brought under his sway through inheritance and conquest the Picts in the north, Celts in the south, Angles in the southeast, and his own people, the Irish settlers in the west. However, binding together these several races, isolated from each other by mountains and water, into a united nation, was a long, slow process, which went on long after his death. Cinaed died in 858 at Forteviot, near Scone in Pictish territory, & was buried on the island of Iona, the burial place of Scottish kings. The crown continued in his family, but passed more frequently to a brother or nephew than to a son. Murder became a frequent means for attaining the throne; most of the kings died violent deaths (MacLaglan 36; AR 70:13; EB 13:285, 20:43).

3:3 CAUSANTIN (CONSTANTINE), son of Cinaed, d. 881, King of Scots from 862, fell in battle against the Norsemen (AR 170:14).

3:4 DOMNALL (DONALD), son of Causantin, d. 900, King of Scots from 889, killed in 900 (AR 170:15).

3:5 MAEL-COLUIM (MALCOLM I), son of Donald, d. 954, King of Scots from 943. In 945 he received Strathclyde (an area in southwestern Scotland settled by Britons) from Edmund "the Magnificent," King of the English, in return for his support. Malcolm was murdered by the men of Moray (AR 170:16; EB 14:693).

3:6 CINAED (KENNETH II), son of Malcolm I, d. 995, King of the Scots from 971. He invaded Northumbria twice, but he was reportedly one of several northern and western kings who in 973 made submission to Edgar, King of the English, who shortly thereafter granted to Kenneth the land known as Lothian between the Tweed and the Forth. Kenneth appears to have been killed by his own men at Fettercairn (AR 170:17; EB 13:285).

3:7 MAEL-COLUIM (MALCOLM II), son of Cinaed, b. c954; d. 1034, King of Scots 1005-1034. He acquired the crown

25 Mar 1005. He invaded northern England several times, and in 1008 in a victorious battle at Carham in Northumbria finally secured Lothian for Scotland, in 1017 overcame the Norsemen in battle, & he published a code of laws. He was murdered at his castle at Glamis 25 Nov 1034. Malcolm was the father of three daughters: one, Donada, was the mother of Macbeth (AR 170:18; EB 14:693).

3:8 BETHOC (BEATRIX), eldest daughter of Malcolm II, b. [c984]; married (1000) CRINAN, b. 978; d. 1045, Lay Abbot of Dunkeld, Governor of the Scottish Islands. In 1045 he defeated rebels in a battle near Dunkeld, but the same year fell in a battle between feuding Scots (AR 170:9; EB 14:496).

3:9 DUNCAN I MAC CRINAN, son of Conan and Bethoc, c1001-1040, King of Scots 1034-1040; mar. a daughter of Siward, Danish Earl of Northumbria. His grandfather Malcolm I made him King of Strathclyde c1033, and he succeeded Malcolm 25 Nov 1034. He besieged Durham (in the north of England) in 1035. He was slain in battle near Elgin 14 Aug 1040 by his first cousin, Macbeth, who seized the crown (AR 170:20; EB 7:757).

3:10 MALCOLM III CANMORE, son of Duncan I, 1031-93, King of Scots 1056-93; mar. 2nd (Dunfermline, Scotland, 1068/69) St. MARGARET of England, b. 1045; d. 1093, dau. of Anglo-Saxon Prince Edward "the Exile" (4:20) & a great-niece of K. Edward the Confessor, last of the line of Anglo-Saxon rulers. Malcolm spent several yrs. of his youth an exile at the court of Edward the Confessor. With English aid Malcolm met Macbeth in battle at Lumphinan, in Mar 1057 and killed him. Malcolm was crowned at Scone 17 Mar 1057/8. After the Norman Conquest he gave refuge in 1068 to Anglo-Saxon Prince Edgar, whose sister Margaret he soon wed. In 1072 he did homage to William I "the Conqueror," gave him his son Duncan as hostage, receiving lands in England. Malcolm's frequent raids into England were not ended by his visit to King William II at Gloucester in 1093. In a raid later that year Malcolm, together with his eldest son, was slain while besieging Alnwick Castle, 13 Nov 1093. He was succeeded by his brother Donald Bane.

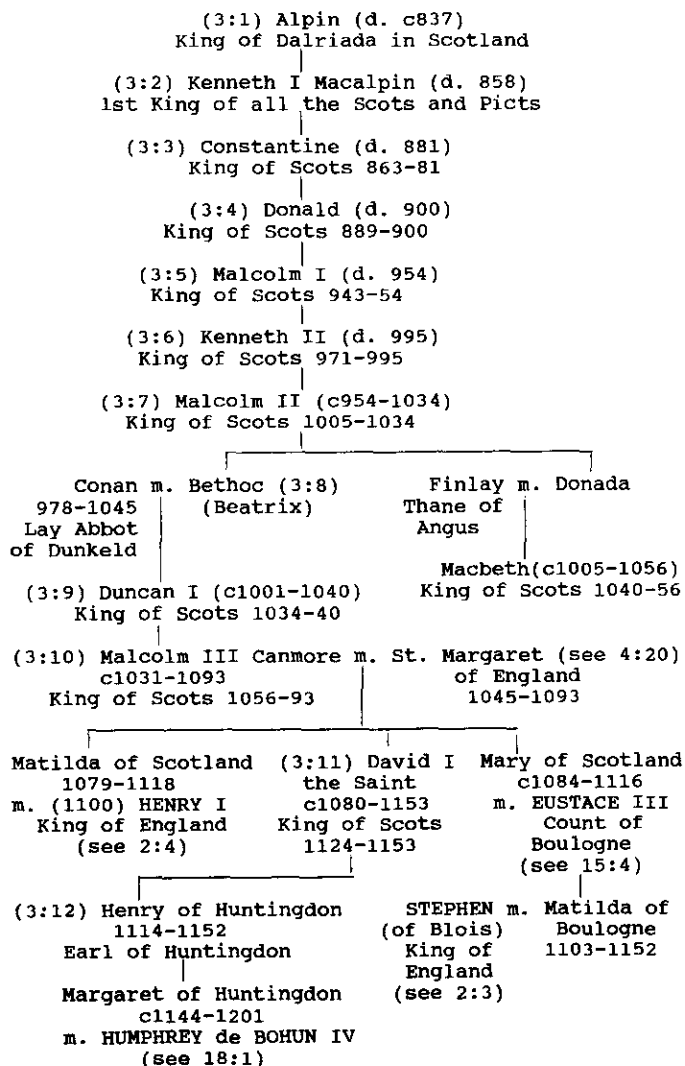

Malcolm's widow, ST. MARGARET OF SCOTLAND (canonized 1249 by Pope Innocent IV), was brought up at the Hungarian court, where her father was an exile. She exercised significant influence over her husband, promoted the welfare of the English conquered by Scots in the 10th cent., introduced clergy from England, maintained a splendid court, encouraged the import of luxuries, helped reduce the isolation of Scotland. She died in Edinburgh 16 Nov 1093 (AR 170:21; EB 14:693, 861).

Three of their children:

1. Matilda (Edith), b. 1079; d. 1 May 1118; mar. (11 Nov 1100) K. HENRY I of ENGLAND (see 2:4).
2. David I, b. c1080; d. 24 May 1153. See 13:11.
3. Mary, b. c1084; d. 31 May 1116; mar. (1102) EUSTACE III, Count of Boulogne. See 15:4.

3:11 DAVID I, "THE SAINT," youngest son of Malcolm III (3:10), b. c1080; d. Carlisle, in Cumberland, England, 24 May 1153, bur. at Scone, King of Scots 1124-53; married [c1108] Matilda (Maud), dau. of Waltheof, Earl of Northumbria, & heiress of Huntingdon, c1075-1130/31. In her right David became Earl of Huntingdon and acquired other extensive lands in England. (She was a desc. of Alfred the Great & Charlemagne.) He spent much of his early manhood at the court of his brother-in-law the English King Henry I. Upon the death of his brother King Alexander I in Apr 1124 David succeeded as King of Scots, & in his reign Medieval Scotland reached its peak. He welcomed Anglo-Norman barons, who came from northern England to serve him (e.g. Bruce & Stewart), granted them lands in southern Scotland; they inter-married with the Scottish aristocracy and created a new Anglo-French aristocracy, thoroughly French in speech, manners, and life-style. He built royal castles around which grew the first towns, imported the institution of sheriff from England, created the basis of a central royal administration, established the first Scottish coinage. He restored bishoprics, founded abbeys (e.g. Melrose and St. Andrews).

In 1126 he took an oath acknowledging his niece, the Empress Maud, as heir to her father King Henry I of England. He invaded England 1136 and 1137, was defeated at the battle of the Standard at Northallerton 22 Aug 1138, but was granted lands by King Stephen. He again fought for Matilda in 1141, and in 1149 at Carlisle knighted her son, his grand-nephew, the future Henry II (AR 170:22; Stuart 221:31; EB 7:97).

3:12 HENRY OF HUNTINGDON, only surviving son of King David I (13:11), b. 1114; d. 1152, Earl of Huntingdon & Northumberland; married (1139) Ada de Warenne, dau. of William de Warenne, Earl of Surrey, and Isabel de Vermandois, Countess of Leicester (see 16:2), b. c.1120; d. 1178. In 1136 his father resigned to him the earldom of Huntingdon, and he did homage for it to King Stephen; he invaded England with his father and was defeated with him at the battle of the Standard. He predeceased his father 12 June 1252; his eldest son Malcolm succeeded King David the next year (AR 89:24, 96:25, 170:23; EB 11:897).

CHART 4: ANGLO-SAXON KINGS OF THE ENGLISH

Pagan Germanic tribes from the continent were making occasional raids along the east coast of England in the late 4th century while the Romans were still there, but once the Roman legions had been withdrawn after 400 to help defend the Roman Empire against other barbarian invasions from the east, plundering raids increased in frequency by larger bands, each led by a single chief, and by c450 they began to colonize & gradually drove the native population westward into the mountains and Cornwall, obliterating traces of Roman civilization more completely than did the invaders in any other part of the Empire. The Angles came from the land at the base of the Danish peninsula and settled along the lower east coast (e.g. East Anglia); the Jutes came from Jutland, the northern part of Denmark and settled in Kent and the area around the Isle of Wight; the Saxons came from along the German coast west of the Danish peninsula and settled in South England. By the end of the fifth century several independent kingdoms were emerging, chiefly Northumbria, Mercia, Kent, E. Anglia, Wessex (West Saxons, south of the Thames), several of which became strong enough from time to time to dominate the others, but Wessex was the only one with the enduring strength to emerge finally as the sole survivor. Even after the King of the West Saxons had come to be acknowledged as King of the English, parts of England were still held by Danes & other rulers.

Christianity came to England in 596, brought by a mission sent by Pope Gregory I the Great, the mission headed by St. Augustine, who became the first Archbishop of Canterbury. Christianity came to the West Saxons about a generation later.

The West Saxon crown was basically elective, at the hands of the Witan, the council of wise men, but it tended to stay in the same family. Until after the mid-10th century only adult males were chosen.

The primary source for early English history is the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle, the most celebrated of many such chronicles maintained by most emerging European states. Beginning in the 9th century in several different English monasteries independently of each other, monks began to keep a record of historical events from the distant past and of current events, down to 1154, a record remarkable for its continuity and for the fact that it was written in the vernacular (i.e. the native language, Old English) rather than in Latin. Seven manuscripts have survived.

After the Anglo-Saxons had settled down and become civilized, their peace was abruptly violated in 793 by the first raid of the Norsemen (Danes), who swiftly and savagely descended on the famous monastery at Lindisfarne on the coast of Northumbria (the northernmost county of England), slaughtering and burning. Thereafter wave after wave of Danes descended upon England, until about a century and a half later over half of England was occupied and partially settled by Danes. The strength of Wessex and its King Alfred by 899 had successfully saved England from permanent Danish conquest, but later weakening of the monarchy led to occupation of the English throne by Danish kings (1016-42).

4:1 CERDIC, b. [c457]; d. 534, 1st King of the West Saxons. A Saxon "ealdorman," he invaded the coast of Hampshire, (southern) England, in 495, established a settlement in 496, assumed in 519 the title of King of the West Saxons. According to the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle for A.D. 495: "This year came two leaders into Britain, Cerdic & Cynric, his son, with five ships....[In 519] they fought with the Britons at a place called Charford" (AR 1:1) (Stuart, Line 233, provides 12 Saxon and Scandinavian ancestors for Cerdic, and inserts a son

4:2 CYNRIC, son of Cerdic (4:1), b. [c477]; d. 560, King of the West Saxons from 534. In 552 he defeated Britons at Sarum, near modern Salisbury (AR 1:3).

4:3 CEAWLIN, son of Cynric (4:2), b. [c517]; d. 593, King of the West Saxons 560-591. According to the A-S Chronicle, in 577 Ceawlin and son Cuthwine "fought with the Britons, & slew three kings...& took from them 3 cities, Gloucester, Cirincester, and Bath." In 591 Ceawlin was driven from his throne, & the crown passed for a time to a younger branch of the family (AR 1:4; Stuart 233:50).

4:4 CUTHWINE, son of K. Ceawlin (4:3), b. [c552]; d. 584, before his father, killed in the battle of Barbery Hill. His father had appointed him Under King of Wessex (AR 1:5; Stuart 233:49).

4:5 CUTHA (CUTHWULF), son of Cuthwine (4:4), b. [c580], a West Saxon prince (AR 1:6).

4:6 CEOLWALD, son of Cutha (4:5), b. [c610], a West Saxon prince. Presumably as a Christian he visited Rome in 688, (AR 1:7).

4:7 CENRED, son of Ceolwald (4:6), b. [c640], living 694, a West Saxon prince, under-King of Sussex in 692 (AR 1:8).

4:8 INGILD, son of Cenred (4:7), b. [c665]; d. 718, a West Saxon Prince. His elder brother, Ina, reigned as West Saxon King from 691, abdicated and died in Rome 728 on pilgrimage (AR 1:9).

4:9 EOPPA, son of Ingild (4:8), b. [c690], West Saxon prince (AR 1:10).

4:10 Eafa, son of Eoppa (4:9), b. [c715], prince of Wessex (AR 1:11).

4:11 EAHLMUND (EDMUND), son of Eafa (4:10), born [c740]; d. ?786. King of Kent 784-786 (AR 1:12).

4:12 EGBERT (ECGBERT), son of K. Eahlmund (4:11), b. c763; d. 939 (after 19 Nov 838), Under-King of Kent in 784-86, King of the West Saxons 802, first King of the English 827-36; mar. Raedburh. Driven into exile 786, he spent 3 yrs. among the Franks, returned in 802 to be chosen king. He fought against native Britons in the west of England, defeated the Mercians & drove out the Kentish king. In 827 the people of southern England accepted his rule; Northumbria later submitted. Though defeated by the Danes in 836, he won a great victory in 838 (AR 1:13; EB 8:17).

4:13 AETHELWULF, son of K. Egbert (4:12), b. [c800]; d. 13 Jan 857/8; mar. 1st Osburh, dau. of Oslac, the royal cup-bearer, annulled 853. He mar. 2nd (in France 1 Oct 856) Judith, dau. of Charles II the Bald. Succeeding his father in 839, he was constantly at war with the Danes, had a resounding victory in 851, but he did not put a stop to their raids. He took his son on pilgrimage to Rome 855 & on the way home stopped at the Frankish court and married Princess Judith (AR 1:14; EB 1:232; Stuart 233:40).

4:14 ALFRED THE GREAT, son of K. Aethelwulf (4:13) & Osburh, b. Wantage, Berkshire, England, 849; d. 26 Oct 899, King of the English, bur. Winchester; mar. (868) Ealhswith (Alswitha), dau. of Earl Aethelred of Mercia & his wife Eadburh, b. [c850]; d. c905. The only English king to be called "the Great," Alfred was indeed one of the great men of history. At age 4 his father sent him to Rome, where Pope Leo IV was sponsor at his confirmation. His elder brother Aethelstan I succeeded as King in 865, the year of the great Danish invasion, and for the next six years Alfred aided him in constant battles with the Danes; in 871 Alfred achieved his first decisive victory over the Danish army in England. Succeeding his brother later that year, he was crowned king at Winchester, 871, but had to face new attacks from the Danes, who had received great reinforcements.

Wessex shortly made peace with the Danes, and in a few years of quiet he founded the British navy, with which in 875 he repelled a Danish invasion. In 876 the Danes marched across Wessex, & after Alfred's successful resistance made truces to leave Wessex, but broke them: in 878 they nearly conquered Wessex. From a fort which

Alfred had built and to which he had withdrawn in the Somerset marshes he harassed the Danes, defeated them in battle and siege until later in 878 their king agreed to leave Wessex and be baptised. There were still Danish raids after 885, but Alfred insured that Danes would never again overrun Wessex, and in saving his kingdom he prevented England from becoming a Scandinavian country. An independent Wessex provided a base for reconquest of the Danelaw (roughly the eastern third of England from Yorkshire south to Essex, where Danes had settled & where Danish customary law prevailed). Alfred has thus justly come to be regarded as the saviour of his country. The Danes in the Danelaw were gradually assimilated into Anglo-Saxon civilization. (The "ridings" of Yorkshire are survivals of the Danish language.)

Alfred organized the militia to keep an army perpetually in the field and established a system of constantly fortified centers (burghs or boroughs), completed by his son, which later became important towns. He reorganized his finances, issued a code of laws based on precedents he had studied, e.g. defining the rights of sanctuary, regulating and limiting the blood feud, and imposing penalties for breach of oath, especially stressing the evil of treason to one's lord. He built schools and monasteries & invited eminent scholars to live at his court. A decay of Latin scholarship before & especially during the Danish raids led him to have a number of books translated into English; he translated some himself. He provided that at his court children (noble & humble) be taught to read both English and Latin, outlined an educational program. In his time the shire structure developed & county boundaries were set which lasted until 1974. Alfred was fortunate in having as a sympathetic biographer a Welsh scholar named Asser (AR 1:15; EB 1:595-6; Roberts 326).

Two of his children:

1. Aelfthryth, b. c869; d. 7 June 929; mar. (884) Baldwin II, Count of Flanders. See 5:2.
2. Edward the Elder, b. 875; d. July 924, King of the English. See 4:15 below.

4:15 EDWARD (EADWEARD) THE ELDER, eldest son of K. Alfred (4:14) & Ealhswith, b. 875; d. Ferrington 17 July 924, King of the English; married 2nd (c897) Aelflede, dau. of Ealdorman Aethelhelm, b. c187; d. c919; 3rd (Berkshire 919) Eadgifu, dau. of Sigehelm, Earl of Kent, b. c896; d. 25 Aug 969. Chosen King by the Witan at his father's death, he was preeminently a great military leader. Crowned 8 June 900, he soon had to overcome a Danish invasion incited by a cousin (and rival for the throne). He decisively defeated for all time an invading Danish army from Northumbria, 910. He continued his father's policy of building boroughs. By 923 most areas of England had submitted to Edward, who could properly be called King of (nearly) all the English (AR 1:16; EB 8:2; Stuart 233:38, 376:37).

Three children, two daughters by 1st marriage:

1. Eadgifu, b. c904; d. after 951; mar. 1st CHARLES III, K. of France. See 6:17.
2. Eadgyth, b. [c913]; d. 26 Jan 946; mar. OTTO I the Great, Holy Roman Emperor. See 9:3.
3. Edmund I, b. 920; d. 25 May 946, King of the English. See 4:16 below.

4:16 EDMUND (EADMUND) I THE MAGNIFICENT, son of King Edward (4:15) & Eadgifu, b. 920; murdered 25 May 946 by a robber in his royal hall at Pucklechurch, Gloucestershire; bur. Glastonbury, King of the English; mar. 1st St. Aelfgifu, d. 944. In 937 he fought at the battle of Brunanburh alongside half-brother King Aethelstan, the first Saxon king to be effective ruler of all England, who called himself "king of all Britain." Edmund succeeded him in 939, but had to fend off Norse raids in Northumbria, finally driving out the Norse kings. He inaugurated peaceful relations with Scotland, intervened in France to support his foster son, Louis IV. Since his sons were infants, he was succeeded by his younger brother Edred (d. 955), who was succeeded by Edmund's elder son Edwy (EB 7:980; Stuart 233:37).

4:17 EDGAR, THE PEACEFUL, son of K. Edmund (4:16) & St. Aelfgifu, b. 944; d. 8 July 975, King of England from 959; mar. (965) Elfrida (Ealfrith), dau. of Earl Ordgar, b. 945; d. 1000, a nun. In 957 the Mercians & Northumbrians rejected Edgar's elder brother Edwy as King and chose Edgar instead; on Edwy's death 959 Edgar succeeded to the whole realm. A dedicated supporter of the monastic revival, he had monastic lands restored, donated many Crown lands, refounded abbeys, promoted composition of a rule for monasteries. An efficient ruler, in his peaceful 16 year reign he maintained friendly relations with Scots, won the loyalty of Danes in England by letting them preserve their laws, saw to the proper administration of justice, reorganized local courts, encouraged trade, etc. (AR 1:18; EB 7:970).

The two surviving sons:

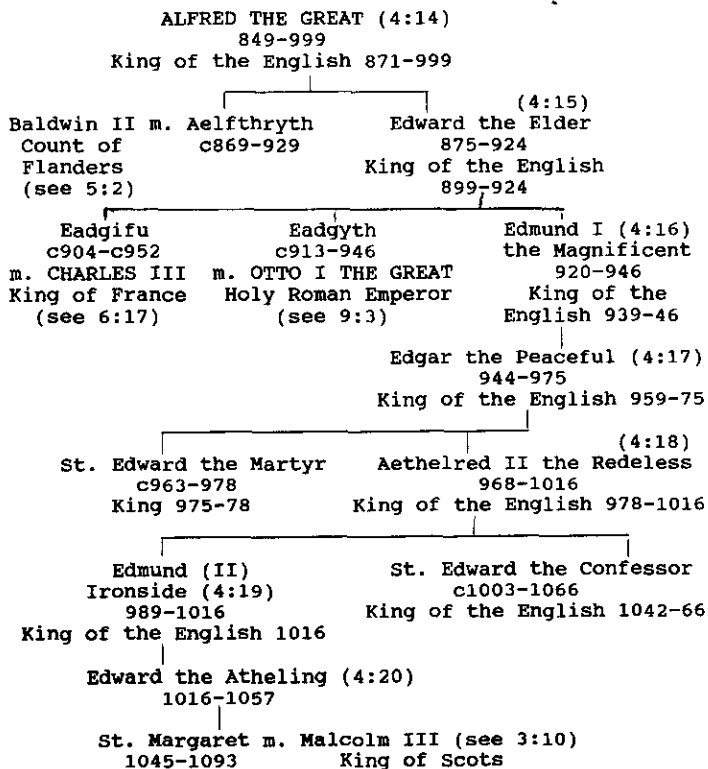

1. St. Edward the Martyr, b. c963; d. 978, King 975-8. He was assassinated 18 Mar 978 when visiting his brother at Corfe, Dorset.
2. Aethelred II, b. 968; d. 13 Apr 1016, King of the English. See 4:18 below.

4:18 AETHELRED II, THE REDELESS (UNREADY, properly "evil counsel"), younger son of K. Edgar (4:17) and Elfrida, b. Wessex 968; d. London 23 Apr 1016, King of the English, succeeding upon his brother's murder 978; mar. 1st Alfflaed, dau. of Ealdorman Thored; 2nd (1002) Emma, dau. of Richard I, Duke of Normandy (8:3), d. 6 Mar 1052 (great-aunt of William the Conqueror). She mar. 2nd Canute, King of Denmark and England, by whom she had Hardicanute, King of England. Edmund's reign was dominated and marred by distrust, & treachery of Eng. leaders, & murders incited by the King. Danish raids resumed in 980, & despite some valiant defence, inept generalship made defeat more common. The Danes ravaged the whole of England until bought off in 991, and afterwards at constantly increasing prices. The massacre of Danes 13 Nov 1002 led to a great invasion of Sweyn of Denmark in 1003, & arrival of another huge army in 1009. In 1012 the Archbishop of Canterbury was slain. When late in 1013 Sweyn was accepted as King, Aethelred fled to Normandy. He was invited back upon Sweyn's death in 1014, but Sweyn's son Canute invaded, and Aethelred died while war was raging (EB 1:231; AR 1:19; Stuart 233:35).

Two sons, one by each marriage:

1. Edmund (II), b. 989; d. 30 Nov 1016. See 4:19 below.
2. St. Edward the Confessor, b. Islip, Oxfordshire c1003; d. London 5 Jan 1065/66, bur. in newly dedicated Westminster Abbey, canonized 1161. Having grown up in Normandy, he was brought back to England 1041, succeeded his half-bro. Hardicanute 1042. Edward was noted for his piety. His wife's brother, Harold, was chosen king as Edward's successor, the last Anglo-Saxon king, slain at Hastings.

4:19 EDMUND (II) IRONSIDE, son of K. Aethelred II (4:18), b. 989; d. London 30 Nov 1016, chosen King of the English 23 Apr 1016, reigned 7 mos.; mar. 2nd (Aug 1015) Ealgyth, widow of Morcar. After the murder of Morcar, a leading thegn of the northern Danelaw, Edmund's father confiscated his estates, imprisoned his widow, whom Edmund seized & married against the wishes of his father, & seized Morcar's estates. From 1015 Edmund courageously fought the invading army of Danish King Canute. After K. Aethelred's death, Edmund was chosen king by a small group in London, but Canute was chosen by a larger Witan assembled in Southampton. Edmund led a valiant resistance to Canute, until peace assigned Wessex to Edmund, all territory north of the Thames to Canute (EB 7:980; AR 1:20; Stuart 233:34).

4:20 EDWARD THE ATHELING (i.e. Prince), called "The exile," son of K. Edmund II (4:19), b. 1016; d. London 1057; mar. (c1043) Agatha von Braunschweig, daughter of Ludolf, Margrave of W. Friesland. He spent most of his life an exile in Hungary, with his family was welcomed back to England by his uncle, King Edward, in the year he died (AR 1:24; Stuart 233:33, 318:34-35).

Daughter (born probably in Hungary):

1. St. Margaret, b. 1045; d. 16 Nov 1093; mar. MALCOLM III CANMORE, K. of Scots. See 3:10.

CHART 5 - COUNTS OF FLANDERS

LINK BETWEEN CHARLEMAGNE AND THE KINGS OF ENGLAND

These early counts laid the foundation for the future wealth and prosperity and greatness of Flanders (located principally in what is now Belgium, along the North Sea coast, but extending into modern France and the Netherlands), which became the leading wool manufacturing center of Europe and the chief market for English wool during the Middle Ages. These Counts made a succession of highly advantageous marriages. The genealogy of the counts of Flanders is the earliest to come down to us. Each count is son and heir of the preceding in the lineage, and of his Countess.

5:1 BALDWIN I ("Bras de Fer" or "Iron Arm"), born [c835]; d. 879, Count of Flanders; mar. (862) as her third husband, Frankish Princess JUDITH, daughter of CHARLES II, the Bald, King of the Franks and Emperor (grandson of CHARLEMAGNE - see 6:15). To help stem the devastating incursions of the Vikings, King Charles the Bald set up Baldwin as a "marcher" (border) count with control over a considerable territory between the North Sea and the Scheldt, which his successors continued to expand. A young adventurer, Baldwin, an official administrator of an area around Bruges, started off his dynasty very propitiously by marrying the daughter of the king (AR 162:16; EB9:418).

5:2 BALDWIN II, the Bald, b. c865; d. 2 Jan 918, Count of Flanders; mar. (884) English Princess AELFTHRYTH, dau. of the English King, ALFRED THE GREAT (see 4:14), born [c869]; d. 7 June 929. Baldwin, who further enhanced his dynasty by marrying another king's daughter, was the real founder of Flemish power. Though Flanders was nominally a fief held of the French crown, the Count was a virtual king in his extensive domain, in full control of the military, the Church, commerce, coinage, taxes, and justice, and he successfully kept his vassals under control. In 879-83 he fought off Danish raids (AR 162:17; EB 9:418).

Two of their sons (born in Flanders):

1. Arnulf (Arnold) I, b. c890; d. 27 Mar 964. See 5:3 below.
2. Adolph of Flanders, b. [c892]; d. 13 Nov 933, Count of Boulogne. He was great-grandfather of Eustace I, C. of Boulogne (see 15:2).

5:3 ARNULF (ARNOLD) I THE GREAT, or THE OLD, b. c890; d. 27 Mar 964, Count of Flanders and Artois (918-964); mar. (934) ALIX (Adelaide, Adele), dau. of Herbert II, Count of Vermandois (a descendant of Charlemagne), born c918; d. Bruges 960. He continued the policy of independence and expansion of territory, esp. toward the south (AR 162:18; Stuart 141:36, 169:35; EB 9:418).

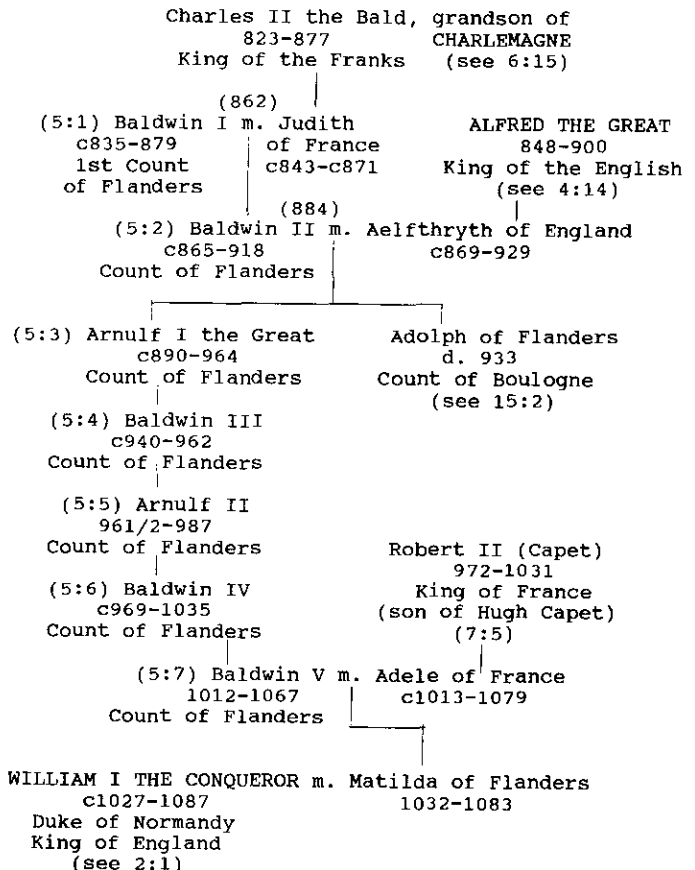

5:4 BALDWIN III, "Count of Flanders," b. c940; d. 1 Jan. 961/62, in his father's lifetime; married [c960] Matilda, dau. of Hermann Billung, Duke of Saxony, and his wife, Hildegard of Westerbourg, b. c945; d. 25 May 1008. (Herman Billung [d. 973] founded a dynasty which played a leading political role in German history 936-1106.) Baldwin III was co-ruler from 958 (AR 162:19)

5:5 ARNULF (ARNOLD) II, THE YOUNG, b. c961/62; d. 30 Mar 987, bur. Ghent, Count of Flanders 973-887; married (968) ROZELA (SUZANNA), Princess of Italy, daughter of Berengar II, King of Italy (also a Carolingian), b. c950; d. 26 Jan 1003. When, as an infant he succeeded his grandfather Mar 964, a period of disorder followed (AR 162:20).

5:6 BALDWIN IV de LILLE, THE BEARDED, b. [969]; d. 30 May 1036, Count of Flanders 987-1036; mar. 1st (c1011) Otgiva, dau. of Frederick I, Count of Luxembourg, born [c995]; d. [c1030]; mar. 2nd (c1031) Eleanor, dau. of Richard II, Duke of Normandy, his neighbor to the south. Central authority was restored, and Baldwin conquered lands to the east, which made him a vassal of the German Emperor. In his time Flanders began to become the commercial crossroads of northern Europe, as great towns (market centers) grew up, such as Ghent, Bruges, Arras, Ypres and a prosperous middle class (burghers) began to develop (AR 162:21).

5:7 BALDWIN V, DE LILLE, son and successor of Count Baldwin IV by his first wife, Otgiva of Luxembourg, b. 1012; d. Lille, Flanders, 1 Sep 1067, Count of Flanders; mar. (1028) as her 2nd husband, French Princess ADELE (Aelis), dau. of King Robert II (Capet) of France (also a Carolingian; see 7:5), b. c1013; d. 8 Jan 1079. He continued his dynasty's eastward expansion (AR 162:22-23). Their daughter (born in Flanders):

1. MATILDA OF FLANDERS, b. 1032; d. 3 Nov 1083; married (1053) WILLIAM II, DUKE OF NORMANDY, later as WILLIAM I THE CONQUEROR, KING OF ENGLAND. See 2:1.

CHART 6 - CAROLINGIANS: CHARLEMAGNE AND HIS FAMILY

Roman Gaul (France) was conquered and settled mainly by a Germanic people, the Franks, who with other west Germans (Alamanni, Saxons, Frisians & Thuringians) in the early 300's were stretched along the northern frontier of the Roman Empire from the lower Rhine eastward. In the previous century Salian Franks had penetrated into Gaul, and they continued sporadic raids. Gaul was invaded and ravaged 406-409 by Vandals & others, who then moved into Spain and finally Africa. In 418 the Visigoths invaded & set up a kingdom in southern Gaul before they removed to Spain after 494 (see Chart 14). The Burgundians (a Scandinavian people), were driven out of Germany by the fierce Huns and were settled by Rome in 443 in south-eastern Gaul & northwestern Italy; the Huns penetrated even into Gaul, where in 451 at Troyes Attila and his army were decisively defeated by the Visigoths & Franks.

As early as c360 the Salian Franks had been admitted to the empire in Belgium as "confederates," barbarian troops to protect the Empire against other barbarians. In the next century many moved south into Gaul, where one group under their chief or king established a ruling dynasty (the Merovingians). One of them, Clovis, in 481 became ruler of the western Franks. In 496 he was converted to Christianity, an action which gave him the support of the Roman Church, the most powerful institution of the ancient Roman Empire surviving in western Europe, and also the support of the native Gallo-Roman population, and made assimilation easier.

Clovis and his sons took over southern Gaul after the Visigoths departed, and conquered the Burgundians and other neighboring peoples, so that this new and powerful Frankish kingdom grew to consist of Austrasia (meaning eastern land, northeast France, most of modern Belgium, the Rhine valley), Neustria (the "new" territory, the whole area of northwestern Gaul, including Normandy), Aquitaine in the south, and Burgundy in the southeast. After the first strong rulers, a series of young and/or weakling rulers led to their being deposed by the Carolingians. (Though AR 240:10 and Stuart 303:54 provide a Merovingian lineage, it has not been included here because there is some doubt as to the validity of the link between them and any later noble family).

The mighty movement of Germanic peoples into Gaul did not destroy the foundation of Roman civilization, as in Britain. The Frankish leaders accepted what remained of Roman government. Of all the areas conquered, only in Francia were Romans and Germans reconciled. The barbarians were not numerous enough to overwhelm or replace the native population (see Atlas 98, 106; Roberts 239; EB 9:808).

6:1 CLOVIS "THE RIPARIAN," [b. probably c375]; living 420, Frankish King of Cologne; married [name unknown] a Merovingian, related to Clovis I, later Merovingian King of the Salic Franks (d. 511) (AR 190:1; Stuart 171:53).

6:2 CHILDEBERT, son of Clovis (6:1), [b. probably c405]; living 450, King of Cologne (AR 190:2).

6:3 SIGEBERT THE LAME, son of Childebert (6:2), [b. probably c435/40; d. 509, King of Cologne, murdered by his own son at the instigation of his kinsman, Clovis I, King of the Franks (AR 190:3).

6:4 CLODERIC "the Parricide," son of Sigebert (6:3), [b. probably c470/75]; d. 509, King of Cologne, who was murdered by agents of King Clovis (AR 6:4).

6:5 MUNDERIC, son of Cloderic (6:4), b. c500; died 532, Lord of Vitry-en-Perthois; revolted against Thierry (Theuderic) I (d. 534), K. of Austrasia, who killed him (Stuart 171:49).

6:6 ST. GONDOLFUS, son of Munderic (6:5), b. c525; d. after 599, Bishop of Tongres (in modern Belgium), consecrated Bishop 599 (AR 190:6). There is disagreement as to whether Gondolfus or his brother Bodegisil I was father of 6:7 (see Stuart 171:47, Note).

6:7 BODEGEISEL II, "Dux," son of Gondolfus (6:6), b. c548; d. 588; mar. Oda, a Suevian. He was apparently Governor of Aquitaine. He was murdered at Carthage as he returned from an embassy to Constantinople (Stuart 171:46).

6:8 ST. ARNULF, son of Bodegisel (6:7), b. Austrasia c13 Aug 582; d. 16 Aug 640, Bishop of Metz 612; mar. (c601) Dode (Clothilde), who became a nun at Treves in 612. He was tutor of Prince Dagobert probably c600, became Mayor of the Palace (chief minister) in Austrasia, probably for Dagobert, King of all the Franks 629-39, the last of the really capable Merovingian rulers (AR 190:8; Stuart 171:46).

6:9 ANSGISE (ANSGIESEL), son of St. Arnulf (6:8), b. Austrasia 602; murdered 685, Mayor of the Palace in Austrasia for K. Siegebert; mar. [c634] St. Begga, dau. of Pepin of Landen (i.e. Liege), Mayor of the Palace in Austrasia; she d. 694 (AR 190:9; Stuart 171:45).

6:10 PEPIN OF HERISTAL, son of Ansgise (6:9) & St. Begga, b. c635; d. 16 Dec 714 at Jupile, near Liege on the Meuse (in modern Belgium), Mayor of the Palace in Austrasia. In 679 he became Austrasian Mayor of the Palace, defended Austrasia against Neustrian attacks, decisively defeated the Neustrians in 687; henceforth the Merovingians were mere puppets of the Carolingian Mayors, who thus became rulers of the Franks in all but name. Pepin permitted Thierry III to stay on the throne and after his death (690) placed on the throne a succession of three of Thierry's family. By a mistress, Aupais, Pepin was father of Charles (EB 17:586; AR 190:10).

6:11 CHARLES MARTEL, ("The Hammer"), illegitimate son of Pepin (6:10), b. c689; d. Quierzy-sur-Oise 22 Oct 741, bur. St. Denis, the burial place of kings, Mayor of the Palace in Austrasia; mar. 1st Chrotrude (Rotrude), dau. of St. Lievin, bishop of Treves; she d. 724. In 732 at Poitiers he changed the course of history by defeating - with his recently organized cavalry - a huge army of Moslems out of Spain, the farthest advance the Moslems made in western Europe, and they never tried a great invasion again in the west. In campaign after campaign he subdued the several regions of France; by 725 he was ruler of the entire Frankish kingdom in all but name. He succeeded in completing his father's work of subduing the heathen Frisians (along the North Sea coast of Netherlands); in 754 they martyred St. Boniface, the celebrated Christianizing missionary to France and Germany to whom Charles had given unstinting support. In 737 Charles did not replace the Merovingian King Thierry who had died, but he was cautious enough not to place any of his own family on the throne; however, at the end, as if he were in fact king, he did divide the kingdom between two of his own sons, Carloman & Pepin (EB 5:326).

6:12 PEPIN THE SHORT, son of Charles Martel (6:11), b. Austrasia 614; d. St. Denis 24 Sep 768, Mayor of the Palace in Austrasia, King of the Franks; married (c640) Bertha of Laon; she d. 783. Left in sole control when in 747 his elder brother Carloman entered a monastery, Pepin retained a Merovingian on the throne until 751. In that year Pope Zacharias consented to the deposition of this last of the weakling Merovingians in favor of Pepin, who was anointed (an innovation) at Soissons (?by St. Boniface) 31 Oct 751/ 23 Jan 752, the first king of a new "Carolingian" dynasty. He was again anointed July 754 by Pope Stephen II, in France seeking help against the Lombards (in Northern Italy). Pepin did lead an army to Lombardy in 554 & 756. In his own realm he had to fight off attacks by neighbors from north, east, & south, and disturbances in Aquitaine. His numerous administrative, ecclesiastical, & legal reforms laid a groundwork for his son Charlemagne. True to Frankish (Germanic) custom, Pepin divided his realm between two sons (AR 190: 12; EB 17:586; Stuart 171:42, 214:42).

6:13 CHARLEMAGNE (CHARLES THE GREAT), elder son of Pepin (6:12) and Bertha, b. Aachen (Aix-la-Chapelle) in the Rhineland, 2 Apr 747; d. Aachen 28 Jan 813/14, bur. Aachen Cathedral; King of the Franks and Emperor, the only French king called, justifiably, "the Great." Among several wives & concubines he mar. (at Aachen 771) Hildegard, dau. of Count Geroud of Swabia, b. c758; d. 30 Apr 783, the mother of his son Louis.

From details supplied by his contemporary biographer Einhard, Charlemagne, a man of great strength & energy who towered over other men, was a dignified, majestic figure. Generous and humane, a man who could be merry and garrulous, he enjoyed beautiful things & the pleasures of life. A man of many enthusiasms, he took keen delight in hunting, & loved bathing & swimming in thermal springs. And he was an intellectual, who prized learning, who could speak Latin as well as Frankish, and had an understanding of Greek. Late in life he tried to teach himself to write, keeping under his pillow notebooks to practice in bed.

His father had him & his brother anointed as kings in 754 by Pope Stephen III at St. Denis. They succeeded their father in 768, but upon Carloman's death (Dec 771) Charles annexed his brother's kingdom.

A true warrior-king, he spent much of his time at war. Upon the appeal from Pope Adrian I in 772 that Lombards were threatening Rome itself, Charles took two armies to Italy in 773 & 774, defeated the Lombards and became King of northern Italy. He led an army into Bavaria, which he annexed in 788; in campaigns 791-802 as far away as the middle Danube he defeated the Avars to stop their harrying the neighboring Slavs, acquired Bohemia & Carinthia (in modern Austria), opened up a trade route down the Danube to Byzantium. From 772 for thirty years he waged repeated bloody campaigns against the pagan Saxons (northwest Germany), whose incessant raids terrorized the Rhineland, finally subdued them. He also made conquests among southern Danes and in northern Spain (inspiration for the Chanson de Roland).

By 800 he had assembled a domain larger than any since the Roman Empire, embracing not only all France, but modern Belgium, the Netherlands, the northeast corner of Spain, western and southern Germany, Bohemia, Austria, Switzerland, northern Italy. He restored or set up bishoprics in all the conquered territories, sent Christianizing missionaries among the Saxons and other conquered pagans. The Church in western Europe by 800 looked more to Charlemagne than to the Pope for leadership. He summoned and presided over church councils, sought to effect church reforms.

In 799 the new Pope Leo III, charged with serious misconduct & attacked by a Roman mob, sought refuge with Charlemagne, who sent him back to Rome with a protective guard, then on 23 Dec 800 in Rome presided over his trial, in which the Pope cleared himself. On Christmas day 800, as Charles rose from prayer before the altar of St. Peter's, the Pope placed a crown on his head, with the title "Augustus," or "Emperor of the Romans." The act made Charles indignant, probably because he felt it would give offense to Byzantium, where there was a Roman Emperor recognized by everyone. To the Pope it may have meant a cementing of ties between Franks and the Papacy, but it could also symbolize the superiority of Pope to layman. Charles never used the title awarded him, preferring "Emperor, king of the Franks and Lombards."

Charles undertook extensive administrative reform to enable him to manage his far-flung realm. To improve education and learning, he gathered eminent scholars from all over western Europe, notably Alcuin of York (a celebrated center of learning), and thus launched a Christianized "Carolingian Renaissance" (AR 190:13; Stuart 171:41; Roberts 316-39; EB 5:288-91; Cantor 180-181).

6:14 LOUIS I THE PIOUS, the only surviving son of Charlemagne (6:13) & Hildegard, b. Casseneuil, Leige (or Lot-en-Garonne), France, Aug 778; d. near Mainz 20 June 840, King of the West Franks, Western Emperor; mar. 1st (794/95) Ermengarde, dau. of Ingerman, C. of Hesbaye, d. 3 Oct 818; 2nd (Feb 819) Judith, dau. of Welf I, D. of Bavaria, b. c800; d. Tours, France, 19 Apr 843. After a lay ceremony in 813, he had a 2nd coronation Oct 816 at Rheims by Pope Stephen IV. Unlike his strong & masterful father, Louis was a thinker rather than a warrior, tried to justify his actions through the logic of his faith & win cooperation of his subjects through his fairness and honesty, qualities which were seen as weakness. Having divided his realm among his sons in 817, he redivided it in 829 after the birth in 823 of another son, Charles, over the violent objections of son Lothair. Beginning in Apr 830 the sons, abetted by disgruntled magnates, revolted, imprisoned the Empress Judith. Louis won out, but by 833 he was being denounced by bishops and magnates and urged to step down. With support of the Pope, the sons with an army faced their father on the "Field of Lies" near Colmar, Alsace, June 833, and Lothair forced his father to renounce the throne, but Louis was restored in 834. As if these internal conflicts were not enough, the Norsemen had already begun to attack the empire (AR 140:14; Stuart 171:40; EB 14:332-3).

Three of Louis' sons, first two by first wife:

1. Lothair, b. 795; d. 29 Sep 855, Frankish Emperor. See 6:20 below.
2. Louis I the German, b. c806; d. 28 Aug 876, King of the East Franks (Germans).
3. Charles II the Bald, b. 13 June 823; d. 6 Oct 877, King of the W. Franks. See 6:15 below

6:15 CHARLES II THE BALD, son of Emperor Louis I (6:14) & Judith, b. Frankfurt-am-Main, [Germany] 13 June 823; d. Brides-les-Baines, near Mt. Cenis in the Alps 6 Oct 877 returning to France from Italy, bur. St. Denis, King of the West Franks, Emperor of the West; mar. 1st (14 Dec 842) Ermentrude, dau. of Odo, C. of Orleans, & Enteltrude (a gr.-granddaughter of Charlemagne), who d. 6 Oct 869. Since Charles was born 6 yrs. after his father had determined to divide his realm between Charles's two half-brothers, they resented the change whereby Charles was to receive a share, & upon their father's death in 840 bloody civil war broke out. In 843 they finally signed the momentous Treaty of Verdun, which permanently divided Charlemagne's great empire; Charles received most of what is now modern France, as King of the West Franks; his brother Louis the German received much of what we know as western Germany, as King of the East Franks; and Lothair received a long narrow strip in between, which came to be called Lotharingia (after Lothair), extending from the North Sea (including modern Netherlands and most of Belgium), stretching along the western Rhine Valley & embracing Charlemagne's capital, Aachen, & Lorraine, and including modern Switzerland and eastern France to the Rhone River, and northern Italy. This territory ever since has been coveted by French and Germans and has been the main battleground of most European wars.

Charles was never able to establish secure royal authority. He had to cope with incessant savage raids of Vikings along his long defenceless coasts & even into the lower Seine, revolts of his restive counts & later his son, an invasion by his brother Louis in 858, which the loyal clergy & a few magnates helped repel. After 864, with the help of prestige from his close relationship with the Church, his position more firmly established, he proved an acute and capable ruler. When his nephew the Emperor Louis II died in 875, he seized Provence and hurried to Rome, where Pope John VIII crowned him Emperor Christmas day 875, and he was crowned King of Italy at Pavia in Feb 876. Upon the death of his brother Louis in 876 he tried to annex his kingdom without success (EB 5:293; AR 148:15; Stuart 171:39, 250:39; Roberts 319).

Two of the children of Charles the Bald :

1. Judith, b. c843; d. after 870; married 1st BALDWIN I, Count of Flanders. See 5:1. She mar. 2nd K. Aethelwulf of England (4:13).
2. Louis II, b. Nov 846; d. 10 May 879, King of the Franks. See 6:16 below.

6:16 LOUIS II, LE BEGUE (or The Stammerer), son of Charles II (6:15), b. Nov 846; d. Compiègne 10 Apr 879, aged only 32, King of the Franks 877-9; mar. 2nd (c868) Adelaide, dau. of the Count of Paris (descended from Charlemagne), d. after 10 Nov 901. Elected King in Dec 877, he aroused strong opposition by his attempt to redistribute the great offices of state, an enterprise he abandoned. He died after an illness of several months (EB 14:336; AR 148:16; Stuart 171:38, 350:38)

6:17 CHARLES III, THE SIMPLE, posthumous son of Louis II (6:16), b. 17 Sep 879; d. Peronne, 7 Oct 929, in prison, King of the Franks 893-922; married 3rd (918) Eadgifu of England, dau. of Edward the Elder (see 4:15), b. c904; d. 951. Because a strong ruler was needed, in 887 he was passed over and Eudes (Capet) was elected; Eudes' defeats turned opinion in favor of Charles, who was crowned at Reims Jan 893. By 898 he was recognized by all the magnates, but they intimidated him. Seeking a power base, he set his sights on Lorraine. To free his troops for this action, he formally recognized the Norsemen's occupation of Normandy in 911 (see Chart 8). His repeated absences in Lorraine led magnates to rebel, & in 922 elect as King the brother of Eudes, Robert I (see 7:2), whom Charles killed in battle at Soissons 15 June 923; however, Charles was later captured, & d. in prison (see 4:15) (AR 148:17; EB 5:299-300).

6:18 LOUIS IV D'OUTREMER (from Over the Sea), son of Charles III (6:17) and Eadgifu, b. 921; d. Reims 10 Sep 954, aged only 33, King of the Franks; mar. (939) Gerberga of Saxony, widow of Gisbert of Lorraine, dau. of Henry I the Fowler (9:2), D. of Saxony, & sister of Emperor Otto the Great (9:3), b. 913/14; d. 5 May 984. His mother in 923 fled with him to England, whence he was summoned back by Hugh the Great (see 7:3), elected King July 936 (aged 15). He revealed a surprising independence, spent much of his reign trying to counter-balance the power of Hugh the Great and another magnate, dis-appointed Hugh in his choice of another as chancellor, recovered some lost Crown lands, but roused effective opposition trying to gain control of Lotharingia. He lost Reims to Hugh, was captured by treachery in 954 & handed over to Hugh, from whom he had to buy his freedom by ceding territory. His brother-in-law the Emperor Otto I the Great (see 9:3) came to his aid; they recaptured Reims, and Hugh was excommunicated (EB 14: 336; AR 142: 18, 148:18). Two of Louis's sons by Gerberga:

1. Lothair, b. 941; d. 2 Mar 986, King of Franks. His son & successor:
Louis V le Fainéant (Do-Nothing), b. c967; d. 21/22 May 987, last Carolingian King of the Franks.
2. Charles, born 953; died 994, Duke of Lower Lorraine. See 6:19.

6:19 CHARLES (OF LORRAINE), younger son of Louis IV (6:18), b. c953; d. 993/94, Duke of Lower Lorraine; mar. (before 970) Adelheid, parentage unknown. His eldest son Otto was the last surviving male of the Carolingian dynasty. Unpopular uncle of the last Carolingian King, Louis V, he was passed over when Hugh Capet (7:4) was chosen the new king, and war broke out. After initial successes, he was captured and died in prison (AR 148:19-20, 155:20; EB 5:321).

Child: Gerberga, b. c975; d. c1018; mar. Lambert I, Count of Louvain. See 15:1.

6:20 LOTHAIR I, eldest son of future Emperor Louis I the Pious (6:14 above) & his 1st wife Irmingarde, born 795; d. Pruem (monastery), Germany, 29 Sep 855, Emperor of the West from 840; mar. (15 Oct 821) Ermengarde of Tours, d. 20 Mar 851. In 817 he was crowned joint Emperor by his father, who by a decree of that year set up a division of his domain among his sons. Lothair was crowned Emperor 5 Apr 823 by Pope Paschal I. In 829 Louis the Pious violated his own decree in granting part of the empire to his new son Charles ("the Bald"). In 833 the elder sons, led by Lothair, revolted and deposed their father in Lothair's favor; but dislike of Lothair led to Louis' restoration in 834, Lothair's rule being restricted to Italy. Upon their father's death, civil war broke out, and Lothair was defeated in battle at Fontenoy 25 June 841. Awarded the "Middle Kingdom" by the Treaty of Verdun 843, he henceforth loyally supported that division. Dividing his realm among his sons, he became a monk & died a few days later (AR 140:15; EB 14:324).

6:21 LOUIS II, eldest son of Emperor Lothair I (6:20), b. c823; d. Brescia, Italy, 12 Aug 875, King of the Lombards, Emperor of the West; mar. (before 5 Oct 851) Engelberge, d. c900. Named in 839 by his grand-father Louis the Pious as his successor in Italy, he assumed the administration 844; Pope Sergius II crowned him King of the Lombards in Rome, 15 June 844; Pope Leo IV crowned him Emperor in Rome Apr 850. After the death of his bro. Charles he added Provence to his domain. He devoted much of his reign to combating the Arabs (Moslems) in southern Italy, who had even sacked Rome in 846, but lost his drive after being imprisoned in Feb 871 by a local duke (though soon released) (AR 141B:16; EB 14:333; Stuart 263:39).

6:22 ERMENGARDE, dau. of Louis II (6:21), b. c855; d. 897, before 2 Apr; mar. (876) BOSO, d. 887, Count of Vienne 870, King of Provence (Lower Burgundy) 869. She was said to have been mistress of "an Emperor of Byzantium" (AR 141B:17; Stuart 25:40).

Two of their children:

1. Willa of Vienne, b. [c877]; d. 929; married Rudolph I, K. of Upper Burgundy. See 6:27 below.
2. Louis III, b. [c879]; d. 6 June 928, King of Provence & Italy, Emperor. See 6:23 below.

6:23 LOUIS III BERONIDES (THE BLIND), son of Boson & Ermengard (6:22), b. [c879]; d. Arles 5 June 928, King of a Provence and Lombardy, Emperor of the West; married (c900) Anna, dau. of Leo VI, Emperor of Byzantium (see 10:1), b. c886; d. c914. Recognized as K. of Provence only in 890, he was summoned to Italy by a group of nobles in opposition to Berengar of Friuli (a cousin); crossing the Alps, he was crowned K. of the Lombards at Pavia in Oct 900, received the imperial crown from Pope Benedict IV at Rome Feb 901, but in 902 he was driven out by Berengar. Returning in 904 he received the submission of Lombardy, but Berengar surprised him at Verona, 21 July 905, blinded him, and sent him home (AR 141B:18; Stuart 25:30; EB 14:333).

6:24 CHARLES CONSTANTINE, son of Louis III (6:23) and Anna, b. c901; d. c Jan 962, Count of Vienne; mar. Teutberg de Troyes, d. c960 (AR 141A:19; Stuart 25:38).

6:25 CONSTANCE OF PROVENCE, dau. of Charles Constantine (6:24), b. [c926]; d. 961/65; mar. [c949] BOSO II, d. 965/67, Count of Avignon & Arles (AR 141A:19).

6:26 WILLIAM II, son of Boson II of Avignon & his wife Constance (6:25), b. 950; d. 993, Count of Provence 979-93; mar. 2nd [c985] Adelaide (or Blanche), dau. of Fulk II, C. of Anjou; she d. 1026 (AR 141A:20).

Child: Constance of Provence, b. c986; d. 25 July 1032; mar. ROBERT II, K. of France. See 7:5.

6:27 WILLA OF VIENNE, dau. of Boson, K. of Provence, & his wife Ermengarde (6:22 above), b. [c877]; d. 929; mar. (888) RUDOLPH I, d. 25 Oct 912, King of Upper Burgundy (Stuart 175:36, 343:38).

6:28 RUDOLPH II, son of Rudolph I of Upper Burgundy & Willa of Vienne (6:27), b. [c892]; d. 11 July 937, King of Upper Burgundy & Italy 920-932; married (26 Dec 921 or 8 Feb 921/22) Bertha of Swabia, b. [c905]; d. 2 Jan 965/6 (Stuart 175:35, 345:37).

Child: St. Adelaide of Burgundy, b. 932; d. 17 Dec 999; mar. Emperor OTTO I the Great. See 9:3.

CHART 7 - KINGS OF FRANCE (CAPET), 987-1314

The Capetian dynasty, which ruled France from 987 until 1789 and made France a great nation, was at first quite feeble. In the confused period during the breakdown of the Carolingian dynasty, a dozen or so feudal domains had developed (e.g. Anjou, Aquitaine, Normandy, Champagne, Burgundy) whose rulers had become virtually independent princes, more powerful than the king himself, who was their overlord. The Capetians had the advantage of a centrally located royal domain, including Paris and Orléans, and the loyalty of the Church. In the three centuries after 987 a succession of able kings spectacularly strengthened royal authority and the central administration.

7:1 ROBERT (RUTPERT) IV THE STRONG, son of Rutpert III, Count in the Wormsgau & Upper Rhine, b. [c825]; d. ?15 Sep 866, Count in the Wormsgau, Count of Paris, Anjou, Blois, Auxerre, Nevers; mar. 2nd (?863) Aelis (Adelaide), widow of Conrad, Count of Aargau, dau. of Hugh, Count of Tours & Alsace, b. c819; d. c866. By 852 he was in the service of K. Charles II the Bald (6:15).

Resenting the command awarded Charles' son Louis, he joined the nobles in rebellion 856, but in 861 was reconciled with Charles, became his most loyal commander. In 862 in several battles he won the neutrality of the Normans in the Seine valley, in July 865 won a decisive victory over them in Neustria, but he was killed in battle against the Normans near Le Mans (AR 48:17, 181:6; EB 19:384; Stuart 169:37, where the ancestry is traced back 9 generations).

7:2 ROBERT I, posthumous son of Robert the Strong (7:1) & Aelis, b. fall 866; d. in battle at Soissons, 15 June 923, Count of Paris & Poitiers, Marquis of Neustria, chosen (anti-)King of the West Franks 922; mar. 2nd (890) Beatrix, daughter of Herbert I, Count of Vermandois, descended from Charlemagne, b. [c875]; died after Mar 931. From his elder bro. Eudes, King 888-98, Robert inherited the extensive family lands between the Loire and the Seine. He swore fealty to Carolingian Charles III the Simple (6:17), in 911 defeated the Normans at Chartres, laid the basis for the Treaty of Saint-Clair-sur-Epte, whereby Charles granted Normandy to the Normans. A breach developing between Robert & K. Charles, Robert led a revolt, & he was elected king at Reims by the magnates 29 June 922 & crowned, but a year later King Charles met Robert in battle and killed him (AR 48:18, 53:18; Stuart 169:38; EB 19:382).d

7:3 HUGH MAGNUS (THE GREAT), son of Robert I (7:2), b. c895; d. Duerdan 19 June 956, buried St. Denis, Count of Paris & Orléans, self-styled "Duke of the Franks"; mar. 2nd (c938) Hedwig of Saxony, daughter of Henry I "The Fowler" (9:2), German King, b. c921; d. 10 May 965. A great landowner, with enhanced prestige from his two marriages, with the sister of Anglo-Saxon K. Athelstan & then the sister of Emperor Otto II, he was thwarted in his hope of a throne. After his father's death in 923, more powerful rivals prevented his claim; when the next king died in 936, Hugh helped to restore Carolingian Louis IV (6:18), whom he thought wrongly that he could easily control. One coalition failed to work. He succeeded in having the Normans capture Louis & hand him over to Hugh; Louis was forced to buy his freedom by ceding strategic territory to Hugh. Hugh was excommunicated, Louis recaptured his lost territory, & in 950 Hugh submitted (AR 53:19; Stuart 134: 35; EB 11:811).

7:4 HUGH CAPET, son of Hugh Magnus (7:3), b. late 941; d. Les Juifs, near Chartres, 24 Oct 996, bur. St. Denis, King of France from 987; mar. (968) Adelaide (or Alice), dau. of William I, C. of Poitou, & his wife Adele (dau. of Rollo, 1st Duke of Normandy, 8:1), b. 945; d. c1004. His nickname "Capet" (i.e. cape) gave the name CAPETIAN to the whole dynasty, which in the male line ruled France for over 8 centuries. Upon his father's death he inherited vast estates, especially Paris & Orléans & their environs, which made him one of the king's most powerful vassals. He supported K. Lothair (6:18-1) in his effort to capture Lorraine from Emperor Otto II, who retaliated by invading France (978) and besieged Hugh's Paris. On the death of Lothair's son, the young Louis V in 987, the Archbishop of Reims and his secretary (the future Pope Sylvester II) declared the crown elective, not hereditary, and prevailed on the magnates in June 987 to elect Hugh king instead of Charles of Lorraine (6:19); Hugh was crowned 3 July 987 at Noyon.

Once on the throne, Hugh became aware that, for all his royal domain around Paris, there were other powerful, belligerent vassals he had to contend with, but Charles of Lorraine posed the greatest threat: with his allies he captured the royal stronghold at Laon, and Reims. In Mar 991 with the aid of the Bishop of Laon, Charles fell into Hugh's hands and died in prison (AR 144A:19-20; Stuart 134:34; EB 11:812).

7:5 ROBERT II, THE PIOUS, son of King Hugh Capet (7:4) & Adelaide, b. Orléans 27 Mar 972; d. Meulan 20 July 1031, bur. St. Denis, King of France from 996; mar. 3rd (1001/2) Constance, dau. of William I, Count of Arles & Provence (see 6:26), b. c986; d. Melun 25 July 1032. He was educated at Reims by the future Pope Sylvester II. Soon after his coronation (July 987), Robert arranged for election & coronation (Dec 987) of son Robert, to assure a smooth succession, a policy carried on for several generations. For his 2nd marriage (996) he was anathematized by Pope Gregory V, but the succession of Sylvester II eased the situation. On the death in 1002 of the childless Duke of Burgundy, Robert beat out a rival claimant and shortly had the duchy under his control. His greater vassals were not so easily controlled, especially Eudes, C. of Blois & Chartres, who, after obtaining Champagne (1019) virtually surrounded Robert's territory (AR 53:21; Stuart 134:33; EB 19: 382).

Three of their children:

1. Henry I, b. 1006; d. 4 Aug 1060, King of France. See 7:6 below.
2. Robert, b. c1011; d. 21 Mar 1075/6, Duke of Burgundy. See 7:21 below.
3. Adele, b. [c1013]; died 8 Jan 1079; married BALDWIN V, Count of Flanders. See 5:7.

7:6 HENRY I, son of King Robert II (7:5), b. Bour-gogne, France, 1006; d. Vitry-en-Brie, near Orléans, 4 Aug 1060, buried St. Denis, King of France; mar. 3rd (Reims 19 May 1051) Anna, dau. of Yaroslav I of Kiev (see 11:5), b. 1036; d. 1076/89. Anointed king in 1026 at Reims in his father's lifetime, he succeeded 1031, but his mother supported a revolt in favor of younger son Robert. Henry fled to Normandy, where Duke Robert the Devil (8:5) helped him in a long struggle with powerful vassals, esp. the Count of Champagne, and Henry helped Robert's heir, William the Bastard (2:1), to overcome his own rebellious vassals in 1047, but thereafter Henry and William were bitter rivals, usually at war (AR 101: 22; Stuart 134:32; EB 11:369).

Two of Henry's sons by Anna:

1. Philip I, b. 1053; d. 29 July 1108, King of France. See 7:7 below.
2. Hugh Magnus, b. 1057; d. 18 Nov 1102, Duke of France, C. of Vermandois. See 16:1.

7:7 PHILIP I, son of King Henry I (7:6), b. 1053; d. Meulan 29 July 1108, buried Abbey of St. Benoit-sur-Loire, King of France from 1060; mar. 1st (1072) Bertha of Holland, dau. of Florent I, C. of Holland, and his wife, Gertrude of Saxony, b. c1055; d. Montreuil-sur-Mer in early 1094 (div. 1091). Crowned at Reims 23 May 1059, he succeeded his father at age 15, with Baldwin V of Flanders (his uncle, 5:7) as regent until 1066. He increased the royal domain, kept it in order, and held down his powerful vassals, esp. by exploiting their quarrels. From 1076 he had recurrent hostilities with William the Conqueror, who, as Duke of Normandy, held more land in France than Philip himself, William's overlord. Philip came in conflict with the Church, first over siezing church property, but especially over his 2nd "marriage." In May 1092 he abducted Bertrada, the wife of Fulk le Réchin of Anjou, demanded annulment of his own & Fulk's marriages, went through a marriage ceremony with Bertrada. Some bishops closed their eyes to this, but others objected strenuously. The Papal legate excommunicated Philip, & Pope Urban II at the Council of Clermont (where he preached the First Crusade) in 1095 did likewise. Promising to give up Bertrada, Philip was absolved in 1096, but went back to her, and in 1097 his lands were placed under an interdict. Absolved again 1098, he relapsed again, was excommunicated again 1100. In 1204 promising to behave, he was once more reconciled to the Church, and thereafter the reigning Pope ignored Philip's "marital" situation (AR 101:23; Stuart 134:31; EB 17:832).

7:8 LOUIS VI LE GROS, or THE FAT, son of K. Philip I (7:7) & Bertha, born Herbst, late in 1081; died Chateau Béthizy in Paris 1 Aug 1137, buried St. Denis, King of France from 1108; mar. (Paris 1115) Adelaide (Adela) of Maurienne, b. c1092; d. 18 Nov 1154. Louis was the 1st Capetian to tackle a basic royal problem, enforcing order in the royal domain; he warred relentlessly against piratical lords in the Isle de France to safeguard the route from Paris to Orléans. He warred, to no avail, against Henry I of England, who had captured his own bro. Robert (whose father had left him Normandy) and had taken over Normandy. As always Louis led his army in 1124 when the Emperor Henry V allied with K. Henry I of England invaded France; the great vassals all rallied to the crown & the Emperor retreated. Louis encouraged the growth of communes (i.e. the middle class) in his vassals' lands, created in his domain privileged rural communities to attract peasants to work in them. He developed good relations with the clergy, protected church property against attacks by pillaging lords, supported monastic reform. Among his principal counselors, who were clerics, was the humble-born scholar, Suger (c1081-1151), Abbot of St. Denis, his most trusty & influential minister; Suger, in his reconstruction of the abbey church of St. Denis (completed 1145), is credited with having inaugurated the Gothic style (the first really new architectural style in 17 centuries), which was soon to be imitated all over Europe (AR 101: 24; Stuart 134: 30; EB 14:336-7; Cantor 222).

7:9 LOUIS VII LE JEUNE or THE YOUNG, son of K. Louis VI (7:8), b. 1120; d. Paris 18 Sep 1180; buried Notre-Dame-de-Barabau, near Fontainebleau, King of France from 1137; mar. 1st (Bordeaux 22/25 July 1137) Eleanor of Aquitaine, dau. of William X, Duke of Aquitaine, born ?Bordeaux 1122; d. 31 Mar 1204 (div. 18 Mar 1151/2); she mar. 2nd (8 May 1152) King HENRY I of England (see 2:6). Louis mar. 3rd (18 Oct 1160) Adela, dau. of the powerful Thibaud IV, C. of Blois & Champagne, b. c1140; d. Paris 4 June 1206. Crowned king in 1131 in his father's lifetime, he succeeded his father at age 17 only days after his marriage to the heiress of Aquitaine, the largest (semi-)independent fief in France. Almost at once he came into conflict with the Church, and with his powerful neighbor, the Count of Blois & Champagne, over appointment to an archbishopric. Pope Innocent III laid an interdict on France, and Louis invaded Champagne (1142), burnt Vitry-sur-Marne. New Pope Celestine II raised the interdict on condition that the appointment remain as it was, and St. Bernard of Clairvaux reconciled the King & Thibaut (1144).

At Easter 1146, when St. Bernard preached the 2nd Crusade, Louis took the cross, leaving as regent the very capable Suger, Abbot of St. Denis (see 7:8). With Queen Eleanor and one of the two largest armies, Louis set out overland for the Holy Land June 1147 on what proved to be a disastrous venture. The Eastern Emperor Manuel (10:19) at first cut off supplies, but then undermined the Crusade by not providing all the guides and provisions he had promised. After great hardships the army reached Antioch, where the attractive, vivacious, & flirtatious Queen Eleanor prompted scandalous rumors of an affair with her uncle, Prince of Antioch. Damascus withstood the siege of the largest Crusading army to be assembled, and on the way home a French ship was siezed by the Byzantine Navy. Back in France Nov 1149 Louis devoted himself to developing his royal demesne and harmonious relations with the Church. After Louis had his marriage to Eleanor annulled on grounds of consanguinity (Mar 1152) & Eleanor in May married Henry of Anjou (2:6), who in 1154 became Henry II of England, there was incessant warfare and intrigue between Louis and Henry (AR 101:25; Stuart 134:29, 70:29; EB 14:337, Billings 89-95).

7:10 PHILIP II AUGUSTUS, son of K. Louis VII (7:9) & Queen Adela, b. Gonesse 23 Aug 1165; d. Mantes 14 July 1223; bur. St. Denis, King of France from 1180; mar. 1st (Bapaume 28 Apr 1180) Isabella of Hainaut, daughter of Baldwin V, C. of Hainaut, descended from Baldwin V, C. of Flanders (see 5:7), b. Valenciennes 28 Apr 1170; d. Paris 15 Mar 1190, bur. Notre-Dame. Crowned at Reims 1 Nov 1179 (his father mortally ill), he was married the next April at age 14, and even before he succeeded in Sep 1180 he was skilfully conducting all royal business to the great disappointment of his greedy uncles, who had thought to control him, and who staged a serious revolt, which Philip managed to resolve by treaty. Strong-willed and shrewd, with keen political insight and untiring energy, Philip vastly expanded the royal domain & established authority of the crown over all France so that it was never again seriously threatened. From 1186 to 1216 he was almost constantly at war with the Plantagenets, who were a perpetual threat. Henry II, as Duke of Normandy, Anjou, Maine, Touraine, Aguitaine (in the hands of his son, future Richard I), held much more land in France and was more powerful than the French king himself. There were constant disputes over border territory, continued attacks and invasions, truces and treaties which were violated, promises that were broken. When Richard I succeeded his father in 1189, he had already taken the cross for a Crusade against Saladin in the Holy Land, & Philip followed suit. Two of the three great leaders of the 3rd Crusade (with Frederick Barbarossa), they met in Sicily Mar 1191, in Palestine joined forces in the siege of Acre, which surrendered July 1191, but because of illness Philip returned to France.

After Richard was captured on his way home, Philip connived to prolong his captivity, while, despite his promises in the Holy Land, he attacked English possessions in France. Upon his return in 1194, Richard retaliated, but fortunately for Philip Richard died in 1199. King John was an easier opponent. When he failed to appear as a vassal at Philip's feudal court over a dispute, Philip declared his French fiefs forfeit and proceeded to conquer Normandy, Anjou, & all the other northwestern English lands. John's coalition with the Holy Roman Emperor & others was destroyed at the Battle of Bouvines 27 July 1214.

Despite conflict (over his 2nd & 3rd marriages) with Pope Innocent III, who placed France under an interdict (Jan 1200), Philip maintained very good relations with the French clergy; exercised effective control over his vassals; won support of towns by granting privileges to merchants, thus weakening the seigniorial rights of the nobles; the towns in return helped him with financial & military aid. He fortified Paris and cleaned it up, and after 1200 Paris became the intellectual and cultural center of Europe, whither scholars flocked to study at the new Univ. of Paris. And he inaugurated a new class of administrative officers, to supervise local officials, give justice in the king's name, collect taxes, call up the armed forces, etc. (AR 101: 6, 163:28 EB 17:833-35).

7:11 LOUIS VIII, COEUR-DE-LION (LION HEART), eldest son of K. Philip II (7:10) & Queen Isabella, b. Paris d. Sep 1187; d. Montpensier, Auvergne, 8 Nov 1226; bur. St. Denis, King of France 1223-1226, crowned at Reims 6 Aug 1223; mar. (Abbey of Port-Mort, near Pont-Audemer, Normandy, 1200) Princess Blanche of Castile, dau. of King Alfonso VIII of Castile (see 14:15) & Eleanor of England, b. Palencia 4 Mar 1188; d. 27 Nov 1252. Lacking his father's shrewdness, he siezed towns on the Flemish border, drove the C. of Flanders into alliance with the German Emperor & K. John of England; but when they invaded France in 1214 he soundly defeated John in Poitou. On the grounds of his descent from K. Henry II and that John's crown had been declared forfeit by the French court in 1203 for the murder of his nephew, Arthur of Brittany, Louis accepted the offer of the English crown by the Magna Carta barons, joined the barons in London in May 1216. Excommunicated with the barons, he nonetheless enjoyed military successes until John's death in Oct. Their cause collapsed, and they were defeated at Lincoln May 1217. By the Treaty of Kingston (& a bribe) Louis withdrew. Having aided in the crusade against the Albigenses in 1215 in southern France, he returned in 1219 to direct a massacre of the heretics. Upon his father's death, he was crowned at Reims 6 Aug 1223. In his short reign he overran English territories in southwest France, led an army against the Albigenses (AR2:6; Stuart 70:27; EB 14:337).

Three of his sons:

1. (St.) Louis IX, b. 25 Apr 1215; d. 25 Aug 1270, K. of France. See 7:12 below.
2. Robert I, b. Sep 1216; d. 9 Feb 1250, Count of Artois. See 7:17 below.
3. Charles I, b. late Mar 1226; d. 7 Jan 1284/5, King of Naples & Sicily. See 7:19 below.

7:12 LOUIS IX (ST. LOUIS), son of K. Louis VIII (7:11) & Queen Blanche, b. Poissy, near Paris, 25 Apr d1215; d. of the plague before Tunis, N. Africa, 25 Aug 1270, King of France from 1226; married (by Papal permission, at Sens, 27 May 1234) Margaret of Provence, daughter of Raymond IV Berenger, C. of Provence, b. St. Maime, near Forcalquier 1221; d. Paris 20/21 Dec 1295; both bur. St. Denis. Her sisters Beatrix mar. Louis brother Charles, Eleanor mar. K. Henry III of England. Since he came to the throne at age 11 (crowned at Reims 29 Nov 1226), his mother Queen Blanche became regent, was still managing the government until 1242, and she was regent again when he left on crusade (Aug 1248) until her death (Nov 1252).

One of Europe's greatest kings, Louis was a strong and wise ruler, governing his kingdom with authority, maintaining order in France and attempting to establish peace abroad. France became the leading power in western Europe. After his mother had put down a serious feudal rebellion in 1229 (partly incited by Henry III of England) & in 1234, and Louis in 1243 had put down another, also incited by Henry III, his reign was peaceful. Later, in a treaty with Henry III, Louis recognized him as Duke of Aquitaine; Henry renounced his claim to Normandy, etc.

Louis was a very capable administrator, keeping control of the royal officials all over the realm, periodically conducting inquests into their conduct; ordinances strengthened and centralized the govt., e.g. outlining duties & obligations of officials, and forbidding the feudal ordeal by battle, prostitution & gambling, & counterfeiting. Regarding the king as the supreme judge in the realm, he often held judicial sessions for his subjects, and his judgements were sought by all of Europe.

Noted for his sanctity, he held a very high ideal of a king's duties & rights, ruled by religious precepts, but avoided subservience to the Church. He supervised appointments to bishoprics, sought to control Papal taxation. In 1245-48 he had the Sainte Chapelle built in Paris, with its spectacular stained-glass windows, to house Christ's Crown of Thorns in Gothic splendor. But his major religious goal was the recovery of Christian shrines. The 7th Crusade took him to Egypt, the center of Muslim power, where he and his son were defeated (8 Feb 1250) and made prisoners, but very shortly ransomed. Until 1254 he was in Syria fortifying towns held by the "Franks" & ransoming Christian captives; he returned home upon his mother's death. Determined to try again, in 1270 he left for Tunis, for another attack on Egypt, but his army was destroyed by plague, which also killed Louis himself. He was canonized 11 Aug 1297 by Pope Boniface VIII (AR 101:28; Stuart 70:26, 93:25; EB 14:338-9).

7:13 PHILIP III, THE BOLD, son of K. Louis IX (7:13) & Queen Margaret, b. Poissy 1 May 1245; d. of a fever, Perpignan 5 Oct 1285, King of France from 1270; married 1st (by Papal dispensation, Clermont, Auvergne, 28 May 1262) Princess Isabella of Aragon, dau. of King James I of Aragon (14:13) and Queen Yolande, b. c1247; d. Clermont 28 Jan 1271 of a miscarriage; 2nd (21 Aug 1274) Marie of Brabant, dau. of Henry III, Duke of Brabant, b. c1255; d. 12 Jan 1321 (see 15:9). In Tunis on crusade when his father died, he hurried home, his wife dying on the way. Philip was anointed at Reims 15 Aug 1271.

Philip's 2nd wife Mary of Brabant made herself the center at court of a faction of nobles hostile to the king's chamberlain, who jealously concocted a fraud to the effect that the death of the king's eldest son in 1276 was from poison to pave the way for succession of a son of Mary; when the fraud was exposed, the chamberlain was hanged. In 1272 some local revolts were easily put down. A personal union of the French and Navarrese crowns, & acquisition of Champagne, was effected when his cousin, the Dowager Queen of Navarre (7:18), finally arranged for her daughter, the heiress Joan, to marry Philip's son Philip. Despite rare disputes, Philip maintained good relations with his first cousin, King Edward I of England. Induced by his wife's court faction to intervene in the War of the Sicilian Vespers against Aragon on his son Charles's behalf, he led his army on a disastrous crusade across the Pyrenees (June 1285), but was compelled to retreat in the face of guerilla attacks, malaria, & esp. the loss of his fleet. King Philip died of a fever the following Oct (AR 101:29; Stuart 51:25, 68:25, 70:25; EB 17:835).

Three of the children, first two by first marriage:

1. Philip IV, b. 1268; d. 29 Oct 1314, King of France. See 7:14 below.
2. Charles of Valois, b. Vincennes 12 Mar 1271; d. 16 Dec 1325, Count of Valois. See 7:19 below.
3. Marguerite of France, b. 1279; d. Marlborough House, Wiltshire, England, 14 Feb 1317; mar. as his 2nd queen (10 Sep 1299) EDWARD I, King of England. See 2:9.

7:14 PHILIP IV THE FAIR, son of K. Philip III (7:13) & Queen Isabella, b. Fontainebleau 1268; d. Fontainebleau 29 Oct 1314, bur. St. Denis, King of France from 1285; mar. (16 Aug 1284) Joanna (Jeanne), Queen of Navarre, b. Jan 1272; d. Chateau-de-Vincennes 2 Apr 1305, bur. Church of the Gray Friars, Paris.

A very handsome man, taciturn, cynical, & ruthless, he achieved his ends by intrigue as well as diplomacy and warfare. Relations with Edward I of England having deteriorated, he summoned Edward as his vassal for Guienne (part of Aquitaine) to answer at his court. When Edward failed to appear, Philip declared Guienne forfeit, sent an army which occupied most of it, but a truce in 1297 followed by a treaty in 1299 patched things up, & French troops withdrew. Interfering in Flanders led to the Duke's surrender to Philip, but the towns were so resentful of French control that in May 1302 the French in Bruges were massacred; Philip ultimately defeated the Flemings & forced them to accept an oppressive treaty. Philip continued to centralize govt. by means of a group of men of lower birth, very capable counselors trained in Roman law, cynical & ruthless like him, who became arrogant in the power they were granted to exercise over nobles who were their social superiors. Philip called a series of assemblies (parlements) to help strengthen govt., forerunners of the estates-general.

Conflict with the Papacy led to an outrage. In response to Philip's undue taxing of the clergy, Pope Boniface VIII (Feb 1296) issued the bull clericos laicos, which forbade clergy to pay taxes to a lay authority without the Pope's permission. Philip retaliated by forbidding shipment of gold or silver to Rome. The Pope's overblown sense of Papal supremacy & further conflict led to Philip's denouncing Boniface as not duly elected. Before the Pope could excommunicate Philip, on the advice of his ruthless counsellors he sent a small force, which (7 Sep 1303) invaded the Pope's residence at Anagni, roughed him up, held him prisoner for two days until he was released by local townsmen; Boniface died a month later.

Philip most notably revised the central financial administration. He enforced collection of dues, devised several new taxes, extorted huge sums from the Jews & Lombards. Probably to enrich his treasury, in Oct 1307 he arrested all the Knights Templars in France, who were notoriously rich, and had been charged with heresy and unnatural vice. Over 50 Templars were burned at the stake, including their Grand Master, Jacques de Molay, and all the other leaders.

At the end of Philip's reign a scandal rocked the royal family. In May 1314 each of his 3 sons' royal wives was arrested on charges of adultery; only one was acquitted; the others were convicted and imprisoned (Stuart 51:24, 81:24; EB 17:835-37; Cantor 489, 492-3).

Four of the children:

1. Louis X, b. 1289; d. 1316, K. of France 1314-1316.
2. Philip V, b. 1291; d. 1322, K. of France 1316-1322,
3. Isabelle, b. 1292; d. 22 Aug 1358; married (Boulogne 25 Jan 1307/8) EDWARD II, King of England. See 2:10.
4. Charles V, b. 1295; d. 1328, K. of France 1322-1328.

7:15 CHARLES OF VALOIS, third son of King Philip III (7:13) & Isabella of Aragon, b. Vincennes 12 Mar 1270/1; d. Paris 16 Dec 1325; married (Corbeil 16 Aug 1290) Margaret of Naples, dau. of Charles II, King of Naples (see 7:20 below), b. c1273; d. 31 Dec 1299. Surrounded in his family by kings, during most of his adult life Charles was frustrated in efforts to acquire a crown. In 1284 the Pope recognized him as K. of Aragon, but his father's military efforts on his behalf proved futile. Philip left Charles the countship of Valois; upon his marriage to Margaret, her father gave him Anjou & Maine as her dowry; & his bro. Philip IV gave him the countships of Alençon (1291) & Chartres (1294). His 2nd marriage to a granddaughter of the Latin emperor of Constantinople gave him a claim to the Byzantine succession, which he resigned in 1308, but on the request of Pope Boniface VIII to help the Papal cause in Italy, he subdued Florence, fought for Charles of Naples in southern Italy. He tried to win election as Western Emperor, but the Pope supported another claimant. He faithfully served his brother, Philip IV commanding his armies in Guienne in 1295, 1297, 1299, 1300, 1314 (AR 103:32; Stuart 70:24; EB 5:322-3).

Two of their children (born Valois, France):

1. Philip VI, b. 1293; d. 1350, King of France in succession to his first cousin, Charles V in 1328, thus founded the Valois dynasty.
2. Jeanne de Valois, b. c1294; d. 7 Mar 1342; mar. Wm. II, C. of Hainaut. See 7:16 below.

7:16 JEANNE DE VALOIS, dau. of Charles of Valois (7:15) & Margaret, b. Valois c1294; d. 7 Mar 1342; mar. (Chauny 19 May 1305) WILLIAM II D'AVESNES, b. c1286; d. Valenciennes 7 June 1337, Count of Hainaut & Holland, (desc. from Balwin V, C. of Flanders, 5:7) (AR 103:32; Stuart 50:23, 70:23).

Daughter (born County of Hainaut, modern Belgium):

1. Philippa, b. 24 June 1312; d. Windsor Castle 15 Aug 1369; mar. EDWARD III of England. See 2:11.

7:17 ROBERT I, younger son of K. Louis VIII (7:11) & Queen Blanche, born Sep 1216; died 9 Feb 1250, Count of Artois; mar. (Compiègne 14 June 1237) Matilda of Brabant (see 15:8), b. c1217; d. 29 Sep 1288. Created Count of Artois by his brother King Louis IX, he was slain at Mansoure, Egypt, on the Crusade of brother Louis (AR 45:29; Stuart 147:2).

7:18 BLANCHE OF ARTOIS, dau. of Robert I (7:17), C. of Artois, & Matilda, b. c1249; d. Paris 2 May 1302; mar. 1st (1269) HENRY I, youngest son of Theobald I "the Great" (a descendant of Louis VII of France, 7:9) and Marguerite de Bourbon, King of Navarre and Count. of Champagne, b. c1244; d. 22 July 1274, King of Navarre. Henry succeeded his eldest brother Dec 1270, but his coronation was delayed until May 1273. His dau. Joan was promised to a son of K. Edward I of England, which would have joined Navarre to English Gascony, but she married the French king. Blanche mar. 2nd (29 Oct 1276) EDMUND (PLANTAGENET), b. London 16 Jan 1244/5; d. Bayonne 5 June 1296, Earl of Lancaster (see 2:23 for their sons) (Stuart 81:25, 147:25; EB 11:375).

1. Joanna (Jeanne), born Jan 1271/2; died 2 Apr 1305; mar. (16 Aug 1284) her 2nd cousin, King PHILIP IV. See 7:14 above.

7:19 CHARLES I STEPHEN, posthumous son of K. Louis VIII (7:11) & Queen Blanche, born late Mar 1226; died Foggia 7 Jan 1284/5, Count of Anjou, King of Naples & Sicily (founded the brief Angevin dynasty); mar. 1st (21 Jan 1246) Beatrix, Countess of Provence, dau. & heiress of Raymond Berenger IV, C. of Provence & sister of his bro. Louis's wife, b. 1234; d. Nocera, Sicily, 23 Sep 1267. He joined brother Louis on his Egyptian Crusade (1248), was taken prisoner with him (1250) but released. Having been granted (1232) Anjou & Maine by his brother, he acquired Provence by marriage, gained authority in parts of Italy, became well established by 1262, when he was drawn into Papal politics in Italy. On 6 Jan 1266 he received the crown of Naples & Sicily from the Pope, on 26 Feb at Benevento, defeated the Hohenstaufen Manfred, whom the Pope had wished to oust. In 1268 Conradin, the last Hohenstaufen came to Italy to sieze the kingdom, but was defeated, captured, & executed. In 1270 Charles accompanied Louis IX on his Tunisian Crusade. In an expedition to the Balkans he gained Albania & other territory, & in 1277 he became King of Jerusalem (by purchase).

Trying to give stability in his Neapolitan kingdom & provide sound administration, Charles undermined his efforts by very high taxes (to financy his military expeditions), which provoked a revolt (30-31 Mar 1282), known as the Sicilian Vespers, whereby the Angevins (French) were expelled from Sicily. The rebels offered the crown to Peter of Aragon, who with the Sicilians invaded Italy; Charles's fleet was destroyed & his son taken prisoner (AR 104:28; Stuart 88:26, 164:26; EB 5:311-12).

7:20 CHARLES II THE LAME, son of K. Charles I of Naples (7:19) & Queen Beatrix, b. c1254; d. Naples 6 May 1309, Count of Anjou, King of Naples (& Sicily) & Jerusalem; married (1270) Marie of Hungary, dau. of King Stephen V of Hungary (see 13:20), b. [c1258] d. Mar 1323. Captured in the sea battle of 5 June 1284, he was still a prisoner when his father died (1285). On condition of renouncing Sicily, he was crowned king by Pope Nicholas IV 29 May 1298, & absolved of his renunciation of Sicily. In warfare that was very costly to Charles he finally reached a compromise in 1302, Sicily to revert to him after the death of Frederick of Aragon (AR 104:29; Stuart 88:25; EB 5:312).

Child: Margaret of Naples, B. c1273; d. 31 Dec 1299; mar. (16 Aug 1290) her 2nd cousin CHARLES OF VALOIS, Count of Valois. See 7:15 above.

7:21 ROBERT (CAPET) THE OLD, younger son of Robert II (7:5), King of France, & Constance, b. c1011; d. Fleury-sur-Ouche, France, 21 Mar 1075/6, Duke of Burgundy; mar. 2nd (c1033) Hélie, dau. of Dalmas I of Sémur-en-Auxois, b. 1016; d. 22 Apr 1109. He was created Duke of Burgundy 1032 by his brother Henry I, and his descendants were always loyal adherents of their cousins, the French kings (AR 108:22; Isenburg 2:24). Two of their children:

1. Henry, b. c1036; d. 1070/74. Duke of Burgundy. See 7:22.
2. Constance of Burgundy, b. [c1050]; d. Jan/Feb 1093; mar. 2nd (8 May 1081) ALFONSO VI, King of Castile. See 14:3.

7:22 HENRY I, son of Robert of Burgundy (7:21), b. c1036; d. 1070/74, Duke of Burgundy; married (c1056) Sibylle, dau. of Raymond Berenger I, C. of Barcelona, b. [c1040]; d. after 1079 (Stuart 85:30).

Child: Henry of Burgundy, b. Dijon, Burgundy, France, c1069/70; d. 1 Nov 1112, Count of Portugal; mar. THERESA of Castile, dau. of Alfonso VI, K. of Castile & Leon. See 14:4.

CHART 8 - DUKES OF NORMANDY

Normandy, on the northwest coast of France, across the Channel from England, is a prime example of a territory settled by heathen piratical Vikings, who in a few generations became a highly civilized society. The Vikings (Norsemen, Danes) began their deadly assaults on imperial coasts along the North Sea before 810, but the Carolingian defenses provided reasonable protection; however, after the breakdown of central authority around 840, Viking attacks became incessant and more destructive. In their long ships, sailing up all the chief rivers (e.g. the Seine) they at first struck in secrecy, by surprise, sacked whole villages, farms, churches, monasteries with their precious libraries, slaughtering the inhabitants, leaving behind smoking ruins as they carried off all the treasure they could plunder, & sometimes captives to be sold into slavery. In 841 a band sailed up the Seine, sacked & burned Rouen, carried off tribute from the countryside, and disappeared before defenders could act. They sacked a defenseless Paris in 845, 856-57, and 861. In late Nov 885 the Norsemen began a year's furious siege of Paris to gain passage up the Seine to open up Burgundy & northeast France to plunder; esp. in Jan 885/6 the gallant defenders fought off their bloody assaults. King Charles the Fat ultimately bought them off at a high price, and they never assaulted Paris again (Vikings 210, 224-5; EB 116:575, 23:11).

However, they continued their plundering raids on the coast and up other rivers (e.g. the Loire). Unlike the intensive Viking settlements in England, Norsemen made no permanent settlements in France, except near the mouth of the Seine, stripped bare by the Vikings, which became part of Normandy. Finally Charles III the Simple (6:17) bought them off in 911 and granted to leader Rollo, the chief or duke of the largest band of Norsemen (Normans), part of the territory known as Normandy (named after them). (AR 121E traces Rollo's lineage back 3 generations; Stuart, Line 166, traces it back 29 generations, to c214 A.D.) Though the Normans retained their restlessness and energy, ruthlessness and cunning, they soon lost their chief savage Viking characteristics as they adapted to French civilization.

After the Norman conquest of England in 1066, the King of England was also Duke of Normandy, except from 1087 to 1106, and until King John lost Normandy to France, 1204.

8:1 ROLLO (HROLF), son of Rognewald of Moer, a Viking chief, [c852]-c927/931, bur. Notre Dame, Rouen; 1st Duke of Normandy; mar. (886) Poppa, dau. of Berengar, C. of Bayeux in Normandy. Rollo was banished from Norway to the Hebrides c876, but at least by 886 had settled down in "Normandy." Already known by 886 as Count of Rouen, Rollo, in a raid on Bayeux with his band, killed the Christian, William did homage in 933 to the Frankish king, & later to King Louis IV. He suppressed a Breton rebellion c930 and took over Brittany, the Channel Islands, & other territories. He was assassinated in an ambush by servants of Theobald of Blois and Arnulf of Flanders (see 5:3) (EB 16:575; AR 121E:19; Stuart 166:34).

8:3 RICHARD I "THE FEARLESS," son of William I (8:2) & Sprota, b. Fecamp, Normandy, c933; d. Fecamp 20 Nov 996, 3rd Duke of Normandy; a concubine Gunnor, from Denmark, was mother of his children; he mar. her after his first wife's death. He mar. 1st (960) Emma, dau. of Hugh Capet, C. of Paris; she d. c968. Richard was taken under protective custody in 942 by his overlord, Louis IV, who in 945 was taken prisoner by the Normans as he was campaigning to reconquer the duchy, & was handed over to Hugh the Great (7:3). In 987 Richard played a key role in placing on the French throne Hugh Capet (9:4), his brother-in-law (7:00). (AR 121E:20; Stuart 166:33; EB 16:575)

8:4 RICHARD II "THE GOOD," son of Richard I (8:3), b. Normandy c958; d. Fecamp 28 Aug 1026; mar. (c1000) Judith, dau. of Conan I of Rennes, Duke of Brittany, & his wife Ermengarde of Anjou (a descendant of Charlemagne), b. 982; d. 1017. He quelled a peasant uprising, gave military aid to his overlord (& cousin), King Robert II of France, overcame an English attack on his coast, with Danish help waged war against the C. of Chartres, one of his vassals (AR 121:22; EB 16:575).

8:5 ROBERT I THE DEVIL, son of Richard II (8:4), b. [c1005]; d. Nicaea 22 July 1035 returning from a pilgrimage to Jerusalem; a concubine, Arlette (Herleve), dau. of Fulbert, a tanner of Falaise, was mother of his bastard son. Upon his father's death he disputed the succession with his elder bro., Richard III, who conveniently d. the next year. Robert was a strong ruler, who kept his vassals under firm control; helped the C. of Flanders in 1030 put down a serious rebellion, in 1031 supported with military aid his overlord, the new King Henry I, who in gratitude granted him territory (EB 16:576, 19:384; AR 121E:22)

Child (born Falaise, Normandy):

1. William II, Duke of Normandy, WILLIAM I THE CONQUEROR, King of England, b. 1027/28; d. 8/9 Sep 1087. See 2:1.

CHART 9 - GERMAN KINGS and HOLY ROMAN EMPERORS

After the break-up of Charlemagne's empire, the East Frankish kingdom (i.e. the German kingdom, embracing mostly modern west Germany) comprised five duchies: Saxony (in the north), Lotharingia (Upper and Lower Lorraine on the west bordering France and the Low Countries), Franconia (the nucleus of the East Frankish kingdom, extending from west to east across central Germany), Swabia (SW Germany and eastern Switzerland), and Bavaria (south Germany). The German king not only held (nominal) suzerainty over these, but later also Austria and Carinthia (now in Austria), Brabant and Hainaut (modern Belgium), and Arles, or the kingdom of Burgundy (SE France & western Switzerland).

The kingdom of Germany differed from France in several ways. During the chaotic period after the collapse of the Carolingian empire the German dukes became so powerful and independent that only a succession of very strong and capable kings could keep them subdued, and the decentralizing forces were so great that the German kingdom never became unified. The German crown continued to be elective among the German dukes, and when a new dynasty ascended the throne, the center of power and authority shifted to the duchy of the new ruler (as from Saxony to Franconia). Although Aachen, Charlemagne's capital (at the juncture of modern Germany, Netherlands, & Belgium) was the historic capital, there was, and could not be, a permanent central capital such as London and Paris.

In the 11th century bishops and abbots carried on the affairs of the state much more than secular lords, even in warfare. Generous gifts of territory to enrich bishoprics, especially by Otto I and his successors, were accompanied by extensive powers of jurisdiction, so that ecclesiastics like the Archbishop of Cologne became practically independent princes. Great churchmen became competitors of secular magnates in territorial expansion, a rivalry which fuelled endless feuds and internal warfare all over Germany for centuries (EB 10:290-91).

Count & carried off his dau. Poppa as his bride. In 911 by the treaty of St. Clair-sur-Epte King Charles III the Simple (6:17) accepted Rollo as his vassal and granted him part of the territory, which he and his successors proceeded to enlarge by conquest. In 912 Rollo was baptised a Christian and became a good & responsible feudal lord (AR 121E: 18; Stuart 166:35; Vikings 229-232).

8:2 WILLIAM I, "Longsword," son of Rollo (8:1), b. ?Rouen c891; d. 17 Dec 942, 2nd Duke of Normandy; mar. 1st (c931) Sprota of Brittany, a Breton captive. A firm

As has been aptly observed, the Holy Roman Empire was neither holy, nor Roman, nor an empire. The Empire was instituted with the crowning of Charlemagne in Rome on Christmas Day 800. He was designated as "most serene Augustus...", great and pacific emperor, governing the Roman empire," a title which he never used. It was the Pope's idea, an idea cherished by many others, to revive the glories of the ancient Roman Empire; however, it was illegal because there was already an (Eastern) Roman Empire (see Chart 10), and it occasioned much ill will between east and west. After the collapse of the Carolingian empire, it was not until Otto I (9:3) that the Empire again became a serious reality with his crowning in Rome in 962. Otto normally styled himself "Imperator Augustus"; his son Otto II probably added "Roman," but it was Frederick Barbarossa (9:15) who introduced "Holy" (MacLagan 223). The Papacy regarded the empire as the secular arm of the Church, set up by the Papacy for its own protection and convenience, and therefore answerable to the Pope. The imperial or Frankish concept stressed conquest and political dominance as the source of the emperor's power and authority and according to which he owed his duty only to God (EB 11:610-11).

Since it was usually (but not always) the German king who was chosen Emperor, the kingdom of Germany was the center of the Empire. In 1033 the Empire's boundaries were extended by the acquisition of the kingdom of Burgundy. And in 1037 the northern Italian magnates agreed to grant customary lordship over north Italy to the German King as Emperor. But depending on the military might and ambition of the Emperor and the current prestige of the Empire, the imperial boundaries might also embrace southern Italy, Bohemia, Hungary, Poland, Denmark. After the Carolingians, the Empire never included France or Spain (see Atlas 118). The Empire had no capital, and the governmental administration largely coincided with that of the ruling emperor's kingdom.

9:1 OTTO "THE ILLUSTRIOUS," b. c836; d. 30 Nov 912, Duke of Saxony; mar. [c875] Hedwig, illegitimate dau. of Arnulf, K. of Germany & Emperor (gr.-grandson of Louis the Pious, 6:14), b. [c860]; d. 24 Dec 903. Otto was a member of the Liudolfing family, & his son founded the new Saxon dynasty (AR 141:17; Stuart 172:38).

9:2 HENRY I "THE FOWLER," son of Duke Otto (9:1), b. 876; d. in his palace at Memleben, Saxony, 2 July 936, Duke of Saxony from 912, German King from 919; mar. 2nd (909) Mechtilde (Mathilde) von Ringelheim, b. [c890]; d. Memleben 14 Mar 968 (AR 141:17, which supplies no dates nor parentage for Mechtilde, though Stuart does, 338:36, with a lineage that may go back to the Carolingians). Upon succeeding his father in 921 he was at war until 918 with German King Conrad I (elected king in 911 by the tribal nobles upon the death of the last East Frankish Carolingian king.) Conrad, on his deathbed Dec 919, named Henry his successor; in May 919 Henry was elected king by the Franconian and Saxon magnates, but he had to fight rivals elected in local regions. By 925 he had restored the power of the East Frankish kingdom & laid the foundations for the German kingdom. In 926 he bribed Magyars to cease their plundering raids, built fortifications, developed a cavalry to fight the Slavs, & from them he conquered more territory eastward, in 933 defeated Magyars in battle, but he had difficulty keeping the kingdom together (AR 141:18, EB 11:372).

Three of his children:

1. Otto I the Great, b. 912; d. 7 May 973, Holy Roman Emperor. See 9:3 below.
2. Gerberga of Saxony, b. 913/14; d. 5 May 984; mar. 1st Gisbert, D. of Lorraine, d. 939; 2nd LOUIS IV, K. of France. See 6:18.
3. Hedwig of Saxony, b. c921; d. 10 May 965; mar. HUGH THE GREAT, Count of Paris. See 7:3.

9:3 OTTO I THE GREAT, son of Duke Henry I of Saxony (9:2) & Matilda, b. 23 Oct 912; d. Memleben 7 May 973, bur. Magdeburg beside 1st wife, Holy Roman Emperor from 962; mar. 1st (929) Eadgyth (Edith) of England, dau. of Edward the Elder (4:15), b. [c913]; d. 26 Jan 946; 2nd (Oct 951) St. Adelaide of Lombardy, widow of Lothair of Italy & dau. of Rudolph II (see 6:28), K. of Burgundy, b. 932; d. Seiz, Alsace, 17 Dec 999. Chosen successor by his father, Otto was elected king by the German dukes at Aachen 7 Aug 936. His firm stand against the dukes led to warfare; Otto was victorious, even in a conspiracy by his younger brother to murder him, & German dukedoms were bestowed on Otto's relatives. His armies were ultimately successful against the Slavs in the east, Bohemia, and

Denmark, where new bishoprics were founded to advance the Christian mission there. On an appeal for help from Adelaide, widowed Queen of Italy, imprisoned by the Margrave of Ivrea, Otto marched into Italy, made himself King of the Lombards, rescued and married her; the Margrave did homage for Italy. Otto had to deal with an uprising of his eldest son with other nobles, whose rebellion coincided with a Magyar invasion & the rebels could be charged as accomplices of imperial enemies; thereupon, Otto decisively defeated the Magyars at the battle of the Lechfield, near Augsburg, 10 Aug 955; they never again raided in Germany, & Otto became the hero of western Europe.

He was once more in Italy on appeal from Pope John XII, who crowned him (Holy) Roman Emperor 2 Feb 962. In 963 he deposed John XII, replaced him with Leo VIII, on whose death in 965 Otto chose as Pope John XIII, who was expelled by the Romans, whereupon Otto subdued Rome. He consolidated the old kingdom of the E. Franks, strategically making use of the bishops to strengthen his rule & in the long run give stability to Germany. In Otto's time the wealth & military power of the German monarchy was steadily increasing as a result of the political, military, and economic support of the Church. Otto's successful campaigns gave Germany peace and security from foreign attack and gave him a kind of primacy over Europe (AR 147:19; Stuart 237:37, 321:35; EB 16:1158-9; Cantor 214).

Three of his children, first by first marriage:

1. Luitgarde of Saxony, b. [c932]; d. 953; mar. Conrad, D. of Lorraine. See 9:7 below.
2. By 2nd marriage: Otto II, b. late 955; d. 7 Dec 983, Emperor. See 9:4 below.
3. Illegitimate: Richilde, b. c965; mar. Kuno, Count of Ohningen. See 9:6 below.

9:4 OTTO II, son of Emperor Otto I (9:4) & his 2nd wife, St. Adelaide, b. late 955; d. Rome 7 Dec 983, bur. St. Peter's, Holy Roman Emperor 967-83; mar. 2nd (14 Apr 972) Princess Theophano Skleros of Byzantium, b. c956/60; d. 15 Sep 991. During his father's lifetime he was crowned German King in Aachen May 961 & (Holy) Roman Emperor in Rome at Christmas 967. A worthy successor to his father, he assumed the govt. without problems at age 19 on his father's death, but he soon had to war against Denmark, conquered southern Denmark, put down a revolt in Bavaria. In 978 Lothair (see 6:18-1) of France invaded Lorraine, sacked Aachen, & in revenge Otto marched to Paris, but was unable to take it. By an agreement in 980 Lothair gave up all claim to Lorraine. In the fall of 980 Otto crossed the Alps to continue his father's Italian policy, in Rome restored Pope Benedict VII, who had been driven out by Roman lords. He was defeated in his effort to expel the Moslems from southern Italy. In Rome he arranged the election of John XIV as Pope to succeed Benedict VII (AR 147:20; Stuart 237:36; EB 16:1159-60).

9:5 MATILDA OF SAXONY, dau. of Emperor Otto II (9:4) & Theophano, b. [c975]; d. 4 Nov 1025 1024; married (c992) EZZO, b. 955; d. 21 May 1034, Count Palatine of Lorraine 1020 (AR 147:21; Stuart 237:35; Isenburg 1:30).

Child: Richenza (Rixa) of Lorraine, b. c1000; d. 21 Mar 1063; mar. (1013) MIECZKO II, K. of Poland. See 13:5.

9:6 RICHILDE, illegitimate dau. of the Emperor Otto I (9:3), b. c965; mar. KUNO, Count of Ohningen (AR 241:4 & Stuart 321:34-33).

Child: [Name unknown], b. [c992]; d. 1014; mar. ST. VLADIMIR I THE GREAT of Kiev. See 11:4.

9:7 LUITGARDE OF SAXONY, dau. of the Emperor Otto I (9:3) by his 1st wife, Edith of England, b. [c932]; d. 953; mar. (947) CONRAD THE WISE, b. [c920]; d. 10 Aug 955, Duke of Lorraine & Franconia. He was slain in the battle of Lechfeld, his father-in-law the Emperor Otto I's great victory over the Magyars (AR 192:20, Stuart 359:37).

9:8 OTTO OF FRANCONIA, son of Conrad of Lorraine & Luitgarde (9:7), b. 947/8; d. 4 Nov 1004, Duke of Carinthia; mar. Judith of Bavaria, dau. of Henry, Count of Verdun (AR 45:19; Stuart 359:36).

9:9 HENRY OF FRANCONIA, son of Otto, Duke of Carinthia (9:8), b. c969; d. 28 Mar [997] (in the lifetime of his father), Count of Speyer; mar. (c986) Adelaide of Alsace (desc. of Charlemagne), b. [c972]; d. 19 May 1040. Henry's brother, Bruno, became Pope Gregory V, 996-99 (AR 45:20; Stuart 202:35, 359:350).

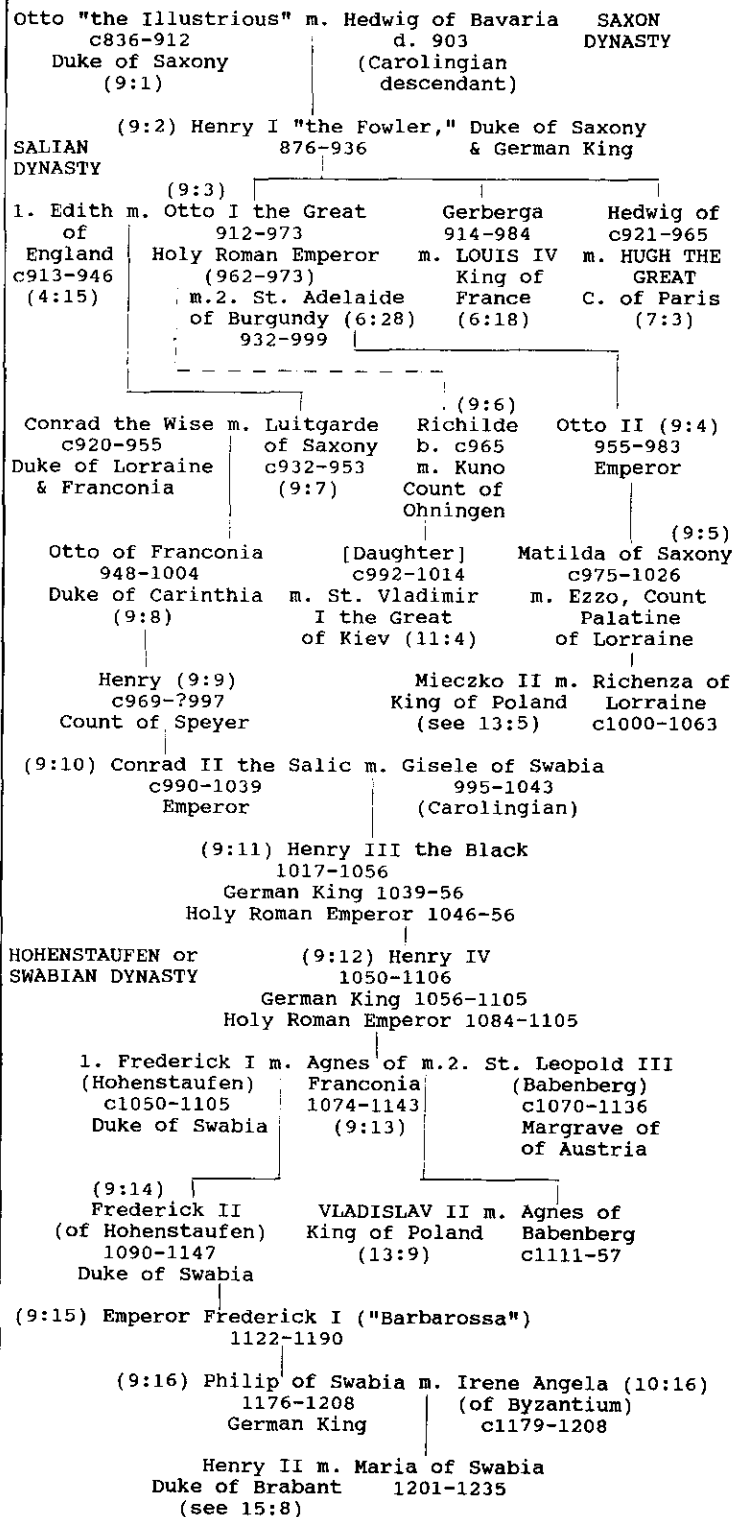

9:10 CONRAD II THE SALIC, son of Henry (9:9), Count of Speyer, b. c990; d. Utrecht, (Holland), 4 June 1039, bur. Speyer, Emperor 1024-39; mar. 3rd, as her 3rd husband (1016) Gisele, dau. of Herman II, D. of Swabia (desc. of Charlemagne), b. 11 Nov 995; d. 14 Feb 1042/3. His exalted lineage (descent from Otto the Great) prompted his election in 1024 as German King. After overcoming opposition, on a trip to Italy he was crowned (Holy) Roman Emperor in Rome 26 Mar 1027. He put down a son's rebellion, in 1032 succeeded to the kingdom of Burgundy, & thus gained control over the western Alpine passes; this was but one phase of his determined and successful effort to expand the royal demesne. His campaigns in the east restored German ascendancy over Poles, Bohemians, & some heathen Slavs. He advanced a group of "unfree" royal servants known as "ministeriales," on whom he increasingly relied in the imperial household & military services. He restored to "the throne something of the down-to-earth [tone] of the early Saxon rulers before their new, cosmopolitan connections & the predominance of their learned clerical advisers had alienated them culturally from their feud-hungry nobles" (EB 6:363; AR 45:21; Stuart 359:34).

9:11 HENRY III THE BLACK, son of Emperor Conrad II (9:10), b. 28 Oct 1017; d. Bodfeld, in the Hartz Mts. 5 Oct 1056, bur. Speyer monastery, German Emperor from 1039, Holy Roman Emperor from 25 Dec 1046; married 2nd (1043) Agnes (desc. of Charlemagne), dau. of William III, C. of Poitou, b. 1020; d. 14 Dec 1077. Designated his father's successor & crowned king 14 Apr 1028, he became sole ruler 1039. His early campaigns bore fruit in winning homage from the Prince of Bohemia, the King of Hungary, & from Burgundy by 1041. A great emperor, powerful & pious, best known as a reformer of the Papacy, Henry invaded Italy in 1046 and deposed three rival popes, installed a German bishop as Clement II, who on Christmas Day 1046 crowned Henry (Holy) Roman Emperor. The Romans acknowledged him as "patrician," with the power to name popes. Clement II & 3 successive Germans he appointed were all dedicated reformers. Henry continued the earlier practice of relying on low-born officials to administer the govt., increasingly excluding the nobles. His high-handed treatment of his nobles alienated them, & with the Papacy in the next reign they made trouble for the empire (AR 45:22, 110: 23; Stuart 161:31, 359:33; EB 11:373; MacLagan 223).

9:12 HENRY IV, son of Emperor Henry III (9:11) and Agnes of Poitou, b. Goslar 11 Nov 1050; d. Liège 7 Aug 1106, bur. Liège (Belgium), German King 1056-1077, Holy Roman Emperor 1056-1106; mar. 1st (1066) Bertha, dau. of Otto I, C. of Maurienne & Margrave of Susa (desc. of Charlemagne), b. 21 Sep 1051; d. 27 Dec 1081; buried Speyer. Henry's long & complex reign was troubled from the start. Elected & crowned king in 1054, Henry succeeded his father just before turning 6. His mother's feeble regency led to his being kidnapped in 1262 & provided opportunity for the perpetually belligerent nobility, led by the Saxons, to indulge in 9 yrs. of rebellion & civil war, to extend their territories and increase their power, which the crown had been undermining, but the German Church remained loyal and saved the monarchy. One of the wisest and most capable of Medieval German rulers, with cunning & energy, Henry was determined to strengthen royal authority. Once he took over the govt. in 1065, he promptly put a stop to this decentralizing tendency, undertaking to restore the parts of the royal demesne usurped by the nobles. With the support of the German Church, the royal coun-selors, much of the lower nobility, & the rising burghers of the Rhine Valley, by 1075 he was completely victorious, having won submission of rebellious nobles.

Henry's triumph was undermined by Pope Gregory VII, who, guided by the ideal of a Papacy to which all men, even rulers, were subservient, and objecting to the notion that high churchmen were "king's men," announced in 1076 that lay rulers, as they had been doing for centuries, could no longer invest high churchmen with their symbols of office. In retaliation for such a severe curtailment of secular power, Henry wrote an offensive letter threatening to depose the Pope, who thereupon excommunicated and deposed Henry. The nobles were free to rebel. Totally isolated, Henry met Gregory at Canossa in north Italy, was kept waiting 3 days, finally knelt in the snow & received the Pope's absolution (Jan 1077), an action which stunned the nobles. They thereupon elected an anti-king (who was killed in 1080), civil war broke out, Henry invaded Saxony, called a Church council which deposed Gregory and set up as anti-Pope Clement III, whereupon Gregory excommunicated & deposed him again. He invaded Italy, laid siege to Rome (1082) & was crowned Emperor by his anti-pope (31 Mar 1084). Forced by Papal forces to retreat to Germany, he found that another anti-emperor had been chosen. Winning some allies, Henry again invaded Italy to restore his anti-pope after Urban II had been elected. His stubborn refusal to abandon his pope created widespread opposition. First his eldest son (d. 1101), then his 2nd son Henry rebelled against him (1104). In 1105 he was captured by young Henry, forced to abdicate, and he was imprisoned for a time. Escaping to Cologne, he was building up an army to fight his son when he died (AR 45:23; Stuart 359:32; EB 10:292-2, 9: 822-23, 11:373-74; Cantor 266).

9:13 AGNES OF FRANCONIA, dau. of the Emperor Henry IV (9:12), born 1074; died 24 Sep 1143; married (1089) 1st FREDERICK I (HOHENSTAUFEN), b. c1050; d. 6 Apr 1105, Duke of Alsace & Swabia; 2nd (1106) LEOPOLD III of Babenberg, the Saint, born [c1070]; died 15 Nov 1136, Margrave of Austria. Frederick built the castle of Staufen in the Swabian Jura Mts. A loyal adherent of Emperor Henry IV (future father-in-law), he was made D. of Swabia in 1079. Leopold was a candidate for the German crown upon the death of his wife's brother, Henry V (1125); he came to be venerated by his people as a saint, canonized 1485 (AR 45:24; Stuart 279:31, 359:31; EB 2:944, 11:581)

1. Frederick II of Hohenstaufen, b. 1090; d. 6 Apr 1147, Duke of Swabia. See 9:14 below.
2. Agnes of Babenberg, b. c1111; d. 25 Jan 1157; mar. VLADISLAV II, K. of Poland. See 13:9.

9:14 FREDERICK II (of Hohenstaufen), son of Duke Frederick I of Swabia & Agnes of Franconia (9:13), b. 1090; d. 6 Apr 1147, Duke of Swabia; mar. (c?1115) Judith of Bavaria (AR 45:25), dau. of Henry I, D. of Bavaria (desc. from Charlemagne through the Counts of Flanders) & his wife Wulfhilda of Saxony, b. 1100; d. 22 Feb 1130. He & his brother were the only heirs of their mother's brother, the Emperor Henry V (d. 1125), but the Papal party, probably partly in protest against the hereditary principle, passed them over to elect as German King Lothair III (of Saxony), whereupon the Hohenstaufens rebelled. Upon Lothair's death in 1137 the electors chose as German King Conrad III, who, before his death in 1152, recommended to the electors his nephew Frederick "Barbarossa" (AR 45:25, 166:25; EB 11:581; MacLagan 225; Stuart 43:30).

9:15 FREDERICK I "BARBAROSSA" (RED BEARD), son of Frederick II of Swabia (9:14), b. 1122; d. 10 June 1190 in Cilicia (Asia Minor), while swimming or bathing in the Saleph River, Duke (as III) of Alsace & Swabia, German King (1152) and Emperor; mar. 2nd (9 June 1156) Beatrix of Burgundy, dau. of Renaud III, C. of Burgundy by his wife Agatha of Upper Lorraine, d. 15 Nov 1184/5. Upon his succession to Swabia in 1147, he joined his uncle, German King Conrad III, on the disastrous 2nd Crusade. He was elected German king at Frankfurt 4 Mar 1152, crowned at Aachen 9 Mar.

Handsome and courtly, he became the dominant continental ruler of his century, seeming almost superhuman. His "boundless ambition, extraordinary organizing skill, and greatness on the battlefield" (Cantor 397), together with his sincere and commanding nature and his support from Church and nobility gave him his power. He restored royal authority in Germany, upheld imperial rights against papal demands. He secured the homage of the Danish king, and in the 1170's asserted imperial authority over Bohemia, Hungary, Poland.

His major goal was the conquest of Italy. In 1155 he embarked on six Italian campaigns in 30 years, which could hardly be called successes. On the first he was crowned Emperor 18 June 1155 in Rome. He subdued Lombardy by razing Milan. He became involved in a disputed papal election & earned the hostility of Pope Alexander III, who excommunicated him (Mar 1160). He appointed two successive anti-popes (1154, 1164); he stormed Rome to force enthronement of Paschal III, but an outbreak of the plague destroyed his army and forced him home. Twice, powerful Italian leagues were formed against him. His 5th Italian campaign was a total failure (1174); he was wounded in battle and left for dead. He punished Henry the Lion, D. of Saxony, for failing to help him, by declaring all his fiefs forfeit, dividing some of the fiefs, and re-distributing them among other nobles, thus destroying the old "tribal" duchies and creating a new class of imperial magnates. As one of the three great leaders of the 3rd Crusade, he left Regensburg May 1189 in command of a splendid army, and after overcoming the hostility of the Byzantine emperor, Isaac II (10:16), he marched into Asia Minor, where he shortly died (AR 45:26; EB 11:581).

9:16 PHILIP (OF SWABIA), youngest son of Emperor Frederick I Barbarossa (9:15) & Beatrix, b. c1177; d. Bamberg 21 June 1208, murdered by Otto of Wittelsbach, bur. Speyer monastery, Duke of Swabia, Margrave of Tuscany, German King; mar. (May 1197) Irene Angela, dau. of Byzantine Emperor Isaac II (10:16), b. [c1184]; murdered 27 Aug 1208. Mild-mannered, generous, originally intended for the Church, he early gave up this career, in 1196 was made Duke of Swabia by Emperor Henry VI, his brother, upon whose death Sep 1197 German princes were unwilling

While rival claimants were out of Germany, Philip was elected German King at Muhlhhausen, 8 Mar 1198, but the churchman available to crown him, anti-Hohenstaufen Archbishop Adolf of Cologne, instead crowned rival Otto IV. Philip was crowned at Mainz by another prelate 8 Sep 1198. In the civil war that broke out Philip's forces were at first successful, but in 1201 Pope Innocent III, supposed arbiter of the dispute, recognized Otto, and excommunicated Philip, and several major supporters of Philip deserted him. Finally in 1204 his fortunes were reversed with the return of allies, & Archbishop Adolf himself crowned Philip at Aachen 6 Jan 1205, & in 1208 Innocent III recognized Philip. Preparing for a final blow against Otto, Philip was murdered by a man whom Philip had refused to allow his daughter to marry (AR 45:27, Stuart 215:28; EB 17:838)

Child: Marie of Swabia, b. 1201; d. 1235; mar. HENRY II, D. of Brabant. See 15:8.

CHART 10 - BYZANTINE (EASTERN ROMAN) EMPERORS

The Eastern Roman, or Byzantine, Empire, was the surviving remnant of the great Roman Empire that at its height extended from the island of Britain, Spain and France, across southern Europe and northern Africa as far as modern Iraq and western Iran; the Mediterranean was a Roman lake. By 274 the empire had grown so large and unwieldy that one ruler could no longer hold it together; therefore, it was divided, with one emperor of the west, another of the east. By the 4th century the center of gravity was shifting east. After Constantine the Great, sole ruler of the united empire 324-37, accepted Christianity in 324, he founded in 330 a new capital at a tiny town in the east named Byzantium, renaming it Constantinople (now Istanbul). The empire gradually broke into an eastern and western half; outlying provinces fell to barbarian invaders, and after the last Western Roman Emperor was deposed by barbarians in 476, the Eastern Empire stood alone.

But beginning in 634 the Eastern (Byzantine) Empire had to defend itself against one of the most momentous movements in history, the militant spread of Islam. By the 7th century the empire had lost to the Moslems Egypt, Palestine, Syria, and any territory north, east, and west of those, but the empire checked the spread into south-east Europe by resisting two Moslem sieges of Constanti-

Ruling dynasties in the Byzantine Empire were quite different from those in most other states in Europe. In Anglo-Saxon and in Medieval England, and in France, for example, a single family continued to occupy the throne for centuries. In Byzantium the dynasties changed frequently. The three set forth here are the only ones from which Littletons are descended. The interrelated Comnenus-Angelus dynasty was an oddity in providing a line of rulers for 147 years, from 1057 to 1204. It was brought to a bloody end in 1204 in conjunction with the disastrous conquest of the empire by the Latins, who sacked and pillaged Constantinople.

When the Crusaders first discovered Constantinople in 1096, they were awed by its brilliance and beauty. It was the most civilized and sophisticated society in Europe. The Empire was the repository of all the learning of classical Greece. On the other hand, depositions, blindings, lynchings, murders, assassinations were not uncommon.

10:1 BASIL I "the Macedonian," b. 827; d. 20 Aug 889, Byzantine Emperor, founder of the "Macedonian" dynasty; mar. [c865] Eudocia Ingerina, who had been mistress of Michael III, b. c840; d. 882/3. From a poor peasant background, handsome & strong, Basil gained favor with Emperor Michael III, who made him his chamberlain, in 866 crowned him co-emperor. In 865 with Michael's approval having murdered the emperor's powerful uncle, Basil had gained such power by 867 that he had Michael assassinated and became sole emperor. He adapted very well to his new imperial role. He is particularly noted for inaugurating legal reform. He sought vainly to heal a rupture between the Papacy and the Orthodox Church at Constantinople. And he waged successful war against Arabs in the east as far as the Euphrates & warred on Arab pirates in the Adriatic (AR 141A:15; Stuart 253: 40; EB 3:240).

10:2 LEO VI, THE WISE or THE PHILOSOPHER, son of Basil I (10:1) & Eudocia, b. 1 Sep 866; d. 12 May 912, Byzantine Emperor; mar. 2nd [c885] his former mistress, Zoe Tzautzina, who d. c898. He continued the effective administrative, cultural & foreign policy of his father and Michael III. Throughout most of his reign he was defending the Empire against Arabs & Bulgars. Sicily was lost in 902; Thessalonica was sacked in 904 & the Aegean was left open to constant Arab attacks. A strengthened navy defeated the Arab fleet in 908, but the navy suffered losses in 911-12. With the aid of Magyars, Leo at first repelled Bulgarian aggression, but the Bulgars, allied with the savage Pechengs, in 896 defeated the Byzantines, who were forced to pay tribute. Leo, a scholar rather than a warrior, completed the work of his father, which became the legal code of the Byzantine Empire (AR 141A:16; EB 13:960).

Child: Anna, b. c886; d. c914; mar. LOUIS III the Blind, Frankish Emperor. See 6:23.

10:3 ROMANOS SKLEROS, son of Bardas Skleros (a General who was anti-emperor 976-79, 987, 989 in the early reign of Basil II, finally submitted to Basil in 989). Romanos flourished 976-993; reportedly mar. a dau. or sister of Abu Taglif Fad'lallah, who was Hamdanid Emir of Mosel from 969 to 979 (Stuart 115:34).

10:4 BASILEIOS, son of Romanos Skleros (10:3), was a "magistros" in Byzantium c1028; mar. Pulcheria, b.c965; d. before Apr 1034 (sister of the Emperor Romanus III Argyros, who was murdered, drowned in his bath, in 1034) (Stuart 115:33; 382:33).

10:5 IRENE SKLERAINA, dau. of Basileios (10:4), b. [c1015]; d. by 1042; married [c1029] CONSTANTINE IX MONOMACHUS, b. c980; d. 11 Jan 1055. He mar. 2nd (1042) Zoe, b. 980; d. 1050, through whom he owed his elevation to the throne in 1042. They reigned together as Emperor & Empress of Byzantium. Opposed to the military faction at court, he neglected defenses, reduced the army, indulged in extravagant luxuries, spent huge sums on magnificent buildings, was faced with Normans overrunning Byzantine territory in south Italy, & with invasions on the Danubian frontier & in Armenia (EB 6:387; Stuart 115:33). Child of Constantine and Irene:

1. Maria Monomacha, b. c1030; d. 1067; mar. (1046) WSEWOLOD I, Grand Prince of Kiev. See 11:8.

10:6 JOHN COMNENUS (IOANNES KOMNENOS), b. c1015; d. 12 July 1067, younger bro. of the Emperor Isaac I (d. 1060), whose high-handed financial reforms & other policies made him unpopular. John was b. c1015; d. 12 July 1067; mar. (1042) Anna Dalassena, b. 1025/30; d. 1100/1102. With his brother Isaac he was commended by their father on his deathbed to the care of Emperor Basil II, who provided them with sound educations and arranged high official positions for them (Stuart 111: 31; EB 12:650).

10:7 ALEXIUS I (COMNENUS), 3rd son of John Comnenus (10:7), b. c1048; d. 15 Aug 1118; mar. (1080) Eirene (Irene) Doukaina, dau. of Andronikos Doukas (Dukas) and Maria, who was dau. of Troianos or Trajan (d. 1018), Tsar of the W. Bulgars. Irene was b. 1066; d. 19 Feb 1127, a nun. A distinguished general and a skilful diplomat, Alexius temporarily stemmed the inroads of enemies but could not permanently save the empire. From 1068 to 1081 under four emperors he fought the Seljuk Turks, put down rebellions. When the fourth was unable to restore order, Alexius was advanced to the throne. He faced desperate situations on all fronts. An invasion of Greece by the Normans from southern Italy in the '80's was repelled with Venetian help; the Pechenegs perpetually threatened northern frontiers; Seljuk Turks were overrunning Asia Minor (i.e. modern Turkey). An anxious Alexius, fearing that Constantinople was in imminent danger, appealed for military aid to the traditional spiritual enemy, the Papacy. Hoping at least for bands of mercenaries, he was overwhelmed by the first Crusade, the motley peasant rabble led by Peter the Hermit that arrived in May 1096 (they were annihilated by the Turks crossing Asia Minor), and especially the huge feudal army that began to arrive in Dec 1096 (see 15:10); these placed a great strain on Byzantine resources. Having secured an oath of allegiance from the Crusade leaders and a promise to restore Byzantine territory, in their wake he recovered much lost territory in western Turkey and restored Byzantine prestige (EB 1:588-9; Cantor 291; Stuart 111:32, 215:32).

Three of his children:

1. John II (Comnenus), b. 1088; d. 8 Apr 1143, Emperor of Byzantium. See 10:8 below.
2. Isaac Comnenus, b. c1090; d. c1152. See 10:12 below.
3. Theodora Comnena, b. c1092; d. c1160; mar. Constantine Aneglus. See 10:15 below.

10:8 JOHN II (COMNENUS), eldest son of the Emperor Alexius I (10:7), b. 1088; d. Cilicia 8 Apr 1143 of a septic wound, Emperor of Byzantium; mar. (1105) Pyriska (Irene) of Hungary (see 13:21), b. c1088; d. Bithinia 13 Aug 1134, a nun. A very capable statesman, diplomat, & commander, he was also noted for his humanity, morality, & piety. He devoted much of his time to preparing for a coming confrontation with Norman Antioch by alliances to protect his frontiers. In the Balkans he decisively defeated the Pechenegs; in 1128 he defeated in battle his brother-in-law the King of Hungary. After 1130 he was busy with successful campaigns in Asia Minor and was ready to force the surrender of Antioch when he died unexpectedly (EB 13:22; AR 105A:25, 244A:8; Stuart 111:31).

Two of their sons:

1. John Comnenus, b. c1110; d. 1174. See 10:13 below.
2. Manuel I (Comnenus), b. 1122; d. 24 Sep 1180, Byzantine Emperor. See 10:9 below.

10:9 MANUEL I (COMNENUS), youngest son of Emperor John II (10:9), b. 1122; d. 24 Sep 1180, Emperor of Byzantium from 1143; mar. 2nd (25 Mar 1161) Mary of Antioch, dau. of Raymond (Renaud) de Chatillon of Poitou, Prince of Antioch, and his wife Constance of Antioch, b. c1145, murdered 22 Aug 1182. He was chosen successor by his father. Unlike most of his fellow countrymen, he was very partial to westerners (Latins). He seems to have spent much of his reign in diplomatic juggling, through alliances, peace treaties, playing on rifts between rulers, bribery in Italian cities, to safeguard the empire against the Turks in Asia Minor, the Normans in Sicily and in Antioch. With Venetian aid he recovered some territory in Greece taken during the 2nd Crusade (1140's); he sent repeated embassies to the Papacy offering ecclesiastical reunion in return for help. He gained some successes in the Balkans & in Antioch, but was soundly defeated in 1176 by a newly strengthened Muslim army (EB 14:812; AR 105A:26).

10:10 EUDOXIA COMNENA, dau. of the Emperor Manuel I (10:10) & Mary of Antioch, b. c1162; d. a nun after 4 Nov 1202; mar. (1174, div. 1187) WILLIAM VIII, Seigneur de Montpellier, b. c1158; d. Rome 1218, bur. St. Peters (descended from Philip I, K. of France) (AR 105A:27, 108:24; Stuart, Line 111, notes that there is some question about Eudoxia's parentage, though she is undoubtedly of this family).

Child: Marie of Montpellier, b. 1182; died 21 Apr 1213; mar. PEDRO II, K. of Aragon. See 14:12.

10:11 JOHN COMNENUS, younger son of the Emperor John II (10:8), b. [c1124]; d. 1174; mar. unknown (Isenburg 2:142).

Child: Theodora Kalusine Comnena, b. 1144; mistress of Emperor Andronicus I. See 10:13

10:12 ISAAC COMNENUS (ISAAKIOS KOMNENOS), younger son of the Emperor Alexius I (10:7), b. [?1193], after 16 Jan; d. after 1152; mar. unknown; "sebastokrator, 1129-1142 (Stuart 42:31).

10:13 ANDRONICUS I (COMNENUS), son of Isaac Comnenus (10:12), b. c1123; d. 1185, Emperor of Byzantium 1183-85; by his mistress & cousin, Theodora (see 10:12), b. c1144, he was father of Irene. Charming, well-educated, but an unscrupulous adventurer, he was captured by the Seljuk Turks in 1141 but was ransomed. At the Court of his cousin Manuel I his dubious loyalty led to exile. After the accession in 1180 of Emperor Manuel's young son, Alexius II, & a revolt (May 1182) in Constantinople and the massacre of Latins there, Andronicus returned, was established as Protector of Alexius, was crowned co-emperor Sep 1183, but shortly thereafter strangled Alexius. However, in his brief reign he enacted strong and wise measures, curtailing the great landed aristocrats, favoring the people, ruthlessly putting down conspiracies. A Norman invasion incited a riot in Constantinople in the summer of 1185; his son-in-law Isaac II was proclaimed emperor & Andronicus was lynched by the mob 12 Sep 1185 (EB 1: 911-912).

Daughter (illegitimate):

1. Irene Comnena, b. [c1160]; mar. (1183) her cousin, Emperor Isaac II. See 10:16 below.

10:14 THEODORA COMNENA, dau. of the Emperor Alexius I (10:8), b. [c1092]; d. 20 Feb 1116; mar. CONSTANTINUS ANGELUS, b. [c1090]; d. c1166. He was a patrician of Philadelphia in Asia, Byzantine general in the war with the Normans 1143-54 (Stuart 215:31).

10:15 ANDRONICUS ANGELUS (ANDRONIKOS ANGELOS), son of Constantine Angelus & his wife, Theodora Comnena (10:14), b. [c1115]; d. by 12 Dec 1185; mar. (by 1155) Euphrosyne Castamonita, who d. 1185/95. "Kuropalates" at the Court of the Emperor Manuel I 1166-85, General in the Civil & Moslem wars, Ambassador to the Kingdom of Jerusalem, he was blinded in 1182/83 (Stuart 74:30, 215:30; AR 45:27). Two of their sons:

1. Isaac II, b. c1155; d. 1204, Emperor of Byzantium. See 10:16 below.
2. Alexius III, b. [c1157]; d. 1211/15?, Emperor of Byzantium. See 10:17 below

10:16 ISAAC II (ISAAKOS ANGELOS), eldest son of Andronicus Angelus (10:15) & Euphrosyne, b. c1155; d. 1204, soon after Jan., Emperor of Byzantium 1185-95 & again 1203-4; mar. (summer 1183) his 2nd cousin, Irene Comnena, illegitimate dau. of Emperor Andronicus I (10:13), b. [c1160]. The mob that murdered his father-in-law in Sep 1185 acclaimed Isaac emperor. At once his general won a great victory over the Normans and drove them out of Greece, but, though in command himself, he could not put down a Bulgarian uprising. In 1189 he had to cope with the 3rd Crusade, partly led by Frederick Barbarossa (9:15), his implacable enemy, who, as he approached Constantinople, conspired with enemies of the Empire, threatened to take Constantinople. Isaac stood his ground, but had to agree to supply transport and provisions. Isaac led another unsuccessful campaign against the Bulgars. Before he was deposed and blinded by his brother in 1195 he had proved a capable ruler. After he was restored, a feeble nonentity, he was again deposed in Jan 1204 shortly before he died (EB 12:650-51; Stuart 42:29, 215:29).

Child: Irene Angela, b. c1184; d. 27 Aug 1208; mar. Emperor PHILIP of Swabia. See 9:16.

10:17 ALEXIUS III (ANGELUS), second son of Andronicus Angelus (10:15) & Euphrosyne, b. [c1157]; d. 1211/15?, Byzantine Emperor 1195-1203; mar. (before 1195) Euphrosyne Kamateros Doukaina, who d. c1212. Elevated to the throne by the troops in 1195, he captured bro. Isaac II, had him blinded & imprisoned, was crowned Apr 1195. Weak & greedy, he failed in everything. Campaigns against the Bulgars were defeated; the German Emperor, Henry VI, who had designs on the Byzantine Empire, had to be bought off with a heavy tax; depleted imperial resources forced Alexius to rob royal tombs of jewels. The 4th Crusade was diverted to Constantinople partly because Isaac II's son, who had fled to his brother-in-law Philip of Swabia, had appealed to the Crusaders for help. In Aug 1203, when Isaac II was restored with his son Alexius IV as co-emperor, Alexius III fled, wandered over Greece, finally went to Asia Minor, demanded that son-in-law Theodore Laskaris (10:18) hand over his crown. When Theodore refused, Alexius, with the help of a local Moslem Sultan, attacked Theodore, was taken prisoner in 1210 & sent to a monastery, where he eventually died (Stuart 74:29, 394:30; EB 1:589).

10:18 ANNA ANGELA, dau. of the Emperor Alexius III

(10:17), b. [c1180]; d. 1212; mar. 2nd (Fruhjahr 1199) THEODORE I (LASKARIS), b. 1173; d. c Aug 1222, Emperor of Nicaea 1208-1222. He fought valiantly during the sieges of Constantinople by the Latins 1203-04. After the city fell, with a band of fellow refugees he established a new Byzantine state in Asia Minor, at Nicaea, in 1208 assumed the title of Emperor, successfully fought off attacks by Crusaders and Turks. By the time he died, Nicaea was no longer merely a resistance center against Crusaders but the capital of the Byzantine Empire in exile, recognized as the true successor of the Empire (EB 21:988-989; Stuart 74:28),

Child: Maria Laskaris, b. c1226; d. 1270; married BELA IV, King of Hungary. See 13:19.

CHART 11 - EARLY RULERS OF RUSSIA

Long before the 9th century the land now known as Russia had been settled by Slavic tribes. In the 9th century Norsemen from Scandinavia made pillaging raids up the great rivers. A sea people known as the "Rus," they gave their name to the country. According to traditional Russian history, about 862 a semi-legendary prince known as Ruric established himself at Novgorod (about 110 miles s.e. of modern Leningrad), and the "Rus" imposed their authority over the Slavs. Stuart (Line 143) carries the lineage back five generations. (Spelling of some proper names varies widely from source to source.)

11:1 RURIC, [c835]-879, a Viking adventurer, became Grand Prince of Novgorod and founded the dynasty. The princes of the dynasty extorted tribute from the local tribes and engaged in trade, especially with Byzantium (Constantinople).

11:2 IGOR, son of Ruric (11:1), b. c877; d. 945, Grand Prince of Kiev; mar. (903) St. Olga, dau. of Oleg, Danish prince of Kiev, [c885]-969. Prince Oleg, whom Igor succeeded in 912, had established his power at Kiev, in modern Ukraine, nearer Byzantium; he was a more skilful diplomat and warrior than Igor, who was avaricious and predatory, & whose military campaigns were disastrous failures, notably those against Byzantium in 941 and 944. On an expedition to collect tribute from the Drevlyane tribe, because he tried to extort too much and engaged in atrocities, the tribe rebelled and killed him. His widow Olga became regent; as a strong and skilful ruler she avenged her husband's death with great severity, took steps to regulate collection of tribute & safeguard the state. She was the first of the dynasty to adopt "Greek" Orthodox Christianity, was baptised c955. Highly revered in Russia, she was later canonized as the first Russian saint of the Orthodox Church (EB 11:1071, 16:933; Stuart 143:35).

11:3 SVYATOSLAV I, son of Igor (11:2) and Olga, b. ?Kiev [c932]; d. spring 972, Grand Prince of Kiev; mar. 2nd Maloucha, a Slav, his former concubine. The last pagan Russian prince and an early national hero, he devoted his life to (successful) military campaigns, leaving his mother (until her death in 969) to manage affairs of state. Requested to assist the Byzantine Emperor in a war against the Bulgars, he invaded Danubian Bulgaria and defeated the Bulgars; when he refused to cede his conquests, the Byzantine Emperor defeated him in battle, forced him to relinquish claims to Balkan territory. Sviataslow was slain in an ambush by the savage Pechenegs, who made a drinking cup of his skull (EB 21:475; Stuart 143:34)).

11:4 ST. VLADIMIR I THE GREAT, youngest son of Svyatoslav I (11:3) & Maloucha, [c956]-1015, Grand Prince of Kiev and all Russia; mar. 3rd Rognieda of Polotsk, c956-1002 (Stuart 143:33); mar. later a dau. of Kuno, C. of Ohningen, & wife Richilde, bastard daughter of Emperor Otto I the Great (9:6), b. [c992]; d. 1014. She thus brought Carolingian blood into the family. In early life a thoroughgoing pagan, Vladimir had many other wives & concubines, built many heathen temples, enjoyed feasting & hunting. He siezed by force a Russian princess who had refused his offer of marriage. Civil war broke out upon his father's death. In 977-9 he was recruiting Viking forces in Scandinavia to aid in recovery of Novgorod. In 980 he took Kiev, slew his brother by treachery, was proclaimed Prince of all Russia. Envoys he sent out in 987 to investigate neighboring religions reported that they liked only the Greek Orthodox, & Byzantine Emperor Basil II offered his sister in marriage. He was baptised in the Crimea in 988, and easily converted his subjects. Henceforth he devoted his life to good works, founding churches and schools, establishing ecclesiastical courts, helping the poor, ending his reign in peace. He died near Kiev, at Berestov, 15 July 1015, on an expedition against his rebellious son, Yaroslav (EB 23:94). His daughter Dobroniega's mother was the dau. of Kuno & Richilde.

Two of his children (Yaroslav son of Rognieda):

1. Yaroslav I, b. Kiev 978; d. 20 Feb 1053/4, Grand Prince of Kiev. See 11:5 below.
2. Dobroniega, b. c1012; d. 1087; mar. (1038) CASIMIR I, King of Poland. See 13:6.

11:5 YAROSLAV I THE WISE, son of St. Vladimir (11:4), 978-1054, Grand Prince of Kiev; mar. (Feb 1019) Princess Ingegerd, dau. of Olaf III (12:8), King of Sweden, born Sweden c1001; d. Kiev 10 Feb 1050. In 1019 he defeated an older brother who had assassinated three of his other brothers and seized power. He furthered the spread of civilization and Christianity in Russia, founded churches and monasteries, collected books & had them translated, started codification of laws, fostered trade with the West. By an active foreign policy he expanded his dynasty's horizons by marrying a Swedish princess and arranging marriages for his children with the Polish, French, and Byzantine royal families (EB 19:782, 23:877; Stuart 240:32). Three of their children:

1. Isjaslav I, b. 1025; d. 1078, Grand Prince of Kiev. See 11:6 below.
2. Anna of Kiev, b. [c1036]; d. 1075; mar. HENRY I, King of France. See 7:6.
3. Wsevolod I, b. 1030; d. 1093, Grand Prince of Kiev. See 11:8 below.

11:6 ISJASLAV I, son of Yaroslav I (11:5) and Ingegerd, b. 1025; d. 1078, Grand Prince of Kiev; mar. (c1043) Gertrude of Poland, whose brother had married Isjaslav's aunt Dobroniega; Gertrude was daughter of Mieszko II (13:5), King of Poland, b. [c1025]; died 4 Jan 1107. Isjaslav was slain at Chernigov 3 Oct 1078 (Stuart 363:33; AR 241:6).

11:7 SVJATOPOLK II, son of Isjaslav I (11:6) and Gertrude, 1050-16 Apr 1113, Grand Prince of Kiev; mar. a Cumanian (Turkish) princess, dau. of Tougor Khan (AR 241:7). Two of their children:

1. Sbislava, b. [c1086]; d. 1113; mar. King BOLESлав III of Poland. See 13:8.
2. Predslava, b. [c1087]; d. 1129; mar. Almos, Prince of Croatia. See 13:14.

11:8 WSEVOLOD I OF KIEV, younger son of Yaroslav I (11:5), Prince of Kiev, & Ingegerd, b. 1030; d. 13 Apr 1093, Prince of Perejaslaw 1054, Grand Prince of Kiev 1078; mar. 1st (1046) Maria Monomacha, [c1030]-1067, daughter of Byzantine Emperor Constantine IX (10:5). Wsevolod succeeded his elder brother in 1078 (Stuart 240:31, 115:31).

11:9 VLADIMIR II "MONOMACHUS," son of Wsevolod I (11:8) & Maria, 1053-1125, Grand Prince of Kiev; mar. Gytha of Wessex, bastard dau. of King Harold II, last Anglo-Saxon King of the English (slain at Hastings 1066). Created Prince of Chernigov, a man of great statesmanlike qualities and a forgiving nature, Vladimir, a master at working out compromises, was successful in restoring or maintaining order among family members (ruling, or ambitious to rule, the various principalities). In 1113 he succeeded as ruler of Kiev upon the death of his cousin, Svyatopolk II, & ruled with firmness and great success. He left his sons a "Testament," the first known example of Russian "literature" written by a layman. He died near Kiev 19 May 1125 (EB 23:94; Stuart 240:30).

11:10 MSTISLAV I, son of Vladimir II (11:9) & Gytha, b. 1076; d. 15 Apr 1132, Grand Prince of Kiev & Novgorod; mar. 2nd (1122) Lyubava, daughter of Dmitri I of Novgorod, d. 1168 (AR 242:8; Stuart 240:29)

Child (born ?Kiev, Ukraine):

1. Euphrosyne Mstislavna, b. 1130; d. 1175/76; mar. GEZA II, King of Hungary. See 13:16.

CHART 12 - EARLY RULERS OF SWEDEN

The pre-Christian natives of Sweden came onto the stage of history as Vikings, along with their fellow Scandinavians, though no such fearsome names as Harald Bluetooth or Eric Blood-Axe appear in their royal line. Stuart (line 140) shows 9 generations before Ragnar, to c503. The earliest reported exploits are at least partly legendary. (Each man below is son of the preceding.)

12:1 RAGNAR SIGURDSSON of Uppsala, b. c750; d. in England 845; mar. 2nd Aslang of Denmark, dau. of Sigurd "Fofnersbane," b. c755. Danish King at Lethra, Ragnar reportedly died in a snake pit in Northumbria, northern England (Stuart 240:40).

12:2 BJORN RAGNARSON (IRONSIDE), [c790-c863], Swedish King at Uppsala. In 829 at Birka he received Christian missionaries from the Emperor Louis the German though their mission achieved minimal success. In 856-7 Bjorn & his Viking 'pirates' conducted destructive raids well up the Seine, besieged on an island for a time by King

Charles the Bald (6:15). In 859 with 62 ships, with fellow Danish Viking Hastein, he led a massive four-year raid to Spain and into the Mediterranean to North Africa, southern France, Italy, taking captives, plundering and burning wherever they went (Vikings 107, 215-218; Stuart 240:39).

12:3 ERIK BJORNSSON, b. c814, Swedish King at Uppsala (Stuart 240:38).

12:4 EDMUND (EYMUND) ERIKSSON, b. c1832, Swedish King at Birka (Stuart 240:37).

12:5 ERIK EDMUNDSSON, b. c849; d. 906, King of the Swedes & the Goths. Lord of Finland, Eastland, & Kurland, for several years he also held part of Norway, but lost it to Harald Haarfager (Fairhair)(Stuart 240:36).

12:6 BJORN ("A HAUGI", "THE OLD"), b. 868; d. c956, King at Uppsala, succeeded 900 (Stuart 240:35).

12:7 ERIK "SEGERSALL" ("THE VICTORIOUS"), b. Sweden c925; d. at Uppsala c995, King of Sweden and Denmark; mar. Sigrid "Starrade" (the Proud), dau. of Skoglar-Toste, b. c950 (Stuart 240:34).

12:8 OLAF III ("SKOTKONUNG") ERIKSSON, b. [c960]; d. winter of 1021/22, King of Sweden, succeeded c995; mar. Astrid, an "Obotritian" princess, b. c979 (Stuart in Line 380 traces her lineage back 21 generations, to a King of the Lombards, who flourished c490). About 1000 Olaf was converted to Christianity, Sweden's first Christian king, but he did not try to convert his people, and for decades the small but growing body of Christians fought the pagans. Not until the establishment in 1164 of an archbishopric at Uppsala can Christianity be said to have triumphed. (Stuart 240:33; EB 21:487).

Daughter (born at ?Uppsala, Sweden):

1. Ingegerd, b. c1001; d. 10 Feb 1050; married JAROSLAV I, Grand Prince of Kiev. See 11:5.

CHART 13 - RULERS OF BOHEMIA, POLAND, HUNGARY

BOHEMIA, the westernmost area of what was until recently Czechoslovakia, was settled early in the Christian era by Slavic peoples from the east, the most powerful being the Czechs. Reputedly the parents of Wratislav (13:1) were converted to Christianity by Greek missionaries.

POLAND: The Poles, a Slavic people, were long settled in territory between the Vistula & Oder rivers. Mieszko I (13:3) was a great-great-grandson of semi-legendary Piast, living in the 9th century (d. c861), who founded the dynasty, and whose strong and courageous descendants for four centuries gave Poland unity and stability.

HUNGARY: The Magyars, nomadic tribes related to the Finns and Turks, who founded the kingdom of Hungary, in the 9th century were settled around the mouth of the Don (which flows eventually into the Black Sea), but were driven, together with Khazars, by repeated attacks of the savage Pechenegs to the mouth of the Danube in the 880's, then by 900 farther west to Hungary, led by Arpad, the founder of the dynasty. From their permanent settlement on the Danube the terrifying Magyar horsemen repeatedly raided Germany, Italy, the Balkans, even France seeking plunder and slaves. The turning point in their history came when the Emperor Otto I (9:3) bloodily defeated them at the battle of Lechfield near Augsburg (southern Germany) 10 Aug 955 (EB 11:860), and they began to consider it advantageous to join the "European political and religious community." They turned to the West and in the 970's adopted western Christianity (EB 11:860).

13:1 VRATISLAV I, Duke of Bohemia, son of Prince Borziwoy & St. Ludmilla, b. [c870]; d. 13 Feb 921; mar. Drahomira, whose father was lord of a Slavic state on the Baltic Sea (Stuart 362:38). Two of their children:

1. St. Wenceslas, Duke of Bohemia, b. 906/7; murdered 929 by younger brother Boleslav. He encouraged German missionaries in the Christianizing of Bohemia. Patron saint of Bohemia, he is the "Good King Wenceslaus" of the Christmas carol.
2. Boleslav I, b. c909; d. 15 July 972, Duke of Bohemia. See 13:2 below.

13:2 BOLESNAV I "THE CRUEL," son of Wratislav I (13:1), b. c909; d. 15 July 972, Duke of Bohemia. He was instigated by their mother to murder his brother, way-laid him on his way to church, killed him at the church door (EB 23:409; Stuart 362:37; AR 244:7).

RULERS OF POLAND

13:3 DUBRAVKA OF BOHEMIA, dau. of Boleslav I (13:2), b. Bohemia [c935]; d. Poland 977; mar. (c965) MIESZKO (MIEZCYSZLAV) I, b. c922; d. 25 May 992, Grand Duke of Poland (Stuart 378:36). Through his marriage he gained help in converting his subjects to Christianity; placed Poland under the protection of the Papacy; expanded his territory (Stuart 378:36; EB 15:419). Two children:

1. Adelaide of Poland, b. ?c955; d. after 997; mar. Michael of Poland. See 13:10 below.
2. Boleslav I, b. 967; d. 17 July 1025, firstd K. of Poland. See 13:4 below.

13:4 BOLESNAV I, "CHROBRY" ("the Brave") son of Mieszko I (13:3) & Dubravka, b. 967; d. 17 July 1025, first King of Poland from 992; mar. 3rd Emnilde of Silicia, who d. 1017. A great statesman and soldier, he waged successful wars of defense and expansion against Germany and Bohemia, even occupied Russian Kiev. At his death he left Poland one of the strongest states in Europe, with a fine administration and an independent church (EB 13:115; Stuart 378:35).

13:5 MIESZKO II, son of Boleslav I (13:4), b. c990; d. 10 May 1034, King of Poland; mar. (1013) Richenza (Riza) of Pfalz-Lorraine (see 9:5), b. c1000; died at Saalfeld 21 Mar 1063, bur. Cologne. He suffered defeats at the hands of Germans and Russians, rebellion of brothers, for a time was deposed (Stuart 378:34; EB 15:419).

Three of their children:

1. Casimir I, b. 1016; d. 1058, King of Poland. See 13:6 below.
2. Rixa, b. 1018; d. after 1059; mar. (1039/42) BELA I, King of Hungary. See 13:12 below.
3. Gertrude, b. c1025; d. 4 Jan 1107; mar. (c1043) (c1043) ISJASLAV I, Grand Prince of Kiev. See 11:6.

13:6 CASIMIR I "THE RESTORER," son of Mieszko I (13:5) & Richenza, b. 25 July 1016; d. 19 Mar 1058, King of Poland from 1040; mar. (1041/2) Dobroniega Maria of Kiev, dau. of St. Vladimir of Kiev (11:4), b. c1112; d. 1087. He succeeded his father in 1034, was deposed 1037 and exiled in a rising of barons & a reaction in favor of paganism, but with help from the German Kings Conrad II and Henry III (9:10 & 9:11) he was restored 1039; with help from Yaroslav the Wise of Kiev (11:5), whose sister he married, he regained lost land, restored the state administration, etc. (Stuart 378:33; EB 5:13).

13:7 VLADYSLAV (HERMAN) I, younger son of Casimir I (13:6) & Dobroniega, b. c1043; d. Plotzk 4 June 1102, King of Poland from 1081; married (c1080) Judith of Bohemia, a descendant of Boleslav I (13:2 above), born c1058; d. 25 Dec 1086. He succeeded his brother Boleslav II, who died an exile in 1081 (Stuart 362:32).

13:8 BOLESNAV III "THE WRY MOUTHED," son of Vladyslav I (13:7) & Judith, b. 1086; d. 28 Oct 1138, King of Poland from 1102; married (1103) Sbislava of Kiev (see 11:7), b. c1086; d. 1113. Under him Poland made considerable advances politically and culturally. He added new territories, undertook Christianization of the new subjects in Pomerania. After him the growing decentralizing tendencies among the nobles weakened the country (Stuart 378:31; see EB 3:869, 19:115).

13:9 VLADISLAV II, son of Boleslav III (13:8) and Sbislava, b. c1105; d. 30 May 1159, Prince of Poland; married 1st (1125/7) Agnes of Babenberg, daughter of St. Leopold I, D. of Austria, and Agnes his wife (see 9:11), b. c1111; d. 25 Jan 1157 (Isenburg 1:15, 2:82; Stuart 378:30).

Child: Richilde, b. 1130/40; d. 11 June 1185; married ALFONSO VII, King of Castile. See 14:7.

RULERS OF HUNGARY

13:10 MICHAEL, son of Taksony, Great Prince of Hungary (whose army was defeated by Otto the Great in 955) and great-grandson of Arpad, b. [c945]; d. c976/78, a Magyar prince; mar. [c970] Adelaide of Poland, dau. of Mieszko I (13:3 above) & Dubravka, b. ?c955; d. after 997 (Stuart 51:35).

13:11 VASUL (BASIL) ("THE BLIND"), son of Michael (13:10) & Adelaide, b. [c971]; d. 1037, Duke of Northern Hungary, King of Poland; mar. (name unknown), who d. 6 Oct 1014 (Stuart 51:34).

13:12 BELA I, son of Vasul (13:11), b. c1005; died 1063, at first (1048) Lord of one-third of Hungary, then King 1060-63; mar. (1039/42) Rixa, dau. of Mieszko I, K. of Poland (see 13:5 above), b. c1018; d. after 1059 (Stuart 51:33). In a period of disorder, marked by struggles over the crown, Bela, with help from the Poles, expelled his bro. Andrew I in 1060. In 1061 he had to put down a great revolt to revive paganism. On Bela's death, a cousin, Salomon, was awarded the crown by the German Emperor (EB 11:860). Two sons:

2. Ladislas I the Saint, b. c1046; d. 27 July 1095, King of Hungary. See 13:21 below.

13:13 GEZA I, son of Bela I (13:12) & Rixa, born c1044; d. 24 Apr 1077 (Stuart 51:33), King of Hungary from 1074. Representing the national party in 1074, he led a revolt, drove out King Salomon & was proclaimed king by popular demand, but never firmly established himself as ruler. He appealed to Pope Gregory VII for assistance, making Hungary a fief of the Papacy, but the Emperor gave up attempts to conquer Hungary (EB 11:860).

13:14 ALMOS, son of Geza I (13:13), b. 1068; d. 1129, Duke of Hungary, Duke of Croatia, b. 1068; d. 1129; mar. 2nd (21 Aug 1104) Predslava of Kiev (see 11:7), b. c1087; d. 1129. His uncle, St. Ladislas, K. of Hungary, in 1090 created him Prince of Croatia, which he then annexed to Hungary (Stuart 51:31).

13:15 BELA II, son of Almos (13:14) & Predslava, b. c1109; d. 13 Feb 1141, King of Hungary from 1031; mar. (28 Apr 1127) Helena of Serbia, dau. of Uros I, Prince of Serbia, b. c1110; d. after 1146. He was blinded as a child, c1113 (Stuart 51:30).

13:16 Geza II, son of Bela II (13:15) & Helena, b. c1128; d. 3 May 1162, King of Hungary from 1141; mar. 1st (1146) Euphrosyne Mstislavna of Kiev (see 11:10), b. 1130; d. 1175/6; 2nd Anna, a relative of the Byzantine Emperor John Comnenus. An able ruler, he completed settlement of Germans in Transylvania. Though rulers to the west were too weak to disturb Hungary, there were increasing conflicts in his reign and later with a newly strengthened Byzantine Empire to the southeast, which disputed Hungarian claims to the Balkans and encouraged rival claimants to the Hungarian throne (Stuart 51:29; EB 11:861).

13:17 BELA III, son of Geza II (13:16) & Euphrosyne, b. c1148; d. 23 Apr 1196, King of Hungary from 1173 after a decade of disorder; mar. 1st (1172) Agnes de Chatillon, dau. of Renaud de Chatillon, Prince of Antioch, & his wife, Constance, Princess & heiress of Antioch, who was descended from K. Philip I of France (7:7), b. 1153; d. 1184; 2nd Margaret, sister of K. Philip II Augustus of France. Brought up in the Byzantine court, he restored royal authority, established close ties with France, sent leading Hungarians to study in Paris. He became a great statesman, developed Hungary into a wealthy & powerful nation, the greatest power in south-central Europe; his court was considered one of the most brilliant in all of Europe. Cities began to grow and western cultural influences spread throughout Hungary. Bela aided Serbia to gain independence from Byzantium and gave military aid to Byzantine Emperor Isaac II Angelus against the Bulgars. In the spring of 1189 German Emperor Frederick I Barbarossa crossed Hungary with 100,000 crusaders on their way to the Holy Land (Stuart 51:28, 80:28; EB 3:410, 11:861).

13:18 ANDREW II, son of Bela III (13:17) and his wife Constanc, b. 1175; d. 21 Sep 1235, King of Hungary from 1205 in succession to his infant nephew; mar. 1st (c1202) Gertrude of Meran, b. c1185; murdered 28 Sep 1213 by nobles because of the extravagance of her retinue; mar. 2nd (1215) Yolande, dau. of Peter II of Courtenay, Frankish Emperor of Constantinople, born c1195; d. 1233. His generous, reckless extravagance, forced on him by the nobility, made the monarchy dependent on the great nobles, who led the nation to near anarchy. In 1217 he undertook an unsuccessful crusade, & on his return the nobles forced him to accept The Golden Bull, a kind of Hungarian Magna Carta, a basic charter of national liberties, which is a significant foundation for the Hungarian constitution. Every king henceforth had to swear to it (EB 1:908-9). Two of his children, one by each marriage:

1. Bela IV, b. 1200; d. 3 May 1270, King of Hungary. See 13:19 below.
2. Yolande, b. c1216; d. Huesca, Spain, 12 Oct 1251; mar. (Barcelona 8 Sep 1235) JAMES I, King of Aragon. See 14:13.

13:19 BELA IV, son of Andrew II (13:18) & Gertrude, b. 1200; d. 3 May 1270, King of Hungary from 1235 in succession to his father; mar. (1218) Maria Laskaris, dau. of Theodore I (see 10:18), Byzantine Emperor of Nicaea, & Anna Angela, b. c1201; d. 1270. The dominant event of his reign was the devastating Mongol invasion in 1241 that laid waste 3/4 of Hungary. He led his forces in a gallant stand against Batu Khan & his Mongol hordes but was defeated, escaped to Dalmatia, and for a year Mongols plundered, pillaged, & depopulated the land at will. After their withdrawal Bela in his last 28 years successfully rebuilt Hungary. In 1246 he regained western Hungary, siezed by the Duke of Austria, whom he defeated and killed. The Mongols were back in 1261, but he overcame them; in his last years he was at constant war with newly powerful neighboring Bohemia, which threatened Hungary (EB 3:410).

13:20 STEPHEN V, son of Bela IV (13:19), b. 1240; d. 1 Aug 1272, King of Hungary 1270-72; mar. Elizabeth, dau. of Kuthen, Prince of the Kumans (AR 103:30). In his father's reign large numbers of wild, pagan Kumans had entered Hungary, fleeing before the Mongols; to tie them more closely to his dynasty, Bela married his son Stephen to a Kumanian princess (EB 11:861; AR 103:30). With the deaths of Stephen's son & successor, Ladislas IV in 1290, & his cousin Andrew III in 1301, the Arpad dynasty came to an end. One daughter of Stephen and Elizabeth:

1. Marie of Hungary, b. [c1258]; d. Mar 1323; mar. CHARLES II, King of Naples. See 7:20.

13:21 ST. LADISLAS I, son of Bela I, K. of Hungary (13:12) and Rixa his wife, b. [c1046]; d. 27 July 1095, King of Hungary from 1077; married (1077) Adelaide of Rheinfelden, d. 1090 (AR 244A:7; Stuart 75:32).

Child: Prisca (Irene), b. c1088; d. 13 Aug 1134; mar. JOHN II (COMNENUS), Byzantine Emperor. See 10:8.

CHART 14 - RULERS IN THE IBERIAN PENINSULA

The rulers featured here descended from the original Visigothic kings. The Goths, a pagan Germanic people, according to legend had originated in southern Scandinavia, but by the 1st century A.D. were found on the south shore of the Baltic Sea. By the late 2nd cent. they had migrated south to the shores of the Black Sea, and during the 3rd cent. made repeated raids on the Roman provinces in Asia Minor and the Balkans, carrying off captives to sell as slaves. The Goths who settled north of the Danube (present-day Rumania) came to be known as Visigoths. In the late 4th century the westward pressure of the terrifying Huns drove them for refuge to the Roman Empire. In 376, by a new policy for the Romans, the Visigoths were permitted to cross the Danube and settle as a compact unit (of maybe 40,000), within the imperial frontier, but the arrogance of Roman officials compelled them to revolt, and on 9 Aug 378 outside Adrianople they wiped out an imperial army and killed the Roman Emperor Valens.

The Visigoths were among the first of the many barbarian people entering the Empire to be enrolled as confederates, who, under their own chiefs, in return for land, served Rome against other barbarians, protecting the frontier. It was probably not long before 400 that they were converted to Christianity, but as Arians (who denied the Trinity, i.e. believing that God the Father and God the Son are not identical). The Visigoths moved again, northwestward and into Italy, which they were pillaging when the Goths in 410 sacked Rome. Finally they crossed the Alps and were settled as confederates in a newly created kingdom in Aquitaine, in southern Gaul (modern France), where the old Romano-Gallic landlords continued to co-exist with the Visigothic ruling class. In 451 a huge army of pillaging Huns led by Attila from eastern Europe was defeated at Troyes by a Visigothic army under barbarian leadership, a battle which ended the Hun threat.

After 494 large-scale migrations of Visigoths south into Spain began, and by the 550's they had transferred their kingdom from France to Spain, with their capital at Toledo, and imposed their rule over the Romanized Catholic populace. One of the few effective Visigothic kings was Leovigild, who reigned 568-586. His son & successor, Reccared, King of Toledo from 586 to 601, was baptised a Catholic, and the whole kingdom was converted by decree in 589. George Andrew Moriarty, in his manuscript masterpiece, The Plantagenet Ancestry of King Edward III and Queen Philippa, traces the lineage of Alfonso V of Leon (14:16 below) back to Pedro, Duke of Cantabria, Visigothic leader, who, he observed, was descended from Visigothic Kings of Toledo, Leovigildo and Recaredo (p. 82). Stuart (Line 176) repeats this pedigree, but it is not found in Ancestral Roots. W. H. Turton in his Plantagenet Ancestry (p. 38), of questionable reliability, shows the lineage all the way back to Leovigild and beyond.

Political intrigues and ineffective kings so enfeebled the Visigothic kingdom that the state had completely disintegrated by 711, when the Arabs (Moslems, Moors) from North Africa invaded, and they soon overran the whole peninsula with little opposition, even pushed into southern Gaul, where Charles Martel (see 6:11) in 732 defeated them and saved the rest of western Europe from Islamic conquest.

The Moslems permitted the Christians to adhere to their faith, but some Christian princes fled north, & set up tiny kingdoms penned in the barren northwest and in the shadow of the Pyrenees: LEON (in the far northwest corner), CASTILE (with capital at Burgos), NAVARRE (partly on the Bay of Biscay, partly against the Pyrenees, controlling the main pass from Spain into France), ARAGON (entirely under the Pyrenees), and BARCELONA (on the Mediterranean). After 1031 the collapse of the Islamic political power at Cordoba offered the Christian kings an opportunity to extend their territories. The history of the Middle Ages in Spain is a history of the Reconquista (reconquest) of the Iberian peninsula, until Spain was united in 1479 under Ferdinand of Aragon and Isabella of Castile, and the Moslems were finally expelled in 1492. As the Hispanic monarchs conquered Moorish territory, the religion and culture of the Moors was generally tolerated until the time of St. Ferdinand (14:10). (Many other lines of rulers are not treated here; all are very closely interrelated by a web of intermarriages.)

14:1 SANCHEZ GARCES III THE GREAT, son of Garcia IV Sanchez, K. of Navarre (994-99), b. c992; murdered at Bureba 18 Oct 1035, King of Navarre 1005; mar. (1001) Munia Mayor, co-heir of Castile, b. 995; d. Fromista after 13 July 1066. Indifferent to crusading against Moslems or the Visigothic dream of unity, he was motivated by personal ambition. Skilled as a politician, he brought Barcelona under his sway, conquered both Leon and Castile, and established the dominance of Navarre over all the other Christian states of (north-ern) Spain, creating an empire (Stuart 223:36; MacLagan 87; EB 19:994).

14:2 FERDINAND I THE GREAT, son of Sancho Garcés III (14:1), b. [c1016]; d. 27 Dec 1065, King of Leon (from 1035) and Castile; mar. (Nov/Dec 1032) Sancha (Sancia), dau. of Alphonso V of Leon (14:16 below) and Elvira, b. 1013; d. 13 Dec 1067. It was Ferdinand who launched the campaign against the Moors, who were eventually paying him tribute. He added Castile to Leon in 1038; defeated & killed his elder brother in 1054, carried the Castilian frontier farther south into central Spain. He divided his realm among his 3 sons, an act which led to futile war among them (MacLagan 87; Isenburg 2:47; Stuart 248:32).

14:3 ALFONSO VI, "THE BRAVE," son of Ferdinand I (14:2) & Sancha, b. June 1040; d. Toledo 30 June 1109, King of Castile & Leon; mar. 2nd (8 May 1081) Constance, dau. of Robert of Burgundy (see 7:21), born [c1050]. Allotted Leon by his father, he was deposed by jealous elder brother Sancho of Castile, & took refuge at the Moorish court in Toledo, where he gained great knowledge of Moorish life. In 1072 his brother's death made him King of Castile & Leon; he assumed the title "emperor of all Spain," and was so recognized by the other Christian kings. In the southward advance of Castile into Moorish territory, Alfonso's great generalship in 1085 conquered Madrid & Toledo, & Lisbon in 1093, with the help of El Cid (see 14:19) forcing the Moorish frontier far to the south. Wisely he tried to grant broad tolerance toward the religion & culture of his new Islamic subjects, but was opposed by the Church. He abandoned the characteristic Castilian and Leonese isolation from the rest of Europe, not least by making safe the pilgrim route to the shrine of Saint James of Compostella in Leon, establishing the rule of law throughout his realm. Toward the end of his reign he suffered several military defeats at the hands of the Moors (EB 1:593; Stuart 248:31).

1. (illegitimate) Theresa, b. 1070; d. 1 Nov 1130; mar. Henry of Burgundy. See 14:4 below.
2. Urraca of Castile, b. 1182; d. 8 Mar 1126; mar. 1st Raymond of Burgundy. See 14:6 below.

14:4 THERESA OF CASTILE, illegitimate dau. of King Alfonso VI of Castile (14:3), b. 1070; d. 1 Nov 1130; mar. (1093) HENRY (CAPET), son of Henry, C. of Burgundy (see 7:22), b. Dijon, Burgundy (France) 1069/70; died Astorga, Galicia (Spain) 1 Nov 1112. Henry, who came to Spain as a crusader against the Moors, was granted a fief around Oporto in Leon by Theresa's father, i.e. in the northern part of what was to become Portugal (the name derived from the harbour Portus Cale), and Henry became Count of Portugal 1095 (Isenburg 2:24; Stuart 85:29; MacLagan 228).

14:5 ALFONSO I (AFONSO HENRIQUES), son of Duke Henry of Portugal and his wife, Theresa of Castile (14:4), b. Guimaraes in the County of Portugal 25 July 1110; died Coimbra 6 Dec 1185, first King of Portugal; mar. (1146) Matilda, dau. of C. Amadeo III of Savoy (descended from Charlemagne), b. [c1123]; d. Coimbra 4 Dec 1157. Upon his father's death, his mother Theresa took charge and refused to relinquish power when Alfonso came of age, but on 24 June 1128 he defeated her forces & assumed power. In 1139 he started calling himself King. He tried unwisely to expand north into Leon; a period of conflict with his 1st cousin Alphonso VII of Leon (14: 7) ended with the latter's recognition of Alphonso I as King of Portugal in 1143, and in 1179 the Pope also approved his title. He waged a crusade against the Moors to the south, and in 1147, with aid from English and Flemish crusaders sailing to the Holy Land, he captured Lisbon, followed by other conquests, thereby securely establishing Portuguese independence (EB 1: 245; Stuart 85:28-27,182:28; MacLagan 228).

Daughter (born Bomba, near Valladolid, Spain):

1. Urraca, b. c1150; d. 16 Oct 1188 married FERDINAND I, K. of Leon. See 14:8 below.

14:6 URRACA OF CASTILE, dau. of K. Alfonso VI of Castile (14:3) by his wife Constance, b. 1082; d. Saldana 8 Mar 1125/6, in her own right Queen of Castile & Leon; married 1st (Toledo Dec 1092/Jan 1093) RAYMOND (RAMON) of Burgundy (descended from Charlemagne), son of William I, Count of Burgundy, & Stephanie of Barcelona, b. [c1065]; d. Grajal 13/20 Sep 1107; buried Cathedral of Santiago, Santiago de Compostela, Leon. She mar. 2nd (Monzon Castle near Carrion Oct 1109, annulled 1115) Alfonso I, K. of Aragon; no children. Raymond went to Spain on crusade against the Moors, upon his marriage became Count of Castile, Governor of Toledo. Urraca's second marriage to her 2nd cousin, designed to offset dangers of a female succession during a Moorish threat and produce stability, proved politically disastrous, unleashing years of anarchy and civil war. They were incompatible, & the Pope annulled the marriage 1014, but armed struggles continued (EB 22:805; Stuart 94: 30, 248:30).

14:7 ALFONSO (RAMIREZ) VII, son of Raymond of Burgundy & his wife, Queen Urraca of Castile & Leon (14: 6), b. Castile 1 Mar 1104/5; d. Fresnada 21 Aug 1157, bur. Cathedral of Santa Maria, Toledo, King of Galicia, then King of Castile & Leon, called himself "Emperor"; mar. 1st (Saldana Nov 1128) Berengaria of Barcelona, who d. 15/31 Jan 1148/49; 2nd (July 1152) Richilde of Poland, dau. of Vladislav II (see 13:9), b. 1130/40; d. 11 June 1185. His childhood was troubled by conflict between his mother & her 2nd husband for control of Castile & Leon; on his mother's death his step-father finally abandoned his claims, and Alfonso was formally acknowledged as emperor by other rulers. A dominant ruler, he led his forces deep into the Moorish south, won renown with his victories, actually captured Cordoba & made its ruler his vassal for 3 years, but gained little territory. After 1147 he had to devote his energies to fighting a new wave of fanatical Moors from N. Africa, the Almohades. In his will he ended any imperial dream by dividing his realm between his two sons (EB 1:593; AR 113:25; Stuart 94:29).

Three of his children, daughter by second marriage:

1. Sancho III, b. 1134; d. 31 Aug 1158. See 14:14 below.
2. Ferdinand II, b. 1137; d. 22 Jan 1187/8, K. of Leon. See 14:8 below.
3. Sancha of Castile, b. 21 Sep 1154; d. 9 Nov 1208; mar. Alfonso II, King of Aragon. See 14:11 below.

14:8 FERDINAND (FERNANDO) II, younger son of K. Alfonso VII of Leon (14:7) & Berengaria of Barcelona, b. 1137; d. Benavente (Spain), 22 Jan 1187/8, King of Leon, called himself King of Spain; mar. 1st (May/June 1165; div. 1175) Urraca, dau. of K. Alfonso I of Portugal (see 14:5 above), born c1150; died in a nunnery at Bomba, near Valladolid 16 Oct 1188. In the last 20 yrs. of his reign he pushed Leonese boundaries farther south in warfare against the Almohads, came to the rescue of newly established Portugal from the Almohads 1184 (EB 9:179-80; Stuart 52:27, 85:27).

14:9 ALFONSO IX, "EL BARBARO" and "THE SLOBBERER," son of Ferdinand II (14:8) and his 1st wife, Urraca of Portugal, born Zamora, Leon, 15 Aug 1171; died Villanueva de Sarria 24 Sep 1230, King of Leon from 1188; married 2nd (Valladolid Dec 1197 - div. 1204) Berengaria of Castile, dau. of K. Alfonso VIII (see 14:15 below) & Eleanor of England, b. Burgos, Castile, 1180; d. Las Huelgas near Burgos 8 Nov 1246 (or 1244). A forceful personality, he brought under his control his restless nobles, supported the power of the towns. He allied himself with the Almohads (Moors) in an unsuccessful effort to regain territory lost to Alfonso VIII of Castile, invaded Castile. With Leon placed under a Papal interdict, he was forced to marry Alfonso VIII's daughter. Refusing in 1212 to join Alfonso VIII (14:15) in the crusade against the Almohads, he nevertheless won important victories, expanded Leon southward (EB 1:594; Stuart 52:26, 83:26).

14:10 FERDINAND (FERNANDO) III THE SAINT, son of K. Alfonso IX of Leon (14:9) and Queen Berengaria of Castile, b. July/Aug 1201; d. Seville 30 May 1252, King of Castile & Leon; mar. 2nd (1237) Jeanne (Joan) de Dammartin (descended from Charlemagne), Countess & heiress of Ponthieu, b. [c1220]; d. Abbeville, France, 16 Mar 1279. To make good his claim to the Castilian throne upon the death of his mother's young brother in 1217, he had to wage war against his own father, whose will (1230) also barred him from the Leonese throne, but negotiations cleared the path for him to unite Leon & Castile permanently into a powerful state in the center of Spain. In a series of campaigns he conquered Cordoba (1236), Seville (1248), Cadiz (1250), & secured a Castilian outlet to the Mediterranean. Only Granada remained Muslim, a vassal to Castile. A religious zealot, adopting a new policy in Hispanic Christian relations with the Moors, he expelled the defeated Moors from their homes, with permanently disastrous economic results to Castile. He was canonized in 1671 (EB 9: 180; MacLagan 91; Stuart 52:25, 82:25).

Daughter (born in Castile):

1. Eleanor of Castile, b. c1244; d. 29 Nov 1290; mar. (Burgos, Spain, 18 Oct 1254) Edward I, King of England. See 2:9.

14:11 SANCHA OF CASTILE, dau. of K. Alfonso VII (14:7), b. 21 Sep 1154; d. Sijena 9 Nov 1208; married (Saragossa, Spain, 18 Jan 1173/4) ALFONSO II, son of Raymond Berengar IV, Count of Barcelona and his wife, Petronella, Queen of Aragon, b. Barcelona 1152; died Perpignan, 25 Apr 1196, Count of Barcelona (succeeding his father 1162), King of Aragon (succeeding his mother 1164), and C. of Provence. Barcelona & Aragon thus came to be joined permanently. By the pact of Cazorla in 1179 with his ally (& wife's nephew) Alfonso VIII of Castile, he permanently fixed the boundary between Castile and Aragon and determined their respective spheres of expansion (EB 1:592; Stuart 54:28, 94:28).

14:12 PEDRO II, eldest son and successor of King Alfonso II of Aragon and Queen Sancha (14:11), b. 1174; d. 14 Sep 1213, King of Aragon from 1196, Count of Barcelona; mar. (15 June 1204) Marie of Montpellier, dau. & heiress of William VIII, Seigneur de Montpellier & his wife, Eudoxia Comnena (see 10:10), b. 1182; d. Rome 21 Apr 1213 (?1218), buried St. Peter's. A brave but impulsive warrior, vain and lacking in caution, he had himself crowned (1204) in Rome by Pope Innocent III & made his kingdom a fief of the Holy See over the violent objections of his subjects. He was a prominent leader with his cousin Alfonso VIII (14:15) in the decisive victory over the Moors at Las Navas 16 July 1212. His marriage brought him land & great power in southern France, but embroiled him in the crusade (cruel & bloody) launched by Pope Innocent III in 1209 against the (heretical) Albigensians, and he perished at Muret fighting in defense of the Albigenses (EB 17:740; MacLagan 91; AR 115:28; Stuart 51:27).

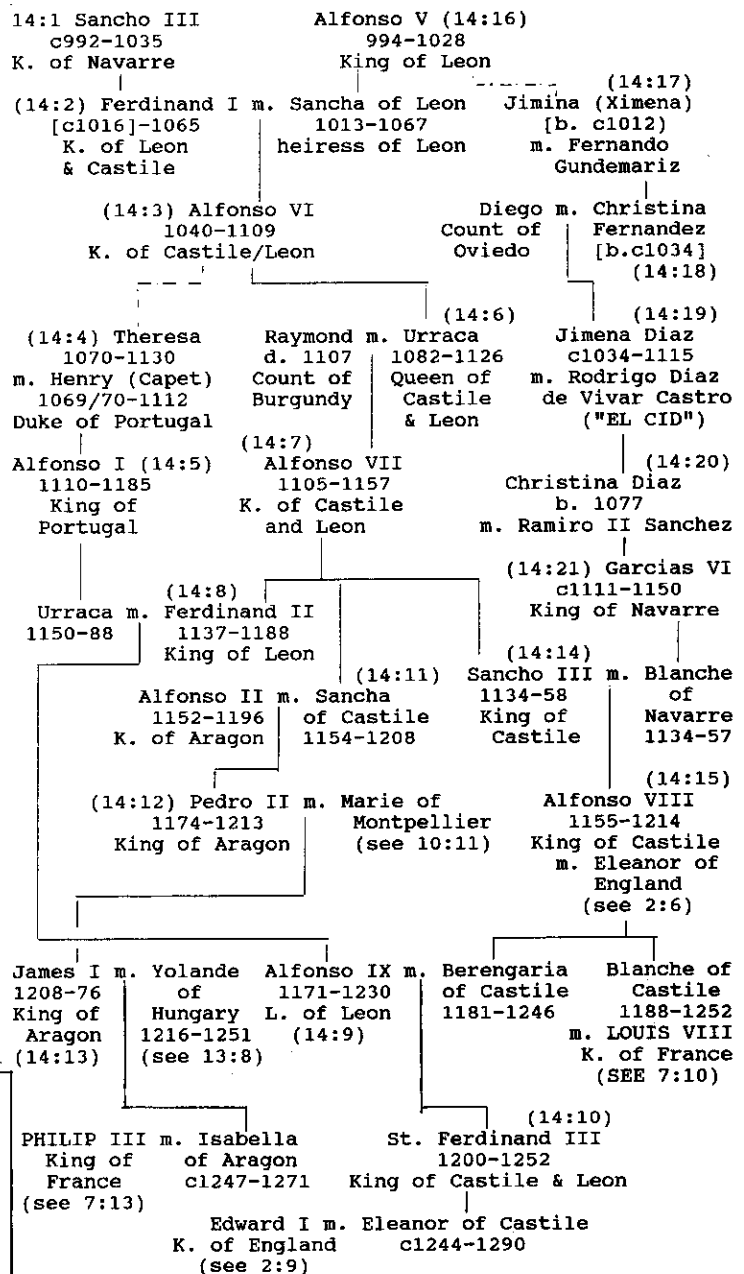

14:13 JAMES I, EL CONQUISTADOR (The Conqueror), son of K. Pedro II of Aragon (14:12) and Marie of Montpellier, b. Montpellier 2 Feb 1207/8; d. Valencia 27 July 1276, King of Aragon from 1213; mar. 2nd (Barcelona 8 Sep 1235) Yolande of Hungary (see 13:18), born c1216; died Huesca, Spain, 12 Oct 1251. He was educated by the Knights Templars at Monzon. A giant of a man & of great strength, astute & patient, he subdued his unruly vassals by 1229 so that he was able to undertake new conquests. He permanently conquered Valencia (1238), and aided in the conquest of Murcia (1266), which the agreement of 1179 had allotted to Castile and which gave Castile access to the sea. Only the tiny Kingdom of Granada remained to the Moors. Known as the historian of Aragon, as a skilful legislator & organizer he gave Aragon stability, but his moral laxity and the favor he showed his bastards led to protests from the nobility and conflict among all his sons (EB 12: 855; MacLagan 91; Stuart 51:26-25).

Child: Isabella of Aragon, b. 1243 or 1247; died 28 Jan 1270/1; mar. PHILIP III, King of France. See 7:13.

14:14 SANCHE III, eldest son of K. Alfonso VII of Castile (14:7), b. 1134; d. Toledo 31 Aug 1158, King of Castile 1157-1158, only a year; betrothed 25 Oct 1140, mar. (Logera or Calahara, Spain 30 Jan 1151) Blanche (called Sancha) of Navarre, dau. of K. Garcias VI of Navarre (14:21), b. c1134; d. 12 Aug 1156 (Stuart 83:28, 151:28).

14:15 ALFONSO VIII, "THE GOOD," son of K. Sancho III (14:14), b. 11 Nov 1155; d. near Avevalo 6 Oct 1214, King of Castile from ?1158; mar. (1170) Eleanor of England,

dau. of K. Henry II (2:6) & Queen Eleanor of Aquitaine, b. Damfront, Normandy, 13 Oct 1162; d. Burgos 31 Oct 1214. King at age 3, he experienced a troubled minority from internal strife & Navarrese intervention. His entire reign was marked by close ties with Aragon, in 1179 settling the boundary line between them. His main task was opposing the fanatical Almoahad invaders, who by 1172 had overrun most of Moorish Spain. They badly defeated him in 1195, when Leon & Navarre took advantage of his distress and invaded Castile. Aided by his 1st cousin Pedro II of Aragon he later succeeded in dealing with them, annexing some territory, & he married his talented daughter and heiress Berangaria to the unattractive King Alfonso IX of Leon. In 1212 at Las Navas de Tolosa he finally won a decisive victory over the Almohades, breaking their power in Spain and paving the way for further advance of the Christian kingdoms southward (MacLagan 90; EB 1: 593; Stuart 83:27).

Two daughters (first born Burgos, Castile):

1. Berengaria of Castile, b. 1181; d. 8 Nov 1246; mar. ALFONSO IX, K. of Leon. See 14:9 above.
2. Blanche of Castile, b. Palencia 4 Mar 1188; d. 27 Nov 1252; mar. LOUIS VIII, King of France. See 7:11.

14:16 ALFONSO V, b. 994; d. 7 Aug 1028, King of Leon; mar. 1st (Jan 1013) Elvira Menendez of Galicia, b. c996; d. Dec 1022. When he succeeded his father as King in 999, Leon was subject to the Emirate of Cordoba; Leon, forced to participate in a Cordoban military campaign, in 1005 was deeply penetrated by Moslem troops with Castilian aid; the death of the Cordoban dictator in 1007 and Moorish political troubles brought relief, but he was faced with the growing power of Sanchez of Navarre (see 14:1), whose dau. he mar. in 1024. He was then able to undertake reconquest of Portuguese territory lost to Cordoba, but was slain at the siege of Viseu (EB 1:593; Stuart 276:33, 277:33).

Two daughters, the first illegitimate:

1. Jimina (Ximena) of Leon, b. [c1012]; mar. Fernando Gundemariz. See 14:17 below.
2. Sancha of Leon, b. c1013; d. 7 Nov 1067, heiress of Leon; mar. FERDINAND I, King of Castile and Leon. See 14:2 above.

14:17 JIMINA (XIMENA) OF LEON, illegitimate dau. of K. Alfonso V of Leon (14:16), b. [c1012]; mar. FERNANDO GUNDEMARIZ. (Moriarty 82, 110; Stuart 180: 32).

14:18 CRISTINA FERNANDEZ, dau. of Fernando Gundemariz and his wife Jimena of Leon (14:17), b. [c1034]; married [c1135] DIEGO, Count of Oviedo. (In AR 113A:23 no lineage for dau. Jimena is shown beyond these parents, but Jimena is stated to be great-granddaughter of Alfonso V, K. of Leon; Moriarty 82, 110 names grandparents.)

14:19 JIMENA (XIMENA, or CRISTINA) DIAZ, dau. of Diego, C. of Oviedo, & his wife, Jimina of Leon (14:18), b. [c1057]; d. c1115; mar. (14 July 1074) RUY (RODRIGO) DIAZ DE BIBAR (VIVAR), of the Castilian minor nobility, b. Vivar, near Burgos, c1043; d. Valencia 10 July 1099, Count of Valencia 15 June 1094-1099. Known as "EL CID" & "el Campeador" (winner of battles) he is Spain's great national hero, a legend even in his own lifetime. He was an exceptionally successful general, winning brilliant victories over armies larger than his, by boldness in battle after careful & cunning planning. He very early established his reputation fighting for Sancho, King of Castile to 1072, then his brother Alfonso VI (14:3), who, angered by an action, exiled El Cid, who then fought for the Moorish kingdom of Saragossa 1081-87. As a private venture he besieged & took Valencia 1089-94, but his widow had to give it up (EB 5:763-4; AR 113A:23).

14:20 CHRISTINA (ELVIRA) DIAZ, dau. of "EL CID" and Dona Jimena Diaz (14:19), b. 1077; mar. [c1097] RAMIRO II SANCHEZ, b. c1070; d. Jan/Feb 1116, Count of Monzon (Macon), disinherited heir of Navarre, which was under the rule of Aragon 1076-1134. He was grandson of Garcias III, killed in battle by brother Ferdinand I (see 14:2) in 1054. Ramiro went on 1st Crusade, 1096 (EB 9: 1137; Isenburg 2:43; Stuart 179:30, 151:30; AR 113A:24).

14:21 GARCIA VI, "THE RESTORER," son of Ramiro II of Monzon & his wife, Christina Diaz (14:20), b. c1111; d. Larca de Navarra 21 Nov 1150, King of Navarre from 1034; mar. 1st (1130) Margaret de l'Aigle, d. 25 May 1141; 2nd (Leon 24 June 1144) Urraca, dau. of K. Alfonso VII of Castile, d. Palencia 12 Oct 1189. He broke the union of Navarre & Aragon by declaring himself a vassal of Alfonso

VII of Castile, whose daughter he subsequently married (14:7) (EB 9:1137; Isenburg 2:43).

1. Blanche of Navarre, b. c1134; d. 12 Aug 1156; mar. (4 Feb 1151) SANCHE III, K. of Castile. See 14:14 above.

CHART 15 - COUNTS OF BOULOGNE, DUKES OF BRABANT

This line was included mainly because it features two Littleton ancestors who were leaders of the First Crusade and their brother, first (Frankish) King of Jerusalem.

15:1 LAMBERT I "THE BEARDED," son of Regnier III, Count of Hainaut (descended from Charlemagne), b. c950; d. 12 Sep 1015, Count of Louvain; mar. (c990) GERBERGA of Lorraine, dau. of Charles, Duke of Lower Lorraine (see 6: 19), one of the last of the Carolingians; she was born c975; d. after 1017 (AR 155:20, 148:20).

15:2 MAUD OF LOUVAIN, dau. of Lambert I and Gerberga, b. [c996]; mar. EUSTACE I, b. c992; d. 1049, Count of Boulogne, a great-grandson of Adolph of Flanders (5:2) (AR 148:21, 158:21).

15:3 EUSTACE II, son of Eustace I and Maud, b. c1025; d. c1080, Count of Boulogne; married 2nd (1057) Ida of Lorraine, d. 13 Aug 1113. He was a companion of William the Conqueror at Hastings 1066 (AR 158:22).

Three of their sons, all Crusaders:

1. Eustace III, b. c1058; d. 1070/80, Count of Boulogne. See 15:4 below.
2. GODFREY DE BOUILLON, b. c1060; d. 18 July 1100. See 15:10 below.
3. Baldwin I, c1061-2 Apr 1118, Crusader, first King of Jerusalem, 1100-1118 (EB 2:1070); bur. Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

15:4 EUSTACE III, son of Eustace II and Ida, b. c1058; d. c?1130 (after 1125), Count of Boulogne; married (1102) Princess MARY OF SCOTLAND, dau. of Malcolm III Canmore, King of Scots, & St. Margaret (see 3:10), b. c1084; d. 31 May 1116. He set out in 1096 with his followers on the First Crusade soon after his brothers (see 15:10 below), joined them in Constantinople Jan 1096/97; he returned home shortly after the capture of Jerusalem in July 1099 (AR 158:23; Billings 32,68).

15:5 MATILDA OF BOULOGNE, dau. & heiress of Eustace III (15:4) nd Mary, b. c1105; d. Hedingham Castle, Kent, 3 May 1152; mar. STEPHEN OF BLOIS, 1095/6-1154, King of England (see 2:3 for details).

15:6 MARY OF BLOIS, only surviving child and heiress of King Stephen of England (2:3) and Queen Matilda, born 1136; d. 1182, Countess of Boulogne; m. (1160; div. 1169) MATTHEW (MATTHIAS) OF ALSACE, son of Thierry (Dietrich), C. of Flanders (great-grandson of Baldwin V of Flanders, 5:7), b. [c1137]; d. 25 July 1173, Count of Boulogne. She was Abbess of Romsey, in Hampshire, when in 1160 by force she was carried off by Matthew, but in 1169 she again became a nun, d. St. Austrebert, near Montreuil, France (AR 166:26, 169:26; Isenburg II:9; von Redlich I:57).

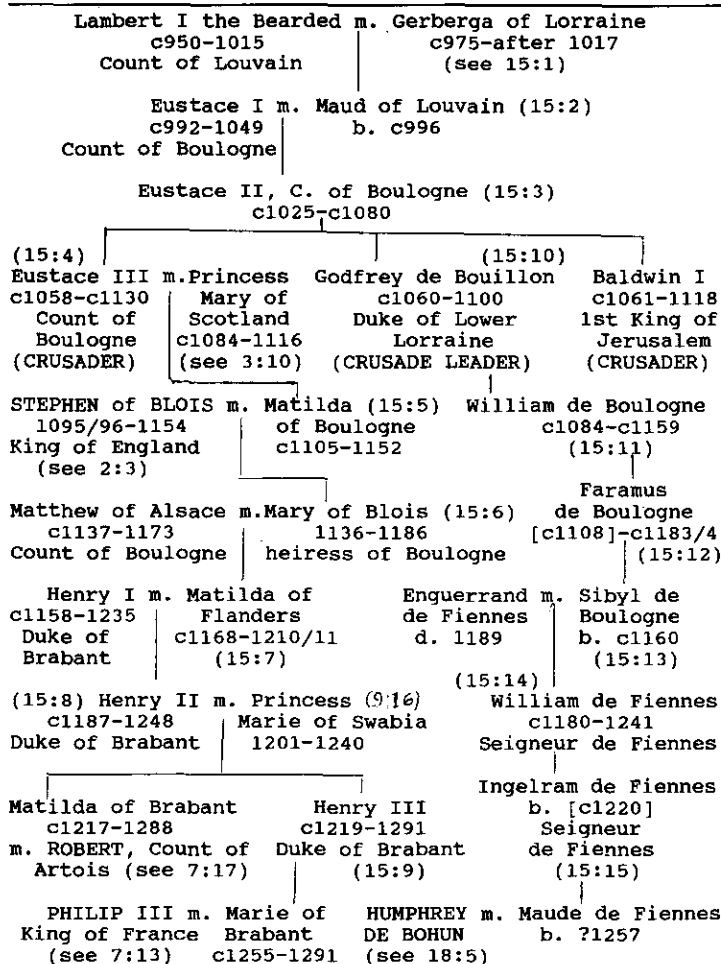

15:7 MATILDA OF FLANDERS, dau. of Matthew of Alsace & Mary, b. c?1168; d. 1210/11; married (1179) HENRY I, b. c1158; d. 5 Sep 1235, Duke of Brabant, descended from Charlemagne. He succeeded as Duke of Lower Lorraine in 1186, but in 1190 replaced his title with that of Duke of Brabant. His domain embraced Brussels, Antwerp, Louvain (AR 155:26, 165:27; EB 4:50; MacLagan 211).

15:8 HENRY II, eldest son & heir of Henry I & Matilda, b. c1187; d. 1 Feb 1247/8, Duke of Brabant; married 1st (9 Feb 1207) Marie of Swabia, daughter of the German King PHILIP (see 9:16), born 1201; died 1240 (AR 155:27, von Redlich 1:56). Two children:

1. Matilda of Brabant, b. ?c1217; d. 29 Sep 1288; mar. 1st ROBERT, Count of Artois. See 7:17.
2. Henry III, b. c1219; d. 1291, D. of Brabant.

15:9 HENRY III, eldest son & heir of Henry II and Marie, b. c1219; d. 28 Feb 1260/61, Duke of Brabant; mar. Alix (Alice) of Burgundy, d. 23 Oct 1273 (AR 155: 28,29; von Redlich, 1:56).

Child: Marie, b. c1255; d. 12 Jan 1321; married PHILIP III, King of France. See 7:13.

15:10 GODFREY DE BOUILLON, son of Eustace II and Ida, b. Baisy (?), Brabant; d. 18 July 1100; married [presumably in ?England ?c1083] Beatrice, daughter of Geoffrey de Mandeville, Constable of the Tower of London. In 1076 Godfrey was bequeathed Bouillon (eastern modern Belgium), and in 1082 was made Duke of Lower Lorraine. One of the great Crusaders, Godfrey in 1096 took the cross, sold or mortgaged his lands, and, in company with his brother Baldwin, became a leader of the First Crusade, travelling with his army of some 15,000 knights and men from Verdun to the Danube, then by way of Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade to Constantinople (Byzantium), the first to arrive 23 Dec 1096. After months of camping outside its walls, Godfrey came to terms with the Emperor, crossed the Bosphorus in early April 1097, marched with other Crusader armies across great mountains (modern Turkey), facing all kinds of weather, disease, etc.; they besieged and took Nicaea with Byzantine aid; they were ambushed by Moslems, whom they routed. Many died on the march. In autumn they reached Antioch, which finally fell in June 1098 after a 7-month siege. On 7 June 1099 the Crusaders finally reached Jerusalem. They began a siege, before which Jerusalem ultimately capitulated 15 July, and most of the remaining populace was massacred. Possibly because of his quiet, pious, courageous nature, he was elected ruler of Jerusalem 22 July 1099, but declined a crown, preferring to be "advocate" of the Holy Sepulchre. After a year of repelling Moslem attacks and trying to cope with internal squabbles, Godfrey died in Jerusalem 18 July 1100 and was buried in the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, which was erected by the Crusaders (EB 10: 514; Billings 32, 34-53, 57-67; AR 159A, for discussion of Godfrey's proper name).

15:11 WILLIAM DE BOULOGNE, son of Godfrey and Beatrice, b. probably in England c1084; d. c1159; wife unknown (AR 158A:24).

15:12 FARAMUS DE BOULOGNE, also called "de Tingry," son of William, b. [c1108]; d. c1183/84; wife unknown. He held widely separated manors in Somerset, Surrey, Essex, Oxford, etc., in 1157/58 was custodian of Dover Castle (AR 158A:23 & 25).

15:13 SIBYL DE BOULOGNE, daughter and surviving heir of Faramus, b. [c?1160]; married ENGUERRAND (INGELRAM) DE FIENNES, d. 1189 (AR 158A:26).

15:14 WILLIAM DE FIENNES (FIENES), son of Enguerrand & Sibyl, b. [c?1180]; d. 1241, Seigneur de Fienes; mar. 2nd Agnes de Dammartin (AR 152:27, 158A:27).

15:15 INGELRAM (or ENGUERRAND) de Fiennes (Fienes), b. [c?1220], Seigneur de Fienes; married a dau. of Jacques, Seigneur de Condé (AR 152:28 & 97:30).
Child: Maud de Fiennes, b. [c?1257]; married (175) HUMPHREY DE BOHUN. See 18:5.

CHART 16 - BEAUMONT and DE CLARE FAMILIES

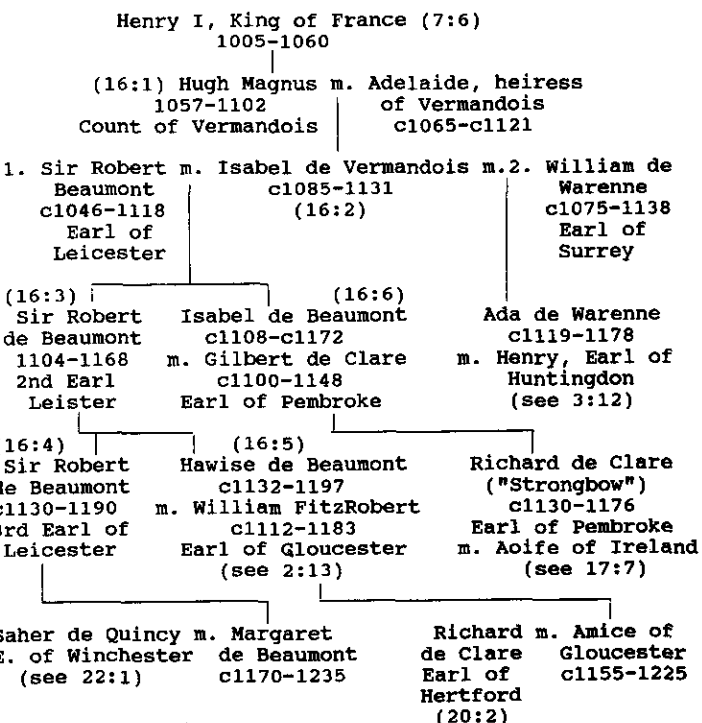

16:1 HUGH MAGNUS, younger son of King Henry I of France (7:6), b. 1057; d. 18 Nov 1102, Duke of France and Burgundy, Count of Amiens, Chaumont, Paris, Valois, & Vermandois (in right of his wife); married [c1080] Adelaide, daughter & heiress of Herbert IV, C. of Vermandois, Countess of Valois & Vermandois, b. c1065; d. c1121 (see AR 50:23 where her lineage is traced back to Charlemagne). Hugh was a leader of the 1st Crusade, the first to set out for Italy in Aug 1096 with a small army of knights, leaving his lands in the care of his Countess (Billings 32).

16:2 ISABEL DE VERMANDOIS, dau. of Hugh, Count of Vermandois (16:1) & Adelaide of Vermandois, b. [c1081]; d. 13 Feb 1131; mar. 1st (1096) SIR ROBERT DE BELLOMONT (BEAUMONT), b. c1046; d. Préaux, Normandy, 5 June 1118, Earl of Leicester; 2nd (1118) WILLIAM DE WARRENNE, born Sussex, b. [c1075]; d. 1138, 2nd Earl of Surrey, known as Earl of Warenne.

Sir Robert was a companion of the Conqueror, distinguished himself at Hastings 1066, and was rewarded with lands, became Count of Meulan in Normandy by inheritance from his father. Noted for his sagacity, he served as chief advisor to William II, fought for Henry I (AR 53:24; EB 3:342). Surrey's father, William, was also a companion of the Conqueror, fought at Hastings, was rewarded with lands in 13 counties, in the King's absence in 1075 crushed a baronial revolt, was created Earl of Surrey by K. William II in 1088, was imprisoned in 1101 for supporting D. Robert of Normandy, but was restored to favor, supported Henry I in his defeat of Robert in 1106 at Tinchebrai (EB 13:25; AR 83:24).

Three children:

1. Sir Robert de Beaumont, b. 1104; d. 5 Apr 1168, 2nd Earl of Leicester. See 16:3.
2. Isabel de Beaumont, b. c1108; mar. Gilbert de

Clare, Earl of Pembroke. See 16:6 below.

3. Ada de Warenne, b. [c1119]; d. 1178; married (1139) HENRY OF HUNTINGDON, Prince of Scotland. See 3:12.

16:3 SIR ROBERT DE BEAUMONT, twin son of Sir Robert & Isabel to Beaumont (16:2); b. 1104; d. 5 Apr 1168, 2nd Earl of Leicester; mar. (after Nov 1120) Amice, dau. of Ralph, Seigneur of Gael & Montfort in Brittany; by this marriage he acquired extensive lands in Normandy & England. He and his twin brother were at the deathbed of King Henry I in 1135. Having served K. Stephen, he made a truce with the Angevins after Stephen's defeat in 1141, was created Steward of England; he was made Justiciar of England 1155, as such pronounced sentence on Thomas a Becket 1164 (CP 7:527-530). Two of their children:

1. Sir Robert de Beaumont, b. [c1130]; d. 1190, 3rd Earl of Leicester. See 16:4 below.
2. Hawise de Beaumont, b. [c1132]; d. 24 Apr 1197; mar. William FitzRobert, 2nd Earl of Gloucester. See 16:5 below.

16:4 SIR ROBERT DE BEAUMONT, son of Robert, 2nd Earl of Leicester (16:3), b. [c1130], before 1135; d. 1190, 3rd Earl of Leicester; married (before 1155) Pernel de Grandmesnil, a Norman heiress. In 1173 he joined the rebellion of the "young King" Henry (son & heir of Henry I); the King confiscated his English estates, attacked and burned the town of Leicester, then captured & burned his Norman castle. Upon his return to England with troops, Robert plundered Norwich, but on 17 Oct '73 in a fight with the King, was made captive with his Countess, in 1174 was forced to surrender his castle at Leicester, which Henry demolished, before he released them after his son's rebellion was crushed. Restored to favor, Robert carried a Sword of State at Richard I's coronation 3 Sep 1189. He set out in Dec 1189 on Crusade to Jerusalem, died on his way home in 1190 at Durazzo (CP 7:530-33).

Child: Margaret de Beaumont, born c1170; died probably 12 Jan 1234/35; mar. SAHER DE QUINCY, Earl of Winchester. See 22:1.

16:5 HAWISE DE BEAUMONT, dau. of Sir Robert (16:3), b. [c1132]; d. 24 Apr 1197; married (c1150) WILLIAM FITZROBERT, 1st son & heir Robert of Caen, Earl of Gloucester (2:13), & grandson of King Henry I, b. 23 Nov [c1112]; d. 23 Nov 1183, 2nd Earl of Gloucester. He resided chiefly at Cardiff, took King Henry II's part in his sons' rebellion 1173, but was imprisoned in 1183 under suspicion in a 2nd uprising (CP 5:687-89).

Second daughter and co-heiress:

1. Amice, b. [c1155]; d. c1 Jan 1224/25; mar. Richard de Clare, E. of Hertford. See 20:2.

16:6 ISABEL (or ELIZABETH) DE BEAUMONT, dau. of Sir Robert & Isabel de Beaumont (16:2), b. [c1114]; died after 1172; mar. (c1129) GILBERT DE CLARE, b. c1100; d. probably 6 Jan 1147/8, Earl of Pembroke (created by K. Stephen 1138). Isabel had been one of the mistresses of K. Henry I (CP 10:252 note). Gilbert became a great baron through inheritance. Though he fought loyally for King Stephen, he entered into conspiracies against him twice, 1142 & 1147, but made his peace. He was a benefactor of Tintern Abbey, where he was buried (CP 10:348-352).

Child: Richard de Clare, "Strongbow," b. c1130; d. c2 Apr 1176, 2nd Earl of Pembroke; mar. Aoife of Ireland. See 17:7.

CHART 17 - LINEAGE FROM BRIAN BORU, KING OF IRELAND

17:1 BRIAN BORU, b. 941; d. 1014, King of Ireland 1002-1014; mar. (?c982) Gormflaith of Naas, daughter of Murchad, King of Leinster (d. 972) and widow of Anlaf, King of Dublin (d. 981). In 976 he became King of Munster, succeeding his half-brother, who had been mysteriously murdered, and whose death he avenged in battle. A highly skilled soldier, leader, & diplomat of exceptional ability & energy, he made Munster a strong & unified state, overcame Norsemen, conquered the south of Ireland, won the submission of the other kings, in 1002 became High King of all Ireland, the only man ever to achieve such a distinction. His leadership came to be resented; a group of Leinstermen, with help from a large band of Norsemen, met his forces in battle at Clontarf, near Dublin, 23 Apr 1014, and Brian's forces were completely victorious, but a band of Norsemen, fleeing from the battlefield, happening on Brian's tent, overpowered his bodyguard, and hacked Brian to death. The victory at Clontarf ended the danger of Norse conquest (AR 175:1; EB 4:168-69 & 12: 551-52).

17:2 DONNCHAD, son of K. Brian (17:1), b. [c990]; d. 1064, King of Munster from 1023, but neither he nor his brothers could maintain Brian's power and authority; an era of political ferment followed Brian's successes. Donnchad died on pilgrimage to Rome (AR 175:2).

17:3 DARBFORGAILL, dau. of K. Donnchad (17:2), born [c1020]; died 1080; mar. DIARMAIT (DERMOT) MACMAEL NAM BO, d. 23 Feb 1072. King of Hy Kinsale, he held overlordships of Dublin, Ossory, etc., later usurped the high kingship of Leinster (AR 175:3).

17:4 MURCHAD, son of Diarmait & Darbforgaill (17:3), b. [c1042]; d. at Dublin 8 Dec 1070 (AR 175:4).

17:5 DONNCHAD MACMURCHADA, son of Murchad (17:4), b. c1065; d. killed in battle 1115, King of Dublin; mar. Sadb, daughter of MacBrice (AR 175:5; EB 7:278).

17:6 DIARMAIT MACMURCHADA (DERMOT MACMURROUGH, son of Donnchad (17:5), b. [c1100]; d. Ferns, Ireland, 1 Jan 1171, King of Leinster 1141-66. Of his several wives, Mor, dau. of Muirchertach Ua Tuathail (O'Toole), was mother of his daughter. He succeeded his brother 1126, but had to battle many rivals for recognition, which he achieved in 1041 by slaying or blinding 17 chief rivals. After he abducted, but shortly released, a neighbor king's wife, her husband allied with other kings in 1166 drove Dermot from Ireland. With permission of K. Henry II of England, he appealed to Richard de Clare, E. of Pembroke, promising his daughter's hand (AR 175:6; EB 7:278, 12:552). He returned to Leinster, to be joined 23 Aug 1170 by de Clare and his adventuring land-hungry Norman vassals. Dermot can thus be credited with unleashing the Norman "invasion" of Ireland, i.e. the English presence there, and the beginning of a long history of mismanagement and oppression.

FitzGILBERT (DE CLARE), "STRONGBOW," son of GILBERT DE CLARE, E. of Pembroke, & his wife, Isabel de Beaumont (see 16:6), b. c1130; d. Dublin ?20 Apr 1176, buried Christ Church Cathedral there, Earl of Pembroke (in succession to his father 1148). In 1170 he and his army in Ireland captured Waterford and Dublin, Norse strongholds, put down a general Irish uprising, later made other Irish conquests until his supremacy in Leinster was eventually recognized. Uneasy over his vassal's conquests, K. Henry II in 1171-72 paid a visit to Ireland. (Pope Adrian IV in 1155 had granted Ireland to K. Henry, to bring order into the Irish church & state.) Richard surrendered Dublin to the King, who granted him Leinster as a fief and put all Ireland in his custody; Richard enfeoffed his vassals with Irish land. All but two of the kings of Ireland willingly did homage to Henry II (CP 10:352-57; EB 12:552).

17:8 ISABEL DE CLARE, only legitimate dau. of Richard "Strongbow," Earl of Pembroke, and his wife, Eva of Leinster (17:7), b. [c1172]; d. 1220, buried Tintern Abbey, Countess of Pembroke; mar. (London, Aug 1189) WILLIAM MARSHAL, b. c1146; d. Caversham, Berkshire, 14 May 1219, buried Temple Church, London, Earl of Pembroke. He was sent by his father to serve as a squire 8 years to the Master Chamberlain of Normandy, became known as the most outstanding knight of his time. In 1167 in Poitou, with his uncle, Earl of Salisbury, he was wounded & captured when his uncle was ambushed & slain; Queen Eleanor ransomed him. He served, knighted, and supported in his rebellion, the Young Henry, who on his deathbed (11 June 1183) charged William, a Knight Templar, to carry his cross to the Holy Sepulchre. He was at Henry II's deathbed in Chinon 1189, escorted the body to Fontevault. Taken into King Richard's favor, he was given Isabel de Clare in marriage, thereby acquiring vast estates; he carried the gold sceptre at Richard's coronation 3 Sep 1189. He succeeded his brother 1194 as hereditary Marshal. He was instrumental in prevailing upon the barons in 1199 to support King John, was at his coronation 27 May 1199, after which the King confirmed him as Earl of Pembroke. He waged battles for King John, supported him in the baronial uprising, appears to have had a major hand in drafting the Magna Carta, was one of John's representatives at Runnymede June 1215. On 11 Nov 1216 by unanimous vote at a Council at Bristol he was chosen Regent for the boy King Henry III, became virtual ruler of England. At Lincoln 10 May 1217 he defeated the rebel barons and their French allies, concluded a treaty by which Prince Louis withdrew. In a spirit of moderation and conciliation he reissued an abbreviated Magna Carta in an effort to return everyone to their allegiance and restore settled government, in which he was successful (CP 10: 358-364; EB 17:543-4). Three of his daughters:

1. Maud Marshal, b. c1190; d. 1248; mar. 1st HUGH BIGOD; 2nd WILLIAM DE WARENNE. See 17:9 below.
2. Isabel Marshal, b. [c1199]; d. 17 Jan 1239/40; mar. Sir Gilbert de Clare, E. of Hertford. See 20:3.
3. Eva Marshal, b. c1207; d. c1245; mar. William de Braiose. See 17:11 below.

17:9 MAUD MARSHAL, dau. of William Marshal, Earl of Pembroke, & his wife, Isabel de Clare (17:8), b. c1190; d. 1/7 Apr 1248; mar. 1st (1207/12) HUGH BIGOD, who d. 11/18 Feb 1224/25, Earl of Norfolk (see 23:2 for descendants); mar. 2nd (1225) WILLIAM DE WARENNE, d. London 27 May 1240, 6th Earl of Surrey. Surrey was a faithful supporter of King John, appeared as one of his adherents at Runnymede; he deserted John to join Prince Louis when he invaded England, but in 1217 he made his peace with young Henry III (AR 83:27; EB 23:215; CP 12, Pt.1:500-3).

17:10 JOHN DE WARENNE, son of William de WARENNE, E. of Surrey & his wife Maud Marshal (17:9), b. 1231; died Kennington near London cMichaelmas 1304, 7th Earl of Surrey; mar. (Aug 1247) Alice de Lusignan, dau. of Hugh X, C. of Ponthieu, & Isabella of Angouleme (descended from the Capetians, Chart 7), b. [c1230]; d. 9 Feb 1255, a half-sister of K. Henry III. A loyal supporter of the royal family, he fought with his friend, the future Edward I, in the Barons' Wars, escaped to France after the defeat at Lewes, May 1264, returned to participate in the royal victory at Evesham, Aug 1265. In July 1270 he was responsible for the death of Alan la Zouche (22:6) (AR 83:28, 153:29; EB 23: 215). One of their sons:

17:11 EVA MARSHAL, dau. of William, E. of Pembroke,

& Isabel de Clare (17:8), b. c1207; d. c1245; married [c1225] WILLIAM DE BRAIOSE (BRAOSE or BRIOUZE), born c1200; d. 2 May 1230, 6th Baron de Braiose, & a descendant of Griffith, Prince of Wales. William's grandmother was murdered in 1210 by King John, who had her "walled up alive in her castle walls with her young son" (AR 66:28, 177:6-8). One daughter:

1. Eleanor de Braiose, b. [c1226]; mar. (before 15 Feb 1247/48) HUMPHREY DE BOHUN VI. See 18:4.

LINEAGES OF MAGNA CARTA BARONS WHO ARE ANCESTORS OF THE LITTLETONS

These barons were all great landowners, part of the Anglo-Norman aristocracy whose ancestors had come with, or shortly after, William the Conqueror. The Magna Carta was a feudal document; it was not intended by the barons as a broad charter of liberties. They wished to protect themselves against the continued encroachment of the central royal administration (e.g. the courts of justice) on their privileges and profits by setting forth what each side (King and nobles) can do, and their respective limitations. It was only in later centuries that the Magna Carta came to be revered as the cornerstone of democracy. It was no doubt the wisdom of William Marshall, Earl of Pembroke (17:8), the most sensible of those involved in preparation of the document, with the help of Stephen Langton, Archbishop of Canterbury, that led to inclusion in the Magna Carta of clauses relating to other classes than the feudal barons.

One historian has declared that the barons who compelled King John to sign the Magna Carta never amounted to very much. In fact, even after they had achieved their goal, they regretted such concessions as they had made, resumed their warfare, traitorously invited over Prince Louis (the future Louis VIII of France), husband of King John's niece, to be their king, but King John's opportune death 18/19 Oct 1216, undermined the baronial cause, and Prince Louis finally returned to France.

Of the 25 barons appointed as sureties for baronial performance under Magna Carta, only 17 produced identifiable descendants. Of those, ten appear to be ancestors of the Littletons. Of these ten, two (de Bohun and the younger de Clare) were descendants of Charlemagne, as were the wives of four others (de Lacy, the senior de Clare, de Quincy, the younger Bigod). A son of one (de Vere) and the grandson of another (Mowbray) married Charlemagne descendants.

CHART 18 - DE BOHUN FAMILY

An early ancestor, another Humphrey de Bohun, was a companion of William the Conqueror, and fought at the battle of Hastings 1066. The position of Constable chiefly involved commanding the royal army, but he also served in a judicial capacity.

18:1 HUMPHREY DE BOHUN IV, d. 1182, Baron de Bohun, Lord of Hereford, Constable of England; mar. [c1173]. Margaret, widow of Conan, D. of Britanny and Earl of Richmond (d. 20 Feb 1171), & dau. of Prince Henry of Scotland, Earl of Huntingdon (3:12), born [c1144]; died 1201 (AR 193:6; CP 6:457).

18:2 HENRY DE BOHUN, son of Humphrey IV (18:1), born 1176; d. 2 June 1220, Hereditary Constable of England, in 1200 created (5th) Earl of Hereford; mar. [c1200] Maud, sister & (1227) co-heir of William de Mandeville, E. of Essex, d. 27 Aug 1236. He joined the Barons against K. John, with them was excommunicated by the Pope, with them & Prince Louis of France engaged in the civil war, was taken prisoner at the battle of Lincoln 20 May 1217 (CP 6:457-459).

18:3 HUMPHREY DE BOHUN V, son of Henry de Bohun (18:2), b. c1201; d. 24 Sep 1275, 6th Earl of Hereford and (after 27 Aug 1236) Earl of Essex, and Constable of England; mar. 1st Maud de Lusignan, who d. 14 Aug 1241. Through his mother he inherited vast estates in Essex with the title. He joined the Barons against K. Henry III, in 1258 was one of the 24 councillors to draw up the Provisions of Oxford, but by 1263 had rejoined the King's party, was captured by Simon de Montfort at Lewes 1264 (CP 6:459-62; EB 3:857).

18:4 HUMPHREY DE BOHUN VI, son of Humphrey V (18:3), b. c1228; d. before his father at Beeson Castle, co. Chester, 27 Oct 1265; mar. 1st Eleanor de Braiose (see 17:11), thus further enriching the family with more extensive (Welsh) estates. Unlike his father, he continued a follower of Simon de Montfort, died of wounds he received at Evesham (CP 6:462-463; EB 3:857).

18:5 HUMPHREY DE BOHUN VII, son of Humphrey VI (18:4), b. c1249; d. Pleshy 31 Dec 1298, Earl of Hereford and Essex, Constable of England, succeeding his grandfather in 1275; married (1275) Maude de Fiennes, dau. of Enguerrand de Fiennes, Seigneur de Fiennes (see 15:15). Though long a loyal servant of K. Edward I in his wars in Wales, as Constable, he with Roger Bigod, E. of Norfolk as Marshal, defied the King at Salisbury 24 Feb 1296/7, refused to serve overseas in Gascony unless the King should be present; both were deprived of office, afterwards in London led those who forced the King to confirm the charters (CP 6: 463-466; EB 3:857)

18:6 HUMPHREY DE BOHUN VIII, son of Humphrey VII (18:5), born c1276; died 16 Mar 1321/22, Earl of Hereford & Essex and Constable of England; mar. (Westminster 14 Nov 1302) Princess Elizabeth, widow of John, C. of Holland & Zealand, & dau. of King Edward I (see 2:9) & Eleanor of Castile, b. Rhudlan Castle, co. Carnarvon, Wales, 7 Aug 1282; d. 5 May 1316, buried Walden Abbey. He fought for K. Edward II in Scotland; in 1310 was one of the Lords Ordainers against K. Edward II, in June 1312 aided in the seizure & speedy execution of Gaveston, the King's favorite. At the Scottish victory at Bannockburn in 1314 he was taken prisoner, was exchanged for King Robert Bruce's wife. He joined the opposition on the rise of the Despencers, was killed in the civil war that followed, died fighting against Edward II at Boroughbridge (CP 6:467-69, EB 3:857).

18:7 SIR WILLIAM DE BOHUN, younger son of Humphrey VIII (18:6), b. 1310/12; died 16 Sep 1360, Earl of Northampton (created 1337); mar. [c1332] Elizabeth de Badlesmere, widow of Edmund de Mortimer (d. 1331) & dau. of Sir Bartholomew de Badlesmere (see 20:12), b. 1313; d. 1356. He fought at the naval battle of Sluys (1340) and the battle of Crécy in the Hundred Years' War, served as Admiral against Scotland. King Edward III rewarded his loyal service with land and a title (AR 29:32, 65:34; CP 6:472; EB 16:603).

18:8 HUMPHREY DE BOHUN IX, son & heir of William de Bohun (18:7), b. 24 Mar 1342; d. 16 Jan 1372/3, Earl of Northampton (as heir of his father Sep 1360), 7th &

He was with the captive King Richard at Speyer in Germany 20 Nov 1193, one of the pledges for the King's ransom. He received his inheritance 1194 on payment of a £100 relief. Upon King Richard's death Apr 1199 and succession of King John he fortified his castles, but swore fealty to the king upon assurance of his rights. He fought with King John on the continent 1201, 1203; upon loss of Normandy he lost all his family's Norman lands. He sided with the Barons in their dispute with King John, was at Runymede June 1215, "demanded as his hereditary right the custody of the forests in Yorkshire and of the castle of York." Afterwards, for his continued opposition to the King, his by 21 Nov 1297, reportedly at Ghent, his body brought to Eng. 1299 & bur. at Fountains Abbey, where his effigy has survived. He married (1270) Roese de Clare (see 20:4) of Gloucester and Hertford, b. 17 Oct 1252. He did homage to Edward I 1278, served against Scots 1291 and in Gascony 1294. His summons to Parliament 24 June 1295, 26 Aug 1296, 26 Jan 1296/7, established him as Baron (Lord) Mowbray. He had holdings in seven counties (CP 9:376-77).

19:4 JOHN DE MOWBRAY, 2nd Baron Mowbray, son of the 1st Lord Mowbray (19:3), b. 4 Sep 1286; d. York 23 Mar 1321/22; mar. (Swansea 1298) Aline de Braiose, whose ancestress King John had imprisoned and starved to death. Knighted 22 May 1306 with Prince Edward (II), he had livery of his father's lands 1 June, though still a minor. He was summoned to Parl. 26 Aug 1307-15 May 1221, esp. on 18 Jan 1307/8 to attend Edward II's coronation. He served against the Scots 1306, 1308-21. His father-in-law conveyed to him the baronies of Bramber (Surrey) and Gower (Wales). Hugh le Despenser, the king's favorite, having coveted Gower, persuaded the king to dispossess Mowbray in his favor Oct 1320. This action led to a confederation of Lords Marchers headed by the E. of Hereford, Mowbray, & others against the Despensers, who were banished July 1321. Mowbray and the others received formal pardons, but by Nov 1321 Mowbray had joined the E. of Lancaster, took part Jan 1321/2 in siege of the royal castle at Tickhill, fought for the Earl at Boroughbridge 16 Mar 1821/2, was captured, & hanged at York (CP 9:377-80).

19:5 JOHN DE MOWBRAY, 3rd BARON MOWBRAY, son & heir of 2nd Baron (19:4), b. Hovingham, Yorks. ?1299; d. 4 Oct 1361; mar. 1st (28 Feb 1326/7) Joan [Plantagenet], 6th & youngest dau. of Henry, E. of Lancaster (2:23), b. c1322; d. 7 July ?1347. Imprisoned in the Tower Feb 1321/2 for his father's "treason," John received his inheritance upon the accession of Ed. III; on 27 July 1327, when the King rec'd his homage, he had livery of his father's lands. He was summoned to Parl. 10 Dec 1327-20 Nov 1360 & often to royal councils. He led royal troops in the battle of Neville's Cross, Durham, 17 Oct 1346, in which the Scots were defeated. He was ordered to send 150 Welsh archers to the Crécy campaign 1346 (CP 9:380-3).

19:6 JOHN DE MOWBRAY, 4th BARON, son & heir of 3rd Baron (19:5), b. Epworth 25 June 1340; d. 21 Sep or 9 Oct 1368, slain by Saracens near Constantinople (will prob. Lincoln 17 May 1369); mar. (c1349) his cousin Elizabeth, dau. & heir of John, Lord Segrave, by his wife, Margaret [Plantagenet] (by Papal dispensation) (2:21), b. Croxton Abbey 25 Oct 1338; d. 1364/7; she became Baroness Segrave on her father's death, spring 1355. He served in Brittany 1356, had livery of his inheritance 14 Nov 1361, was summoned to Parl. 14 Aug 1362-20 Jan 1365/6. He took the Cross and died on Crusade (CP 9:383-84).

19:7 JOAN (JANE) DE MOWBRAY, dau. of 4th Baron Mowbray (19:6), b. [c1362]; living 30 Nov 1402; mar. [c1383] SIR THOMAS GRAY of Wark, son & heir of Sir Thomas Gray (Grey) of Heaton (d. 1369), by his wife Margaret de Pressene, b. 1359; d. 26 Nov or 3 Dec 1400. In 1398 he obtained the castle, manor, & lordship of Wark-on-Tweed from Ralph, E. of Westmorland, in exchange for other manors. (He was succeeded by his elder son Thomas, b. Alnwick Castle 30 Nov 1384; beheaded North Gate, Southampton as a traitor 2 or 3 Aug 1415 for taking part in the conspiracy of the E. of Cambridge [bro. of Duke of York] against K. Henry V; all his lands were forfeited.) (CP 6:136, AR 223:31).

19:8 SIR JOHN GRAY (GREY), COUNT OF TANCARVILLE, younger son of Sir Thomas Gray of Wark (19:7), by his wife Joan, b. possibly Alnwick Castle c1386; slain at battle of Baugé in Anjou, 22 Mar 1420/21, when the king's brother Thomas also perished, Count of Tancarville. #### CHART 20 - MAGNA CARTA BARONS: DE CLARE to GRAY

Ancestors of these Magna Carta barons, Walter de Lacy and another Richard de Clare, were companions of William the Conqueror, fought at Hastings 1066, for their service received large grants of land.

20:1 JOHN DE LACY, son & heir of Roger de Lacy, born c1192; died 22 July 1240 after a long illness, Earl of Lincoln (created 22 Nov 1232 at the request of wife's mother); married 2nd (before 21 June 1221) Margaret de Quincy, dau. of Robert de Quincy and his wife, Hawise of Chester (see 2:16), who was in her own right Countess of Lincoln as of 27 Oct 1232, b. [c1200]; d. Hampstead, by 30 Mar 1266, heirss of Lincoln. He was one of the sureties for the Magna Carta in 1215, late in 1215 made peace with K. John, but the next summer rejoined the rebels, and John destroyed his castle of Donington; in 1217 he was pardoned by King Henry III. In 1218 he accompanied the Earl of Chester on the 5th Crusade, in 1219 fought at the successful siege of Damietta, Egypt. He served the King in several capacities: as envoy, justice, Sheriff of Chester 1237-40 (CP 7:676-680).

Child: Maud de Lacy, b. [c1225]; d. 10 Mar 1288/9; mar. SIR RICHARD DE CLARE. See 20:4 below.

20:2 RICHARD DE CLARE, son of Roger de Clare, Earl of Clare & E. of Hertford by Maud de St. Hilary, b. c1145; d. 30 Oct/28 Nov 1217, Earl of Hertford, more generally known as Earl of Clare; mar. [c1170] Amice, daughter and eventual sole heiress of William FitzRobert (see 16:5), 2nd Earl of Gloucester, b. [c1155]; d. c 1 Jan 1224/5. Present at the coronations in Westminster Abbey of Richard I 3 Sep 1189 & John 27 May 1199, in 1215 he joined the Barons, had his castle of Tonbridge taken by King John, played a leading role in negotiations for the Magna Carta, was one of the 25 sureties; his lands were granted to another, and he and son were excommunicated by Pope Innocent III in 1216 (CP 6:501-3).

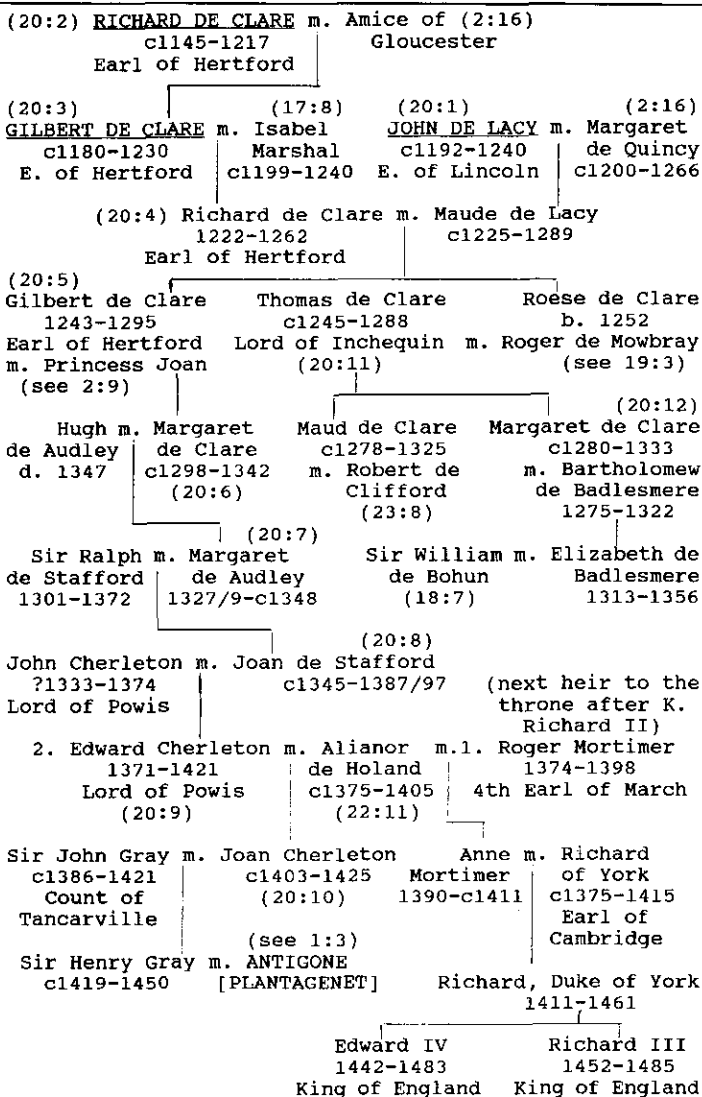

20:3 SIR GILBERT DE CLARE, son of Richard de Clare (20:2), Earl of Clare, born c1180; died near Penrose, in Brittany (on an expedition there), 25 Oct 1230, buried Tewkesbury Abbey, England, 7th Earl of Clare, and Earl of Gloucester & Hertford; mar. (9 Oct 1217) Isabel Marshal, dau. of William Marshal (see 17:8), Earl of Pembroke, b. 1199; d. Berkhamstead in childbed 17 Jan 1239/40. In June 1215 he with his father was among the 25 Barons who were sureties for the Magna Carta; in Dec he was excommunicated by the Pope; on 19 May 1217, fighting along side Prince Louis of France at Lincoln, he was taken prisoner by William Marshal, his future father-in-law. He subsequently fought for Henry III in Wales (CP 5: 694-96).

20:4 RICHARD DE CLARE, son of Richard de Clare (20:3), Earl of Clare, b. 4 Aug 1222; d. at John de Criol's manor of Ashenfield in Waltham, near Canterbury, 15 July 1262 (it was rumored that he was poisoned at dinner by Peter of Savoy, the Queen's uncle); buried Tewkesbury Abbey 1262, 8th Earl of Clare, Earl of Gloucester and Hertford; mar. 2nd (?25 Jan 1237/8) Maud de Lacy, dau. of John de Lacy (see 20:1 above), born [c1225]; died 10 Mar 1288/9. Having inherited from his father the vast Clare estates, from his mother the Gloucester estates, and acquired others in Ireland & Wales, he wielded great power, held the balance in the civil wars between King Henry III and de Montfort, first supporting the Barons in 1258 against the King, but in 1259 he abandoned Montfort after a quarrel, only to rejoin him (CP 5:696-702; EB 5:862).

1. Gilbert de Clare, b. 2 Sep 1243; d. 7 Dec 1295, E. of Gloucester, etc. See 20:5 below.
2. Sir Thomas de Clare, b. c1245; d. 1287/88. See 20:11 below.
3. Roese de Clare, b. 17 Oct 1252; mar. (1270) ROGER DE MOWBRAY. See 19:2.

20:5 GILBERT DE CLARE ("THE RED"), eldest son & heir of Richard (20:4), E. of Clare etc., b. 2 Sep 1243; d. Monmouth Castle 7 Dec 1295, bur. Tewkesbury Abbey, 9th Earl of Clare & Earl of Gloucester & Hertford; mar. 2nd (Westminster Abbey, May 1290, by Papal dispensation) Princess Joan ("of Acre"), 2nd dau. of King Edward I (2:9), b. Acre in Palestine early in 1272; d. 23 Apr 1307. In 1263 he joined Montfort and became a leader in the Barons' party; his castles at Kingston & Tonbridge were taken over by the King, who condemned de Clare & Montfort as traitors; just before the battle of Lewes Montfort knighted Gilbert & his bro. Thomas. In the battle the Earl took the King prisoner, and Prince Edward having also been captured, the Earl and Montfort dominated the nation, but the Earl deserted Montfort, became reconciled to Edward, & leading a division in the battle of Evesham 4 Aug 1265 signally contributed to a royal victory and Montfort's defeat & death. Later, however, in 1267 he marched on London & occupied it (CP 5:702-710).

20:6 MARGARET DE CLARE, 2nd dau. of Gilbert de Clare ("the Red") (20:5) & Princess Joan, born c1298; died 9 Apr 1342; a great heiress, she mar. 1st Piers Gaveston, E. of Cornwall, the King's favorite (beheaded 1312); 2nd (at Windsor Castle 28 Apr 1317) HUGH DE AUDLEY, 2nd son of Hugh, Lord Audley, by Isolt Mortimer, b. [c1285]; d. 10 Nov 1347, bur. Tonbridge Priory, as Lord Audley (by right of his wife) summoned to Parliament Nov 1317-May 1321. Quarrels with the King's favorites, the Despencers, led him to join the E. of Lancaster; his lands were seized, Tonbridge Castle was besieged & taken; he fought with Lancaster at Boroughbridge 17 Mar 1321/2, was taken prisoner. After execution of the Despencers & deposition of Edward II, he was again summoned to Parliament, his lands were restored. Ordered to provide archers & troops, he served K. Ed. III in Welsh & French campaigns, engaged in the English victory at Sluys 24 June 1340. He was created Earl of Gloucester 16 Mar 1336/7 (CP 5:715-719).

Through the favor of Thos., E. of Lancaster, he gained power and wealth. As Lord Holand he was summoned to Parl. July 1314-May 1321. He sided with Lancaster in his contention with Edward II, was pardoned 1313 for any complicity in Gaveston's death. In Lancaster's final uprising Feb-Mar 1321/2 Holand was alleged to have abandoned his patron. He fought at Boroughbridge, surrendered to King Edward at Derby, his lands taken into the King's hands; he was moved from prison to prison, but his petition to Edward III for restoration of his lands was granted Dec 1327. In Oct 1328 he was captured in Boreham Wood, Elstree, Herts., by adherents of Lancaster, who, in revenge for his alleged trachery, cut off his head (CP 6:528-31, CP 12, Part 2:937 note).

22:10 SIR THOMAS DE HOLAND, K.G., younger son of Sir Robert de Holand & Maude la Zouche, his wife (22:9), b. c1320; d. in Normandy 26 or 28 Dec 1360; bur. Church of the Grey Friars, Stamford, 2nd Lord Holand & Earl of Kent (in right of his wife); mar. (?1339) JOAN, Countess of Kent, Baroness Woodstock & Baroness Wake, known as "Fair Maid of Kent," dau. of Prince Edmund of Woodstock (see 2:22), Earl of Kent, born 29 Sep 1328; died Wallingford Castle, Berkshire, 7 or 8 Aug 1385, bur. with 2nd husband Canterbury Cathedral. She mar. 2nd with Papal dispensation (10 Oct 1361) Edward, Prince of Wales [the Black Prince], b. Woodstock 15 June 1330; d. Westminster 8 June 1376, by whom she was mother of King Richard II.

In 1340 de Holand was in the expedition to Flanders, took part in the naval victory at Sluys 24 June. At the capture of Caen he took prisoner the Count of Eu 26 July 1346, but surrendered him to King Edward III for a fee. He fought at Crécy 26 Aug 1346 in Prince Edward's division & after the battle supervised the counting of the slain. In 1356 he was appointed Keeper of the Channel Islands, & through his life was charged with numerous other official duties, saw frequent service in France, received many grants from the King. He was a founder Knight of the Order of the Garter (CP 7:150-54).

22:11 SIR THOMAS DE HOLAND, son & heir of Sir Thomas de Holand, & Joan (22:10), Earl & Countess of Kent, b. c1349; d. 25 Apr 1397, Earl of Kent, Lord Woodstock, Holand & Wake; married (soon after 10 Apr 1364) Alice FitzAlan (see 21:6), b. c1350; d. 17 Mar 1415/6. Nominated K.G. 1375 or '76, he received from K. Richard II, his half-brother, many grants, was assigned numerous duties, e.g. Keeper of Forests, Constable of Castles, Marshal of England, envoy; he was summoned to Parliament July 1381-July 1397. In 1394 he accompanied Richard II to Ireland (CP 7:154-156). Fourth daughter:

1. Alianor de Holand, born [c1375]; died 23 Oct 1405; mar. 1st (c1389) Roger Mortimer, E. of March (d. 1398); 2nd (late June 1399) EDWARD CHERLETON. See 20:9.

CHART 23 - MAGNA CARTA BARONS: BIGOD to KYNASTON

There may be a flaw in the Percy connection (below). Isolde Percy (23:12) as daughter of the (1st) Earl of Northumberland, is found in the long outdated Burke's Commoners (1834-38), 4:358, and in the 1623 Visitation of Shropshire (p. 293): "Isolda filia Comitiss Northumbriae [she enfeoffed lands of Lye by Ellesmere 1435 as Isolda widow of Madoc Kynaston]." She is also found in Transactions 210-211. She is not found in any of the lineages in AR nor in recent editions of the Peerage. Blakeway, in his Sheriffs of Shropshire (1831) concedes that "if [Madoc Kynaston] married a Percy, [he] may have been led by that connexion to the fatal plain of Battlefield, on which he perished" (p. 73). Even if Kynaston's wife was not a Percy, Littleton descent from the Bigods, father and son, who were both Magna Carta sureties, is still valid through the line of Earls and Dukes of Lancaster (shown on the accompanying chart).

In 1066 ancestors Roger le Bigod, Hugh de Beauchamp, and William de Percy were companions of William the Conqueror and fought at Hastings.

23:1 ROGER LE BIGOD, b. c1150; d. before 2 Aug 1221, 2nd Earl of Norfolk, mar. Ida---. In 1173 he fought for K. Hen. II in opposition to his own father, who was in the insurrection in support of "young Henry" against his father Hen. II. He attended the coronation 3 Sep 1189 of Richard I, who created him Earl of Norfolk; thereafter he served as a royal official, mainly as a Justice, at Westminster etc., also as a Baron of the Exchequer. In June 1215 he joined the rebellious Barons at Stamford, and with his son was one of the 25 chosen to maintain Magna Carta. Excommunicated in Dec., his lands forfeited & ravaged by K. John, he returned to his allegiance in Sep 1217 & had his lands restored (CP 9:586-589).

23:2 HUGH LE BIGOD, son & heir of Roger (23:1), 2nd

Earl, b. [c1180]; d. 11/18 Feb 1221, 3rd Earl of Norfolk; mar. (c1207) Maud (see 17:9), eldest daughter of William Marshal, Earl of Pembroke, b. [c1190]; d. 1/7 Apr 1248. She mar. 2nd (1225) WM. DE WARENNE, Earl of Surrey. With his father one of the 25 Magna Carta sureties and also excommunicated, Hugh fought for the King in Wales 1223, witnessed the confirmation of the Magna Carta at Westminster 11 Feb 1224/5 (CP 9:590-593)

23:3 ISABEL LE BIGOD, dau. of Hugh, 3rd E. of Norfolk (23:2), b. c1208; mar. 1st Gilbert de Lacy (d. by 25 Dec 1230); mar. 2nd (1231/2 Apr 1234) SIR JOHN FITZ GEOFFREY of Shere, Surrey, etc., only son of Geoffrey Fitz Piers, E. of Essex, by 2nd wife Aveline de Clare, b. c1190; d. 23 Nov 1258. He was Justiciar of Ireland 1245-56 (CP 5: 433 & note, 437 chart). Two elder daughters:

1. Isabel FitzJohn, b. 1239; mar. ROBERT DE VESPONT. See 23:6 below.
2. Maud FitzJohn, b. [c1241]; d. 16 or 18 Apr 1301; mar. 1st Gerard de Furnivalle (d. by 18 Oct 1261); 2nd [c1262] WILLIAM DE BEAUCHAMP, E. of Warwick. See 23:4 below.

23:4 MAUD FITZJOHN, dau. of Sir John FitzGeoffrey & Isabel his wife (23:3), b. [c1241]; d. 16 or 18 Apr 1301; mar. 2nd [c1262] WILLIAM DE BEAUCHAMP, b. 1237; d. Elmley 5 or 9 June 1298, 9th Earl of Warwick. He did homage on 9 Feb 1267/8 for the lands of the Earldom of Warwick inherited from his uncle, in 1268 succeeded his father as hereditary Sheriff of Worcestershire. For the King he was a negotiator, saw military service against the Welsh, 1277-94, Scots 1296-8, won a fine victory over the Welsh 1295, shared command in a victory over Scots 1296 (CP 5: 437 chart, 12, Part 2: 368-70; AR 72:31).

23:5 ISABEL DE BEAUCHAMP, dau. of William, 9th Earl of Warwick, & Maud his wife (23:4), born c1263; died 1306; mar. 1st [c1281] SIR PATRICK DE CHAWORTH, who d. about 7 July 1283, Lord of Kidwelly, co. Carmarthen, Wales; 2nd (1286) Sir Hugh le Despenser (favorite of K. Ed. II), who was hanged Oct 1326, Earl of Winchester (AR 72:31 & 32). Daughter and heiress:

1. Maud de Chaworth, b. 1282; d. by 3 Dec 1322; mar. (before 2 Mar 1296/7) HENRY [PLANTAGENET], 3rd E. of Lancaster. See 2:24. Their dau. Mary mar. HENRY DE PERCY, her 3rd cousin once removed. See 23:10 below.

23:6 ISABEL FITZJOHN, dau. of Sir John FitzGeoffrey & Isabel his wife (23:3), & elder sister of Maud, b. 1239; mar. [c1253] ROBERT DE VESPONT (VIPONT), Lord of Westmorland & hereditary Sheriff of Westmorland, b. 1210; d. by 17 Oct 1235; d. 7 June 1264 (CP 5:437 chart).

23:7 ISABEL DE VESPONT (VIPONT), dau. of Robert de Vespont & Isabel his wife (23:6), heiress of Appleby, Westmorland, b. 1254; d. 14 May 1292; mar. [c1273] ROGER DE CLIFFORD, who drowned crossing a bridge of boats in conflict with the Welsh 6 Nov 1282. He was a Justice of the Forests (CP 5:437 chart; 5:439-40; AR 82:31).

23:8 ROBERT DE CLIFFORD, son of Roger de Clifford & Isabel his wife (23:7), b. Easter (about 1 Apr) 1274; slain at Bannockburn 24 June 1314, 1st Lord Clifford; mar. (13 Nov 1295) Maud de Clare, younger daughter and eventual heir of Thomas de Clare (see 20:11), Lord of Inchiquin, b. [c1278]; d. 1 Feb 1324/25. He was heir to a share of the great Vipont estates at his mother's death. He was summoned to Parl. Dec 1299-Nov 1313, served in the wars in Scotland, as a Justice, as Warden of the Scottish Marches, Sheriff of Westmorland 1291, MP 1299-1313 (CP 5:437 chart, 3:290-91; AR 64:32).

23:9 IDOINE DE CLIFFORD, dau. of Robert, 1st Lord Clifford (23:8), & Maud his wife, b. c1304; d. 24 Aug 1365; mar. (c1321) SIR HENRY DE PERCY, b. Leconfield 6 Feb 1300; d. after a short illness at Warkworth Castle, late Feb 1351/2, 2nd Baron Percy of Alnwick. Knighted in 1322 by King Edward II at York, he spent most of his life in service in Scotland or guarding the Marches. In Oct 1326 he joined the Queen against the Despensers upon her return from France. On 17 Oct 1346 he commanded a division at the victory over the Scots at Neville's Cross (CP 10: 459-462).

23:10 HENRY DE PERCY, son of Henry, 2nd Baron Percy, & Idoine his wife (23:9), b. 1322; d. about 18 May 1368, 3rd Baron Percy of Alnwick; married (Tutbury Castle Sep 1334) Mary of Lancaster (3rd cousin of his mother), dau. of Henry [Plantagenet], 3rd Earl of Lancaster & his wife Maud de Chaworth (see 23:5 above, and 2:24), b. [c1320]; d. 1 Sep 1362. He succeeded his father as hereditary Keeper of Berwick Castle, was keeper of other castles, fought with the King in the French wars (CP 10:262-63).

23:11 HENRY PERCY, son of Henry, 3rd Baron Percy (23:10), & Mary of Lancaster, his wife, b. 10 Nov 1341; d. 19 Feb 1407/8, 1st Earl of Northumberland; mar. (Brancepeth 12 July 1358) Margaret de Neville, daughter of 2nd Baron Neville (see 24:5), b. c1343; d. 12 Jan 1373/4. He fought in France with Ed. III, in 1376 was created Marshal of England, on 16 July 1377 was created Earl of Northumberland at the coronation of Richard II, served the King in several capacities, but becoming discontented with the behavior of the King, in July 1399 with his rival (and nephew by marriage), the E. of Westmoreland, he met the banished Henry of Lancaster when he landed in Yorkshire, & played a leading part in securing Richard's abdication (& probably his death) & Henry's elevation to the throne as Henry IV, who created him Constable of England. The Percies found cause for discontent, which was intensified in a dispute over Scottish prisoners Northumberland & his son took at Homildon Hill 14 Sep 1402. They joined the rising in support of the E. of March (descended from Lionel of Clarence, an older brother of Henry's father, John of Gaunt). In the battle at Shrewsbury July 1403 Northumberland's son & heir, "Hotspur," was slain. The Earl submitted to Henry at York 11 Aug, swore fealty to King & Prince of Wales, received pardon. Involved in plotting again in 1405, he was summoned on a charge of treason, his honors and estates forfeited, and he was attainted 4 Dec 1406 in Parliament. Returning to England with an army, he was defeated at Bramham Moor 19 Feb 1407/8, there slain & decapitated (CP 9:708-712).

Two children:

1. Isolde de Percy, b. ?c1362; living 1435; mar. MADOCK KYNASTON. See 23:12 below.
2. Henry Percy, "Hotspur," b. 20 May 1364; d. near Shrewsbury 21 July 1403 in battle against K. Henry IV & his son, Prince Henry. The King had refused to allow Hotspur to retain Douglas (captured at Homildon Hill) as his personal prisoner or ransom his brother-in-law, Edmund Mortimer (who had a better claim to the throne than Henry IV), a captive of Welsh rebels.

23:12 ISOLDE DE PERCY, presumed daughter of Henry, 1st Earl of Northumberland (23:11), b. ?c1362; living 1435; mar. [c1378] MADOCK KYNASTON of Stocks, near Ellesmere, Shropshire, b. [c1355]; slain at the battle of Shrewsbury 21 July 1403 fighting with the Percies against King Henry IV. In 1435 she "enfeoffed lands of Lye by Ellesmere... as Isolda widow of Madoc Kynaston" (1623 Visitation of Shropshire, p. 293; see Burke's Commoners 4:358, where the Kynaston ancestry is traced back to Princes of Wales in the 11th century).

23:13 JOHN KYNASTON, Esq., son of Madock Kynaston & Isolde his wife (23:12), b. [c1379]. He received from King Henry IV a pardon for his father's treasonous conduct (Commoners 4:358).

23:14 GRIFFITH KYNASTON of Stocks, son of John Kynaston (23:13), b. c1402; d. 1444?; mar. [c1423] Margaret, dau. & heir of John Hord, Esq., of Walford, Shropshire. Kynaston was Seneschal of the Lordship of Ellesmere from 9 to the 22 of Henry VI, i.e. from 1431 to 1444 (Burke's Commoners 4:358). Fourth son:

1. Sir Roger Kynaston, Knt., of Hordley, in Shropshire, b. c1430; d. 28 Oct 1492; mar. ELIZABETH GREY. See 1:4.

CHART 24 - MAGNA CARTA BARONS: CLAVERING, NEVILLE

Littleton descendants may not be able to lay claim to Magna Carta surety John Fitz Robert as an ancestor if the descent through the Percys is not considered to be valid (see headnote to Chart 23).

24:1 JOHN FITZ ROBERT, feudal Baron of Warkworth, co. Northumberland, d. 1240; mar. 2nd Ada Baliol, who d. Stokesley 29 July 1251. He was appointed a joint-governor of several royal castles, but in 1215 he joined the baronial insurrection, was chosen one of the 25 sureties for Magna Carta. His lands were seized by the King, part confiscated, but under Henry III his castles and estates were restored to him, and in 1225 he became Sheriff of Northumberland (see AR 186:1).

24:2 ROGER FITZ JOHN, son of John (24:1), died in Normandy about Whitsuntide 1249, Baron of Warkworth and Clavering (in Essex); mar. Isabel (Weis 44:2; AR 186:2).

Every known descendant of Nathaniel Littleton is listed below. (Only a selection of names of spouses and their parents have been indexed.) Women are listed under their maiden names. Numbers prefixed by a letter - A, B, C, etc., are reference numbers (not page numbers), directing the reader to family groups in the main body of the book; these numbers are at the top of each page for easy reference. Merely a number (like D-340) is listed after a surname if an individual's name is too long for a line or if all persons of that surname are confined to only one family group (in a few cases as many as two or three numbers may appear after a surname). Designations like Sr., Jr., III after a man's name are usually omitted; if two or more men of the same name occur, like father and son, the name is listed here only once, followed by appropriate reference numbers. If a woman's name is followed by two numbers (as B-129 & G-46), it usually indicates that she married a cousin. Names have occasionally been abbreviated. Bold face entries refer to the Appendix; the numbers with them are to pages (numbers at the bottom of each page).
